

McClure praises Hartung rally

NOTE TO EDITOR: A staff member tried to call this release to the Argonaut office March 27, but was informed that the office was closed for spring vacation. Sorry you couldn't have the break on the story!

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Rep James A. McClure, R-Idaho, praised the University of Idaho on the floor of the House of Representatives Thursday (March 27) citing its unprecedented student rally March 17 in support of University President Ernest W. Hartung.

McClure told his Congressional colleagues that the university students "have

Mr. McClure, Mr. Speaker, University of Idaho students were told in mid-March that students all over the country will rebel because that is the only thing left to do. The speaker was leftist leader Thomas Hayden, a cofounder of the Students for a Democratic Society and a guest speaker at the university's annual Borah Foundation Symposium. His subject was "Violence and War," and Hayden predicted:

A person who is in every respect a normal American will become a warrior.

Two days after his fiery speech and grim predictions, university students — 4,500 strong — gathered in torrents of rain before the house of University President Ernest W. Hartung. They were not there as warriors, and they did not carry protest signs. They were simply there expressing their support for Hartung and his policies.

Student body president Larry Craig of Midvale, Idaho, summed it up well: President Ernest Hartung has moved the University of Idaho forward in three years as it has not been moved in 50 years. He has given to education and to the State of Idaho progressive leadership. Through his leadership, we have seen change without the violence seen at many other universities throughout the country.

Civic and educational leaders joined the students in their rally. The remarks of Moscow, Idaho Chamber of Commerce president Philip Guilfoyle were particularly appropriate:

I see here tonight thousands of salesmen doing a great job for the University of Idaho. This is probably the first time a college demonstration has ever been held for and not against a president.

Mr. Speaker and my honorable colleagues, I am proud of those students and I want to take this opportunity to pay my greatest respect to a fine university and its leader. All too often, American students are guilty of destruction and pointless dissent.

I think the students at the University of Idaho have proven that they can work in close cooperation with the educational administration to achieve common goals and intellectual freedom.

proven that they can work in close cooperation with the educational administration to achieve common goals and intellectual freedom.

He pointed out that, "All too often, American students are guilty of destruction and pointless dissent."

McClure later said that with all the publicity appearing in the Congressional Record over nationwide riots on college campuses, he wanted historians to know that responsibility and dedication are still the trademark of most students in Idaho.

Blood Drive set for April 15-17, 1,000 pint goal

Idaho seeks to regain its reputation as the "Bloodiest University in the State" when the annual Blood Drive begins next week, according to Jeff Williams, Chairman of the Blood Drive Committee.

The Drive, which netted 991 pints last year, will be held April 15-17 in the SUB Ballroom. The goal this year is 1000 pints.

Each year the Drive is held in competition with Idaho State University, with the school donating the most blood dubbed the "Bloodiest University in the State." ISU has won the competition the last two years.

The theme this year is "Someone Lives When Someone Gives." In an effort to reach the quota and defeat ISU, competition will be held among the campus living groups with special plaques going to the winners in each of four divisions — Fraternities, Men's Halls, Women's Halls, and Sororities. Winners of the competition last year were the Lambda Chis, DGs, Campus Club, and Ethel Steale.

Students under 21 years must have parental consent unless married. Permission slips are available from the various living groups and from the information desk at the sub.

Many students fear that donating will leave them weak and listless, but the body makes up the lost blood in less than 24 hours. Persons engaged in occupations hazardous to themselves or others must be deferred if they must return to work within 12 hours of donation.

Donors are advised not to fast. They should eat at their regular mealtime prior to donation, but should avoid very fatty foods.

The blood given at Idaho helps to meet the requirements of 48 different hospitals in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington. This blood is provided to all patients in the participating hospitals without any charge for the blood itself.

Each donor will be checked for temperature, pulse, hemoglobin count and medical history before the blood is taken. A doctor will be present at all times. Anyone who is anemic or has had flu within the last month will not be accepted.

SPEAKING IN THE MEMORIAL Gym Friday was Dr. Harlan Hatcher, cultural historian and educator, who spoke on the topic "What Went Wrong with the American Dream?" Hatcher is currently a special consultant to Constantinos Doxiadis, foremost authority in the study of cities and human habitation. The speaker was sponsored by the Public Events Committee. Paradox of American Dream topic of Hatcher's speech

By Carolyn Cron

"What Went Wrong With the American Dream?"

According to Dr. Harlan Hatcher, noted cultural historian, educator, and authority on urban problems, many things have gone wrong with it through the course of history, but Americans are still trying.

"America was founded on a two part ideal," Hatcher said. "The foremost part was a freedom to believe in a religion, a God, the relationship of humans with that that is above. To this end we established freedom of worship. To go along with this we established the second part of the American ideal, that of political freedom." Hatcher said that when the early Americans started to develop this nation, they didn't have enough technology so they launched the education theory.

The strangest paradox in the history of any people is taking place right now in America, the Public Events speaker stated. "We have achieved the richest, most popular nation in the world," Hatcher said. "the paradox is that never before have Americans, as a people, been so frustrated, anxious, seeking change."

According to Hatcher, Americans have pursued peace since the outset of this nation, but there hasn't been a single generation to live without war. "We, by the fact that we have developed this country so well, have become the most powerful military power," Hatcher said. "Other countries don't understand this paradox—Americans speak peace, yet use 60 per cent of their natural resources for military purposes."

Any nation that has the resources that we have can do anything they like, without military prowess, he stated.

"Americans have pursued the theory—the bigger, the better," Hatcher said. "Now cities are completely overloaded with the input of population. We have a great problem as to what we are going to do about this in the future."

According to Hatcher, President Nixon established the Urban Council to focus on this problem.

Another problem confronting Americans is that of the black community. "We have gone through a period of segregation, integration, and now the most trying time of all—a world revolution. Black nations in Africa have revolted and set up their own states. Our black communities see themselves as colonists. They insist that they be given full statehood," Hatcher said.

Hatcher said that the Negro population moves into large cities and the whites move to the suburbs. This causes the wholly un-American community—the ghetto. Hatcher feels that the Negro is still the most important single element causing uproar in colleges. "Negro students haven't been associated with the whites, they don't understand our way of thinking," Hatcher said.

Administrative assistant needed

A second administrative assistant is needed for the Willms administration of the ASUI. ASUI Executive Board has created the position for a second administrative assistant for the president to work in a nine-fold type of capacity.

The new administrative assistant will be responsible for securing periodic reports from all of the student-faculty committees, so that the ASUI can keep closer tabs on its many committees, said Jim Willms, ASUI president. The assistant will also be the chairman of a "Watchdog Committee" that will make sure that all ASUI committees are active.

Reading the minutes of all major committees of the University and informing E-Board of these proposals and issues that concern the students will be another responsibility of the assistant according to Willms.

The assistant will also be responsible for the transmittal of all E-Board actions requiring approval by some other body. The assistant will take the legislation to the committee and inform the committee members of the substance of the transmission and inform E-Board when these meetings are to be held.

Securing reports from all ASUI standing and Ad Hoc committees will be another responsibility of the administrative helper. It will be necessary that the assistant attend all E-Board meetings and assist the Main building of Education Complex to open 16th, others open next fall

By LAURA LORTON

The College of Education will move into the main building of the new education complex on April 16, according to Everett V. Samuelson, Dean of Education.

The complex, originally authorized by the State Legislature during President Theophilus' administration, includes in addition to the newly constructed building, an Industrial Education building completed by September 1969. The last unit of the complex Million seller hits scheduled for Union Gap concert Sat.

"Young Girl," "Lady Willpower," "Woman, Woman," and "Over You" are the million seller hits to be presented by Gary Puckett and the Union Gap in a "semi-concert" Saturday at 8 p.m.

Called a "semi-concert" because the dress is informal, come as you are, the show will be highlighted by the mellow voice of lead vocalist Gary Puckett. The group's latest release, "Don't Give In To Him" is climbing the charts and appears to be heading for another gold record.

Tickets for the performance are available at the University's SUB and at Roban's in Moscow. They are also available at the CUB at Washington State and the Lewis and Clark Student Union in Lewiston. General admission is $2.50 with reserved seats going for $3.50 will be the swimming pool to be constructed next year.

The greatest single asset of the building is its flexibility. All partitions are demountable to meet future needs as space requirements may change to accommodate new educational innovations and designs.

The College of Education has absorbed much of the University's growth during this biennium, Dean Samuelson said. During the current biennium, enrollment in the College of Education increased by 246 students while the total University growth was 381.

The growth rate is even more evident when this year is taken alone. The College of Education increase of 170 surpasses the total University increase of 151.

The new building was planned and constructed with the future, as well as the present, in mind. Appearance and utility have been combined. Color plays a prominent role throughout the building with many rooms being carpeted and wood paneled. Every room has a TV outlet and each office is equipped with a dictaphone. The entire building is air conditioned.

Most classrooms have been designed for graduate and upper division classes while other education classes will be conducted in the UCC.

Among the special features is the audio-metric unit, the only one in northern Idaho, which is part of the Special Education facilities housed on the first floor.

A television production studio, also on the first floor, will make it possible to develop video-tapes and other materials for the College of Education. It will be possible to transmit from the studio or other areas of the building via KUID to the ten northern counties of the state. The five-floor building is served by ele-ator. First floor is Special Education; second, Psychology; third, Administrative Suite and offices; fourth, Department of Education and laboratories for mathematical education, science education, social studies education, and language arts education; and fifth, Educational Research.

The circular Kiva, which will seat 400 students at trapezoid tables with three students per table, has multi-media capability and is equipped for telephone lectures. The Kiva, designed for multi-purpose use will be utilized by the Drama Department for Summer Theater this summer.

THE EDUCATION COMPLEX, which will open April 16, is said to be one of the best facilities in the Northwest. It features observation units with one-way glass, television outlets in each room, room partitions that can be removed or re-arranged, and elevator service. Construction, begun late last spring, is now complete and the remaining equipment is expected soon.

THE LONG TIME WISHED for Lok Box was finally installed in most of the women's living groups shortly after spring break. Under this new system, women are permanently given a "skate key" which unlocks a box attached to the living group door which contains the regular key. The Lok Box has eliminated the need for women to return to living groups by 8 a.m., hence giving them the opportunity to regulate their own hours. (Bower photo)

Editorial Opinion

Learn From The Bread Winners

The issue of a joint stadium with Washington State University was advanced in the last Argonaut and deserves to be given more than just a passing comment.

In a time when the University is cutting back and losing professors because of the money situation it just is not in step with the times to be spending more money on anything than is needed.

It is true that student fees couldn't be used for salaries or anything of that sort, which means the money can't be shifted from football to academics. However, the mental atmosphere created by a school that can't pay its teachers, but will house its athletes as if they were kings, will rattle the faculty, to say nothing of the students.

It isn't out of the realm of possibility that we could cooperate with WSU for a joint football stadium, even if it had to be closer to Pullman than the state line, it would be a good start.

Cooperation between the two schools is still limited and consequently neither institution is able to offer all that it could with some interdependence.

The alumni may croak at the thought of getting along with WSU, but if politics can make strange bedfellows, there is no reason why the situation won't work.

Both of the schools are hurting for money because of politics, and it only seems logical to take something from its book and give it a try. If nothing else comes of it maybe the politicians will see themselves in the mirror and realize how ridiculous they have been. s.a.b.

The Bloody Budget

The projected ASUI budget for 1969-70 has had so many cuts it should be called the "bloody budget." But the big problem still exists and haunts members of the Willms administration: a deficit of $6,000, and several new programs that should be funded.

Additional cuts in the budgets of the Argonaut, Activities Council, the freshman class, artists and special presentations and WRA have been suggested by Willms. Also it appears that the Amython will receive no budget appropriation from the ASUI for next year. If all of these cuts are approved by the board, the budget might be barely able to break into the clear.

But the basic problems are far from being solved by these recommended cuts. Willms is presently considering asking the Regents for a fee increase of several dollars for the ASUI. The regents haven't increased the ASUI fee rate for several years.

Regardless of that fact, fee increases of any kind hit the sensitive pocketbooks of college students. The newly formed SEED committee is also going to be asking the Regents for a three dollar fee increase to sponsor an educational program for minority and under-privileged students.

It becomes a question of priorities. From where should the fee increases come and where shall they go? The fantastic intramural program that the University of fers is now in jeopardy—because of funding cuts. It seems impossible to assemble the money needed for the program.

Perhaps the answer to this would be the creation of the ASUI department of recreation. This will only come at the loss of another ASUI area or cancellation of another program. Where can another cut be made? Another fee increase is not the answer and it is not feasible.

The Serrano idea may perhaps be the answer to this problem. Eliminate the $4,000 dollar Gem of the Mountains yearbook, and in its place create the Department of recreation. Incorporated in this new department could be soccer, intramurals, WRA, Rifle Team, and perhaps Vandal Riders, all areas which have been sacrificed during the last two years because of lack of funds and a budget philosophy.

I don't mean to degrade the yearbook itself; perhaps the concept is outdated. They were nice back in the old days when campuses were small—but do they have a place in a progressively growing institution where the money is needed in other areas?

The "Bloody Budget" question is not solved yet, and you will be hearing more about it in the future. What is your number one priority? The yearbook or intramurals?—cje

The School Will Stay

It appears that the Law School will remain at the University of Idaho for right now, and perhaps will never be moved from Moscow.

The Idaho Senate overwhelmingly rejected a bill several weeks ago requesting a study by the Legislative Council of the location of Idaho's Law School by a vote of 4-28. The resolution would have directed the Council to determine the best location for the law school.

One Senator, Nels Solberg from Grangeville, said that the resolution "Doesn't make any more sense than a study of whether the pharmacy school should be removed from Idaho State University."

Other senators said that the proposals came back to the problem of sectionalism and the game called political football.

The best point of the day was made however by Sen. John Mix of Moscow. "I see no need for a study of something that is already a fact. It would be a waste of money. We already have a going law school!"

What Is That Gap?

In the two right hand columns of this page we have printed an exchange that is taking place at Boise at this time. Although it is difficult to assess the situation without being there as an observer it is necessary to make an explanation.

The Observer is not a family newspaper, in any sense of the word, and the circulation, I suspect, is comprised of politically interested and inclined citizens.

It is not used as the instrument to keep abreast with the news on a day by day basis and consequently is expected to do what it does best, and that is interpret and show the sides to the issues and the background of the news.

With this in mind it is difficult to complain, when failure to print the offending four letter words, which were relevant to the subject, would have been to dodge the obligation and responsibility that the Observer claims as its own.

The 'law officer' in question doesn't seem to be capable of thinking and trying to understand the situation. He is no doubt a member of the generation that thinks "Make Love Not War" is a dirty little phrase, but would rather be dead than red himself.

There is a difference of opinion and if it was a college newspaper the controversy would be written off as the generation gap. In this case, the true identity of the difficulty arises.

Even though it is dangerous to stereotype anything in this manner I would call the source of disagreement an intelligence gap. Not that I would glorify Sam Day as a genius or accuse Sheriff Bright of Ada County of being an idiot, but the fact remains that the Sheriff is unable to comprehend the situation or the law and that is a dangerous set of circumstances.

Of course, we stand behind the freedom of the press, but to waive the banner of free speech would be out of character. Which leaves with one alternative. Bright just isn't very. s.a.b.

'I want a warrant for his arrest'

The following article is a reprint from The Intermountain Observer. It was printed in reference to the Borah Symposium held on the campus and is an appropriate Idaho example of 'how it is.'

March 28, 1969

Editor's note: On March 22nd, through a news story written by its editor, Sam Day, The Intermountain Observer printed an account of the 1969 Borah Foundation symposium on war and violence at the University of Idaho in Moscow. The account included the gist of the remarks of all the speakers at the symposium, including some scatological terms used by Thomas Hayden, a founder of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and Philip Luce, a leader of the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF). The story has produced the following exchange of correspondence, which is reproduced here in full:

March 27, 1969

Mr. Sam Day
% Intermountain Observer
1007 Jefferson Street

Dear Sam:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter written this date to Paul W. Bright, Ada County Sheriff. It is in response to a letter of March 26, 1969, from Sheriff Bright, and a request from both the Sheriff and John Church, Boise City Chief of Police, that criminal charges issue against you.

I am forwarding you a copy not as a threat of future action by myself, but so that you might be better aware of my attitude and interpretation of the law in this particular area. I in no way desire to limit the freedom of expression as envisioned by our Constitution, but I do feel that such right is not absolute.

Mr. Paul W. Bright
Ada County Sheriff

Boise, Idaho

Dear Paul:

I write in reply to your letter of March 26, 1969. Concerned as I am over the gutter language contained in the recent issue of The Intermountain Observer (Volume 19, No. 12), it is my opinion that such factual reporting of the words used by another, as set forth in Mr. Day's article, fails to fall within the provisions of Section 18-4101 of the Idaho Code.

I feel it regrettable that Mr. Day saw fit to reiterate in detail such language. I am certain that the words used offend not only ourselves, but the great majority of the citizens of Ada County. Perhaps the circulation department of The Intermountain Observer will also find such to be the case.

I would point out, however, that should Mr. Day and The Intermountain Observer persist in the use of such language in subsequent publications, that such action in my opinion would establish a course of conduct which would tend to satisfy the "lewdly publish" requirement of our statute. I am certain that you join me in the hope that such does not occur.

Yours very truly,

Dear Elly:

I am in receipt of your letter of March 27 and the copy of your letter of March 26 to Mr. Paul Bright, sheriff of Ada County. I concur in your opinion that the article in question does not fall within the provisions of Section 18-4101 of the Idaho Code.

I do not agree, however, that continued use of such language as appeared in the article would necessarily establish a course of conduct which would tend to satisfy the "lewdly publish" sub-section of the statute. We shall continue to exercise our judgement as to when the use of such language is essential to the coverage of the news.

Boise, Idaho

Good Morning, Sam:

As per your request of March 28th, 1969, I am forwarding to you the general information presented to the Ada County Prosecuting Attorney, Ellison Matthews, requesting action be taken against you and The Intermountain Observer.

Contained in the letter was the following statement: "The article on the Borah Symposium of the March 22, 1969 issue of The Idaho Observer was brought to my attention. A copy of the parts in which I am interested is included." I further stated "I believe that it is a violation of Section 18-4101, Idaho State Code."

"As an officer of the law, I request that a Warrant of Arrest be issued for Sam Day, Editor and reporter of The Intermountain Observer, Vol. 19, No. 12, March 22, 1969."

"We hear much today about the Constitutional Rights of the individual. I believe that we, as parents and citizens, have a Constitutional Right to keep written material that goes into our homes as a news media, which is readily accessible to our children, free from gutter-type phraseologies."

Hoping this will give you the information you desire, I remain,

Tolerance, Mr. McCurdy?

Editor, The Argonaut:
On March 7 I had the opportunity to observe the vice-president of the ASUI put on a most disgraceful performance, Wayne Fox was in my geography class giving a talk on the SEED proposal of raising the Idaho tuition $3 per semester to help finance scholarships for students in the poverty cycle. Evidently our vice-president Mr. McCurdy was not in full agreement with the proposals for he talked throughout Mr. Fox's speech, making it difficult for myself and those around me to understand clearly what was being said from the podium. But this minor disturbance did not seem to satisfy Mr. McCurdy for he soon threw up his hands in disgust, banged his auditorium-type desk down, charged out of the room in the midst of Fox's speech, and slammed the door behind him. I hardly consider this proper behavior for any student and much less so for the vice-president of the ASUI. If Mr. McCurdy is that vehemently opposed to SEED I am sure that he would be allotted equal time to present his side of the question if he would only ask. I would personally find this type of procedure much preferable to the rude and childish manner in which he acted last Monday.

Vandals tie for second in Boise Classic

Boise Classic

Strong pitching by Jerry Smith and Skip Ivie gave the University of Idaho a two-game sweep and a tie for the Boise Classic baseball tournament title Saturday.

Smith, Idaho's All-Big Sky Conference basketball center, and Ivie of Genesee limited two opposing teams to a total of five hits. The Vandals were the lone squad to win two games Saturday.

Boise State and Weber State, both undefeated going into Saturday's final round, each lost once and finished deadlocked with the Vandals for the championship.

Victims of Boise State in a 6-5 extra inning game Friday, the Vandals bounced back to win the two games and improve their season record to 10-2-1.

Smith, a 6-8 senior who hasn't pitched competitively since high school got into trouble only once in his first start as a Vandal as he spun a three hitter against Weber.

The Wildcats loaded the bases in the fourth inning on a single and two straight walks with none out. Smith then reached back and retired the next three batters. He walked five and struck out eight in seven innings.

The Vandals scored what proved to be all of the runs they needed in the first inning.

Dave Ball was safe on an error with one out and moved to third on a double by Jim Smith of Lewiston. Both scored when Paul Page doubled off the right field wall.

Ivie's fourth win

Ivie pitched his fourth win without a loss in the second contest, striking out eight, walking none, and yielding just two hits.

Clyde Coon's single drove in one run for the Vandals in the first inning after Ball and Page had walked. In the fourth, Steve Doyle singled, stole second and they scored the winning run on a double to left field by catcher Bruce Erickson.

Idaho added another run in the fifth when Page doubled home Reser, who had walked.

The Bengals' lone run off Ivie came in the first inning when leadoff batter Bill Satterfield reached base for a throwing error and continued around to score when the throw ricocheted off the right field wall.

Ivie has now allowed but one earned run in 27 innings for a 0.33 earned run average and has 39 strikeouts.

In other games on Saturday, Weber defeated Gonzaga 4-1, Northwest Nazarene shut out Montana 1-0 but lost to Gonzaga 4-0, Idaho State beat Boise State 9-4 and Montana State lost to Montana 8-0 and to Boise State 5-3.

The Vandals had a five-game winning streak halted Friday night on a fluke play that gave host Boise State a 6-5 extra-inning victory.

Earlier Friday the Vandals had dumped Northwest Nazarene College of Nampa 8-0.

Pitcher Dan Smith, who had four hits in five times at bat, scored the winning run for Boise State against Idaho in the ninth inning.

He singled with one out and scored when the Bronco's Bob Peterson hit a fly ball to right centerfield that the Vandals failed to handle.

A wind of 15-20 miles per hour, which blew throughout most of the day held the ball up. It fell in front of Vandal outfielder Dave Ball, who then had trouble retrieving it, allowing Smith to score.

Whitworth today

The Vandal Baseball team faces Whitworth in two games today at the University Field in Moscow. Saturday the Vandals host Spokane Community College for another doubleheader.

The horseholders are looking forward to improving the 10-2-1 record that they brought back from Boise after winning three and losing one at the Boise Classic.

Turfmen beat Big Bend 14-4

The Vandal golf squad defeated Big Bend Community College 14-4 in a match played in high winds Saturday in Moses Lake, Washington.

Alan Hull carded a 77 to take team and match medalist honors for the 18 hole event. Hull, Mark Cooper and Alan Seeley all won their matches 3-0 to lead the Vandals to the win.

The next outing for the golfers is scheduled for April 12 in Spokane.

Game rescheduled

Paul Ostyn, athletic director at the University of Idaho, announced last week that the football game between Idaho and the University of Southern Mississippi, originally scheduled for Mobile, Ala. on Oct. 4, had been rescheduled for Mobile at Ladd Stadium on Oct 3 at 7:30 p.m.

Ostyn said that he and Reed Green, athletic director at Southern Mississippi, agreed to move the game to the new date because of the conflicting national television game on the Oct. 4 date between Alabama and Mississippi at the same time.

The game is being played at Mobile because of the large stadium and the location is just 80 miles from the Southern Mississippi campus at Hattiesburg, Mississippi.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, MOSCOW, IDAHO

Sports notes

by Dave Finkelburg

Progress on the complex

We hear from the hill that the President's Committee on the Athletic Complex has completed its study and has prepared a "book" of its recommendations for the complex.

The committee is presently interviewing architects concerning the complex. The results of the interviews will be in the form of a recommendation to the Board of Regents of one or more architectural firms which the committee considers qualified to begin drawing up plans for the complex.

The next step will be for the committee to make such a recommendation and for the Regents to choose an architect to start on the plans, so that actual cost estimates can be made.

Final cost estimates on the proposed track have been prepared and should be aired sometime this week. It will be interesting to see if the school can afford a good track.

Cindermen take 4th Saturday

Vandal trackman Pete Whitford came through with a 4:20.0 mile to take first in that event at last Saturday's four-way track meet at Eastern Washington State College in Cheney, Idaho placed last behind the University of Montana, Simon Fraser University, and Eastern Washington.

The highlight of the event came when Montana's Mike Lyngstad set a new field mark for Cheney's Woodward Stadium with a javelin throw of 251 feet 1 inch. The record is more than 10 feet greater than the previous mark.

Outstanding competitor for Simon Fraser was Mike Mason, Mason won the long jump, triple jump and the 120-yard high hurdles.

Montana amassed 95 points winning five out of the 10 running events. Simon Fraser had 64 points followed by Eastern Washington with 50 and Idaho with 42.

Idaho's only other first place came when Rich Smith won the discus with a throw of 160 feet 10 inches.

This weekend the Idaho cindermen meet the University of Montana in Missoula.

Curtis named for award

Dick Curtis, senior co-captain, has been chosen Most Inspirational Swimmer on the Vandal swim team. Swimming coach, Chet Hall, presented Curtis with the award at a post-season banquet Friday night. The annual award—symbolized by a traveling trophy—is voted on annually by the members of the team.

Curtis, a senior majoring in physical education, and co-captain Dan Kirkland led their team to a 9-4 dual meet record for the season. Kirkland was also leading point-scorer for the team.

Later in the evening Kirkland and Terry Thlesen were named as co-captains for the coming season.

AN APRIL SHOWER brought one of the first flowers marking the beginning of a long awaited spring on the University of Idaho campus. For the first time in almost three months, students are now able to shed boots, chains, and snow tires and prepare for the usual spring activity—the U of I pasture function. After the snowy and isolating winter, students deserve it! (Bower photo)

Economics workshop held for high schools

A University of Idaho faculty member and a graduate student will conduct a workshop exploring new ideas in economics and science for more than 100 Idaho junior and senior high school teachers and administrators April 12 in Cottonwood and April 26 in Moscow.

Lawrence H. Merk, assistant professor of economics and management, will head the economics workshop for social studies teachers. Terry R. Armstrong, Moscow, a doctoral candidate in the Department of Education, will lead the seminar for science teachers.

The two workshops are being sponsored by the North Idaho School Study Council, an organization established in 1968 for the development and improvement of education throughout the area. More than 16 school districts in five Northern counties are members.

According to Merk, the purpose of the economics workshop is to help teachers answer questions they face in the classroom by discussing current economic problems and providing material for future use. He will lecture on inflation, balance of payment, public finance in Idaho and Idaho economy.

A film sponsored by the Joint Council on Economic Education in conjunction with the Sears Roebuck Foundation entitled "Economic Education: A Part of the Main" will also be shown.

During the science seminar, Armstrong will discuss new ideas and methods and how to use them. He will also relate recent trends in education methodology with curriculum revision in secondary science education.

CBS examines college turmoil

To determine the causes for the unrest, what the students hope to gain, and what the future holds for higher education in the United States, CBS News will examine "The College Turmoil," a CBS News Special to be broadcast Tuesday, April 15 (10:00-11:00 p.m. EST) in color on the CBS Television Network.

Correspondents Eric Sevareid and Harry Reasoner will be the reporters on the broadcast.

In what producer Burton Benjamin describes as "an attempt to shed light rather than heat on the subject of turmoil on college campuses," the broadcast will call on students and college presidents for an examination of student unrest. Among those who will appear on "The College Turmoil" are Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State, Dr. Robbin W. Fleming of the University of Michigan and Dr. Morris B. Abram of Brandeis University.

The format of the broadcast, as outlined by Mr. Benjamin, involves two separate "panels."

Reasoner will first talk to four college students who cover the spectrum of student sentiment — a white militant, a black militant, a conservative and a middle-of-the-roader. Following this he will have discussions with the three college presidents.

Three specific questions will be asked of both groups:

—How did we get into this crisis in higher education?

—What do students want, generally and specifically?

—Where do we go from here? Sevareid will comment on the answers throughout the broadcast and in the final segment.

"The College Turmoil" is sponsored by the Institute of Life Insurance on behalf of the life insurance companies in America as part of their continuing program of public service.

Homecoming Dance Committee interviews will be held tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the SUB.

Troupers' Theatre tour So. Idaho this week

Twenty-five Idaho students are touring southern Idaho with the Drama Department's Troupers' Theatre this week.

The group will present two productions, Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" and Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," at high schools, colleges, and community theatres throughout the southern portion of the state.

Edmund Chavez is directing "Taming of the Shrew." The cast includes Bill Grubb as Petruchio, a fortune-hunting gentleman who is looking for a wife, and Michael Sheehy as Katherine, the shrew that he tames.

Other cast members of "Taming of the Shrew" include Brian Lobdell as Baptista, a rich gentleman of Padua with two daughters to get married; Leslie Leek as Bianca, his beautiful youngest daughter with an abundance of suitors; and Phil Schmidt as Gremio, chief among Bianca's suitors.

"Taming of the Shrew" is a comedy about the battle of the sexes. For the tour, the play has been condensed to 55 minutes.

Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" was first published in 1855. Between its publication in 1855 and Whitman's death in 1892, the author revised and enlarged upon it eight times.

Director of "Leaves of Grass" is Robert Thompson. The selections to be included in the presentation are "Song of the Open Road," "I Sing the Body Electric," and "When Lilacs Last in the Door-yard Bloomed."

The major readers for the "Leaves of Grass" selections are Dee Thomas, Carol Anselmo, Charles Bonney and Shelley Mitchell, according to Forrest E. Sears, Assistant Professor of Drama and Speech. "Be yourself," Director Thompson tells his student actors. "Use an honest approach. Don't try to force emotion." Thompson stresses that the choral and individual readings will be staged similarly to a play, with accentuated movement and lively vocal style.

Walt Whitman's poems are a forceful, but direct, account of a century of American life. The spirit of "Leaves of Grass" has fired enthusiasm in each succeeding generation of Americans.

This is the third year for the Troupers' Theatre on the U of I campus. The group travels by bus complete with scenery, props, and costumes. Last fall they toured northern Idaho high schools.

The tour is jointly sponsored by the Idaho State Commission on Arts and Humanities and the University of Idaho.

The group will return April 12. The productions will be given on campus from April 21 until April 26, including Mother's Day Weekend. Campus performances will be in the U-Hut arena.

CHOSEN NEW YELL Queen last Thursday night was Dianna Aguirre. Other Pom Pon girls chosen from approximately 30 who tried out were Mary Lee Strobel, Marha Watts, Mary Ellen Gohee, Pat Kito and Cindy Hull. Alternates chosen were Val Plum, Vicki Mangum, Debbie Maxwell and Roxanne Fulton. Eight judges from faculty and staff took part in selecting the girls. (Bower photo)
