$800,000 federal grant for forestry building construction approved

By Chris L. Smith

The University of Idaho has been granted $800,000.00 from the Federal Office of Education to help finance a new three story building to house the College of Forestry, Wild Life, and Range Sciences, Idaho Senator Frank Church told the Argonaut yesterday.

The building, which will have over 90 thousand square feet of floor space, will cost an estimated total of $3.2 million. Construction is expected to begin in March of 1969, and completed by January of 1971.

University of Idaho President Ernest W. Hartung was returning to Moscow from Denver when word of the grant was received. Contacted while changing planes in the Boise Air Terminal last evening Hartung called the grant a "tremendous step forward."

"We really had no idea whether or not we would be successful in receiving this money, federal funding being tenuous at best in this day," Hartung said. "This is really wonderful because it shows a great deal of confidence in the University's graduate programs. The funds that were appropriated came from money for graduate education, Title 2, and this is a tremendous step forward."

"As a result of this grant we will have to ask the Idaho Legislature for less," he stated. "We had put in a budget request on a contingency basis, not knowing whether or not we would receive this grant. That amount can now be substantially reduced, although we may still have to ask for additional funding in the $180,000 range.

Contacted in Boise where he is attending a meeting of the Land Law Review Commission, Dean Ernest Wohletz of the College of Forestry said "Wonderful!" to the news of the grant.

"We applied for this money in February," he stated. "The federal officials visited the campus for an on the sight inspection about a month ago and at that time they told us that we would probably receive around half a million. I suppose that the thing to do now is to get started," the Dean said.

Wohletz said the new building will contain all forestry, wood utilization, wild life research, fisheries, water shed management, and outdoor recreation facilities. The new structure will be two stories high with a basement and located on the site of the present Navy Building Parking Lot.

Wohletz said that word of the grant was "the grandest news I've heard in a long time. Money seems tight, and we are extremely fortunate to have received the whole $800,000."

University Academic Vice President H. Walter Steffens stated that "the success of the project depended on this grant." Steffens explained that the funding for the building comes from three sources, the National Science Foundation, the National Defense Education Act, and the legislative appropriation from the 39th session.

"We are now being assured of being very close to having enough money to finance the structure," Steffens said. "We can feel extremely encouraged." According to Frank Pitkin, chairman of the building committee of the College of Forestry, the total cost of the construction for the building will be $3 million. "Over and above that we need $356,000.00 in furniture and movable equipment," he stated.

The financial breakdown for the building shows that $2.2 million came from an appropriation by the legislature in the last session.

The forestry building had not been high on the list of priorities for University construction that was presented to the session. The building was moved into a first priority position because of the wishes of Idaho Governor Don Samuelson.

The $800,000 grant from the Department of Education falls under Title 2 of the 1956 National Defense Education Act. That Title grants construction monies for facilities to be used in graduate instruction and research.

An additional $79,000.00 was granted for the building in August under Title 1 of the act. That Title provides for construction grants for undergraduate instruction.

"We may need an additional $182,000 to begin construction with if the movable equipment we have requested comes out of the recent grant," Pitkin said. "If the entire $800,000 can be used for construction purposes we can go ahead on construction, and ask for the movable equipment from the next biennium."

Pitkin stated that if everything goes "on schedule" bids for the building would be let in March of this year, and physical construction would begin in April or May. The College of Forestry would plan on initial occupancy of the building for January of 1971.

University Development Director Frank Jones said that the grant was "something we have been hoping for for a long time. We deeply appreciate the interest in the University and this project that has been shown by Idaho's Senator Church and Senator Jordan. Without their assistance this may not have been possible."

Jones stated that the grant would help facilitate the University's attempt to obtain $120,000 from private foundation to fund a Wilderness Research Unit in the College of Forestry to be located near McCall, Idaho.

"The Grandest News"

---Wohletz

This building will stand on the site of the present Navy Building Parking lot in January of 1971. The construction of the new College of Forestry Building was made possible yesterday by a $800,000.00 grant from the Federal Department of Education. The remaining monies to finance the $3.2 million structure have come from the Idaho legislature and the National Science Foundation.

Policy to repeat courses discussed at faculty meet

By Cammy Bonzer

A general faculty meeting of the University of Idaho was held in three different sessions, October 16, October 23, and November 14. All three sessions were attended by approximately 200 persons.

Repeat of courses

One of the more important items discussed was Faculty Council's corrected "Report of Catalogue Changes." It was proposed that this be amended so that general University regulation E-5 (page 58 of the July 1967 catalogue) would read as follows:

A student who has received a grade below "C" in a given course may repeat that course in an attempt to raise his grade. Students should note that regardless of the number of times a "D" or "F" grade course is repeated, all grades are included in the computation of the student's cumulative grade point average. As an exception to this general regulation, a student who received a grade of "F" in a given course at the University of Idaho while classified as a freshman is permitted to repeat that course once in residence for grade point purposes, and when the course is thus repeated the second grade only counts in computing the student's cumulative grade point average, although the first grade remains on the record. Prerequisite courses cannot be repeated after the completion of the advanced courses. (This regulation is effective for all such repeated courses taken after September 1, 1969.)

The amendment passed by majority vote, after which the main motion, as amended, passed by majority vote.

In connection with the above motion, Prof. Iiams stated that he favored the compromise proposed by Prof. Rolland because he felt that it would give students in the greatest difficulty a break when they need a break. Prof. Kirkland opposed it and said that high standards are desirable, but standards that are too high in comparison with other institutions could hurt the University.

Prof. T. L. Anderson questioned the proposed amendment and asked why a student would want to repeat a course if he were not interested in it. Prof. Seaman stated that he was against any change in the current catalog statement. He said a report of the University Scholarship Committee of several years ago showed there was considerable difference in the way different high schools prepare their students. Since a student should not be penalized for a failure of his high school, all students should be allowed a second try for grade point purposes.

Compromise favored

Prof. Jones asked about the student who takes a course and gets an "A" the first time. He wondered if the distinction of earning a high grade the first time through is not watered down by allowing students who fail courses to raise their grades. Prof. Osborne took the position that under the current catalog provision, some students stop attending class knowing that they can try the course again the next semester. He said that Prof. Rolland's compromise was one step toward raising standards. Prof. Porter pointed out that students are not the only ones who make mistakes — professors' mistakes should be rectified, too.

Drug policy

Another item of importance was the "University of Idaho Policy Statement on Drugs." Prof. Peck stated that Faculty Council's wording would not permit the University to move against a student believed to be involved in drug violations until after he had been convicted in a court of law. To remove this restriction he moved the following amendment which received a second:

That item 4 of the "University of Idaho Policy Statement on Drugs" be amended to read as follows: (4) Subject to procedural safeguards, including principles of due process, the University may also assume a disciplinary role when drug violations occurring on campus jeopardize the interests of the academic community.

The amendment was defeated.

In the discussion of the above amendment, President Hartung noted that Prof. Peck's change would require the University to operate also as a policing agency and as a judging agency in an area where there are explicit laws. He added that in his opinion the wisest course of action was the one provided in the policy adopted by the Faculty Council. He took the position that the University's concern should be the well-being of the academic community.

No need for rules

Mr. Jordan commented that the courts are to protect society, thus he saw no reason for any rules covering drug violations or such other areas as women's hours. Prof. Hosack pointed out that the Faculty Council's policy statement on drugs added an additional penalty for being convicted. Prof. Gittens defended the statement as approved by the Board of Regents and asked who would determine that a felony had been committed if Prof. Peck's amendment were adopted. Prof. Peck responded that such a determination need not be made by the University. He held that the University is a family and we can tell a troublesome student to go elsewhere without calling him a criminal.

Several members felt that the principal problem with the original statement was one of wording. To correct it, Prof. Rolland moved the following amendment which received a second:

That item 4 of the "University of Idaho Policy on Drugs" be editorially corrected to read as follows:

(4) Subject to procedural safeguards, including principles of due process, the University may also assume a disciplinary role when drug violations occurring on campus, as established by convictions, jeopardize the interests of the academic community.

The motion to amend passed by majority vote, after which the policy statement, as amended, was approved.

Regents' approval

Prior to the vote to approve the statement, Prof. Borning inquired as to the status of the drug policy under consideration. The President responded that it had been reported directly to the Regents last spring and had been approved by them; however, the Faculty could recommend any amendments or corrections it deemed necessary.

Prof. Renfrew questioned the Faculty Council's procedure before in routing the statement directly to the Regents before the Faculty has an opportunity to review it. The Secretary responded that because of the schedule for agenda material for Faculty meetings and meetings of the Regents, it was not possible for this item to be on the agenda for the spring meeting of the Faculty, yet the Faculty Council felt that it was essential to have a drug policy effective when the new academic year started. He added that the policy statement was reported to the Faculty for review at the first opportunity — the September meeting.

Why its snowing

Dr. Richard Day of the Geology Department gave the Argonaut a simplified meteorological explanation for that fluffy white stuff which has been falling in abundance recently.

There is a cyclone (low pressure area) moving in from the Oregon-California coast, he says, carrying warm, moist air that is lighter than the slow moving mountain of cold air lying over Moscow.

As the light air flows over the mass of cold air, the warm light air is lifted and and moisture it contains condenses as the air expands and cools. The condensation is in the form of snow.

Dr. Day says that weather conditions such as this usually don't last more than 24 hours at the most and he predicts that by this morning the snow will have stopped.

Is all this snow unusual for Moscow? "No, it is not unusual," Dr. Day explains, "We just aren't used to it."

"We have had four or five winters with less snow than usual. The winter of 1964 was our last snowy winter so just aren't used to it. The winters of the last several years have been milder than usual—this heavy snow is normal."

Theologue presents Father Dan Berrigan

By Mark Purdy

Thursday, December 5 in the SUB ballroom at 8 p.m., THEOLOGUE will present Father Daniel Berrigan speaking via "phone talk" on "The Clergy in Revolt."

Father Berrigan is a prominent figure in the new activism of the revolutionary clergy. He writes avant-garde poetry, and if that isn't bad enough, he is also a jailbird. He was locked up during the mass arrests at the famous Pentagon demonstrations last year. Unrepentant, he seems actually to think it not only right for Jesuit and other priests to go to jail, but necessary that they do so, for their souls' sake.

Due to the fact that the U.S. Government has restricted Father Berrigan from traveling away from his home on the campus of Cornell University, he will not actually be in person on this campus to speak. Rather, he will speak via long distance hook-up to the audience, and provisions have been made for amplification of his voice over the loud speakers in the SUB ballroom. A second phone hook-up will allow students to ask Father Berrigan questions at the end of his presentation.

"Dented"

Idaho students struggled through snow clogged passes and body clogged air terminals this weekend attempting to get back from the Thanksgiving Vacation. Some area mountain passes were closed due to the snow and icy condition. The Moscow Airport was also shut down (as usual) because of the weather. Some things got a little "dented" in the process.

Editorial Opinion

A Proposal

The Moscow merchants seem to be somewhat excited about an editorial that I wrote before the Thanksgiving vacation. I suspect they aren't as upset about the fact that I don't like Moscow as much as the fact I accused them of over-pricing their goods.

KRPL, as I have it, went far enough to air their feelings and had to degenerate to getting personal, and the initial reaction among some of the Moscow merchants pointed towards an advertising boycott of the Argonaut.

Rather than jump into the game and cite individual examples or personal dislikes, the dialogue needs a direction and a purpose other than the simple venting of dislikes and prejudices.

This then is a proposal. A list of 100 to 125 pieces of merchandises will be made and the prices of these articles will be recorded for Moscow, Lewiston, Spokane and Coeur d'Alene, if the fourth city is possible. In view of the time limitations imposed by the fact that I would like to have this by Dec. 17.

The list will even be made on a Moscow-available basis which will eliminate the possibility of not finding something in Moscow.

Brand name goods such as Arrow shirts and other merchandise that is sold on a nationally regulated price schedule will not be included, and in the event that the exact duplicate cannot be found, a size and quality substitute will be made.

With a little bit of luck, the results will be available by Friday. At that time a new position will be taken. If an apology is in order, I suppose it could happen, and if a fight is in order, I know that will happen. s.a.b.

The Golden Fleece

The budget and the Governor

By Chris L. Smith, Editor

When the Idaho legislators assemble in Boise for the state's 40th session their potentially most deadly problem will be funding higher education in Idaho, and resolving the differences between the partisans of the state's three major institutions.

Finding the money to fund the schools will in itself be a problem. In the case of the University of Idaho a 25.9 per cent increase in the legislative appropriation has been requested. Idaho State University and Boise College have requested even larger increases.

The problem is that the state just doesn't bring in enough tax revenues to go around. Education must share the pie with all the other state agencies.

The real fight will begin in the next session when the Governor presents his budget. Rumor in Boise has it that the Governor will ask for no more than a $203 million total budget. He will probably request even less.

The requests from state agencies appear to be in the vicinity of $230 million. Somewhere the governor had to remove around 25 million from the budget requests.

Samuelson has talked some recently about "setting priorities" for funding state enterprises. In the last session he took into account few priorities and cut an equal percentage from each state budget request to make the books balance. If he were to do that this time the University of Idaho budget request would be around $20 million, instead of the $23.8 million requested. This would still be up considerably from the previous appropriation for this biennium of $18.3 million.

Jim Defenbach, the Governor's budget director, has indicated some of the Governor's ideas about priorities, and none of them look good for the University of Idaho. Defenbach has said that the state should "restrict employment of additional personnel to cases required by federal programs or where extremely critical situations exist."

The largest portion of the University's requested increase comes in the critical areas of new staff members. In that area a 26 per cent increase is requested, amounting to almost $3.8 million.

If the Governor does propose that the University is given an operating budget in the vicinity of $20 million, the major cuts will probably come in the area of new staff positions and salary increases. Those are the areas that the University needs to have bolstered the most in order to get all the use possible from the facilities it now has. But the Governor has been well known in the past for his false economy. Let's hope he doesn't indulge in saving pennies and losing dollars again.

T. H. E. Column

By Marty Peterson

Returning to the Idaho campus last week for a short visit, I was interested in finding out what changes, if any, had occurred during my absence. Looking around the campus I found that things had changed very little. The parking lots still have more snow in them than anyplace in town, which also means that people at the physical plant are just as lazy and worthless as ever.

As I climbed out of my car I was immediately stopped by a campus cop. After a brief discussion, I discovered that they still are as down on me as ever. I wonder if they still eat their young?

Walking across campus I ran into a great many of the Young Gesteapo members milling around smartly in their hand-me-down uniforms. It looks like just as many people as ever still dig the ROTC (Ruthless Or Totally Crazy) program. Have they ever gotten around to integrating their ranks and taking in (not on) women?

My final stop was in the SUB. I was sure that I would finally discover some changes on campus. However, upon ordering a cup of coffee, I discovered that it is still as foul as ever. The final clincher came when I picked up a copy of the Argonaut. Turning to an inside page I spotted a headline which read "Idaho Cow Spins National Contest." Queen contests are still big at Idaho and the women haven't changed a bit. Well, so much for the big campus tour. By now some of you may be thinking that Idaho has really gone big time and an ex-student has returned to become a full-time trouble maker. Not so! I really did graduate last year and you couldn't talk me into returning to beautiful downtown Moscow for anything. No, not even THAT!

I have joined the ranks of those who no longer have to sit around and pay $70 a year to attend three football games in a new stadium. Now all I have to do is open my mail and look at the letters asking me to support FPAC. I still don't think that F-CRAP was such a bad idea.

So much for the past and present. How about the future? Well, I am leaving at the end of the week for Washington D.C. As many of you may know, I have a fairly good sense of humor and that is one of the main attractions which Washington has for me. Next month they are going to swear-in the biggest clown of them all into the Presidency and I wouldn't miss it for anything in the world. It should be the funniest thing that's happened since Dave Leroy was elected ASUI president.

So, a salute to all of you (remember the salute) and good-bye.

deal, e.g. "Is culture progressive?" The ramifications of an answer to a question such as this can be mind tweaking. But the instructor says, "Memorize the names and locations of 53 Indian tribes in the Northwest." (Paraphrase)

I knew I was a phoney when I could no longer cry. Now, I can no longer laugh and I don't know what I am. Most people whisper in the library. I whisper in the classroom or on the street. Even when my voice is loud, I whisper, and no one takes notice. But then I don't want anyone to take notice. I want to see someone else whispering.

I hope that no one tries to answer my question with words, for words are really walls, and I have already built so many. Gene Bundy 607 Ash

Harris column lauded

Editor, The Argonaut: I wish to commend you for the editorial by Mr. James Harris. (November 22 Issue) It was the only conservative editorial I have seen in the past year. This editorial presents a point of view we have not seen on the editorial page of the Argonaut. I hope that we will be seeing this point of view expressed more often.

Editor's Note: Nice that you like Mr. Harris' opinions, but I must point out that it was a column, not an editorial. s.a.b.

Panhellenic sponsors information parties

Panhellenic Council is sponsoring a number of informational parties for high school senior girls throughout the state. To be held after Christmas vacation, the parties are for the purpose of interesting girls in the University of Idaho and to give them information about the sorority program here.

Although the area chairmen are composed from Panhel members at Idaho, alumnae in each area are cooperating with the collegiate members in obtaining a place for the gatherings, inviting the girls and general publicity.

Mothers of the high school senior girls are also invited to the parties.

There will be a general meeting of all girls attending the gatherings December 18 in the SUB. A short program discussing the general type of questions that will be asked of the girls will be presented by the Panhellenic officers.

The area chairmen are from St. Maries, Kathy Thurston; Grangeville, Kathy McDonald; Lewiston, Sharon Meacham; Parma, Suzanne Seely; Wallace, Sheila Dwyer; Burley, Val Savage; Sandpoint, Karen Arndt; Payette, Kay Rosenberger; McCall, Marilyn Boyd; Kellogg, Joan Saar; Nampa, Midge Hudelson; Boise, Linda Guernsey; Gooding, Susan Kelly; Mountain Home, Sylvia Aguirre; St. Anthony, Trudy Mortenson; Rupert, Carol Gibson; Caldwell, Karen Jensen; Troy, Carol Helmgartner; Twin Falls, Kathy Obenchain; Idaho Falls, Carol Blodgett; Bonners Ferry, Pam Sims, and Coeur d'Alene, Mimi Henrickson.

Sorority members who have not previously indicated interest in helping with these parties are asked to contact the chairmen from their area.

Also sorority members from Malad, Emmett, Pocatello, Weiser, Buhl, Meridian, Jerome, American Falls and Salmon who are interested in organizing such a gathering, please contact Mimi Henrickson, Tri Delt.

E-Board begins gripe week

One week from today visitations by E-Board members will begin and will signal the start of "Gripe Week."

The purpose of these visits will be to pass out student gripe sheets to each student in the living group for evaluation of student government and other areas of student concern.

Sheets will also be given out for evaluation of this year's information week and gripe week, in order to get a complete picture as to the success of this year's program.

It is hoped that new channels of communication have been opened for the students to use in solving problems they feel bother or hinder the University.

Letters have been sent to living group presidents to get approval of E-Board members to meet with living groups. Later in the week E-Board members will be contacting each living group they will be visiting to confirm assignments.

There will be a student forum entitled "Student Government and the Bill of Rights" tomorrow evening in the SUB.

Currie returns from tour

University of Idaho Special Education Chairman Robert J. Currie has returned to the campus after addressing special education conferences in Vancouver, Wash., and Tucson, Ariz.

Speaking before the Northwest Regional Conference of the Council for Children with Behavioral Disorders in Vancouver, November 22-24, Dr. Currie stressed the importance of special education teacher preparation being relevant to the needs of the area which it serves. He also emphasized the necessity of developing new programs for the education of children with behavioral disorders.

At the meeting of the Western Interstate Conference on Higher Education (W.I.C.H.E.) in Tucson, November 24-26, Currie presented a speech on the "Doctorate in Special Education." In that address, he pointed out that "new directions and innovations are needed in special education to do the job of the future."

Frank Young receives appointment

Frank Young, director of admissions at the University of Idaho, has been named secretary of the Pacific Coast Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

The association serves nine Western states, including Hawaii and Alaska, and the Canadian provinces of Alberta and British Columbia.

Young, who has served at the university since 1947, is also president of the Idaho division of the association.

To The Editor

Writer defends Bauer

Dear Jason:

This letter is written in reference to the article in the November 26 Argonaut criticizing the Orchestra Concert. I question the credentials and ethics of any critic who uses his column as a tool to discredit a competent individual. In this case, Mr. Bauer.

Does the critic realize that in discrediting Mr. Bauer, by criticizing the Orchestra, as he does, he also discredits Mr. Billingsley and Mr. Balabanis who were the leaders of the sectional rehearsals of the Orchestra. Also, if the Orchestra was that bad, how could the vocalists have performed as well as he said they did. The critic questions the competence of a number of very good musicians.

Concerning the negative comments on the Prokofeff Suite, knowledge of both the composer and the actual composition is necessary before any criticism becomes valid. I would suggest that the critic at least try reading his program notes next time.

The interpretation of the Brahms's F-nale was proper, musical, and well done. Balance between the brass and strings was basically good. The critic might benefit by some courses in musical history and musical style.

Admittedly, there were intonation problems. There always will be in any large college ensemble when the conductor places the responsibility for proper intonation on the individual players, instead of assuming it himself, as is done at the high school level. In music, learning is doing. There can not be, and should not be, a comparison between a college orchestra and a professional orchestra.

There were undoubtedly many minor errors throughout the performance. However, considering the over-all effect, and considering the improvement of the orchestra, especially during my five years here as a vocal major, I can honestly, and objectively, give the orchestra a well done. And, continue to improve.

In closing, I would like to quote a line from an article by Wayne Fox, which appeared in the same issue of the Argonaut as the review. It is taken out of context. "Yes, it was" (is) "a year of much intolerance, dishonesty, stifled dissent and tasteless political showmanship."

I can only hope that any and all future reviews will be more objective, and unbiased.

Does Alabama read?

Editor, The Argonaut:

Quote Alabama, "Mr. Tasyb seems to think some whites are bigots, well, they're everything else, why not bigots?" Could this possibly mean that Mr. Kimbrel is so narrow minded as to believe that, on the contrary, no whites are bigots? That's ridiculous.

So let's go tripping over the past with Mr. Kimbrel. Why the necessity for civil rights bills and open house acts to protect U.S. citizens? And who was responsible for these laws—in this government by the people? Try this: One day on the Senate floor, during a casual conversation concerning the artistic qualities of napalm, a pretty young Senator took the speaker's stand and declared, "Fellow Senators, I've been doing some thinking lately. Those black ghetto dwellers have been pretty quiet and understanding for the last 100 years. What do you say let's pass them a civil rights bill or something."

A heated debate followed this suggestion. The Southern Senators argued that a people that did nothing more than hang around employment offices looking for jobs and waiting for their legislators to enforce the Constitution really didn't deserve this treatment. Eventually the moderates were convinced that their affluence was not at stake and the warm American way of sentimentality won over. The bill passed 92-2—No?

Now, about Harlem and Chicago—and Watts, Detroit, New Haven, etc. Their result; the Kerner Commission's Report. To disagree without better and more reliable facts would be bigotry. Does Alabama read?

British sentiment didn't dictate American independence, Czech freedom won't be a product of Russian conscience, and Afro-American equality won't be the response of "Dear Hearts and Gentle People" — or black contentment. Don't buckle, Joe.

Frustrated?

Editor, The Argonaut:

I have a friend in Georgia and a friend in Oregon. I know two people at the University of Idaho, and nobody here knows me. Fortunately, am I not?

I very much anticipate flunking out this semester. This does not bother me too much, in fact it would be a great relief. What does bother me are the reasons why I may flunk out. I have found nothing in college but tension and anxiety, and this is my third year. But then, they are probably saving a bundle of knowledge to hand me in the fourth year. Or maybe they give it to one with his diploma. Or maybe I should have brought it with me, but then, why come?

I am tired of counting Buddha's toes; I want to see him smile. Ancient philosophy is my dulllest class; economic geography my most interesting. Strange, is it not?

The instructor says 'A.' The student writes 'A' in his notes. The instructor gives a test. The student writes 'A.' The instructor gives the student an 'A.' Circles are so nice and round, but then I have always been a square.

I am an anthropology major, and there are questions with which I would like to

Vandals lose opener to Cougars

By Roger Ritter

"It's back to the practice court for some very hard work, including basic basketball fundamentals," was the comment made by Coach Wayne Anderson after the Vandals lost their season's opener to the Washington State Cougars, 87-62, last Saturday in Pullman.

Firing a cool 33 per cent from the floor in making only 17 of 52 field goal attempts, the Vandals allowed the red hot Cougars to take an early lead and then had to play catch-up ball for the remainder of the game.

Coach Mary Harshman's quint rolled to a 29-5 lead before the Vandals could score their first field goal which came on Jerry Smith's short jumper from the left side of the court with 9:43 left in the first half. From here to the intermission Idaho managed only five more field goals plus 10 points on free throws as they trailed by 19, 46-27, as the second half opened.

Besides the poor shooting percentage and a total of 22 turnovers by the Vandals the biggest thorn in their side was WSU sophomore Dennis Hogg. The 6'4" cager from Oakland, California dumped in 29 points for the Cougars, 18 of which came in the first half.

The Vandals warmed up a little after the half and were outscored only 41-36 in the final two periods of play, but were not able to close the margin to less than 19 points. Jerry Smith's three point play with 12:53 to play made it 59-40 and that was as close as Coach Anderson's club could get. Both coaches emptied the bench early in the second half.

A taller Washington State team managed to control the backboards as they pulled down nearly twice as many rebounds as the Vandals with a 63-35 edge. WSU's Ted Wierman accounted for 18 of his team's rebounds and also chipped in 12 points. Gary Elliot and Rick Erickson pulled down nine apiece for the Cougars while Steve Brown led the Vandals with his nine rebounds.

The Vandals kept up their free throw shooting average as they have in past seasons as they connected on 75 per cent of their attempts at the charity line.

The Cougars were 17 for 29 at the free throw line for a 58.6 percentage and managed a very respectable 44.8 per cent from the field as they found the mark on 35 of 78 tries.

Jim Thacker paced the Vandals with 18 points and Jerry Smith added 10. They were the only Idaho players to break into double figures.

Babes lose in final minute

The Idaho Frosh, after leading at the half 35-34, fell behind in the last 80 seconds and lost their opener to the WSU Freshmen in a 71-66 thriller.

Dale James' Vandal Frosh used a full court press effectively on the taller Coug-abes, but the WSU team outlasted the Idaho squad.

Dennis Hadden led Idaho and all scorers as he pumped in 20 points, while WSU's Jim Nielsen came in second with 19 tallies for the winners.

Anderson to the Vandals

"I hope to take the Vandals out of the deep-freeze and thaw them out in some hot shooting practice this week as we prepare to meet two tough opponents in Sacramento State and Portland State in Moscow on Friday and Saturday," was Head Coach Anderson's statement following the defeat. Anderson feels that of the sophomores who saw action in their opening game, Marv Williams was the most impressive and he will be given a good shot at one of the starting berths in practice during the rest of the week.

The Idaho Freshmen will be on the road for a Tuesday game in Spokane with Spokane Community College and then will play the preliminary game on Friday against Columbia Basin College.

Playtex invents the first-day tampon™

(We took the inside out to show you how different it is.)

Outside: it's softer and silky (not cardboardy). Inside: it's so extra absorbent... it even protects on your first day. Your worst day!

In every lab test against the old cardboard kind... the Playtex tampon was always more absorbent. Actually 45% more absorbent on the average than the leading regular tampon.

Because it's different. Actually adjusts to you. It flowers out. Fluffs out. Designed to protect every inside inch of you. So the chance of a mishap is almost zero!

Try it fast. Why live in the past?

Beauty and the Beast prepares for opening

"Beauty and the Beast," this year's production of the annual Children's Theatre is now in its final stages of preparation as it will be presented December 13 at 7:30 p.m. and December 14 at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Ad. auditorium.

The delightful fairy tale begins as Renard the Magician and his daughter Antoinette arrive at the Queen's palace to meet Prince Armand. The prince is to be crowned as King and is to choose a queen before then so she can be crowned with him.

Renard and Antoinette scheme to make the Prince forget his hopes of finding a childhood playmate so he will marry Antoinette.

In the process the plot becomes more complicated as the prince is changed into a beast by the magician. He is given a definite time limit to pick his queen, or he will die.

When the Godmother, Beauvais the Merchant, and his three daughters Alphonsine, Aurella and Beauty arrive on the scene complications really set in.

Cast in the production are: Cope Gale as Renard, the Magician; Michael Ann Sheehy as Antoinette; Ron Ravneberg as Prince Armand, (the Beast) and Glenna Bockman as the Queen.

Shelley Mitchell is the Godmother; Steve Leroy plays Beauvais, the merchant; and his daughters are Janna McGee as Beauty, Becky Barnes as Aurella and Peggy Michael as Alphonsine.

Navy Ball Saturday

The new Navy Color Girl will be named at the Navy Ball this Saturday night in the SUB Ballroom. The coronation will take place at approximately 10:30 p.m. when Col. William Case, USMC, will place the crown on the head of the girl who will reign this year.

Five finalists have been selected by Navy ROTC from nominees representing each women's living group on campus. The finalists are Nancy Thompson, Alpha Chi, an English major from Riverside, Calif. and an 18-year-old freshman; Connie Kinney, an elementary education major, affiliated with Alpha Phi. Her home is Ontario, Ore. and she is currently a sophomore; Marsha Martin, Pi Phi, a freshman history major from Burley; Valerie Plum, a freshman Spanish major from Bonners Ferry who is affiliated with Tri Delta and Marilyn Dalby, a sophomore from Sandpoint, member of Gamma Phi and an English and drama major.

The new Color Girl will succeed Patty Ryan, Alpha Chi, the present Color Girl. She will represent the midshipman battalion in all functions.

Honored guests at this year's Navy Ball include Col. and Mrs. William Case, USMC, President and Mrs. Ernest Hartung and Cpt. and Mrs. Harry Davey, USN, (retired). The theme of this year's dance is "Blue Pacific."

The U of I Dames Club will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Faculty Club. Dr. Hawkins will speak on "Female Diseases." All married women students and student's wives are invited to attend.

Foresters meet

There will be an Associated Foresters meeting tomorrow starting at 7 p.m. at the SUB. Speaking on the topic "From Palms to Pines in Central America" will be Professor Johnson of the College of Forestry. The six finalists for Foresters' Queen will also be there and the voting for the Queen will be held at this meeting. The Queen will be crowned at the Foresters' Ball February 8.

is part of the National Cooperative Soil Survey conducted by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with land grant colleges. The University of Idaho cooperates in this project with staff research and in-service teaching.

Fosberg explained the program includes research reports from University of Idaho and Washington State University, and technical reports by the Soil Conservation Service, and other agency speaker.

Robert McDole, University of Idaho agricultural biochemistry and soils graduate student, will review his research work on wind deposited soils in southeastern Idaho in the area of Pocatello. Dr. Maynard Fosberg, University of Idaho soil scientist, will present two talks: one about how research is contributing to a better understanding of physical and chemical properties of soil and their interpretations, and one on the influence of cold climates in the past periods of glaciation on the development of soils.

Warren Starr, WSU soil scientist, will talk about soil survey map interpretation for multi-county use in regards to watershed and agriculture development. Roald Fryxell, WSU anthropologist, will discuss anthropological and archeological pre-history studies as a tool for soil scientists. Dr. Henry Smith, WSU soil scientist, will cover his research work on recent volcanic ash falls that have influenced the soils of eastern Washington and northern Idaho.

Handbook is released

The release of the newly revised "Handbook for County Officials in Idaho" was announced by Dr. Sydney Duncombe of the Bureau of Public Affairs Research at the University of Idaho. The handbook, which was first published in 1966, summarizes the authority and duties of Idaho county officials and the services provided by county government.

"The publication is intended to provide newly elected officials with a useful summary of their functions and to provide a reference to the provisions of Idaho law relating to the work of county officials," Duncombe said.

The new edition includes references to laws passed in the most recent legislative session.

Student offices move

The ASUI student offices have been moved from the Chief's Room on the second floor of the SUB to a new location next to the Organizations Work Room on the first floor of the Sub.

The new location has offices for the ASUI secretaries, attorney general, and ASUI president and vice-president, and an E-Board meeting room.
