Polls open tomorrow

Students vote for new officials

Students are urged by ASUI President Jim Willms to turn out and vote in tomorrow's Spring Election. At least 35 per cent of the students must turn out to vote before a valid election can be declared, Willms said. In order for the constitution to be approved, of the 35 per cent turnout, two-thirds of the students must be in favor of the new Constitution.

Polis will open for election of president, vice president and Executive Board members of the ASUI at 8:45 tomorrow morning. Polls will remain open until 5:15 p.m.

Students must have their student identification cards in order to vote. Voting booths will be set up in the Wallace Complex Co-ed lounge, THE Student Union Building, the Administration Building and the Physical Science Building.

For Executive-Board candidates students must vote in order of preference. Students place a nine in the box of their first preference for Executive Board, an eight in the box for their second place candidate and so on placing a 1 in their ninth and final choice for Executive Board. Students may vote for fewer than nine candidates.

An X placed in one of the spaces for E-Board candidates will invalidate the E-Board section of the ballot.

For president and vice president the students place an X in the box for their choice for each office.

Vote on Constitution

Students vote for the constitution by placing an X in the box of their choice.

For any write-in candidates the student must place an X in the box next to write-in blank after writing the candidates name in that blank.

Numerals also

In order for write-in votes to be declared valid by the election board, the students must not only write in the name in the appropriate blank, but also must either X the box or put in the proper numerical designation in the case of E Board.

No campaigning will be allowed on election day according to the U of I Student Handbook. Also all campaign material must be removed by 8:30 a.m. of election day.

Any material not removed by 8:30 will be taken down by Election Board and a fine of $2 will be assessed for each poster taken down by the board.

The largest portion of the election ballot is devoted to the new proposed ASUI Constitution. The constitution was developed over the past three months by a 15 member committee of students.

Much improved

"The new constitution is a cleaned-up much improved version of the old document which we have been operating on," said ASUI president Jim Willms. He said that the new document is basically noncontroversial, but includes many important changes in the ASUI structure.

One of the big changes is a more clearer delineation of the responsibilities of the ASUI president and vice-president. Under the new constitution, the president shall preside at all meetings of the ASUI and will be an ex-officio non-voting member of the Senate which would replace the existing E-Board.

It would be his duty to submit budgets for the ASUI, and make appointments to positions in the ASUI with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Under the new document, the ASUI vice-president shall be chairman of both the Senate and the Election Board, and shall assume the duties of the president during his absence. Also, the vice-president, shall succeed the president upon resignation, disability, or the ineligibility of the president.

Four new legislators

In the Legislative section, a student senate would replace the existing E-Board structure of nine members, with a body of 13. The Senate would be empowered to enact policies governing the ASUI, and to establish positions for the ASUI on matters of student concern. Also, the Senate would have legislative authority over all ASUI funds and property subject to the provisions of the constitution and the Board of Regents.

Judicial council

The new Constitution provides for a judicial council, something that was omitted in the present constitution. All judicial authority of ASUI will be vested in a student judicial council and similar tribunals established by the regulations. Jurisdiction for the Student Judicial Council will cover original jurisdiction for conflicts arising out of the ASUI constitution and any other jurisdiction conferred upon them by the Board of Regents.

The article on General Manager in the new Constitution eliminates much of the wordiness of the old section. Under the proposed document, the General Manager shall be jointly appointed by the Senate and the Board of Regents, and the salary will be determined by the Regents upon the recommendations of the University President and the Senate.

Proper expenditures

The Manager will be directly responsible for the proper expenditures of ASUI funds under the budget and shall administer and account for all ASUI property.

Unlike the old existing constitution, which names the departments of the ASUI, the new proposed Constitution says that "All official departments of the ASUI shall be established in the Regulations by the Senate, Management and control of these departments shall be in accordance with the Regulations."

Election provisions

A whole article is devoted in the new proposed version of the constitution to Elections. The new article is basically the same as the original except that it has been re-worded. Two important additions were made, one, in the case of a tie vote of president, vice president and or the last Senate position, a runoff election for the office will be called within one week by the ASUI president.

The other change spells out that the term of office shall be for one year or until the successor (s) qualifies.

ASUI president and vice president are to be elected by a plurality of the votes cast, while members of the Senate shall be the thirteen candidates receiving the most votes.

Senate vacancies

Vacancies in the Senate will be filled by an appointment made by the president and approved by the Senate. Vacancies occurring in the vice president shall be filled by the person receiving the most votes when elected to the Senate.

The article on repeal, impeachment, referendum and vacant offices, is similar to the existing constitution, except that the wording and meanings have been made clearer. A section is also provided for filling a vacant elective office through a special election.

Immediate effect

On enactment, the Constitution will go into effect immediately upon adoption and replace the existing ASUI constitution which was adopted on March 8, 1962. Under section three of the enactment clause, if the new constitution is approved by the required amount of votes, the thirteen candidates for E-Board receiving the highest number of votes in tomorrow's election will be declared elected to the Senate.

President's office announces spring vacation to be extended

Spring vacation has been extended through Monday, April 30, the President's office announced yesterday. The additional day was added to the vacation after both students and faculty concurred that ending the vacation on Easter could be disastrous.

The Spurs, a women's University service organization began the drive for an additional day of vacation, after they had heard numerous complaints from students living in Southern and Eastern Idaho.

"We first went to see Academic Vice-president Dr. Coonrod and he recommended that we speak to Dr. Larry Iiams, chairman of Faculty Council about extending the vacation," said Holly Aldridge, Vice-president of Spurs. "Dr. Iiams outlined the procedure that we would have to go through and in addition, we made a petition to pass around to the students."

Approximately 1,400 students signed the petition according to Miss Aldridge. The proposal was presented last Tuesday night to ASUI Executive Board. It received immediate approval and was forwarded to the Faculty Council.

Last Thursday afternoon, the Council recommended to President Hartung that classes be dismissed on March 30 so that students could observe Easter and would not have to be subjected to the additional driving hazards of traveling on a major religious holiday.

In an Argonaut interview with Joe Frazier, University Registrar, he pointed out that the loss of one day of classes would not have to be made up. "Our accreditation will not be affected by the loss of one day," said Mr. Frazier. "We are scheduled this semester for 76 days and the accreditation team recommends at least 75 days."

Dr. Iiams told the Faculty Council last Thursday that he thought the Faculty had overlooked the problems of students coming back to the University on Easter when they approved the calendar a year ago. "The Faculty Council was very helpful," said Miss Aldridge. "Most of them felt that it was a good proposal for themselves as well as the students."

The Spurs, according to Miss Aldridge, try to be of service to the student body and the University Community. "We try to live up to our motto, 'At Your Service,'" Miss Aldridge concluded.

A Russian play

'Cherry Orchard' to open

The fourth presentation in the University of Idaho's theatre season, Anton Chekov's "The Cherry Orchard," will open at the University Auditorium this Thursday at 8 p.m. for a three evening run.

First produced in 1904 by the Moscow Art Theatre, the play did not reach general acceptance on English speaking stages for nearly twenty-five years. Since 1928, however, it has been frequently produced in London, in New York, and in other cities in America. The year 1965 was called "the year of the Cherry Orchard" because the play had especially notable performances in two of America's most reputable resident companies, the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis and the Shakespeare Festival Theatre at Stratford, Ont.

"The Cherry Orchard," is an analysis of the end of the feudal era and the lives of the landholding aristocracy. It is the story of a patrician Russian family who weakly let themselves be dispossessed by an energetic newcomer from the lower classes. Many commentators have noted that this story was an uncanny prophecy of the Russian revolution that swept away all the upper classes barely a dozen years later.

Most latter-day critics have preferred to disregard this aspect and to admire "The Cherry Orchard" for the humor and poignancy of its tale of a charming spenhrith of a woman of fading glamor who cannot put herself together to avoid impending bankruptcy; a woman too impractical to save her beloved home and its famous cherry orchard from destruction by a brash real estate developer.

The 1904 play, written in Russia, is still very valid today, according to Forrest Sears, assistant professor of drama and director of the production.

"Chekov inadvertently created the material for a new trend in theater, that

The special assistant for consumer affairs is the official champion of the American consumer.

Miss Furness is also known for her television commercials and has worked in television news and public affairs. She has appeared in a number of motion pictures and has been a recruiter for the VISTA and Head Start programs.

Editorial Opinion

Revised constitution needs support

"What if they gave an election and nobody voted?" Although a take-off on a trite phrase, the possibilities of such a happenstance in view of the current ASUI elections leaves one cold.

What should be a dramatic question — the revised ASUI constitution — may never be resolved unless enough voters turn out at the poles.

Perhaps it seems ludicrous to suppose that the necessary 35 percent of the student body needed to consider the constitution will not show up, and yet . . . The campaigning by this year's candidates for ASUI office has been so low-key on all sides that it appears the general student body isn't "up" for this election.

There are broad changes in several parts of the revised constitution; changes which have been necessary for some time such as an increase in E-Board membership and the establishment of the student judiciary.

While rough in its initial stages, the revised constitution has now been refined to a precise document, eliminating much of the "garbage" which is found throughout the old constitution — approved in 1962.

Of the 35 percent of the student body needed to consider the constitution, two-thirds of the votes must favor its passage to put it into effect.

Your vote is needed badly. BL

The steps to Laos

The idea that the Soviet Union may be contemplating military measures against the Maoist regime in Communist China just as it intervened in Czechoslovakia and Hungary may not be as fanciful as one might think. Victor Lewis, a Soviet citizen who acts as a correspondent for the London Evening News, has in the past issued warnings in the Western Press of a possible Soviet intervention in China, and it is most unlikely that such reports would have been filed without official Soviet sanction.

Louis hinted in a London newspaper that the Soviet military could launch an attack on China's nuclear weapons centers. Later he ran a story in the Washington Post where he repeated his claim that "Russian nuclear installations stand aimed at the Chinese nuclear facilities."

He further observed in a reference to the troubled Sino-Soviet border, that anti-Maoist forces were gathering strength in China, especially in the border provinces and that they might "produce a leader who would ask other socialist countries for fraternal help."

He added that China's vast size was no reason for not applying the so-called Brezhnev Doctrine, according to which the socialist countries have the right to interfere in each other's affairs if their own interests or those of others are threatened.

The fact that Russia and China have a real fear that one is in danger from the other is only one of the problems facing these two countries.

Both Russia and China are beginning to seriously feel the effects of militarily supporting second rate powers throughout the world. Russia has spent large sums of money outfitting and re-outfitting the Arab military forces, they have also shipped large amounts of arms to North Vietnam and North Korea.

China has sent vast arms shipments to Africa, Cuba, South America, North Vietnam and North Korea. China is also still feeling the devastating effects of her so-called cultural revolution.

At this point we can begin to fit Laos into the chain of events. America has been trying to slowly cut back its forces and turn the war in Vietnam over to the South Vietnamese.

Costly war for Russia
Even with the American cut-backs the war is becoming too costly for Russia and China to maintain at their present levels of support, so in the face of this and their other problems, they have forced the North Vietnamese to make some sort of move that might help them win the war at a much sooner date.

The Communists are well aware of the fact that certain Americans have sold their country out and made it very difficult for President Nixon to act in the face of the present situation.

The Communists also realize that Laos is the key to South Vietnam, and by taking that country they can easily over-run South Vietnam once the Americans leave. The bleeding heart liberals have done an excellent job for their Communist brothers.

Except for minimal air strikes America sits and watches while North Vietnam over-runs a neutral country. The North Vietnamese while under pressure from Russia and China to produce some results in the war have proven that they are very adept at reading the American political scene.

Challenge to Nixon doctrine

The North Vietnamese now hold the Plain of Jars, a drive west and south from this area would pose a fundamental challenge to President Nixon's doctrine of minimum US involvement in Asia. American air power alone has not been enough to stop the North Vietnamese.

The North now has 20,000 well-equipped troops in the Plains area and the number

The Communists feel that all President Nixon can do is step up air strikes. The introduction of American ground troops into Laos is thought to be politically unacceptable in the United States.

I personally cannot talk about troop cutbacks when the North Vietnamese openly show that they are obviously not interested in the same thing. With the present situation in Russia and China the North cannot long endure.

If America will hold out and continue support of South Vietnam the North Vietnamese will soon be forced to negotiate honestly in Paris. If we leave now in the face of the present situation, every life and dollar lost in Vietnam will have truly been lost.

This Saturday March 14th at 9 a.m. the Environmental Action Council will sponsor a Clean-In. Anyone that is physically able should meet at the parking lot next to the Theophilus Tower.

Idaho students will work towards Pullman and meet WSU students half way. I recommend attending this clean-in to any student that can possibly make it. Many people are beating the drum for Ecology and in many instances I feel rightly so. But remember that just by talking about Ecology will not get the job done.

The cleaning of the environment will not start on a large scale with big business, it will start with the individual man picking up his own trash. The Moscow Pullman highway is a small but good place to start.

Men wanted

Ho-hum. Election again. Time for the campus politicians to dust off the old spiels and find some "fresh" clichés to incorporate into them.

After they've finished their performance, we'll head for the voting booth to exercise our democratic privilege (via the enie-menie method) and our glorious E-Board will be chosen.

Most of us have heard the lines before, so it's hardly necessary to rehash their childish chatter here. A few sentences will amply cover what they have to say: "The students are oppressed!" The ultra-conservative Administration is denying us our rights!" "It's our university; we should control it!" bla, bla, bla.

A public institution

At risk of belaboring the obvious, this university is not a student institution; it is a public institution. It is paid for and is the concern of every taxpayer in this state.

Yes, it is our education which is at stake. Yet to the parents of Idaho it is their children's education. To the older residents, it is the young people of their place, it is easily seen that they also have a rightful claim to authority with respect to the U. of I.

Still, day after day all one hears from most candidates is student rights, student rights, student rights. Have we become such reckless self-seekers as to disregard everyone's rights save our own? It is no wonder that college students' reputation has reached an all time low, if this be the case.

Then there is the infantile "our Administration is against us" attitude which most of them reflect.

Show of Student Power

We have to unite in a concerted show of student power against our oppressors, they tell us. The end result — an Administration so frightened and a student body so thoughtlessly angered as to create the type of polarization we even now are witnessing.

Each year its stifling effect on cooperative A.S.U.I. — Administration interaction becomes more apparent, while constructive dialogue within the A.S.U.I. is becoming a lost art.

Tell rabble-rousers

If the U. of I. is not to regress to the sorry state of so many other institutions in our nation today, we are going to have to tell the rabble-rousers where they can take their selfish negativism and pitch it. If we are going to work effectively with the men of the academic community, we will have to begin electing representatives who act like men themselves.

Perhaps this year, we will choose an E-Board which is more determined to work with the Administration than to work against it. In so doing, we will have restored some long needed sober-mindedness to the ASUI and get down at last, to the business of improving our University.

U of I students exploited by institution

Editor, the Argonaut:

Since attending the University of Idaho I have been attempting to understand this institution, its mannerisms and its faults, looking at as much as possible or available through journalism and private investigation. This institution is in the throes of massive change, yet too few see the relevance of what is taking place and the impact of what is to come.

The basic concepts which past generations found comfortable and morally supportive are outmoded and often offensive to the young today. For example, the concept of competition as a healthy prerequisite to the economic well being of the country. Many thinkers are suggesting that cooperation, even representative and democratic socialism, may be the only chance of future existence. Wars and other representative extensions of violence such as football are competition for the sake of the spectator and have no creative, positive function in complete society.

For this University to proceed with a new athletic complex without analyzing its educational needs is a dereliction of responsibility. That this complex is pledged to be built with students' money makes clear the fact that genuine interest in the quality of education is second to economic advantage for the few. I believe few students would resent commitment of these millions for first class educational facilities but this is not planned.

The student is furthermore being exploited by the institution. In the Student Union cafeteria doughnuts sell for $1.80 per dozen while they are seven cents each in local grocery stores which make a profit at that charge. The student must pay a dime for an empty cup or cup of hot water. The SUB throws away food that could be sold at reduced price at the end of the day. The list goes on and on.

After several years of dragging the Student Bill of Rights through proper channels it is still hamstrung by the same Faculty Council which should support cooperative understanding in this community of scholars. They seem more interested in higher salaries, inter-departmental memos and letting students go to hell in the nicest way possible. A first class education is of the least concern. It may be a long time before today's college student realizes that he is being tricked into using yesterday's information to get himself into yesterday's bag, to awaken not part of tomorrow's solutions but tomorrow's problems.

Most students have grown to adulthood with a basic respect for law and law officials. But harassment and brutality, as in the recent attack by police on an unarmed student in Moscow, has taught that the law is only enforcing its own existence rather than protecting human rights. Such incidents will increase student redress, the students will take their grievances to the court of last resort, the streets.

We have some of those circumstances which produce a conflagration right now. General exploitation, a feeling of impotence, a number of particular incidents have already occurred. Before the students unite and give an excuse for those many Idaho National Guard members, looking for a fight, their opportunity to turn the campus to rubble, I would hope a solution can be found. I hope there is enough flexibility in the system to avoid a street confrontation. Unfortunately, this is not up to the students.

However, if you can't enter, enlist your mother. Just leave your name, address, and telephone number at the SUB information desk.

... Mocking Bird

In an effort to enhance the workings of the mock U.N., we at D.L. suggest the establishment of a mock world. The world could be staged at the SUB for the convenience of all concerned.

The "countries" could be set up at random, segregating people according to types: hippies, lovers, the studious, card players, etc.

Each "country" could choose its enemy at its own discretion. Call 'em as we see 'em on a larger level. Decisions of the president, premier, or dictator would be final, in case members of the "country" were in disagreement as to enemies.

When any one group tried to invade the territory of another, a war could be fought. This would give the mock U.N. a chance to act as the real one and be a mock arbitrator.

If the mock U.N. found itself unable to prevent these SUBcultures from fighting, the war could be prevented through the American system of paperwork.

The warring parties would be required to fill out proper forms to establish the conscientiousness of the individuals who wish to fight. These forms will be given to the E-Board for evaluation (a move guaranteed to delay the war until 1984).

If accepted, the parties would be called conscientious war-mongers. We at D.L. feel this will prepare the mock U.N. associates for future real upheavals.

Two objections stated to 'editor's choices'

Editor, the Argonaut:

Two objections must be made to the Argonaut "editors' choices" of candidates for tomorrow's ASUI election.

The first and most important objection concerns the Argonaut's role in making such endorsements. I have heard vicious rumors that the purpose of a newspaper is to inform its readers. Even in its editorials, which are by definition articles of opinion, it is both possible and necessary for a newspaper to present those facts sufficient to justify its position. The "editors' choices" conspicuously failed to do this, except in the most nebulous terms.

The Argonaut's endorsement of candidates was nothing more than a statement of prejudice, more appropriate for a private bull session in the editors' office than for the editorial page.

The second objection concerns the candidates endorsed by the Argonaut for ASUI President and Vice President. Deciphering the garbled rhetoric of the editorial, it appears that the Argonaut chose to endorse the McFarland-Mann ticket because they "have been involved in the structure." "would keep student government functioning toward its present goals" and would "continue certain trends in student government."

Rubbish. Is the Argonaut being deliberately obtuse, or do the editors seriously believe that "continuing certain trends in student government" is in the best interest of the students?

Student government supported the "functioned toward its present goals," supported the Business Office proposal to force sophomore men to live on-campus, until the sophomore men called bullshit on student government by threatening a boycott.

Student government supported the increase in student registration fees, even after an opinion poll indicated a majority of students were opposed to the increase.

Student government failed to support the Student Bill of Rights, until students themselves threatened to support it by means of the gloved fist.

Student government has repeatedly failed to represent the students, choosing instead to act as an arm of the University administration. Therefore, I feel compelled to oppose the McFarland-Mann ticket for the same reasons the Argonaut listed in endorsing that ticket. It's time for a change, not more of the same.

For what it's worth

(Letters to the editor)

Editor, the Argonaut:
 Enclosed is a copy of a memo circulated amongst the entire faculty recently by Edith Betts, the Chairman of Women's P.E.
 I thought it might be of interest to students to see what the P.E. people have decided that they "obviously want."
 If they should decide that this does not accurately reflect their sentiments on the question of discriminatory P.E. requirements for women, then I would urge that they let their true sentiments be known to as many faculty members as possible before the 1:00 meeting on Tuesday March 10.

To: The FACULTY
 From: Edith Betts, Chairman, Women's Physical Education
 At the next General Faculty Meeting a proposal for the Curriculum Committee will be presented which would decrease the physical education requirement for women from six to two credits. Although we feel that personal health knowledge is of vital importance in today's world we are not going to fight the elimination of healthful living as a requirement. It will be maintained as an elective.
 We would like to maintain the four semester, two day a week physical education requirement. The main stumbling block seems to be that the women's requirement is different from the men's requirement. We do not feel that this is a good reason for denying a two year requirement to the women for the following reasons:

1. Due to cultural factors women students, on the whole, have not had as great an opportunity to develop sports skills as most men. With increasing leisure forecast for the future it is important that students develop some recreational skills as well as the physical fitness knowledge to pursue them.
2. In the State of Idaho very few students have had a continuous program of physical education before they reach college. Therefore many arrive here poorly skilled in most motor activities.
3. Last week we took an anonymous poll of women students in the service classes. We asked them how many years of physical education they felt should be required to fulfill their skill and activity needs. 21 per cent wanted one year or less; 61 per cent wanted two years; 8 per cent wanted three years and 10 per cent wanted four years. In other words 79 per cent of the women students who are taking a two year requirement felt that two years or more was needed.

The Women's Department of Physical Education feels that they have carried on a good program under the adverse conditions in the old gym and now that we have the facilities we would like to have a chance to offer the women students what they obviously want. If you agree we would appreciate your support on March 10.

Edith Betts, Chairman
 Department of Physical Education for Women

Black Studies evaluated by faculty

By Laura Lorton

Forum met last week to evaluate the black studies course offered here last semester and to discuss its continuation next year.

The idea of black studies at the U. of I. started taking form last spring when students petitioned for such courses. The petition led to the formation of a group of concerned students and faculty which established there was a need for such a program.

The group decided the best approach for beginning the program was a black studies course covering several disciplines on the introductory level, which would be offered under the Social Studies Department.

The problem of tying the course together was recognized in the early planning and at the suggestion of Mrs. Corky Bush, English, the topic of the course became "Black Identity."

The course met once a week for two hours and was staffed by volunteer faculty. It covered 10 disciplines with 14 staff members presenting lectures in their specific areas. The topic areas presented were anthropology, history, geography, sociology, political science, literature, religion, economics, psychology and music.

"I think the course was very good," said Joanne Greenfield, a sophomore sociology major who was one of the more than 70 students completing the course. "I think it brought about an awareness that wasn't there before."

Jack Davis, assistant professor of English and coordinator for the course, told the faculty forum that in the student evaluations the course got more than four points on the five point scale.

"In their evaluations, the students stated they liked the lectures by blacks and the discussion groups led by blacks best," Davis said. "They did express the feeling that the one hour discussion groups following the lectures could be improved if the group leaders were better qualified."

"Many students were disappointed because they thought it would be a confrontation type of experience which it was not," Davis continued.

One of the major failures, in the opinion of several people at the forum, was the inability of some of the speakers to focus their area interests on the overall problem of identity.

Forum members seemed to feel that the first attempt had been too ambitious in trying to cover so many areas and such a time span.

"Overall, it was a better than average class," Davis said, "at least as far as the students were concerned."

"I think it was a very good course for a first attempt at such a program," said Steve Ballard, a senior journalism major. "But it was a little too segmented. I think it would have been better with more panel discussions to tie the things together."

The course attracted a wide variety of students according to Davis. He said the majority were from the College of Letters and Sciences, but that all the colleges were fairly well represented except Business. He also noted that all four classes were quite evenly represented. The original enrollment was more than 85 students.

The future of the course is still uncertain. There are two kinds of programs going in this area nationally, Davis pointed out. The first, which has created the most enthusiasm nationally, is black studies for black students. A program such as this is taught by black faculty who outline their own requirements and program ideas. Graduates of these programs are usually sent back to the black community to work there.

The second type of program is black studies for white students which is closest to the purpose here. Such a plan brings the black experience to whites with an ethnic point of view.

The program at Idaho presently suffers for lack of black students and faculty. While there are about 65 blacks at Idaho State University and 35 at Boise State College, Idaho only has 15. The forum agreed that blacks are necessary to present a valid program. The need for black instructors is apparent, but these teachers are already in great demand nationally.

"The idea is a good one to develop some area for presentation of minority cultures, Davis said. "Ours is a sterile culture until we include the minorities in their rightful place as part of our culture and history."

The Black Identity course, regardless of its future, has created an acceptance of the necessity of such a program here. Next year, the History Department is planning to offer a Negro History course with major emphasis on the twentieth century and the English Department hopes to offer a course in black literature.

Other minority related courses are presently offered in anthropology and sociology.

"We want our graduates in ROTC from the University of Idaho to leave here with an awareness of what's going on," said Capt. Harold Bell, Army ROTC. "These students don't even know they're prejudiced."

"Race is a problem in the service and we want to do something about it so we are considering requiring a course in race relations for ROTC students."

Although several weaknesses in the present course were pointed out at the forum, Mrs. Bush also gave a good reason for continuing it in an improved but similar manner. She said it was valuable as an introductory course to freshmen and sophomores who cannot enroll in upper division specialized courses under consideration by several departments.

The forum decided to investigate the possibilities more before reaching any decision. A compilation is going to be made of those related course already being offered under other departments in an effort to coordinate a future program.

Collection initiated; library starts service to lend new records

The University of Idaho Library has initiated a phonograph record lending service according to Richard Beck, Associate Director of Libraries. The collection consists of 125 gift records from RCA consisting of classical, country-western, show tunes, and popular music. Loan period for records will be two weeks, not renewable. The records will circulate from the reserve desk on the ground floor of the library. The library does not intend to invest library funds for the acquisition of new records to be added to this collection. It is assumed that additional gifts of records will be received from RCA in the future, Beck said.

Since the collection is small in size and scope, it is requested that no one ask to borrow more than two records at any one time. Most of the records are stereo and a copy of the list of records available may be obtained at the Reserve Desk of the Library.

Litter pick-up set for Saturday

A litter pick-up along the Moscow-Pullman highway has been scheduled by the Environmental Action Council for Saturday at 9 a.m.

Labeled a "Clean In" by the group, the pick-up is open to anyone who can bend over and carry a burlap sack.

Persons interested should meet at the Theophilus Tower parking lot and bring burlap sacks. Those not having sacks will be provided with them.

A group of Washington State University students will work from the Pullman city limits toward Moscow at the same time.

The "Clean In" will be postponed only in case of snow.

Further information may be obtained from Terry Hummel, 882-0871.

College Bowl tourney to enter semi-finals

College bowl semi-finalists will be determined tonight beginning at 7 p.m. in the Filling Station.

Of the 31 starting contestants, seven living groups are now left.

In the quarter-finals tonight will be Gamma Phi Delta's no. 1 team playing the Phi Tau's, Kappa Alpha Theta-Delta Chi team no. II will play Upham Hall, and Borah Hall will play Gault Hall. Gamma Phi Beta-Delta Tau Delta team no. II has already entered the semi-finals.

The championship game will be played Tuesday March 17 at 7 p.m. and the consolation bout will be at 7:30 p.m. the same evening.

Teams were originally paired by drawing the teams from a hat. The tournament has been run like those on television with teams eliminated as they lose.

Questions used are gathered by the college bowl committee and sorted by Steve Van Syce, chairman.

The winning team from the Idaho campus will go to an intercollegiate match to be held April 22 and 23. Other colleges with teams entered in the contest to this point are Boise State College, Idaho State University, and Southern Utah State.

U of I Navy team wins rifle shooting contest

The University of Idaho Navy team won the ROTC competition Sunday in the University of Nevada-Reno's Silver State rifle shooting meet.

The University of Wyoming edged the University of Montana to win the individual rifle shooting meet. The teams had been tied at 2,737-all. Then Wyoming scored 968 to Montana's 967 in the prone shooting contest to win the trophy.

John Willott of UCLA won individual honors with 559 of 600 possible points.

Which should you buy?

A color TV set priced at $359.95 ... OR another unit priced at $429.95?

An automatic washing machine priced at an average of $206.18 ... OR another model priced at an average of $254.98?

An instant-load autoexposure camera priced at $69.95 ... OR another model priced at $119.50?

A radio-phonograph console priced at $379.95 ... OR another console priced at $499.95?

THE ANSWERS to the questions above show how easily you and your family can lose money each year in your search for quality. The fact is that you like so many others, may be buying virtually "blindfolded." For example:

On the basis of impartial laboratory tests, the color TV set priced at $359.95 was judged better in overall quality than the model priced at $429.95. (Possible saving: up to $70.00)

The washing machine priced at an average of $254.98 was judged inferior in washing ability to the model priced at an average of $206.18. (Possible saving: up to $48.80)

The instant-load autoexposure camera priced at $69.95 was top rated over similar models priced as high as $119.50. (Possible saving: up to $49.55)

The radio-phonograph console priced at $379.95 was judged better in overall quality than the console priced at $499.95 and was rated a "Best Buy." (Possible saving: up to $120.00)

These "hidden" values and savings were revealed in recent issues of Consumer Reports. Hundreds of products like these are rated in the latest 448-page issue of the famous Consumer Reports Buying Guide. A copy is yours as a gift with a one year subscription to Consumer Reports.

Jazz concert Saturday to feature Big Band Sound, all day contest

Saturday night's jazz concert will feature the Big Band sound of the 40's which includes names like Glenn Miller, Buddy Rich and Stan Kenton. The concert will feature three top high school bands and the Idaho's two jazz bands with soloist William Billingsley.

Billingsley, who is known throughout the Northwest as a trumpeter, composer and arranger, will perform with the band. During the performance, he will be featured in the selections "Trumpet Soliloquy" and "Nice Work if You Can Get It."

Choir to perform 'St. John' work

One of Bach's best known choral works, the "St. John Passion" will be performed by the University of Idaho Vandaleer Concert Choir this Sunday.

Under the direction of Norman Logan, the 50-member choir will present this famous work at 8 p.m. in the University Auditorium.

Soloists for the performance will be Charles Walton, tenor; James Guthrie, bass; Dorothy Barnes, soprano; Joyce Mow, alto, and Gary Heidel, baritone.

According to Logan, "The St. John Passion begins with Judas' betrayal and mainly describes the great trial scenes before the high priest and Pontius Pilate.

"In the work, Bach carries forward the action through the choruses of the priests and the people and by recitatives for the characters in the drama. The story affords few halts for reflection, and is pervaded by the clamour of fierce hatreds."

Assisting in the performance will be a chamber orchestra, under the direction of LeRoy Bauer, and organist Herbert Heustis.

The concert is open to the public without charge.

A member of the Idaho music faculty since 1954, Prof. Billingsley has been playing professionally since he was 16. He has appeared with symphonies, theatre orchestras, dance bands and on radio.

He has written music for chorus, solo voice, orchestra, band, string quartet, woodwind quintet and chamber groups. Billingsley recently was commissioned to write a ballet for string quartet and two dancers.

He has also done arranging for all types of groups, including stage and marching bands and radio orchestras.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. concert are on sale at Haddock and Laughlin's, Roban's, Moscow Furniture, the SUB information desk and the living groups. They cost $1 for students and $1.50 for non-student adults.

"The charts we will be using are copies of the same arrangements used by the Buddy Rich and Stan Kenton bands," said Robert Spivecek, assistant director of the University groups.

Some of these arrangements are "Here and Now Suite," "Music for an Unwritten Play" and "Trumpet Soliloquy" which will feature Billingsley on trumpet.

Bands from 15 high schools in Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho will compete in a day long contest. The three top bands from the day's judging will then play in the first half of the concert to determine first, second and third place.

WILLIAM BILLINGSLEY will be featured soloist at the Jazz band concert Saturday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Gymnasium.

Rats learn basketball as conditioned process

Conditioning rats to play basketball is educational? Students at the University of Idaho are finding it not only meaningful but fun too.

According to Dr. Willis Rees, who teaches a general experimental psychology class, the task is just one of many which allows the student to put into use the operant conditioning principles he learns in the classroom.

"A student can also use these techniques at home with a dog or on the farm with livestock. Cows and horses, for instance, could be conditioned to return to the barn from the pasture by responding to a bell and then go back to the pasture by using another cue," Rees said.

To condition two rats to play basketball, psychology students at the university provided a food pellet as reinforcement each time the rat stuffed a small ball through a hoop attached to a backboard. According to Rees, the task is a difficult one because of the many different responses a rat must make in order to receive a food pellet.

When the two rats were placed together, the students found that instead of competing for the ball, one rat became dominant and continually stuffed the ball through the hoop while the other rat developed a passive attitude and remained in the corner.

Other psychology students in the class are conditioning rats to broad jump, high jump, climb a rope, race across a tightrope and run a relay race in preparation for a rat olympics, which will be May 20, in the Education Building's Kiva.

The public is invited to attend the semi-final rounds of College Bowl tonight in Borah Theatre.

Teams and the times they compete are Gamma Phi-Delta against Phi Tau, 7 p.m.; Kappa-Delta Chi against Upham, 7:30 p.m. and Borah against Gault, 8 p.m.

Winners will then go into the championship round.

Finalists chosen by Sigma Chi's

Sigma Chi Sweetheart finalists were announced yesterday at the finalist's living groups during dinner. They were chosen after three parties with the Sigma Chis, including a snowmobile trip Saturday. The finalists are Chris Feeney, Gamma Phi; Chris Fransen, Alpha Phi; Debbie George, Oleson; Sue Larsen, Alpha Chi; and Carolyn Seeley, Theta.

Other contestants included Janice Buhr, Houston; Donna George, DG; Terry Hener, McCoy; Jody Hilbun, Pi Phi; and Kathy Luhr, Campbell.

Marilyn Lyons, Forney; Pam Maisch, Alpha Gam; Connie Peterman, Kappa; Debbie Redman, Tri Delta; and Patsy Schmidt, French, also competed.

The Sweetheart will be crowned after a banquet and cocktail hour Saturday at the Ridpath Hotel in Spokane, according to Gene Kimbrel, General Chairman of the Sweetheart Contest. A dance will follow the crowning of the queen.

The current Sigma Chi Sweetheart is Sue Borup, Forney, and the 1968-69 Sweetheart, Carolyn Keithley, was elected the International Sigma Chi Sweetheart.

for a daily truck shuttle service to carry library materials between the two libraries.

The new service will be conducted on a trial basis from March 2 through May 29 to determine whether the volume of traffic merits continuance, according to Richard Beck, Associate Director of Libraries. The courier service is available free to anyone in the academic community and will operate daily, Monday through Friday.

Requests must be turned in by 8 a.m. to be taken over to W.S.U. the same day. Materials requested may be picked up the following day at 10 a.m.

If requested materials are not available at the W.S.U. Library the borrower will be notified by phone. Normally materials that are available and qualify for loan from the W.S.U. Library will be sent the following day. However, some materials located in departmental libraries on the W.S.U. campus may take longer to obtain as the shuttle service will be between the two main libraries only.

Borrowers must request specific titles. Librarians will help users locate more specific information when necessary.

Members of the Idaho community who borrow materials personally from the W.S.U. Library may find it convenient to return these materials via the shuttle service too, Beck said.

The service will be reviewed at the end of its three month trial period to determine its feasibility.

Faded sign, exhibits mark hidden museum

Hidden behind the Life Sciences building is an old brick structure. "Peruvian Pottery" is painted in bright letters on a white sign which sticks out of the snow-covered bank. At the top of a flight of concrete steps is the door to the building. On the fading sign in the door window are the words "University Museum."

Unknown to many, the University Museum is housed in this building. It is open from 1 to 5 every afternoon, including weekends, while the University is in session, except for vacation periods, certain major holidays, and a day or two between exhibits.

G. Ellis Burcaw is the museum director. In addition to other duties, he instructs one class each semester in museology. His office is to the right as you enter the building. The classroom is on the left.

The current exhibits are displayed in the main room of the building. "Computer History and Technology — 1800 - present" is one of the displays being shown now. Sponsored by the IBM Corporation and circulated by the Smithsonian Institute, this exhibit shows the development of the computer.

Besides pictures and models to see and short items to read, this display has other features. By pushing a button and listening on an earphone, the observer can see a demonstration or animation and hear an explanation of the development of each computer type.

Another display, from the George Eastman House, is titled "Toward a Social Landscape." Many varied photographs by Bruce Davidson, Duane Michals, Danny Lyon, and Garry Winogrand are shown.

A collection of Peruvian pottery and other objects is also exhibited. This collection, which was loaned by members of Explorer Post 376 of Moscow, contains some objects which are estimated to be over 1800 years old. The dates range from 100 A.D. to as recent as 1500 A.D.

Also on display are representation of Saints and other religious personages which were made by Mexican and their descendants between the middle of the 17th century and the beginning of the present one.

These "Santos," as they are called, have been said to be "the most important manifestation of folk art in this country," according to a card on the display.

The schedule for the next few months includes a display of the drafts of the Southeast, an art faculty show, an exhibit of Danish glassware, Beethoven scores, and oil paintings by artists from each of the eight Rocky Mountain states.

A Sunset magazine display of prize-winning house designs and the UNESCO collection of water-color reproductions of the past 150 years are scheduled for July exhibits.

According to Mr. Burcaw, past exhibits have dealt with architecture, anthropology, art history, geography, theater, interior decoration, foreign travel, mathematics, news photography, local history, geology, and original art and handicrafts from many countries.

Due to limited space, the University Museum does not have permanent exhibits. Gifts to the museum are stored for the future, in anticipation of a new museum building, said Mr. Burcaw.

The structure which now houses the University Museum was built in 1906, as a College of Mines building. The interior was remodeled for display purposes.

Since its founding a few years ago through the efforts of faculty members and administrators, the museum has grown, although "Attendance is not as high as it ought to be," said Mr. Burcaw.

Spring break trip

Mrs. Love to sponsor chartered bus

Mrs. L.W. Love will again sponsor a chartered bus to Idaho Falls for spring break. Mrs. Love, whose daughter Sharon lives in McCoy Hall, first sponsored this chartered service at Christmas time. She became concerned over the safety of students travelling back and forth to school during vacations, after learning of the several accidents that occur every year.

THE HISTORY OF COMPUTERS is the current display at the University museum. Large showcases feature push-button explanations of the exhibit. Also on display are photographs from the Eastman House. (Korte Photo)

The spring charter will leave the Wallace Complex at 4 p.m. on March 20. It is scheduled to arrive in Idaho Falls at 6 a.m. the following morning. Price for the trip will be $27.42 for round trip, and $16 one way. Reservations can be made at the Activities Office in the SUB, and refunds are good until March 16. A minimum of 29 people is needed to guarantee the charter, so students are urged to register as early as possible.

The service was well accepted during the Christmas break, but there will be a few changes on this trip, according to Mrs. Imogene Rush, SUB assistant program advisor. Luggage is limited to one large suitcase and an overnight bag. A few people were known to have been drinking on the last trip, but this will not be allowed on the spring charter, Mrs. Rush said. Contracts with the bus company do not allow this.

The bus is scheduled to leave Idaho Falls at 8 a.m. on Monday morning. Arrival time in Moscow is about 8 p.m.

The charter is a service that proves to be very beneficial to the students, Mrs. Rush remarked. "The rates are cheaper than normal bus rates, travel time is much shorter, and it is much safer and easier for the average student."

The United States Mind will play in the SUB ballroom on Thursday at 8:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Local band to perform at 'Animals' concert

"What if They Gave a Band and Nobody Came?," a local band organized at the first of the year, will be featured tomorrow night in concert with the Animals. The concert will take place in the Memorial Gymnasium at 8 p.m.

The same band will also perform this Friday at a special Friday the 13th dance, in the Fillin' Station in the SUB. Admission will be $.75 per person or $1.00 a couple.

The dance will start at 10:13 and the first 13 people to be admitted will be furnished with a free drink, compliments of the Fillin' Station. The Fillin' Station will be open until 3 a.m. Saturday morning.

This band played at the Phi Delt Formal February 28, the TKE Carnation Ball March 7, and have played at the Spruce several times. They will also perform at the Fillin' Station April 25, during Parent's Weekend.

Members of "What if They Gave a Band and Nobody Came?," are Tom White, Gib Myer, Tom Hunter, Rich Thorn, Alan Taylor, Tom Andrews, Mike Gifford, and Lynn Johnson.

They will also perform during "The Animals" performance. The Animals, a popular rock group from England, are responsible for 15 singles that have penetrated the top nationwide and half-dozen best-selling albums.

Advanced tickets for that concert are $1.75 general admission and $2.25 reserved. They are available at the S.U.B. information desk and Haddock and Laughlin. General admission tickets will be sold at the door for $2.25. Also performing at the concert will be Michael, a blind impressionist.

The Fillin' Station was recently organized by Jerry Cruse, SUB food director from the old dipper. The Station stays open until midnight daily.

Besides a dance floor and a juke box, the Fillin' Station features live entertainment most weekends. Last weekend the "Tunk" performed.

Unlike the old Dipper, the Fillin' Station sells sandwiches, ice cream cones, soft drinks, cookies, and other food items. "It is especially handy for people who use the game room a lot," Cruse said.

An old gasoline pump was donated to the Fillin' Station to use as its trademark. Unfortunately, before it could be moved to its permanent position, it was stolen. Cruse has asked that it be returned.

Eventually music will be piped in from the stereo lounge upstairs, so there will be music, even when the juke box isn't being played, Cruse said.

Compositions to be featured for brass

A concert featuring a wide variety of compositions written for brass instruments will be presented by the University of Idaho Brass Quintet and French Horn Quartet today.

The program, including works written in the 16th and 20th centuries, will be given at 8 p.m. in the School of Music Building Recital Hall.

Beginning the performance, the quintet, composed of music faculty members William Billingsley and Robert Spevacek, and music students Deborah Smith, Thomas White, and Michael Gifford, will play "Canzona Per Sonare No. 1" by Gabrieli. This will be followed by "Variations Sur Une Chanson de Canotier," Childs; "Divertissement," Hartley, and "Fugue from Music for Brass Instruments," Dahl.

The horn quartet, featuring Miss Smith, Peggy Van Damm, Lial Kofoed, and Ross Gedeberg, will next perform "Sonata for Horn Quartet" by Hindemith.

Concluding the concert, the quintet will be joined by music students Dennis Heidel, Michael Luke, Raymond Cassingham, and Miss Van Damm and Kofoed, to present "Suite for Brass" by Lebow.

SPORTS OPINION

by Chuck Malloy

The Idaho Vandal basketball team closed the season with a bang as they have won all five of their last games. Coach Wayne Anderson and the Vandals will be looking forward to next year, and by the way the Vandals have been playing, the outlook is optimistic.

The Vandals will have only one member of the squad leaving next year, and that is Bob Ross. Ross, who was named as the Most Inspirational Player of the year by his teammates provided the Vandals with good bench strength toward the end of the season.

With the exception of Ross, the Vandals will have everybody back next year. Included in this list are: Malcolm Taylor, Ron Adams, John Nelson, Don Beane, Gary Koethe, Marv Williams, Dennis Hadden, Tim Cummings, and Adrian Prince. There will also be freshman stars such as Paul Hardt and Doug Howard who will join the team next season.

Taylor who was voted as the Most Valuable Player by his teammates has won the respect of many opponents with his leaping ability. Although Taylor stands at only 6-2, he can jump higher than many of the taller players on the other teams. Coach Anderson has put Taylor on taller players of the opposing team because of his jumping ability.

If Taylor needs to improve on anything it would be his outside shooting. There are many times when Taylor is not able to score off of players standing at 6-7 or 6-8, but if he is able to improve on his outside shooting, he could develop into the most dangerous scorer in the Big Sky Conference.

The Vandals voted for Ross and Taylor as most inspirational, and most valuable respectively, but if they were to choose a member who was most improved, it would be either Don Beane or Adrian Prince.

Beane did not see too much action in the early going of the season, but when Coach Anderson did finally put Beane into the games, he responded well. When Idaho played Idaho State at Memorial Gymnasium, Beane impressed the fans with his driving ability and his outside shooting. In the second half of Idaho's final game at the Kennedy Pavilion, Beane scored three straight baskets before Gonzaga knew what happened.

As the season progressed, Adrian

Prince has developed into the type of "big man" Idaho has been looking for. He has the soft shot from the outside which swishes the nets on many occasions. When Idaho played the Montana schools at Memorial Gymnasium, Prince scored a total of 50 points in the three games.

The success of the Vandals during the last five games would probably not be so good without Tim Cummings. Cummings has provided the Vandals with a stable guard throughout the season. He has shown hustle on both offense and defense, and the Vandal fans hope he can carry this into next year.

Nelson, the Vandal captain is the type of player Coach Anderson would like more of. He is perhaps the best all around player on the team. He can score well from the outside as well as inside, and his rebounding is even more noteworthy.

It is said that a team is as good as its bench, and the Vandals seem to have ample strength on the bench with Adams, Hadden, Williams and Koethe. All have started at one time during the season.

Adams is probably the best outside shooter on the team. In a game against Idaho State, Adams came off the bench and pumped in 30 points. This spark is something the Vandals need, and it should pay off well for next year.

Hadden has shown skill on defense, but he probably will have to improve on offense in order to be a key factor for the Vandals next year.

Williams is "Mr. Hustle" for the Vandals. When Montana visited the home of the Vandals, Coach Anderson had Williams guarding Dave Gustafson, the Grizzlies backcourt sensation. Williams held Gustafson well below his season scoring average.

member of the Vandals this year. Taylor was having trouble guarding one of Montana's tall forwards in one game, but Coach Anderson called on the 6-7 Koethe to substitute for Taylor, and Koethe turned out to be a key factor in the Vandal victory.

The Vandals have been picking each other up in the last five games, and this has been a major factor in the success of Idaho. They leave the 1970 season with momentum, and if this momentum is carried into next year, the Vandals could possibly win the Big Sky Conference and go onto the NCAA finals.

Adrian Prince (25) sets screen for Malcolm Taylor (12) in Big Sky Conference basketball against Gonzaga last Friday night. The Vandals won the game 60-59.

Vandals finish year with five straight

Idaho's splendid little forward Malcolm Taylor outscored Gonzaga 13-10 in the last 13 minutes Friday night as the Vandals came from 12 points behind to a 60-59 Big Sky Conference basketball victory before a screaming Memorial Gymnasium crowd.

The win was Idaho's fourth straight after a disastrous 1-9 conference start and clinched a tie for fourth. Gonzaga, which clinched third place last week, is 7-7.

The Vandals trailed 49-37 with 13 minutes left when they turned Taylor loose. The 6-2 junior forward scored six straight Idaho field goals in a 14-straight Vandal stretch that made it 51-49 with 9:30 left.

Taylor was hitting everything he threw up. It started with a rebound hook, continued on a variety of short jumpers and amazing close-in moves, and the Zags helped out with numerous turnovers.

Gonzaga tied it at 51-51 and 53-53, the last time with 7:05 left on Blaine Bundy's foul line jumper, but the Vandals extended a 57-53 lead with 4:50 left on two John Nelson free throws and Bob Ross' lefty layin.

The Zags cut that to 57-55 with 4:10 left on a field goal, but they missed a free throw and two rebound tries next time down, Tim Cummings made it 58-55 with a free throw at 1:40. Gonzaga turned it over on an offensive foul at 1:30, but cut the lead to 58-57 on Jim Breshanah's pair of free throws off the one-and-one at 1:20.

They traded misses down to 40 seconds when Doug Rehaume fouled Cummings. He missed the free throw but Nelson tipped it in for 60-57. Taylor fouled Breshanah on a rebound with 25 seconds left, but he missed and the game was for all purposes over.

Gonzaga had led 35-30 at halftime after holding as large as a seven point lead earlier.

Taylor, who scored only five points in a recent Vandal loss to Gonzaga, had 21 and Nelson 11. Howard Burford and Hunt paced the Zags with 13 each.

Nelson led a 39-33 Vandal rebound advantage with 13. Idaho connected on 22 of 50 field goal tries for 44 per cent while the Zags, checked tightly in the second half, hit 25 of 59 for 42 per cent.

Vandals duplicate victory

The Idaho Vandals scored 57 points in the second half Saturday night to take an 83-73 come-from-behind victory over Gonzaga, and gained sole possession of fourth place in the final conference standings.

The win, Idaho's fifth straight, gave them a 6-9 conference record and 10-15 season mark. Gonzaga finished with a 7-8 conference record for third place and had a 10-16 over all record.

John Nelson scored 17 points in the final 20 minutes as the Vandals rallied from a 35-26 halftime deficit in beating the Bulldogs for the second straight night.

Gonzaga used a zone defense in the first half but switched to a man-to-man after the intermission, and the Vandals were quick to take advantage of it. With Nelson scoring 11 points the Vandals pulled to within five points, 49-44 with 11:45 left.

Don Beane then connected on three straight baskets and Nelson scored again to give the Vandals a 52-51 lead with 9:33 remaining.

The game remained tight until with just over three minutes remaining Tim Cummings drove for a twisting lay-in and the Vandals led by four, 72-68.

Malcolm Taylor scored two easy tip-ins for the Vandals on missed free throws as they continued to stretch the lead in the last two minutes.

The first half was all Gonzaga as its 2-3 zone defense gave the Vandals fits. The Bulldogs held on an 11-point margin twice in the early going.

Nelson led all scorers with 23 points, Taylor added 15 and Marv Williams and Cummings chipped in with 11 each, Don Beane was the fifth Vandal to hit double figures as he added 10 points.

Eastern Wash. trustees try to solve controversy

SPOKANE AP — Eastern Washington State College trustees meet Tuesday morning to consider and possibly settle the so-called "raised fist" controversy.

The trustees were expected to take formal action on a recommendation from the EWSC Faculty Senate concerning the Athletic Code. The code contains a clause prohibiting the expounding of political, religious or philosophical views in the athletic arena, including the black power raised fist salute.

The coaching staff has taken the position that display of an upraised fist during the playing of the national anthem violates that section of the code.

The code question, an issue since early fall when a black athlete was dismissed from the football squad, was referred to the Faculty Senate after a federal court suit was filed against the Athletic Department at EWSC on behalf of three black students.

Merle W. Haffner, Spokane trustee, said he had been advised the Faculty Senate was to meet Monday night to draw up the final draft of its recommendation for consideration by the trustees.

Haffner said the board scheduled an executive session for 9 a.m. Tuesday followed by an open meeting at 10 a.m., to be held in a Spokane hotel.

He said that according to the meeting call from trustee L.G. Carmody, Seattle, the purpose of the special board session is to consider the athletic code recommendation.

Last Wednesday several hundred Eastern students participated in the support-of-coaches rally on the Cheney campus. After the rally a group of athletes met with Eastern President Emperson C. Shuck to urge that an early decision be made on the question of whether the athletic code, in its present form, is to be enforced.

At a hearing in early winter in the Eastern Washington Federal District Court, Judge Powell suggested efforts be made to settle the issue on campus rather than in the courtroom. The case is still pending, however.

Long Beach dump Weber State

Long Beach State beat Weber State 92-73 Saturday night to win a berth in the NCAA Far West Regional basketball tournament next weekend at Seattle.

The 49ers won their 19th straight game as they threw up an impenetrable zone, controlled the backboards and blazed away from outside.

The California team set up its defense to stop Weber star Willie Sojourner and kept the ball away from him so effectively that he could get few shots and was held to 13 points, far under his 21-point season average.

With forward Billy Jankans and 6-9 George Trapp controlling the boards and scoring well from outside, Long Beach bolted away from a 37-28 halftime advantage to win going away.

Trapp scored 17 points and Jankans had 16.

The margin reached 24 points before 49er coach Jerry Tarkanian pulled his regulars.

Sojourner drew his fourth foul with 15:59 left and the 49ers leading 48-34.

Long Beach hit 53 per cent from the field. Weber hit only 36 per cent.

Jankans scored 11 points in the first half, hitting all five long jump shots he took.

The Californians jumped out to a quick 6-0 lead and the Wildcats couldn't score for the first 2:16.

Trapp and Jon Knoble led a Weber charge that brought it to 16-14 with 14:40 left, but Trapp and Jankans hit four quick baskets and pushed the score to 26-17 with 5:43 left. Weber then switched out of its man-for-man defense and went to a 1-3-1 zone. Although that slowed the 49ers down, Weber couldn't get a consistent offense going.

Montana Grizzlies win Big Sky swim crown

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Led by a pair of triple champions and finishing no worse than second in 14 events, the University of Montana rolled up its fifth straight Big Sky Conference swimming championship Saturday.

The Grizzlies, with Kurt von Tagen and Dave Garard nabbing three titles apiece, amassed 166 points. Idaho State was second with 139.

Far behind came Weber State with 74, University of Idaho, 43, and Gonzaga, 31. Montana State did not enter a team.

Von Tagen, a junior who set a flock of conference records a year ago, came short of those marks this time. However, his winning time of 18:44.6 in the 1,650-yard freestyle was good for a new pool mark.

A total of 10 new conference standards were established in the 18 events.
