

Dad's Days 1968 The Idaho Argonaut

The University of Idaho - MOSCOW, IDAHO

Volume 73, No 16

Friday, November 1, 1968

Bill Cosby, nationally known comedian, and The Pair Extraordinaire, will appear Saturday night at Memorial Gymnasium in two performances as part of Dad's Day Weekend. Ticket sales are going quite rapidly for both shows, with most reserved seats sold. People interested in buying tickets for one of the performances can buy them at the SUB Information Desk. Reserved tickets cost $4.50, general admission seats sell for $3.50. The first show starts at 7 p.m., while the second show is at 9:30.

To Entertain

Dad of the Year finalists named; many events planned for Saturday

By Jane Anderson

Bill Campbell

Bill Campbell, owner of Campbell and Company Insurance, in Boise, has two daughters, Cathy and Connie, attending the University of Idaho. While in college, he was active in Silver Lance, Blue Key, as president, IK Duke and National Secretary, Gem Manager, and was listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." He has served the University since then as Alumni Chapter District President, and Boise chairman of F-PAC.

In his community, Mr. Campbell has been active in Rotary, Veterans' Affairs Commission of Idaho, Board of Directors of YMCA, Chamber of Commerce, American Legion Rehabilitation Commission, and the Boy Scout Council.

Warren Shepard

Warren Shepherd, who is a secondary school teacher in Plummer, has one daughter, Nancy, who is attending the University of Idaho. When he was a student, he lettered in four major sports, and was on the Varsity football team as a freshman. Since graduation he has been a Vandal Booster, a member of the Alumni Association, and on the board of the first Upward Bound program at the U of I.

His civic activities include the United Crusade Drive, American Legion, BPOE, and mayor and member of the Plummer city council for 12 years. He has been precinct committeeman of Plummer, and has served on the Health Board. He has aided the Coeur d'Alene Indian tribe with housing and facilities.

Garth Haddock

Mr. Garth Haddock of Kellogg was nominated by Delta Tau Delta. He is an insurance agent, and has one son, Randy, attending the university. While attending the University, he was active in orchestra, Liaison Committee, and president of the Chamber of Commerce, a college business organization. He was also the initiator of a plaque for outstanding athletes. He is a charter member of Vandal Boosters Club, winner of the "P" blanket in 1958, and a chairman of F-PAC. He is also a Commander of American Legion, President of Kiwanis, LL, Governor of National Gyro Club, President of the Chamber of Commerce, President of North Idaho Economic and Development Program, a chairman, and was chosen one of 500 Outstanding Civic Leaders of America.

15 are nominated

The decision for the three finalists was a tough one according to Christy Eiguren Gamma Phi, chairman of the Dad of the Year Contest. They were chosen from fifteen other candidates. The other candidates, their nominating living group and children attending the University of Idaho are: Marcus J. Ware, Houston Hall, Elizabeth Ware; James Lyle, Alpha Phi; Frank W. Crowe, SAE, Chuck Crowe; Dr. Len Labine, Theta, Suzanne, and Lance; Gary Sloan, Pine Hall; Delmer F. Engelsing, Sigma Nu, Jeri Engelsing; and Jarry V. Smith, Kappa, Joan Smith.

Other candidates were Milton F. Eberhard, Farmhouse, Todd and Chad Eberhard; Dr. Edward Owens, Hays Hall, William and Elizabeth Owens; and R. K. Sidaway, Alpha Chi, Jeff and Kathy Sidaway.

Still other candidates were John O. McMurray, Beta and Gamma Phi, Pat McMurry; Robert Alldaffer, Ethel Steel, Sue Ann Alldaffer; Lewis D. Roeder, Tri Delta, Susan Roeder; Jim Kalbus, TKE, Jay and Mary Jane Kalbus; and George R. Thiesen, Fiji, Terry and David Thiesen.

The judging which has been completed was done by Mr. Robert Melgard and Mrs. Everett Samuelson. The winner will be announced Saturday morning at the Dad's Breakfast in the SUB and again at the game during half time. The contestants were judged on their activities while attending school, activities since graduation and their contribution to the U of I and society.

The University of Idaho would like to welcome all dads and hopes they have an enjoyable time. Dads can begin registering at 3 p.m. in the SUB at the Information Booth, until 7 p.m. Friday evening there will be a TGIF talent show in the SUB, especially for dads, beginning at 8:00. There is no admission.

Many Events Saturday

Saturday morning all dads are urged to attend the Dad's Day Breakfast at 9 a.m., at $1.50 per person. The Turkey Trot for all freshmen begins at 10 a.m. The course for the race goes around Neale Stadium and Nez Perce Drive to finish on the Ad. Lawn.

The football game begins at 12:30, not 1:30. There will be open houses at all the living groups after the game. The Blue Bucket Baron of Beef Buffet will be held in the SUB from 5 to 7 p.m., and Shirley and the Dream Factory will be playing a three hour show and dance at 9:30 in the SUB. Admission is $1 for boys and free for girls.

Bill Cosby

Bill Cosby, the nationally known comedian and star of television's "I Spy" will highlight the Dad's Day festivities with two performances at 7 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium Saturday evening. Appearing with Cosby are the Pair Extraordinaire, a duo made up of Gail Craig's singing and Marcus Hemphill's bass. They have performed on national television and have released four records on the Liberty label.

With this roster of events and the spirit displayed at last night's bonfire, Dad's Day should be the biggest event of the year.

Dad's Day committee

Dad's Day chairman is Bill McCurdy, Fiji, and committee members are, Steve Bruce, Fiji; Kim Culp, Fiji; Doug Fisher, TKE; Jan Jeffrey, Pi Phi; Shelley Smith, Gamma Phi; Judy Sliman, Kappa; Mimi Millensifer, Pi Phi; Kathy Brassez, Kappa; Christy Eiguren, Gamma Phi; and Rich Leichner, SAE.

Board of Regents consider new agenda

The Board of Regents of the University of Idaho will continue their second day of meeting on the University campus today. They will consider the University agenda from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The Board's meeting in the SUB will be open to students and faculty members.

Meeting in Moscow yesterday, they recommended that the name of Lewis-Clark Normal School be changed, and then approved a land swap with the city of Lewiston.

The Board also touched briefly on their new formula for allocation of funds for the state's institutions of higher learning, reviewed the recently established continuing education program, discussed vocational rehabilitation and education, checked the status of LCNS and waded through the usual amount of cumbersome routine business.

On a motion from John Peacock, Kellogg attorney and a member of the board, the board has recommended that the Lewiston Normal School be renamed Lewis-Clark State College. Final approval of the recommendation must come from the next legislature, presumably when it opens sessions in January.

The board also voted its approval of a land trade with the city of Lewiston, involving approximately 20 acres of land located some distance from the Lewis-Clark Normal campus and a 4.3 acre site adjacent to the campus.

The board also discussed the status of the Lewiston institution with its president, Dr. Jerold Duggar. Some leaves of absences, several salary adjustments, travel expenditures, use of the school's property by other organizations and audit reports were among topics discussed.

Duggar brought an apparently crucial storage problem at the school to the board's attention. The imminent loss of four wooden storage buildings on the campus slated to be torn down for construction of a new vocational technical building has resulted in the loss of badly needed storage space. No action was taken.

E-Board requests $25,000 Scholarship fund

The ASUI Executive Board Tuesday night passed a resolution requesting the Regents of the University to allocate $25,000 annually from bookstore profits for an Associated Students scholarship fund.

The Board passed the resolution with one member voting against and one member abstaining. The vote was preceded by a heated debate between Larry Craig, ASUI President and author of the proposal, and E-Board member Jim Willms, who opposed it.

"I do not feel that is the ASUI's business to get into the area of scholarships," Willms said.

He objected to the proposal because he did not feel scholarships were a "proper concern" of student government and because bookstore profits are "student tax money."

Craig supported his proposal by saying that "it is indeed the place of the students to become involved in scholarships." He continued, "This in effect is turning the money back to the students for their own benefit and would give us control over the allocation of some bookstore money."

Craig's report suggested that the ASUI should develop a special committee to administer the scholarship program. The report listed the student activities of debate, drama, music and journalism as potential recipients. The report also suggested the possibility of giving some scholarships on the basis of colleges and others to minority or underprivileged groups.

In other action the Board refused to appropriate $150.00 to the Rally Squad to go to the San Jose game. It passed a resolution setting fines for poster violations in the ASUI class officer election campaign and allowing the activities council to keep money raised from the sale of Homecoming buttons.

The Board passed a resolution submitted by Jim Willms that requests that students be placed on the committee to approve the plans for the proposed athletic complex.

The Board accepted and placed on the table for the next meeting a report from Mike Powell that would allow the Senior Class Extended Board to fill the vacancy caused by Mark Shelley's disqualification as Senior Class Vice President. Shelley was 1/2 credits short of being a senior, according to the registrar.

The Board also placed on the agenda for the next meeting reports dealing with the abolition of student recruitment teams, class officer responsibilities, and a request for office furniture.

Editorial Opinion

Welcome Dads

Welcome Dad. I hope you enjoy the weekend. Things get started this afternoon with the Frosh football team playing at Washington State and continue until tomorrow night with the Bill Cosby show and then a dance after Cosby.

It is only the Vandals second home game and they have lost their last two, but when you are down and out the only way is up. Y C's boys are recovering from a season's worth of injuries and their work is cut out for them, but I bet they'll be ready.

As for the Cosby show, he was on campus several years ago and got a warm reception. He is twice the showman he was then and he is bringing several other talented entertainers with him too.

I think you will be fascinated by the political involvement of today's college student. Most everybody has shown some interest in spite of the lack of excitement in the campaign and the realization of responsibility looming on the horizon.

Then there is the campus. If you were here for Homecoming, things haven't changed much, but if you haven't been here since last fall, the old homestead has put on some new makeup.

The Education building is nearing completion, the Phi Deltis have moved in and another dormitory complex has been started.

And a special welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bonzer of Long Beach, Calif. It's nice to have you on campus. s.a.b.

A good chance

The University student bookstore, convenient as it may be, has long been a source of annoyance to many students. The complaints with the bookstore have been numerous, and many have had a great deal of validity. The fact that the business allegedly designed to be a student service makes a handsome profit each year is an irritation. The proposal to turn the bookstore into a student cooperative and return the profits to the students has often been brought up. Nothing, however, has ever come of such a proposal.

If the fact of a bookstore profit must be lived with, then a meaningful student voice in the use of those profits has also been suggested many times. "We should at least have a say in the way our money is spent," goes the argument. There has been considerable displeasure with the use of student bookstore profits to build parking lots. In the past, little has come of these proposals for student control of bookstore profits.

However, tomorrow the Regents will consider a meaningful proposal to allocate to students control over some bookstore funds. The ASUI Executive Board has sent to the Regents a request that $25,000 be allocated annually from the bookstore profits to finance an ASUI scholarship fund.

That fund would be administered by a committee under the jurisdiction of the ASUI, and would be diverted into scholarships for a variety of purposes. Drama, debate, journalism, music, various academic areas and colleges, and special scholarships for underprivileged and minority groups are a few of the possibilities.

With such a fund, the control of student monies would be returned to students, and the money would be diverted toward meeting student needs. In the context of the total University, such a fund would make the University of Idaho more competitive with other schools in recruiting outstanding high school seniors in all academic areas. Idaho loses many potential students of quality each year because it cannot compete with the scholarships offered by out-of-state schools.

The Regents should act favorably on the Executive Board request and allocate the requested funds for the ASUI scholarship program. Such an action would show a real faith in the ability of the students and would be a worthwhile use of bookstore funds.—C.L.S.

The Best At What?

There comes a time every four years that the middle of the road moderate type person expresses his opinion. It isn't that the moderate is too apathetic to speak in off-election years, it is just that nobody cares when the votes don't count.

Sitting in the middle of the road I have found it more than interesting watching the politics on both sides of the fence operate.

They tend to use the same methods and they obviously have the same goals of election, but for the extremes to admit similarities would almost be tantamount to confession of guilt. Something like Hubert Humphrey admitting to liking Johnson's Vietnam policy or Richard Nixon claiming a mistake when he chose Spiro Agnew as his running mate.

The middle of the road is a lonely, uninhabited valley with the residents living like groundhogs and coming out only on election years.

The groundhogs not only come out, but the number of people crossing the valley to get to the right from the left and vice versa make it a dangerous place to be, not really because the valley inhabitants raise their voices, but because the radicals that cross our grounds going to the other side take potshots and maddening swings at us. . . . It seems we don't agree with them now, and we didn't agree with them before they turned around 180 degrees.

In spite of the constant dodging and caution required to inhabit the middle of the road in an election year, I find the view entertaining.

On one side I have my Republican roommate who thinks Democrat is a dirty word and Hubert Humphrey should be shot for his dirty politics, and on the other side I have an editor who is such a strong Democrat that Republicans all look like elephants to him and he carries the banner against George Hansen and the dirty politics he is using.

Yes, the view from the middle is most interesting. On one side I have a donkey making a horse's ass out of itself and on the other an elephant making a horse's ass out of itself. Now all I have to do is decide which has the harder job and which is doing the best at it.—s.a.b.

The Golden Fleece

Sock It To Whom?

By Chris L. Smith, Editor

One issue that invariably is interjected into every Idaho political campaign is the use of out-of-state funds by Idaho candidates. The logic seems to be to accuse one's opponent of selling his vote in Congress to out-of-state interests for campaign contributions. The real windfall for a candidate is to be able to smear his opposition with not only use of outside money, but with receiving money from "questionable" groups or individuals.

In 1966 Senatorial candidate Ralph Harding was accused of receiving sizeable contributions from the Council for a Liveable World. That group was branded as a left wing eastern oriented group, and Harding was alleged to have sold out to them.

This year the same allegations are being made against Senator Frank Church. In an ad that appeared in Monday evening's papers, James Kirsher and Wally Burns, accuse Church of receiving funds from the "Council for a Liveable World, the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the National Committee for an Effective

Congress, and poet Archibald MacLeish.

In the ad's explanation an organization labeled "secret" in one case where the group is an open organization, and another group is affiliated with Dr. Benjamin Spock because he is a member. The National Committee for an Effective Congress is listed as "ultra-liberal" and Archibald MacLeish is identified as being affiliated with "26 communist front organizations."

The ad's conclusion asks why these groups are supporting Church. It answers by stating that Church's record has been "consistent with the policy advocated by these highly-controversial and questionable out-of-state organizations."

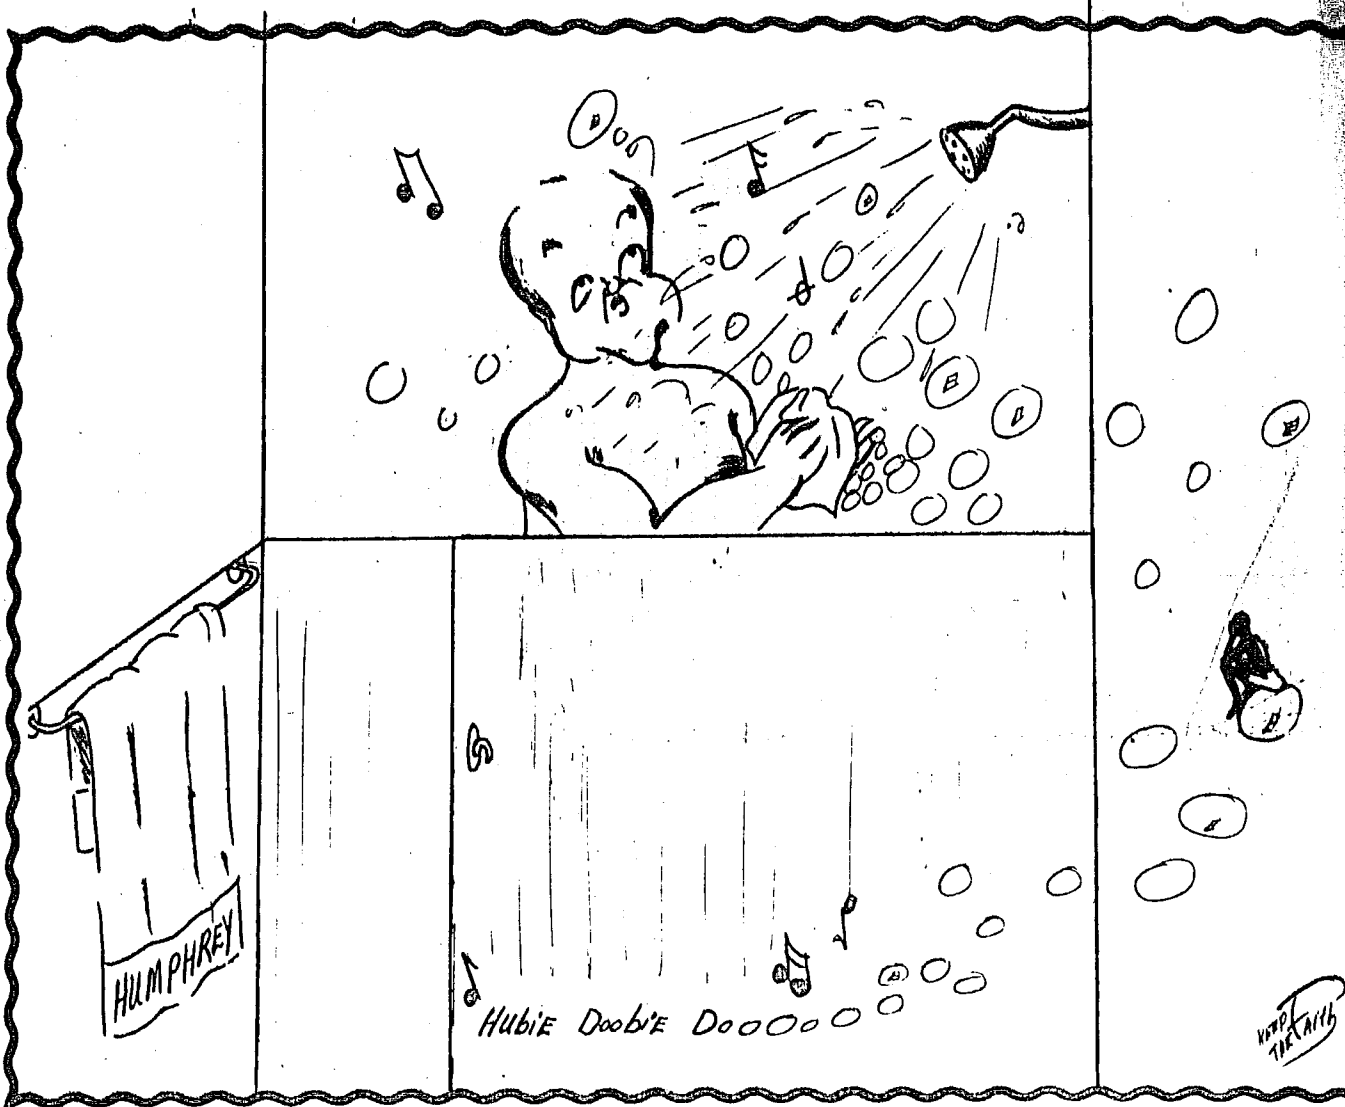

The purpose of such an ad is to assign guilt by association. If a person from the far left supports Frank Church, then Church himself must be suspected as being far out. Somehow the logic doesn't quite work. It does any group good to support men who are closest to its own views, even though they may differ in degree. It is a common practice of national groups to support Senatorial and Congressional candidates. If a group's objectives are to be achieved, it must not only have a favorable President, but Congress too must be so inclined.

To try to smear a politician because of the source of his campaign funds, and to not offer any concrete proof of those allegations is the final days of a campaign is a move of desperation. When a candidate or his supporters feel that they may be losing, anything goes that might win the race. It is always in the final days of a campaign that the dirtiest material comes out. The smear is always the last resort of the trapped.

Evidently Mr. Burns and Kirsher feel that George Hansen needs some help with his campaign. They must feel that the need for help is desperate.

One must wonder if such actions on the behalf of his supporters don't make Mr. Hansen feel a little desperate himself. There have been adverse reactions to smear tactics.

FROM UNDER THE ROCK

by Houghton Whithed

Editor's note: Houghton Whithed came to the University of Idaho on a full-ride football scholarship and played last year on the Frosh team and last spring was one of McNease's top interior linemen prospects. He quit the football team this summer before fall football started and gave several reasons for quitting which included dislike of the athletic dormitory, Y C McNease, and the fact that Ed Troxell had not been hired as the head coach. In short, Houghton wouldn't make the sacrifice McNease wanted of his football players.—s.a.b.

I want a Castro, blood, guts, and gore revolt. Rise up, students, and look, but at yourselves. What do you believe? In something now? That, at Idaho, would be a steel swinging revolt. What a hole, but only because you make it that way. You don't vote, you don't participate! You sulk, complain and stink. You cry for justice, conclude a Bill of Rights and then leave it in Faculty Council. You sob about apathy and then don't vote.

E-Board votes, though, and I wish they wouldn't, for I dislike a uncameral aristocracy as a guide. I disagree with its principle of upper-classman's rule. Tear it up, start over, don't just exist! Give birth to something new. Rosemary did!

We have contemporary classes at Idaho, why not contemporary politics? Why does tradition dictate against a Student Senate and a Student Assembly? They would react to student anguish, or return to their origin, the outside. However, a bicameral government requires a bicameral party-system, so again tradition dies. CUP, do you hear the challenge? Maybe some issues in your platform would be appropriate instead of just words. Your candidates spoke of carrying apathy only to mostly belch it out themselves, thereby spreading the germ.

So, CUP, when you wonder why only 526 freshmen and only 200 sophomores voted, perhaps you should gaze into the magic mirror. They had nothing from which to choose, only words to read. When written words lack interest, they lack support, therefore CUP died a little this year. . . . It's dead!

Celebrate, it's July 26, Castro's revolt succeeded, and so would a new party, a party from something to something, at least moving. New party, new people, new politics, junk the grey hair and raise your own, for it will truly be yours and not that of tradition. Tradition died with CUP.

PART II

Are football players gladiators, or does Y C just treat them as such? They go and they fight, but they remain silent, as the Seattle Press discovered, silent they remain, but not by their own choice, by Y C's. Football players don't just grunt, groan and fight, they also think and they also speak. They could have spoken to the Seattle Press. Why not, Coach, are you afraid? What would they have said?

Spring football radiated enthusiasm for the Vandals. Out of it emerged Y C McNease with a boast to the team during practice of winning seven games. I haven't heard it since, but he felt the confidence once, and I now wonder what tripped it? You've lost four games, Coach! You frown when you win, what happens when you lose? Do you always hold a two-hour line scrimmage in the field house after a loss or was this a special performance after the Oregon game? Football players wear out, too, and the one who told me of your Sunday scrimmage oozed fatigue. You've isolated human beings, and allowed them to live for just one thing, yourself. On trips, you forbid them to see anyone before the game and only afterwards if you win. With this isolation you have rendered them to little better than gladiators who perform and then retire to their own domicile. People like to know the players, but they can't, unless the players speak! Thus, you have seized something which exists elsewhere in living color and have reduced it to black and white words—yours! You drive a new Grand Prix from the Vandal Boosters, Give It Back! You boasted of seven wins and have now lost four! An Edsel would be more appropriate.

Coach, are you going to bed at ten-thirty, or don't you believe in your own philosophy? Congratulations, Coach, for you are truly From Under the Rock.

The Darn Thing

by Bruce Noll

A talk with a sophomoreish fellow the other day centered around his "discovery" that our society is made up of sexual symbols. I put him on "And what's so wonderful?" I said, "Is that nearly everything is either elongated or has a hole in it some place." He wet his lips so went on. "You can apply this to politics, too. Think of Wallace blocking the doorway or study the IIIH initials for a while. The fellow got so excited that I thought best to leave. I'm almost a little worried how he will react when "2001: A Space Odyssey" hits town.

I'm wary of SPECTACULARS. The work has a ring of CLEOPATRA or GREATES STORY stuff. But curiosity over technical achievements with a camera along with a few worthwhile reviews made me eager to see Kubrick's ODYSSEY. I'm glad saw it—it's one of a few films I'll choose to see again.

Even (especially) in a university town like Moscow, a lot of people seeing this one will laugh in the wrong places (on advantage of a $3.00 Seattle seat). The film will also be interpreted to death or simply shrugged away. It is a troublesome movie—Steve Bellstrom didn't begin to enjoy it until a month after he had seen it; but dudes like that sophomore should have tucked away before he reaches Mort's.

While on the ODYSSEY I was frustrated at the apparent waste of time, the lack of human response, the emphasis on the body functions, and, to a lesser degree, the lack of visual sex. (It's as horny as hell for symbolists). Then three hours later, one must begin to realize that these seeming hang-ups are what make the film worthwhile. It is you who is trapped in an ineffectual crack between two giant slabs of non-time. The food, age, blood pulse, breath are just some of the things holding you in that crack.

I'm not trying to give you my interpretation of the film here. More important than that is for you have not witnessed it yet to be prepared for it, as the rest of us were not. What am I recommending? No more than I ever do—just let the film absorb you; let it flow around you. Analyze it later. And above all, watch out for that sophomore.

To The Editor

The Idaho Argonaut welcomes letters to the editor and recognizes they are an invaluable contribution to the paper. However, it is necessary that we set guidelines concerning letters to the editor. All letters must be signed and an address and telephone number given. The Argonaut reserves the right to edit letters for libel, poor taste, and length. Letters should not exceed 250 words and may be edited subject to space available if the limit is exceeded.

The real Frank Church

Dear Jason,

I am glad to see that the Hansen supporters are holding true to their tradition in setting the record straight. (This is in reference to the editorial by Doug Stewart — The Real George Hansen, October 20).

Since I am an avid supporter of Senator Church, I hate to see issues brought forth only from one point of view, particularly when there is room to question the source, or if there is a source, of information to substantiate the record.

To start with, the attendance record issue brought to light by Hansen recently shows that there was error in his mathematics. According to the Congressional Quarterly, the Senator has not really been neglecting his job in Washington. Over the past 12 years Church has established an attendance average of 81.6 per cent while in the four years Hansen has answered roll calls 71.4 per cent of the time. During this past year of campaigning Senator Church answered 55.4 per cent of the roll calls while Rep. Hansen reported 31.3 per cent present. This just happens to be the lowest attendance record of any Republican Representative this year. It makes me wonder just what the real George Hansen was doing these past few months.

Mr. Stewart also made me aware of a "fact" that had escaped my attention as well as numerous others throughout the state, and that is that Rep. Hansen, with the aid of Rep. McClure, saved Idaho's water interest. Where were these men when the combined efforts of three Senators — Jordan, Church, and Jackson (D-Wash.) — were required to fight back a House bill in a joint Committee meeting for eight days? Church does not claim having done this single-handedly, as some would like to make you think Jordan did. When the Colorado River Basin bill was passed, it was not the efforts of one, but three experienced men in the Senate.

I am thoroughly opposed to the election of Hansen to the Senate for one big reason — his negative approach. This is very apparent in his campaign tactics. Today in our fast moving government we need people who can think from a positive side, men who can come up with a far-reaching solution to problems. Hansen supporters have gone to great lengths to distort the records of Senator Frank Church, rather than meeting the issues squarely. There are too many examples to cite here at this time, but I would like to refer those interested persons to an editorial in the Daily Statesman, October 18, 1968. In this article one will find numerous examples of how Hansen supporters and Rep. Hansen failed to set the record straight.

With a positive approach in his campaign and over the past 12 years, Senator Church is now in a better position than ever to help Idaho. A record of 12 years on the Senate Interior Committee and some 30 different conservation bills to his credit, conservation bills favorable to Idaho, is a good example of the working experience this man has. Rep. Hansen has failed to do quite as well with one bill to his credit over a four year period in the field of conservation. It passed the Congress by a unanimous voice vote and directed the Secretary of Defense to cooperate fully with the Director of Farragut State Park during the World Boy Scout Jamboree — 1967.

Senator Frank Church is a man that Idaho cannot afford to lose. The citizens of this state would be doing themselves a disservice if they failed to re-elect Church, Frank Church, a man that can represent his state's interests well, a man that represents his nation well, and a man that is well respected for his talents should be allowed to continue with his excellent work.

Co-Chairman

Mrs. Velma Stephens, precinct 8 registrar, will set up a registration booth in the Student Union Building today from 1 to 4 p.m. Students over 21 who have resided in Idaho six out of the last nine months and have not voted absentee are eligible to vote Tuesday, November 5th. Those students who are eligible voters should register with Mrs. Stephens today.

To The Editor

Buy insurance from Hansen?

Dear Jason:

In a response to an editorial, Doug Stewart complains that Jason has misunderstood and distorted the truth about poor George Hansen, insurance salesman turned right-wing politician. Mr. Stewart then goes on to reveal the real George Hansen. Unfortunately, in his ardor Mr. Stewart has also distorted the truth about George.

Mr. Stewart tells us that George is a great friend of education. Perhaps that is why he voted against the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act (which sane men, among them Mr. Hansen's opponent, passed by an overwhelming majority). This bill has brought $6,000,000 into Idaho school systems. When Mr. Stewart says Hansen worked for the improvement of the 1968 version, he really means that Hansen worked to reduce funds and delete important parts of the bill, as a check of the record will reveal.

George Hansen voted against the Teacher Corps. He gave the excuse that the cost per student is over $13,000. This is not an excuse, this is an outright lie! It cost $13,000 to train a volunteer teacher but each teacher handles from 400-500 students per year, making the cost less than $500 per student. George voted against a bill to provide funds for the construction and improvement of medical and dental schools and against providing funds for the Arts and Humanities. Thank you, George, for support for and understanding of education.

Hansen is really big on poverty. He voted "No" on all but two or three poverty programs. His compassion for the oppressed was so great that he voted against the Rat Control Bill (which passed the Senate with no dissenting votes). It is clear that his sympathies lie with the under-privileged, disease-ridden rats.

George Hansen is on record as being opposed to the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty. His reason was that it stops the U.S. from developing more atomic weapons. This is pure ignorance! The treaty in no way restricts what things the U.S. can develop, manufacture or station at U.S. bases around the world. George just forgot to do his homework again. It was really entertaining to watch his own colleagues try to shut him up on this issue.

It is also well known that the only vote on gun controls that Senator Church missed was the ceremonial voice vote, which has no official consequences. The bill was actually passed over a week before; Church was there and voted at that time.

Mr. Stewart also might have mentioned that it was both Senator Jordan and Senator Church who introduced the amendment on the 10-year moratorium on Idaho water. As to Hansen being the one who pushed the Wild Rivers Bill through Congress, this is absurd. The real truth is that the bill got through despite Hansen. Since Hansen has always voted with the South, his relationship with the northern congressmen who voted for the bill was considerably less than influential. Senators Jordan and Church, along with the help of the Oregon, Washington and Alaskan congressional delegations, are the ones who really pushed it through.

Hansen has also voted consistently against minimum wage laws, fair consumer goods practices, medicare, voting rights enforcement, etc. Yes, Doug, your man has a real positive voting record — "no" on almost everything. Perhaps some people, maybe even a great number of them, like this record; if so, George Hansen should have the guts to run on it, instead of trying to hide and distort it.

George Hansen does have one exceptional record however — the lowest attendance record in the House for 1968 (30 per cent) — one of the lowest in recent House history. And I am sorry, Mr. Stewart, but the argument that we should send George to be Mr. Nixon's ventriloquist's dummy in Washington is not very convincing either.

No, Doug, I wouldn't even feel safe buying insurance from Mr. Hansen.

Army ROTC aids United Fund drive

Tuesday and Wednesday evening of last week the A.U.S.A., Association of the United States Army, service group of the Army ROTC, and its Army Sponsor unit, performed the civic function of aiding in the Moscow United Fund drive.

The main purpose of the actions of these young men and women was to contact residents on a person to person basis. This was accomplished with the help of the General Telephone Company and the use of their new office building. Also the cadets and sponsors were able to keep in touch with those who had already pledged a certain amount to the United Fund.

Civic action is just one of the many projects undertaken by the A.U.S.A. throughout the year which aids in the strengthening of this group of cadets who are interested in the build-up of public relations area of the Army ROTC.

Peace Corps recruiter looks for new volunteers

James S. Funna, representative of the government of Sierra Leone, will be at the Student Union Building through next Wednesday in an attempt to recruit all would-be Peace Corps Volunteers to go to his country to teach.

He is concerned mainly with upper-division students in the fields of math and science. He is attempting to go to some of the upper-division classes in order that he may have the chance to talk with the students about his country.

Sierra Leone is an old British colony, now independent, with a land mass of 28,000 square miles, a population of approximately 3,000,000, and a high economic potential. Its educational system is very modern. Since 1961, over 400 Peace Corps Volunteers have taught in its secondary schools. At present, 131 volunteers are working in 48 of the country's secondary schools. This comprises 17 per cent of the total secondary school teaching staff.

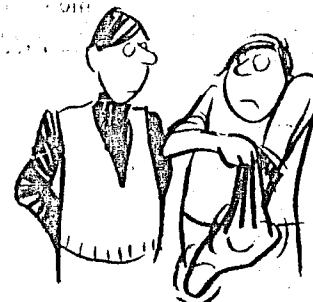

From the University of Idaho, Funna will travel to Colorado and Arizona before returning to his country in December.

1. Pipe broken?
No, I'm trying to find where I stashed some dough.

2. That's where you keep your money?
Sometimes I put it in the flower pot.

3. What's wrong with the bank?
I'd only take it right out again.

4. But that's what you're doing now.
Not quite. The beauty of my system is that I usually can't find where I put it.

5. I think you'd be a lot better off putting some of your dough into Living Insurance from Equitable. It not only gives you and the family you're going to have a lifetime of protection, it also builds cash values you can use for emergencies, opportunities, or even retirement.

I wonder if it could be with the french fries?

MOVING IN—Seen here are members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity moving from the Moscow Hotel, where they have been located since September, to their newly constructed house. An open house will be held directly after the Idaho-Weber State football game tomorrow.—(Bower photo)

Phi Delt move into new house

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity, which had been living in the Moscow Hotel, moved into their new house last night. With a few finishing touches to go, the house should be completed within a week.

The $320,000 house has an eighty man capacity. The study rooms are divided into two, three, and four man units, all of which open onto a balcony. The luxuriously designed living room is complete with red carpeting, black leather furniture, wood paneling and fireplace.

The future plans of the Phi Delt include a parking lot which will be located between their house and the Pi Phi house.

The Phi Delt invite anyone who would like to see their new house to come to their Open House after the Dad's Day football game.

Upward Bound students to return on Dad's Day

Forty Upward Bound students who lived and studied on the University of Idaho campus for seven weeks this past summer, will participate in the Dads' Day festivities Saturday, it was announced by Edwin Madsen, Upward Bound Director.

These high school students became acquainted with college life last summer when they were selected for the Upward Bound program, which is designed to help them gain motivation to seek a college education.

"The students' present visit to campus is part of the academic year follow-up," Madsen said. "We hope to bring them to the campus at least two more times for special events. These reunions help keep them conscious of the academic goals they've set for themselves."

Patricia Clyde, Upward Bound associate director, explained further about the academic year follow-up program. "Since the students have been back attending their home-town schools in nearby communities, we have engaged part-time tutors to help some students with any subjects they may be having trouble with and others with enrichment learning programs," she said.

"The Upward Bound students plan to attend the Weber State football game on Saturday, and are particularly looking forward to seeing the Bill Cosby Show," Madsen stated.

RECEIVING AWARD—Lt. David Holick, right, was awarded the Navy Commendation Medal with Combat "V" for meritorious service in Vietnam while serving with a Naval Advisory Group. Presenting the award was Commander M. E. Hirschi, Administrative Officer of the Naval ROTC unit at the University of Idaho.

Navy ROTC presents awards

The following awards and presentations were made by Commander M. E. Hirschi, Administrative Officer of the Naval ROTC Unit at University of Idaho.

Lt. David L. Holick was awarded the Navy Commendation Medal with combat "V" for meritorious service in Vietnam while serving with Naval Advisory Group as the advisor to the Vietnamese Commanding Officer of a PGM, a 100 foot motor gunboat. Lt. Holick served in Vietnam during the period March 1967 to March 1968. He is presently the weapons instructor at the Naval ROTC Unit at the University of Idaho and working on a masters degree in business.

Navy Enlisted Scientific Education Program (NESEP) Officer Candidate William L. Rickman was awarded the Good Conduct Medal for service during the period from June 1964 through June 1968. Officer Candidate Rickman is a sophomore majoring in chemistry at the University of Idaho.

Gunnery-Mate Chief D. J. Hudgins was presented with two letters of commendation from the Commanding Officer of the USS MAHAN (DLG 11), a guided missile destroyer of the Seventh Fleet. The commendations were for outstanding performance of both technical and professional duties. GMGC Hudgins served on the USS MAHAN from November 1966 through May 1968. He is presently serving as the assistant instructor in naval weapons with the Naval ROTC Unit at the University of Idaho.

Midshipman First Class Anthony P. Shepard was presented a trophy for displaying high aptitude for military service. He earned this award while serving on his 1968 summer training at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas. MIDN 1/c Shepard was cited for overall excellence, motivation, and physical and mental qualifications as he was the outstanding member of his eighty-one man company. He is presently a senior majoring in Civil Engineering at the University of Idaho.

Scholarships available

In addition to the Rhodes, Fulbright, and Marshall scholarships, there are other foreign scholarships available to American students.

The East-West Center in Honolulu, Hawaii is offering 70 full scholarships to American students for graduate degree study in fields related to Asia and the Pacific Ocean area at the University of Hawaii. Fields of study include the social sciences, humanities, and pure and applied sciences. The deadline for applying is December 15, 1968.

The George C. Marshall Memorial Fund in Denmark offers annually 10-15 $3,000 awards for either a professional study program or an academic study or research project in Denmark. Deadline for applying is December 1.

Three awards of $2,800 are offered by the American-Scandinavian Foundation for Junior and Senior level undergraduates and graduates in the early stages of advanced training. Deadline for applying is December 1.

One award of $3,750 is offered to an American student of Scottish descent for graduate study in Scotland.

Any person interested in the preceding scholarships who would like to know more about them should contact Tom Christensen, FarmHouse Fraternity, member of Student-Faculty Committee on Scholarships.

FAILURE

You'll never get anywhere without it.

Nothing helps a young engineer's career like being given a challenge. Which is another way of saying a chance to fail now and then. To make his own mistakes.

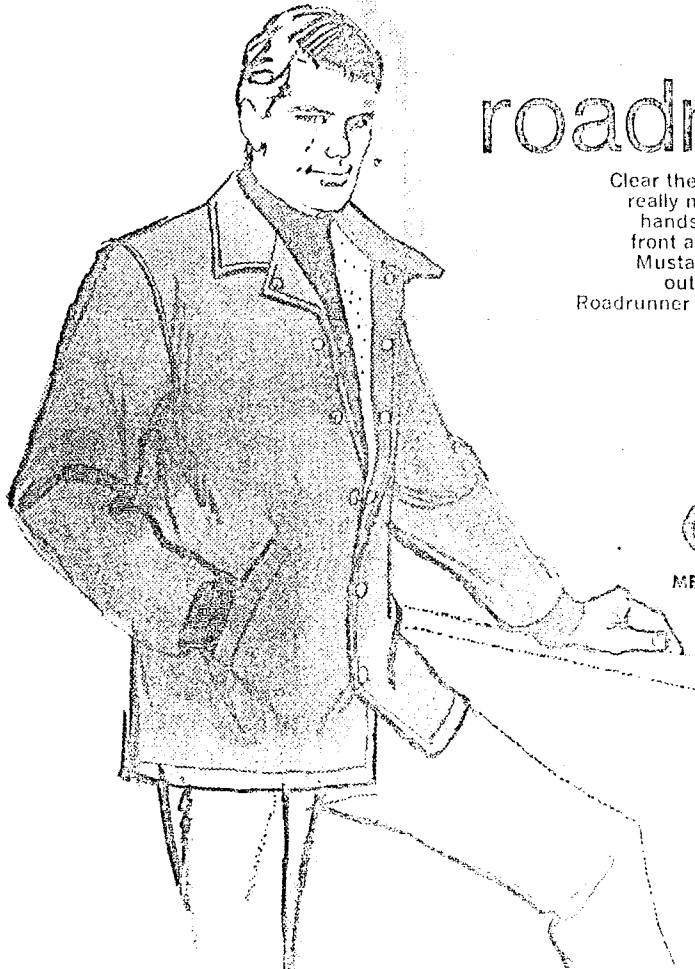

At Western Electric we give our newly recruited engineers responsibility almost immediately. They make their own decisions. Learn from their own errors.

Don't get us wrong. We keep our demands reasonable enough so that our recruits can make their decisions at their own pace. But our thinking is, a man feels awfully good about even a small decision when it's his.

If you're the type who'd like the chance to make your own moves, see our recruiter or write College Relations, 222 Broadway, New York, N. Y. 10038.

A lot of hard work never hurt anyone.

Go Vandals!

Idaho meets 'Cats at 12:30 Saturday

By Roger Ritter

A still optimistic Y C McNease ran his Vandals through two and one-half hours of full practice last night in preparation for Saturday's clash with undefeated Weber State College scheduled for 12:30 Saturday in Neale Stadium.

According to McNease the Vandals are in good shape physically. Bob Haney and Larry Kelly, both tackles, have been in the hospital all week with the flu, but Haney reported to practice last night and will be well for the game Saturday. Steve Olson, Lewiston sophomore who is the key to the vaunted Vandal offense, is also in good shape after being hampered last week by an injured passing hand.

On the subject of last Saturday's 37-7 loss to the Washington Huskies in Seattle McNease commented, "We were outmanned. However after we settled down we gave them our best effort of the year for three quarters especially on defense, but it still takes four quarters of good football to win."

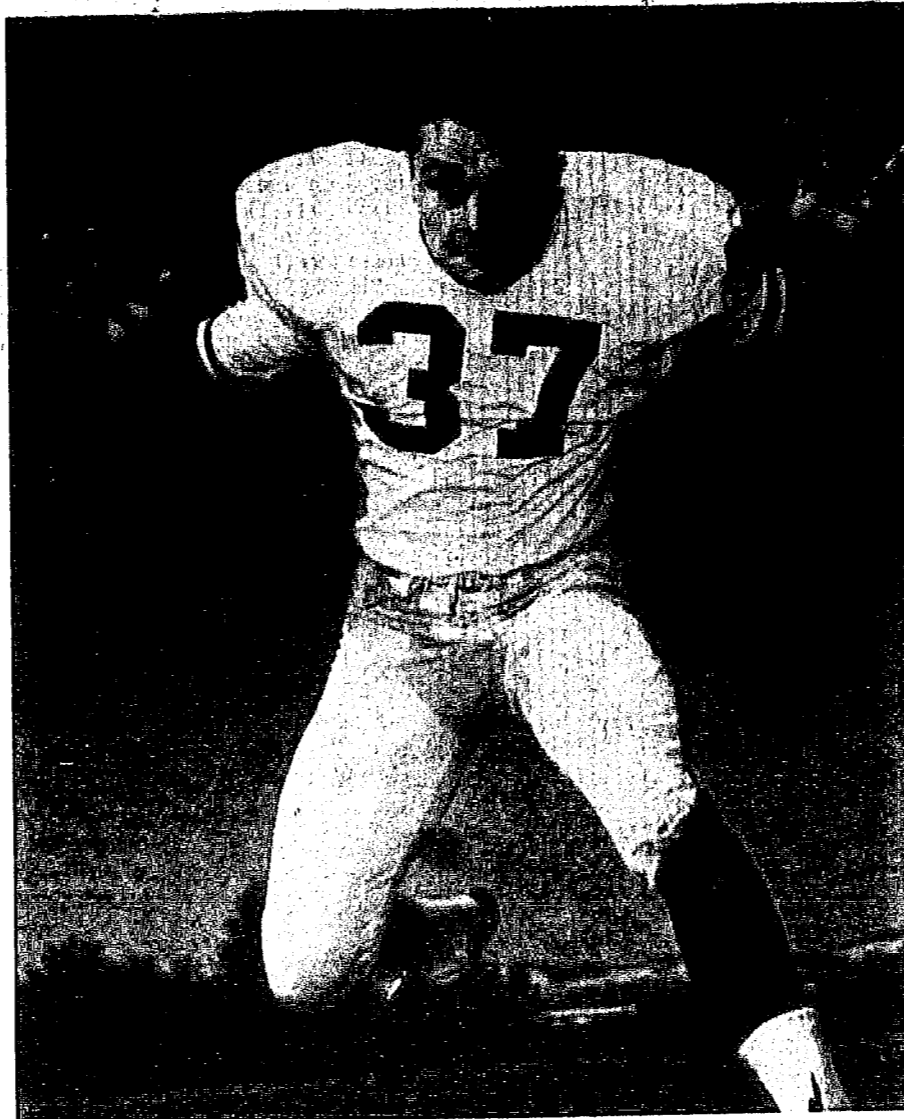

About tomorrow's game the Vandal head mentor had this to say, "We have a good chance of winning if we play good football. Weber has a good team, they are as tough as anybody in the Big Sky, both offensively and defensively. They have three runners that run under 10 second hundreds so they have good speed, but we can still expect them to pass 40 per cent of the time."

"The morale of our boys is high and their enthusiasm is as good as it has ever been, they want to salvage something out of this season, and if we win this one we'll have a share of the Big Sky Title."

The 'Cats from Weber State College have a 6-0 record and a national rating of sixth in small college polls. At present they have the lead (2-0) in Big Sky standings.

We can throw these and the rest of the records out the window when the two clubs get together Saturday afternoon in ol' Neale Stadium, because its going to be one of those games where anything can happen. This scribe is going along with Tom Harmon — (Idaho 20, Weber 10) and against the majority of sports writers — on the outcome of Saturday's battle, picking Weber State to come out on the short end after the smoke clears away from Neale Stadium. Y C McNease and company will tuck their share of the Big Sky Title under their belts.

FEW STAND BEFORE HIM—Vandal fullback Rob Young leads the Big Sky Conference in yards gained rushing with 711 yards in 142 carries. The Vandals go against the Weber State Wildcats this Saturday at 12:30 in Neale Stadium.

Big Sky title is on the line

This weekend will decide for all those who have been watching the Big Sky conference, who the real champion or champions will be.

The game between Idaho and Weber State this weekend will match two very strong offensive teams against each other. Weber State with an unblemished 6-0 record will be going all out to keep it that way while the Vandals, will be trying to get back on the winning trail.

A win for the Wildcats will give them the unchallenged lead in the conference, but if the Vandals win there will be a three-way tie between Idaho, Montana State, and Weber State.

The Wildcats still dominate the team totals in the total defense department, passing and rushing. They also hold the lead in pass offense.

The Vandals, on the other hand, are leading total offense. Individual leaders for Idaho in the stats are Rob Young second in rushing with a total of 71 yards, and Steve Olson, leading in passing 1799 yards and 10 touchdowns, and total offense with 1788 yards. All-American Candidate Jerry Hendren is leading in both receiving and scoring with 6 receptions for 992 yards and in scoring with 48 points. Kenny Dotson is second in pass interceptions with 7 and is third in punt returns with 13 for 171 yards. Bob Davis is still leading the Big Sky in punting with a 41.3 average.

Harmon predicts highlights

Kansas maintained its lofty perch as the number one team in the country by mowing down Iowa State last Saturday. However, the hair might get just a bit shorter this week as 14th-ranked Colorado tries for another upset. Our vote has to go to the Jayhawks as they take a big step toward the Big 8 championship, beating Colorado by ten points.

Southern Cal, just by being idle last Saturday, moved into second place. The Trojans will trip the Ducks of Oregon by twenty points. Ohio State lost its grip a little and dropped to 3rd . . . and with Michigan State, No. 17, on the menu this week, things might get just a little tense. The Buckeyes, looking at both a Big Ten title and possible Rose Bowl trip, "will pull it out by two points."

Facing Murderer's Row week after week, Illinois runs into 4th-ranked Purdue, and will take another one on the chin, this one by 29 points. Tennessee is 5th; they meet UCLA. The Bruins haven't run out of steam yet, but we'll go with Tennessee by 18 points.

And heading for its show-down battle with Southern Cal next Saturday, the 6th-rated Bears of California had better keep all eyes on the Washington Huskies this week. They've been known to cause trouble. With eyes in the right direction, Cal should win by 21.

Here's another hair-raiser: 7th-ranked Houston barges into 8th-ranked Georgia. The Cougars bounced from 13th to 7th this week, and are going to have to prove they belong in a big hurry. Georgia will lose its first of the season . . . Houston by two points.

The powers of the Southwest Conference will probably confuse the championship picture even more this week as 9th-rated Texas picks on 18th-ranked Southern Methodist. If the Longhorns win . . . and they're favored by seven . . . it will leave no undefeated team in conference play.

And in the East, east meets east as an Army team that is getting tougher and tougher clashes with 10th-ranked Penn State. The Nittany Lions should stay undefeated and win it by eleven, but Army is full of surprises.

If Notre Dame . . . down in the 11th spot this week . . . can re-group, they should scuttle Navy by 23 points. And 12th-rated Missouri, still a mighty big wheel in that Big Eight title fight, will bump Oklahoma State by 13. Alabama, No. 13, is 26 points too strong for Mississippi State, and 15th-ranked Arkansas will just whistle by Texas A & M by 2 points.

Director of Athletics Paul Ostyn announced this week that the entire north side of Neale Stadium will be opened to students this Saturday. Ostyn said students would be admitted to this area on their ASTU cards. This ruling will be in effect for Saturday's game only.

Complete election control set in SUB for November voting

A complete Election Central for the University of Idaho will be held in the ballroom of the SUB election night, November 5, from 4 p.m. until all the results are obtained.

Television sets will be furnished by Moscow merchants for all-network coverage. Live wire service will be cabled into Election Central and extra telephone lines are being laid in for immediate coverage of local and Northwest results and to furnish information to any callers.

The University political science department is cooperating to furnish on-the-spot analysis of the trends and results, explaining the underlying reasons for the voting statistics.

The Young Americans for Freedom, University Young Republicans, Idahoans for Church, and Young Democrats are participating with the Idaho Center for Education in Politics and the ASUI Activities Office to provide in-depth coverage of this national election as a service to the students of the University, and to the residents of Moscow.

Plans are being made for live television coverage by KUID from the ballroom and for live radio coverage by KUIO for the University and throughout Moscow. Closed circuit television is available with in the SUB for special commentary on coverage.

A complete tabulation board covering the presidential race in all states, Idaho and other important races, and a complete breakdown of the Idaho state-wide result by counties will be maintained with assistance from the University of Idaho Vanda Vets.

Free coffee will be available and all students are encouraged to attend. Electioneering is permitted.

For information and campaign materials, or to take part in the organization or to assist in the tabulation, contact any of the above political organizations or any member of the Idaho Center for Education in Politics.

The following time schedule is planned for the Thursday, November 7 showings: 9 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Idaho professors use new research supports

Two professors, new to the University of Idaho this fall are making use of the newly established Research Support-Reading Area in Life Sciences 117. They are Dr. George Teresa, bacteriology, and Dr. Rodney Mead, zoology.

Dr. Teresa has worked in the area of liver abscesses in cattle and foot rot in sheep but is currently making a request for support for work on a theory of cancer immunization which he has developed. Dr. Mead is looking for support of his ideas on the mechanisms of implantation in MEPHITIS.

The office of Coordination of Research established the reading area in Life Sciences 117 to provide extensive information of support for teaching and research from federal, state, and private sources. The Graduate Division subscribes to the following services which provide weekly, monthly and quarterly information concerning grants from many organizations and agencies. These include the Grant Data Quarterly, the Guide to Federal Assistance and Education, the Foundation Directory, the Science Information Exchange, and the College and University Reporter. In addition, information folders are maintained for a number of specific federal agencies. The Graduate Office will assist in the preparation of research proposals and in providing information relative to requirements of particular agencies. In a number of cases the Office can also provide application forms or directions for preparing proposals.

A computer listing of research equipment on campus has also just been issued by the Graduate Office.

Campus Afloat visits U of I

Randkn Sneed, a representative of World Campus Afloat—Chapman College, Orange, Calif., will visit the University of Idaho to discuss a study semester aboard the S.S. RYNDAM.

Students, faculty and administrators who wish interviews or who have questions about Chapman's international study-voyage should plan to talk with Mr. Sneed at the Student Union, from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. Wednesday, November 6, and Thursday November 7. Interviews will be held at the Placement Office 3:30 to 5 on both days. The public is invited, Mr. Sneed said.

The goal of the World Campus Afloat program, administered by Chapman's Division of International Education, is to combine liberal arts course work with the experiences of world travel, the representative explained.

During its current semester at sea, which departed from New York on Oct. 10, the RYNDAM carries 500 students and 70 faculty and staff to ports in Europe, Africa and South America. The 110-day voyage will terminate Jan. 29 in Los Angeles. The spring 1969 semester will depart Los Angeles on Feb. 3, journey around the world via the Orient, India and Africa, to terminate May 27 at New York.

Commissioners appear in movies

The Latah County Commissioners play starring roles in three educational movies filmed at the University of Idaho Television Center.

Assessor Eugene Taylor and Commissioners Gerald Ingle, Herb J. Zimmerman and Leon Danielson portrayed themselves in a series of films which are to be used as training devices in a forthcoming training institute for county commissioners and clerks at Boise, December 5-7.

The films will be shown to institute participants as a basis for discussion of policy problems in county government. Each film presents a hypothetical problem which might face any county board of commissioners. The films end with the problem unsolved. The county officials will be asked to work out solutions in small group discussions.

The training institute is being presented by the Bureau of Public Affairs Research of the University of Idaho with the cooperation of Idaho State University, Boise College and the Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks.

According to Dr. Sydney Duncombe, associate director of the bureau, the institute is to provide an orientation for new commissioners and clerks as well as to present veteran officials with up-to-date information on the latest trends and developments of importance to county government.

"The program will cover such subjects as county-community relations, finance, public assistance, county planning and zoning, data processing in local government, county intergovernmental relations and functional problems in county government," Duncombe said.

Funds for the Institute are provided 50 per cent by Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965 entitled "Community Service and Continuing Education Programs." The State Agency for Title I in Idaho is the Idaho State Commission for Higher Education Facilities administered by Idaho Continuing Education, Milton Small, Director of Special Programs.

The Institute is under the supervision of Dr. Duncombe. Assisting him are Dr. John Eyre of Idaho State University, Dr. Wallace Gould of Boise College, and Mr. Glenn W. Nichols of the Bureau of Public Affairs Research, University of Idaho.

Drama students to tour North Idaho with shows

Twenty-four University of Idaho drama students will tour Northern Idaho as part of the third annual Crowler's Theatre Tour, November 11-15, it was announced by Edmund M. Chavez, acting chairman of drama.
