Blood Drive Sets Goal At 1000 Pints

By CAROL HEIMGARTNER
Arg. Reporter
A reputation as the "Blood-dest University in the Northwest" will go on line April 16, 17, and 18, when the University opens its Annual Blood Drive.

The drive has set its goal at 1000 pints but student officials hope that a heightened interest in competition among living groups will make it possible to surpass that goal easily.

The theme for this year's blood drive is "Make a Blood Deposit — the Interest is Great, Give Some Blood — It Won't be in Vein."

The drive will be held in the Student Union Ballroom all three days from 9-12 in the morning and 1-4 in the afternoon.

Anyone under 21 must secure permission from his parents before he gives. Permission slips have been distributed to all living groups and are also available in the SUB. This slip must be presented at the center when each person arrives to give blood. This program is directed by a doctor and there is a doctor present when blood is given. Each person is checked for temperature, pulse, hemoglobin count, and medical history before giving. A person can give blood every eight weeks but must not give over five times in one year.

Many students fear that giving blood will weaken them and limit their activities for the next few days. This is not true as the body makes up the unit given in 24-48 hours following the time of donation.

A person may eat before donating but not load up with fatty foods for a few hours before the expected appointment. Anyone that is anemic or has had the flu within the last thirty days is not eligible to give.

There were several problems last year with long waiting lines during certain parts of the day. A great deal of effort has been made by this year's committee to speed the procedure for giving blood.

Times have been specifically designated for each living group. If persons will follow this schedule many unnecessary waiting periods will be eliminated. If one cannot give during the time (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

It was announced yesterday that Professor James Jarrett, head of the department of Art and Architecture, will not be re-appointed in June of 1969 when his current appointment expires.

Dean Boyd Martin, of the College of Letters and Sciences, attributed the action to inefficient administration by Jarrett. Jarrett was now at the University last fall when he came here from the University of New Mexico to replace Professor Theodore Prichard.

During a meeting of students of art and architecture held last night, Professor Jarrett asked repeatedly that the students refrain from any action that would delay or hinder the program which has been instrumental in running this past year.

"I can't see what action could be taken now that will benefit the thing," he said as he attempted to avert action by the students. Professor Jarrett continued saying that any rash action at this time could damage the program and be detrimental to the University as a whole. "I don't want to see open hostility," he said. "I know the nature of the state and the legislature and to spread this around the state would have an adverse affect."

Several students asked questions and generally suggested that they felt something should be done.

E-Board Action

1. Approval of ASUI Budget
2. Approval of new legislative procedure for E-Board.
3. Establishment of Constitutional Revision Committee.
4. Discontinue of mailing E-Board reports to living groups.
5. Approved New Activities Council.
6. Approved new Court appointees.

To this Jarrett replied: "I think the subject needs careful thought and a mature statement should be made with the backing of the student body."

Several students voiced their desire to have a chance to help in the process of choosing a new department head, as they fear a man of less ability will be hired.

To this Jarrett replied, "I was appalled when I came here to interview for the position and I didn't meet one student while I was here," he said.

Towards the end of the meeting which finally broke up when a reporter from the Lewiston Morning Tribune entered the room the students were showing more concern for the programs that Jarrett had administered and wanted to guarantee that they will be continued.

Once again Jarrett expressed the hope that things will continue as they have and this incident will have little or no bearing on the situation.

Ryan and Allison Reign; Arnold Quinn Named Victor

By LYNN HOFF
Arg. Reporter
Patty Ryan and Wayne Allison were crowned Frosh Queen and King Wednesday afternoon at the conclusion of the greased pig contest, Patty, Alpha Chi, and Wayne, Willis Sweet, were selected by the Freshman class to reign over FROSH-OUT '71 from a list of ten finalists. They will again be introduced at the frosh week dance, tonight in the SUB from 9-12. Dress for the dance is school clothes.

Arnold Quinn, the pig, gave the freshman girls entered in the greased pig contest quite a chase

Wednesday at MacLeans field. There was a large turn-out of spirited freshmen and also a few demonstrating anti-frosh students. The girl from Houston finally caught the pig after it escaped through the fence and ran across the field toward the tennis courts. Following the contest, the ten royalty finalists were introduced and the King and queen crowned.

Thursday evening the Blue Bucket was the scene for the traditional frosh week legs contest. Several dozen male and female legs paraded through the crowd with gummy sacks over their heads to conceal identities. Best looking guy's and girl's legs were chosen out of contestants from each living group.

This afternoon at 4 p.m. in the Gamma Phi Parking Lot, FROSH-OUT '71 will sponsor a tricycle race for men only. The parking lot will be roped off and it is imperative that all cars be removed from the premises by noon today.

Each living group will put forward their speediest man to challenge the other dragsters on the "Gamma Phi Drag Strip 500." Trikes will be provided by the Trike Race Committee. Contestants are advised to wear all the protective gear possible. Meri Lee Mitchell and Jerry Bermeosolo, co-chairmen for the race, said that water balloons will be on sale at the parking lot for 5 cents apiece. In the past there have been some mishaps with excited freshmen throwing rocks and sticks and any other objects they could get their hands on at the racers in addition to water balloons. This, Bermeosolo said, is being discouraged.

La grand fini to the entire week will be the Frosh Week Dance, "Mind Excursion '71," tonight in the SUB. The dance is school clothes only. Admission is 50 cents a person, 75 cents per couple. During intermission Frosh King and Queen, Patty Ryan and Wayne Allison, will be introduced and crowned. Also winners of the various contests and events held this week will be awarded trophies. Music for the dance is by the "Godfrey Blaque" of Coeur d'Alene, featuring a first-rate psychedelic light show. Saturday morning the traditional Tug-O-War contest will end another University of Idaho Frosh Week. The contest is between the Frosh and Sophomore class over Paradise Creek at 10:30 a.m. The loser will be pulled, soaking wet, into Paradise Creek.

Easter Concert Set For Sunday

The University of Idaho Symphonette, a chamber orchestra of 36, under the direction of LeRoy Bauer, will present an Easter Concert Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the University Auditorium. This will be the home concert before taking off on a three day tour of Southwestern Idaho to present 7 concerts in the Boise, Caldwell, Nampa area.

This is the first annual tour of the orchestra, which will feature as soloists Patsy McDowell, concertmistress of the University Symphony Orchestra, and David Knutson, who will solo and be the narrator in a new work for orchestra with narration called "The Legend of John J. Plenty and Fiddler Dan." The varied program will also include Rossini's popular overture to The Barber of Seville, the Third movement of the Dvorak Symphony No. 4, and short Latin American pieces.

The Symphonette leaves Monday morning for an evening performance at Caldwell High School. Tuesday concerts are in Emmett, Treasure Valley Junior College at Ontario, Oregon, and an evening concert at Nampa High School. Wednesday chamber orchestra performs in the three Boise high schools before returning to Moscow that evening.

By official proclamation, there will be no classes conducted this afternoon in observance of Good Friday.

Margaret Colwell, Pi Phi was crowned Miss University of Idaho 1968 Wednesday night at the annual pageant. First runner-up was Christy George, Pi Phi.

Miss Colwell's talent was a dramatic reading to "Sorry Wrong Number." The two questions she was asked before the judges made their final decision included "Your date has just called and asked you to go dining and dancing. Five minutes before the date, an old friend calls and says he is about to leave for the service and would like to see you. What do you tell him?"

Miss Colwell's second question pertained to the State Sales tax, if it was an essential tax and why. Miss Colwell received a $100 scholarship and is the new Ball and Chair Chapter of Intercollegiate Knight Duchess.

Miss Colwell, who is from Boise, is now eligible for the Miss Idaho pageant to be held in Boise June 13-15. Finalists besides Miss George were Vicki Yoden, Alpha Chi, second runner-up; Pam Gibson, Gamma Phi, third runner-up; and Candy Cain, Alpha Chi, fourth runner-up.

The Golden Fleece

Idaho Public Relations

A couple of months ago while struggling through a student teaching experience, Jason wrote an editorial and sent it by carrier pidgeon to the Arg. for publication. Sum and substance of the essay was its direct criticism of the University for its failure to establish a working public relations operation. The editorial, from what Jason hears, caused some controversy and possibly rubbed a number of Establishment personnel the wrong way. On the other hand, favorable response was emphatic from varied sources, several affiliated with the University. After thinking through the arguments presented in this message from Southern Idaho, Jason again states Idaho must re-evaluate its recruitment and PR program in Southern Idaho.

once controlled by the University. Idaho exerts a tremendous influence over life in our state. Too many people have not been reminded of this fact recently. Consider for a moment the Agriculture Extension Service which places agents in every county and directs state-wide 4-H activities. Also consider the coordinate home economists, adult education programs, the student teaching program which places nearly 250 students in Idaho schools each year, and the annual music and journalism conferences sponsored on campus. Are the people involved in these organizations aware of the need to sell the University of Idaho and what it offers to graduating high school seniors?

Raised Eyebrows

The objective of the editorial was to raise a few eyebrows, and hopefully it did just that. If the University of Idaho fails to take notice of feeling in Southern Idaho and public relations work being done by other schools, namely Idaho State and Utah schools, it will find itself on the short end of student recruitment figures, tax money and prestige. Granted, the University is a good school and is offering much to the state. But there is a new kind of game these days and it is called, "Selling Your Product by Advertising." It is more simply termed, "hard sell" technique in a "soft sell" disguise. In recent years more and more attitudes in the southern part of our state have been swayed away from the University and its activities.

Sell Jobs

The University needs a coordinated recruitment and public relations program aimed at projecting to the citizens of this state what the school offers to them and how it serves the state. Gone are the days when universities could sit snugly back and rest on the confident fact of their very existence. It is all a matter of economics. Schools want the best faculties, the best facilities and the best students to use those programs and facilities. To attract this caliber clientele requires a progressive, energetic sell job.

Never-Never Land

The sell job concept does not exist in too many minds at the University of Idaho. This fact is very apparent after returning from that never-never land south of Boise.

Previously, we mentioned power vacuums and how other institutions seem to be creeping into the crumbling hegemony

News Analysis

By Chris L. Smith

Each year the question arises over faculty appointments and reappointments for the coming academic year. Always there are charges of "arbitrary firings" and "unwarranted dismissals," when in reality many of the "firings" are not at all firings, and much of the rhetoric expended on the issue is the result of misinformation about University policy on faculty appointments.

The crux of the issue is one of tenure, otherwise known as continuing appointment. When a faculty member is first hired he is not given a carte blanche job until such time as his services are no longer needed or he is retired due to age. Until a set number of years have expired, a faculty member must be reappointed each year.

After several reappointments a faculty member gains tenure, and goes on continuing appointment. In other words, his job is secure, and he may only be dismissed after an investigation which proves that there is good reason for the action. In the case of non-tenured faculty the situation is different. A man may lose his job, and not actually be fired for incompetence or malfeasance. The University reserves to itself the right to not rehire non-tenured faculty, and that is just what happened in many of the cases of alleged "firing" of new faculty members.

The reasons for the non-reappointment differ from case to case, and an investigation in each case is necessary to really determine why the person was not rehired. Often new faculty are let go in an attempt to build up a department with more qualified, and academically established personnel. Occasionally a person is not rehired because he has failed to fulfill some condition of his contract, such as make progress toward another academic degree.

Particularly touchy is the issue of temporary faculty appointments. These appointments are made on an "ad hoc" basis, and are temporary in nature. They do not imply tenure for the person so hired. Temporary appointments are used in cases where it is necessary to acquire personnel to do a job, and the person hired does not actually have the academic credentials to fill the job. The problem with temporary appointments comes when the appointment is terminated, and the faculty member is let go.

Several recent cases have rocked the University. The facts in each case are different, do bare investigation, and the results of such investigations should be made public. The common denominator of all the recent cases is that the person let go was not a tenured faculty member. His appointment had to be renewed and was not. In those cases the faculty member was notified early enough in the year to submit his credentials to other universities where he may find employment.

The particularly sticky case now on the docket is in the art and architecture department. The exact specifics of that case have not totally come to light. But they certainly have generated some sparks. See the story on the front page for specifics, and look for continuing coverage of the situation. We will try to make an objective survey of the event.

Long Hard Look

Dear Jason

Performing Arts-A Greased Pig?

Dear Jason:

And there it was in all its gleaming radiance, center stage, for all to see — the FPAC truck serving as headquarters, sound system, and sanctuary for a "greased pig" contest! It makes you wonder.

I wonder, for instance, whether if I were an alumnus of the University of Idaho—which I am, and if I had lots of money—which I don't, whether I would be willing to contribute much to a Performing Arts Center when stage a huge chase within a tiny it's obvious that as far as many students are concerned, most be kind to the boys and lift the performing arts can adequately handled in a simple fence enclosure on MacLean Field—or perhaps moved to the University Abattoir in case of rain.

I wonder, too, about the members of the Freshman class who allowed themselves to become "animals" for the sake of some mythical, bygone tradition; and about the others who not only encouraged the performance, but spent (I'm told) four or five hundred dollars on the events of Frosh Week.

I also wonder if the crowd (which was mercifully small) got the point of the protesters at all. The protesters were more good-natured than I would have suspected, considering the real seriousness of the basic issue. And the basic issue is not really the inhumane cruelty of all that pouncing on a defenceless pig—pathetic as it was; but the real issue is how long students will continue to suffer the humiliation symbolized by the Frosh Week events in the name of higher education, tradition, and good clean "fun"; how long it will be before we can see all the time, talent and energy which is now expended on events like Frosh Week turned toward helping the University achieve its highest and most essential goal of quality education.

Yours in wonderment,
Chad E. Bollek
Campus Minister

Don't Drop Out Re-elect Church

Dear Jason,

Perhaps the most significant result to emerge out of New Hampshire in the wake of the McCarthy triumph is the curtailment of a frightening trend among our generation — dropping out. The strong showing made by Eugene McCarthy came in part because of the direct involvement of hundreds of students from eastern colleges who poured into New Hampshire to get out the vote for their candidate. The results, to say the least, have been gratifying. Faced with the prospect of choosing between Richard Nixon and Lyndon Johnson on the issue of who could wage the war the most effectively, the prevailing attitude among the under 30 set was a growing disillusionment with electoral politics as a means of effecting real change in policy.

Then McCarthy announced, presenting a clear alternative, and students jacked about the war seized his candidacy as a vehicle for expressing dissent other than burning draft cards and U.S. flags.

New Hampshire is a harbinger of things to come. This week "Time" and "Newsweek," indices of what is acceptable to the American middle class, came out against the war and moved over to where "Republicans," "Harpers," and "The Republic" have been from the beginning. Walter Cronkite, just off the boat from Vietnam, will be joining Huntley-Brinkley and the Smothers Brothers in expressing doubts about the wisdom of the U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia. The doves are coming home to roost.

Idaho doesn't have a presidential primary but it does have a senator up for re-election who has taken a courageous and articulate stand on Vietnam from the outset of the conflict. And he is in trouble in Idaho because of it. Hopefully, the revulsion against the war will spread into the insular Rocky Mountain states, but don't count on it. Meanwhile, back in the Gem State, super-hawk George Hansen will be trying to crucify the senator from Idaho because of his opposition to the war. If you have emerged from a winter of discontent with a feeling of trustation and helplessness concerning U.S. policy, don't drop out — join all men of good will in returning Frank Church to the United States Senate.

Editorial Opinion

Frosh Week So Archaic It Dates Back To Romans

Trumpets blare, thousands of hands clap, voices cheer, and the sports spectacular of the day begins. Simultaneously at opposite ends of the arena two gates open.

From the smaller of the two gates five lions rush from the darkness into the coliseum. The men are armed and aware of their chances, while the lions are hungry and hunting for food.

This scene comes from the Roman Empire, and was a popular form of entertainment, much like our baseball of today. The only drawback to the system was the number of men that were eaten by the lions, and the number of lions killed by the men.

Finally in the year 1968 a new solution was found and introduced to the University of Idaho. Substitute a pig for five lions and 36 girls for the five gladiators. There was no risk to human life and the action should have been entertaining.

The arena for Idaho's show was McLean's field and the sponsors as the Class of 1971.

Results: the pig was chased around and tortured for several rounds of merry-making and finally was rescued from the female gladiators. But not before he had vomited blood and shown other signs of illness.

What is this tasteless breed of humanity that has stapped even lower than the Roman Empire? They are freshman at the University of Idaho. Their excuse for this and other ridiculous activities of this nature is a rather flimsy tradition called Frosh Week. All the students involved seem to think that Frosh Week means to act like Freshman in high school and I dare to think they have gone even lower than the high school Freshman

T. H. E. Column By Marty Peterson

This week is Frosh Week. After looking around at the various activities there are a few things which I am curious about. Are these activities supposed to be representative of the entire freshman class? If this is the case, I can really see no reason for giving freshmen any greater privileges at the U of I than they had while they were living at home. Most of the frosh week activities which I saw looked like they were right out of high school. If the members of the freshman class want to act like they did in high school, then let's treat them like they are still in high school.

The biggest kick that everyone has had concerning frosh week was the greased pig contest. You know there is an alternative which won't hurt anyone and is a hell of a lot of fun too. Have you ever heard of a Crisco party? You take a room and strip it of all furniture and then lay a tarp on the floor. Now, everyone who comes to the party takes off all of their clothes before entering and rubs down with Crisco. Do you get the general idea? It's basically the same thing as a greased pig contest and you don't kill any pigs (usually).

There was one group of freshman on the Idaho campus who were completely disgusted with the entire frosh week program, however. Congratulations are in order for the DG pledge class. It seems that they were all jacked-up about frosh week, thinking that it could possibly have an academically inclined extra-curricular activity. It seems sad that someone didn't inform during the first part of the year that the student "leaders" at the U of I don't advocate the sort of thing that they were expecting.

Wednesday night was pretty big on this campus, as a few of you may know. Anyone who was present in the Ad. Building parking lot that evening witnessed (for the eighth time in one week) cars receiving parking tickets for the same non-existent violation as I was ticketed for last week. Once again I salute all of those brilliant men who comprise the Campus Police Department. There is one bright note to this, however. All of the tickets which have recently been given on this campus for violation of non-existent regulations have created more jobs for the state. Rumor has it that, since business is so brisk, the police department has hired another man. Along with this the department of Buildings and Grounds has also had to hire on another man to clean-up after all of the people who are tearing-up their tickets and throwing them on the ground. So you see, it's not all bad.

While I'm on the subject of campus police, I've noticed a couple of other things this week. Have you seen the new cars that they got with the pretty lights on the roof? I was curious as to why they needed these new cars, since they are usually just sitting around. Well, it seems that cars that were a year or two old had worn out parking gears, emergency brakes, upholstery on the drivers seat, and the tires were getting worn on one side.

The other thing which I was wondering about concerned frosh week. If the campus police have nothing better to do than sit around parked in their cars all day and write parking tickets at night, where in hell were they when that group got together and tortured the pig the other afternoon. Surely they must not have been ignorant about what was going on. You could hear the pig squealing all over campus. Possibly it would help if, while they are sitting around contemplating their steering wheels, they would roll down their windows.

I rest my case.

Dear Jason

Here's More About Blood Drive

Willms Supports Drugs Statement

Dear Jason,
My initial response to Tuesday's letter criticizing Campus Affairs' approval of a drug statement because it didn't espouse the principles of the American Civil Liberties Union (maybe more properly American Anarchists, Inc.) is that ACLU opposition in itself is probably reason enough to endorse the statement. More important, however, I feel that I must clear up the distortions presented in the letter.

With regard to the drugs that the action ignored student opinion, I can only reply that as a representative of the 90 per cent portion of the student body that does not violate civil laws by using drugs, I cast my vote in favor of the statement, seeing it, not only consistent with their opinion, but also in their best interests.

The charge by the authors of the letter that proponents presented no arguments makes me wonder how they explain that the document was discussed for four consecutive meetings. It would be better said that these individuals simply did not agree with the arguments.

Regarding their reference to the four proxy votes which they said were the deciding factors: it is a matter of record that two of the proxies were cast in favor and two opposed, thereby canceling each other out.

Finally, they charged, "This committee is a meaningless appeasement of student desire for a greater student participation in decision making." This is the most vulgar distortion of them all. Faculty Council is going out of its way to give students a stronger voice through Campus Affairs. It is a matter of fact that we as students at the University of Idaho have more power within the structure than the vast majority of student governments on other campuses.

These ARE the FACTS.
Sincerely,
Jim Willms
Secretary
Committee on Campus Affairs

Pres. Hartung To Speak At New LDS Institute

President Ernest Hartung will speak at the new LDS Institute at 12:05 p.m. today. He will be the first person to speak in the weekly lecture series in the new building as well as the first speaker in the cultural hall.

The building, which cost $230,000 and was five months in construction will be used by all interested students for religious education as well as social activity and weekly Friday lectures on varied topics. Many non-Mormons may take part in the activities.

The Institute will have its opening service this Sunday. The two meetings are 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. A weekly social activity is held every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The new building totals 9,000 square feet with a 40 x 60 foot cultural hall wherein Dr. Hartung will speak.

The University of Idaho was the first in Mormon history to have an institute program. Now there are 200 institutes with 35,000 students in non-Mormon colleges and universities in the nation.

Previous periods of service, he said, were during World War II, the Korean War and Berlin.

Young Republican Club Praised at State Meeting

The University of Idaho Young Republican Club was lauded last week-end as the College Republican Club of the year by the Idaho Young Republican League at its semi-annual resolutions convention in Nampa.

The U of I YR Club, with a membership of 183, received the award for being the most active Young Republican college club in Idaho. Representing the Idaho club at the convention were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rathjen, off-campus; Sid Smith, Shoup and Cliff Eldemiller, AKL.

Early predictions that Governor Ronald Reagan would gain the Idaho YR's endorsement for the presidency failed to materialize.

"It's against the Young Republican's national constitution to endorse any candidate prior to the primary elections," said State YR Chairman Lee Barron.

Among the resolutions passed by the convention was one demanding that Congress halt all aid and shipment of materials to Russia and her satellite countries.

In condemning the action of the present administration, the league charged that the government is presently allowing these aid materials to flow unhampered from Russia into the supply centers of North Vietnam for use against the United States in South Vietnam.

Under the constitution, the league contended that it is treason to "give aid or comfort to the enemy."

The convention also resolved that the present administration's attempt to manage the dollar, have resulted in its most precarious position in the history of our nation.

Idaho YR's requested that Congress avert impending "financial catastrophe" by returning to a balanced budget through appropriate spending cuts and also by taking immediate action to achieve a favorable foreign balance of payments.

In the discussion of national, international and domestic issues and problems, the delegates decided that the "Great Society" program has not proven to be in the best interests of this nation.

Convention delegates voted that the next administration elected this fall should "abandon the socialist programs imposed by the so-called 'Great Society' and replace them with traditional American 'free enterprise' principles."

The Young Republicans also urged that the Idaho Education Association reconsider its adoption of censure sanctions in Idaho schools in view of the consequences to the Idaho public education system.

As a proposed method of helping Idaho teachers solve their problems, the group urged more teachers to join the young Republicans and work to influence the course of government.

Big. This year even bigger. Some Chevrolet Tri-Levels are longer. Some wider. Some with more cargo room. Size up Impala. Nothing in its field comes as big. For instance, in many others you wouldn't dare try laying a 4 x 8-foot mirror flat in the main cargo level. (Especially if you're superstitious.) In Impala, no problem. The hidden storage compartment on the lower level also takes more of your gear than any of them. The roof rack you order should take care of the rest. Committee's Interests Include Race Question

The Committee for a Peaceful Solution of World Conflict has scheduled a meeting for Monday evening at 7:30 in the SUB. According to the group's spokesman, John Sullivan, that, "Due to recent announcements regarding negotiations of the Vietnam war, the group will attempt to expand its interest to the race question as it exists in Moscow, Idaho.

Several members are scheduled to introduce plans for ending the discriminatory clause prohibiting non-caucasians from becoming members of the Moscow Elks Club. The group will create a Negro History Chair in collaboration with WSU efforts, inquire into the absence of Negro faculty members at the University of Idaho, encourage the Moscow City Council to pass an open housing ordinance as the Pullman council recently did.

Other projects planned are to remove from the Moscow Chamber of Commerce community description including the high percentage of white residents, to inquire into the "lilly white" text books that may be used in Moscow schools, and to encourage the University to hire Negro faculty members as well as a campaign to end the picture requirements for any job applications. Last year's winner, the Delta Chi-Pi Beta Phi float, will be in charge of the queen float for next year.

PR and University Must Co-ordinate, Says French

By CLIFF EIDEMILLER
Arg. Political Editor

ASUI student government and public relations for the Associated Students and the University of Idaho are the major interests of new Executive Board member Ron French.

"We need to co-ordinate our public relations with the University," said the former ASUI public relations director, "so we can work together with them. This way we won't be delving into each other's areas of concern."

As for student recruitment, Southern Idaho is one of the most important areas in the state to explore for new students, continued French.

"We must keep track of the students from Idaho," he said. In student government we must work for the benefit of the students. We should try to improve the services to the students on campus in the areas of living groups food service and the infirmary. We must see what we can provide to the students, French said.

"Many people fail to realize the student potential on this campus," he continued. "We haven't expanded it yet to the fullest extent that we can, but we're moving in the right direction and

Drama Depart. To Present Play April 22-27 In U-Hut

The forces of order and disorder will meet head-on in hilarious conflict on the stage of the U-Hut Arena Theatre, April 22, 27, when ASUI drama presents the Neil Simon comedy hit, "The Odd Couple" for a run of six performances nightly at 8 p.m.

These forces, to be sure, are always meeting in conflict—is there any family anywhere in which one member isn't exasperated with another over failure to recap the toothpaste tube? But the battle of neatness vs. sloppiness has probably never been so comically portrayed as in "The Odd Couple," which drew audiences for over two and a half years in New York through its appeal to the housekeepers and anti-housekeepers in us all.

John Naples, off-campus and Bill Grubb, AKL, are featured in this comedy devoted to the anics of two wifeless husbands who decide to share an apartment after their two marriages have blown up—and who discover that the traits which made their wives discard them render them incompatible to each other as roommates.

Naples will portray a divorced newspaper sportswriter named Oscar who lives alone in untidy grandeur in an eight room apartment from which his wife has fled with their children to escape the climate of clutter he enjoys. He admits that when his wife would ask him when he'd want dinner, he'd say he didn't know—and wake her up at 3 a.m. and demand "Now!"

Grubb will be seen as an old chum named Felix whose marriage has just broken up. He is so distraught at this development that he seems on the verge of collapse until Oscar suggests that he share his over roomy apartment, thus helping him meet his alimony payments and alleviating the loneliness of his solo life in an eight room apartment.

Once linked in this domestic arrangement, however, the two men then discover what they had never known about each other as casual friends—they're temperamentally unsuited for living together under the same roof. Where Oscar is a born slob, is compulsively messy and enjoys living in disarray, Felix is compulsively neat, an obsessive tidy-upper, and a meticulous housekeeper and cook.

Apparently Felix's wife didn't discard him for demanding his dinner at 3 a.m., but because with his delusion that he is a great chef he insisted on re-cooking the dinners she had prepared.

As Felix settles into Oscar's home, he institutes changes that begin to get under sloppy Oscar's skin—and that of his pokerplaying pals, who resent having to put coasters under their beer glasses, around the gaming table.

The climax comes when the two ill-matched roommates have a date with two giggling sisters, both divorcees, who live on the floor below in the same apartment house. Oscar, looking forward to an evening of fun and maybe, games, is driven to distraction when the date dissolves into mournful tears because Felix can't help recounting his sorrows. Felix's compulsive neatness has driven Oscar to such unforgivable reactions as deliberately dropping cigarette ashes on a newly vacuumed rug, and trampling a sofa with dirty shoes.

Told by Neil Simon with the same gift for gaiety that distinguished his other major hits, "Barefoot in the Park" and "Come Blow Your Horn," "The Odd Couple" has been called a "Hurricane of hilarity." Charles Bonney, Theta Chi, Cope Gale, Lindley; Charles Wright, off-campus, and Jim Hutcherson, off-campus will portray the assortment of poker-playing buddies of the odd couple and Corinne Rowland, Tri Delta and Pamela Knepper, Houston, the neighborly sisters. Edmund M. Chavez is directing the comedy and Robert Thompson is designing the bachelor quarters where the action occurs.

Tickets are available at the ticket desk in the Student Union and at Carter's Drug in downtown Moscow.

Oberlin College Faculty Issues Drug Statement

Oberlin, Ohio—The General Faculty of Oberlin College recently adopted a revised policy on student use and provision of drugs. The new legislation resulting from discussions between the Student Life Committee of the faculty and representatives of the Student Senate. It will take effect immediately and supersedes the interim policy announced on June 2.

The revision makes a distinction between marijuana and other drugs, setting suspension as the upper range of penalties for possession, using, or sharing marijuana. The full statement on drug policy follows:

DRUG POLICY

The misuse of marijuana and other drugs is in violation of the law; and Oberlin College cannot and will not protect students from prosecution under Federal or State laws.

It is recognized, however, that students who have taken or are taking marijuana and other drugs may need and wish to seek counseling.

Students are reminded that the College physicians and psychologists are available for such help. Conferences with these persons are privileged, subject to the standards of privacy established in the medical profession.

Others including the deans also stand ready to help students.

Given these considerations, the following rules shall be enforced and are applicable regardless of the status of a violation in the civil courts:

1. Oberlin College cannot condone the possession, consumption, provision, and sale of marijuana and other drugs.
2. Provision of or merchandising drugs including marijuana will ordinarily result in expulsion.
3. Possession or consumption of drugs or misconduct resulting therefrom is a serious offense, which may be subject to severe penalties up to and including expulsion, depending on the seriousness and extent of the offense, possession, consumption or sharing of marijuana, or misconduct resulting therefrom, will generally be less severe, but may include the entire range of penalties up to and including suspension, depending on the seriousness and extent of the offense.

Drugs are described as including barbiturates, amphetamines, prescription tranquilizers, LSD compounds, mescaline, psilocybin, DMT, narcotics, and opiates, all of which are illegal except when taken under a doctor's prescription.

E-Board Accepts Budget Alternative Number Three

ASUI proposed budget alternative number three was accepted by Executive Board Tuesday night after a move to eliminate E-Board salaries was defeated.

The move to eliminate E-Board salaries for next year and place that money into the Activities Council budget was killed because it was the consensus of the majority of the Board that the $15 salary a month was needed for personal expenses while in office.

The approved budget of $167,295 will now await approval by Faculty Council, the Administration and the Board of Regents before it is officially accepted. Of this amount, approximately $17,568 will go into the Activities Council budget.

In other E-Board action, a new method of accepting E-Board reports was passed. Under this new provision, all reports will be placed on the table for a period of one week, before any legislative action is taken on them, unless the rules are suspended by a two-thirds vote.

A committee on Constitutional Revision for the ASUI was also established. The purpose of this committee will be to define powers and responsibilities of the various committees as described in the ASUI regulations.

A report was submitted by Jim Willms on budget priorities and philosophy, which will be voted on next Tuesday night.

"The difficulty of equitable and objective budgeting under the pressure of lobbies is increased manyfold by the arbitrary system we have now," said Willms. "It is virtually impossible to justify cutting or increasing any budget area now because of conflicting precedents and lack of a general and established philosophy."

Former ASUI Attorney General Gary Vest reported that there has been 33 judicial cases before Judicial Council since he took office last April. Vest also informed the Board of the new appointments to Judicial Council and the traffic court. New members of Judicial Council are Ron Douglas and Carl Skinner, off-campus. Dana Delst was also appointed to fill a vacancy on traffic court.

Tues. Memorial Service Honors Martin Luther King

In a 40 minute service Tuesday in memory of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, University President Ernest W. Hartung pointed out contemporary meaning in the words of an old song, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Dr. Hartung said the Republic is still fighting the battle for which that hymn was written. He said that because Idaho has no sprawling slums, such as those of Detroit, does not really mean that "we have no 'vintage' where the Grapes of Wrath are stored."

"Too often we in Idaho just turn around and say, 'That's in Detroit or Watts,' and we are thankful that we don't have it in Idaho. What we really need to do is take a look around us."

Dr. Andrew Schumacher of St. Augustine's Catholic Church said, in a prayer before more than 200 students and area residents gathered at the ecumenical service:

"You, O Lord, have given us one whose heart was clear, whose goal was high, who wished to master himself before he sought to master other men; one who learned to laugh, yet never forgot how to weep; one who reached into the future, yet never forgot the past. Give him his reward.

"Lead us, we pray, not in the path of ease and comfort, but under the stress and spur of difficulties and challenge. May we learn compassion for those who are our brothers. Build us to be one and at peace with you in Christ Jesus, Our Lord."

The Rev. Edward Weiskotten, Lutheran campus pastor, read Bible selections from Amos 5:

10-15, 21-24 and Matt. 5: 21-24, 43-48.

The hushed Student Union Ballroom resounded with the strong, emotion-stirring voice of Dr. King as excerpts were played from many of his principle addresses. Then, all in the audience sang two verses from "We Shall Overcome," a song which has become symbolic of the movement for which Dr. King gave his life.

A volunteer collection was taken to be sent to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which Dr. King founded and headed until his death.

Allison Miller, A Phi, has been selected as a Student Ambassador to Europe under the same program that Larry Craig, John Kirk and Gary Vest will travel this summer. She will travel through Europe for six weeks.

Wardle Expounds Political Views

Ed. Note—The following is a series of interviews conducted by Arg Political editor, Cliff Eidemiller. The interviews will appear periodically in this and other coming Argonaut issues.

By CLIFF EIDEMILLER
Arg. Political Editor

Politics, in addition to student government, are two of the many interests of Chuck Wardle, one of the new ASUI Executive Board members.

Presently, Wardle feels that McCarthy has the edge on Kennedy, and that Nixon has the Republican nomination. "If the presidential race falls between McCarthy and Nixon this fall, McCarthy will probably defeat Nixon," said Wardle.

Although he is Republican by philosophy, he has one nice thing to say about the Johnson Administration. "President Johnson has done a beautiful job carrying out all of Barry Goldwater's campaign programs, such as escalating the war in Vietnam and the bombing of the North," Wardle said.

In regard to the activation of several of the Idaho National Guard Units yesterday, Wardle said, "The is the Johnson Administration's trump card against the summer riots." The government can then move easily into a riot and say that it has it under control. The National Guard isn't going to help the current racial situation, said Wardle.

Wardle, a junior, is a member of Lambda Chi fraternity. He is majoring in business administration and hopes to become a corporate lawyer after finishing his term in the Navy.

Chuck's favorite hobby is skiing and he is a certified ski instructor. He also likes to water ski and play a little golf and tennis. An enthusiastic fan of football and auto racing, Chuck feels that college athletics are a service to the students and the community.

"But, I don't approve of the sponsorship of athletic complexes with student money," concluded Wardle.

Some Committees Need Applicants

Applications for all Activities Council Committees are still being received, according to publicity chairman Jim Barta.

"All committees are open, but there are some which are especially low on applications," he continued. Those committees which are not filled include the Recreation Area, SUB Films, Campus Recreation, Kiddies Christmas Party and Seasonal Decorations Committees.

Interviews are scheduled for next Tuesday and will continue several of the Idaho National Guard Units yesterday, Wardle

Vandals Gain Revenge Against Savages, 2-1

Idaho Adds Coach To Roundout Staff

U of I Ranked In National Stats.

The University of Idaho tapped the ranks of Southwest football again and hired 32-year-old Gary Sloan, assistant coach at the University of New Mexico, it was announced by Paul E. Ostyn, director of athletics.

Sloan will fill the second of two vacancies on the Vandal coaching staff headed by Y C McNease. The vacancies occurred with the recent resignations of Idaho assistant coaches Pete Manning and Tom (Jet) Rogers. Last week, Don Robbins, 34, defensive football coach at the University of Texas at El Paso, was hired.

Sloan spent his youth in Hobbs, N.M., where he was graduated from high school after compiling a brilliant prep career as a hard-charging fullback. He attended the University of New Mexico where he played varsity football three years at fullback on offense and corner-back on defense. He graduated in 1958 with a B.S. degree in mathematics, then went to Springfield College in Massachusetts and earned his M.S. in physical education.

As graduate assistant, Sloan coached at Springfield, 1959-60, returned to Hobbs New Mexico High School as head football coach, 1961-64; went to New Mexico Military Institute as a defensive coach, 1965-66, and last year became assistant coach at the University of New Mexico.

He is married, and has two children, 6 and 4.

Idaho Thinclads Finish Third

Montana took top honors recently in a track meet held at Eastern Washington as they rolled up 107½ points. Others finishing in order were Simon Frazer, 56, Idaho 55 and Eastern Washington 47½.

Idaho managed to win two events as Rich Smith tossed the discus 165-6 in winds gusting up to 40 miles per hour and snow falling periodically. Temperatures hovered around 35 degrees.

Smith also captured the shot put with a toss of 52 feet followed by teammate Dan Nipp. Dwayne Turpin took a second in the pole vault and Bob Bohman a third for the Vandals.

Idaho's Bruce Brotnov finished second in the javelin as did Jim Fields in the high jump. Fred Lake took a second place in the 440-yard hurdles for the Vandals and Bob Messenger finished third in the 220.

Major college baseball stats which were released by the National Collegiate Sports Service this week showed several Vandals in the national standings.

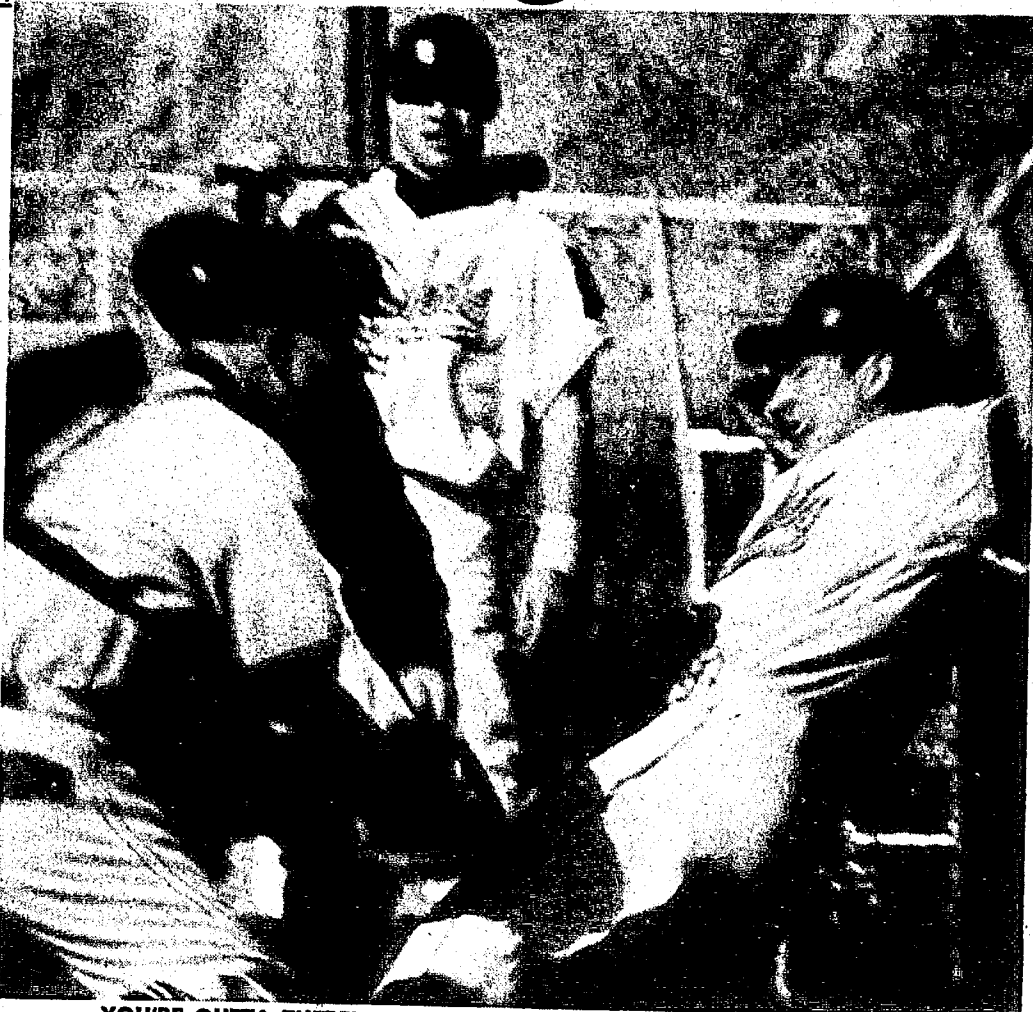

Craig Christensen, sophomore pitcher, is leading the nation in strike outs per game with an average of 15.4 per game. Craig has pitched 14 innings and retired 24 batters by the strike-out route.

Skip Ivie, another Vandal hurler is rated in the earned run column with an average of .78 earned runs per game. The Skipper has pitched 23 innings and allowed only two earned runs. He has given up 18 hits, walked 6 and struck out 22. His win-loss record stands at 2-1 for the stats.

The only Vandal in the hitting stats is Phil Reser, who is 12th in the nation with a .442 average. Phil has played in 12 games and hit safely 19 times out of 43 trips to the plate.

Christensen and Ivie are the only Big Sky pitchers in the national rankings. WSU, yearly Palouse baseball power, was not represented in any of the categories.

Weber State represents the conference in the hitting stats with two men in three positions. Wadman leads the Wildcats and the conference with a .452 batting average and an average of 1.6 runs batted in per game.

YOU'RE OUTTA THERE! was the cry of plate umpire Ed Aubrey as Mike Bertrand tagged Clyde Coon. John Thacker had stolen second and Coon tried for home as the play at second developed. Phil Reser watches as Coon gets the tag.

Face The Cougars Today At Pullman

By Dick Sherman
Argonaut Sports Editor

It was a beautiful day to play baseball and a beautiful day to win as the Vandals avenged an earlier 5-1 Boise Classic loss to the Eastern Washington State Savages by defeating them, 2-1 in a tight pitcher's dual.

Idaho's Bob Eicher and Pat Daniels combined to give the Savages only four hits as the Vandals managed two runs on four hits. Eicher, a junior college transfer from Durand, Mich., took credit for the win making his first start on the mound.

Eastern got its only run in the second inning. Eicher retired the leadoff batter by getting Roger Pederson to ground out to the shortstop, but then the going got rough.

Eastern's third baseman, Bill Diederick, who quarterbacked the Savages to the runnerup spot in the NAIA, smashed a double for the opening hit off Eicher, who had retired the side in order in the first inning.

Greg Jones followed up quickly with another double which sent Diederick across the plate for the first run and Eastern's only run of the game. The two doubles were the only hits that Eicher gave up as he worked the first five innings.

Idaho scored both of their runs in the fifth inning after Eastern's Dave Nicol had retired 12 Vandals in succession. Steve Doyle led off the inning by striking out but Gary Nitta walked to give Idaho its first baserunner since the opening frame.

Dave Closson followed up by flying out to leftfield for the second out but the Vandal catcher Steve Engstrom lined a double off the centerfield fence to score Nitta with the tying run.

Fred Horne pinch-hit for Bob Eicher and hit what looked like the final out as he grounded to the shortstop only to see the ball skip through his legs. Elgee, running for Engstrom, came in on the error to give the Vandals their winning margin.

Pat Daniels took over the mound duties in the sixth for Idaho and allowed the Savages only two hits as they never really threatened against the lanky sophomore from Weiser.

Idaho threatened in the first inning as Clyde Coon walked to start the inning and stole second. John Thacker followed up with a single to center with Coon holding at third.

Phil Reser came to bat and Thacker attempted to steal second with Coon heading for home. Mike Bertrand's throw to second was cutoff and relayed to the plate where Coon was cut down trying to score.

Idaho again threatened in the eighth inning only to see Eastern play their same trick and cut off the runner at the plate. Coon and Thacker both fled out to start the inning, but Phil Reser cracked a double and stole third to give Idaho good scoring position.

Rich Toney then walked and tried to steal second with the throw again being cut off and relayed to home to get Reser at the plate for the final out of the inning.

The win gave the Vandals a 9-5 record going into today's doubleheader with the Washington State Cougars starting at 1 p.m.

This will be the first meeting of the two clubs this year in regular play with the Vandals scheduled to face Lewis-Clark Normal in a doubleheader on Monday on Idaho's home field.

Sudden Death Playoff Phi Delta Theta Captures Crown

Willis Sweet led most of the way out a late fourth quarter rally gave the Phi Deltas a 32-31 victory for the Intramural B Basketball Championship.

At the end of the first quarter Sweet led 8-6 and then increased their lead at 21-12 at halftime. In the third quarter they were held scoreless as the Phi Deltas cut the margin to 21-18 which set the stage for their fourth quarter rally.

Fred Horne pinch-hit for Bob Eicher and hit what looked like the final out as he grounded to the shortstop only to see the ball skip through his legs. Elgee, running for Engstrom, came in on the error to give the Vandals their winning margin.

Pat Daniels took over the mound duties in the sixth for Idaho and allowed the Savages only

Vandal Netters Defeat EWSC

The Vandal netmen racked up their third victory of the season with a win over Eastern Washington State College, 7-2 last Tuesday. The Vandals swept all six singles matches but went down to defeat in two of their three doubles encounters.

Meridian's Darwin Walters playing in the No. 1 position for Idaho defeated his opponent Terry Marden in two sets, 6-3 6-4. Idaho's No. 2 man Jeff Williams coasted by the Savages' Pete Sternitzky, 6-3, 6-3 to give the Vandals their second win.

Doug Denney had to go the full three sets to defeat Jim Brinson as the Boise junior lost the first set, 6-8, but swept the final two sets, 6-3, 6-2.

Bob Brun, a freshman from Meridian came up with a win for Idaho playing as No. 4 man with a 6-2, 6-3 win over Eastern's Jerry Dyreson. Skip Rudd polished off his opponent in the No. 5 bracket by defeating Jim Kromer, 7-5, 6-4.
