LONG AND SHORT OF IT — Students in line for food service plans A and B wait patiently while those in plan C walk casually through the door. The students are not divided as to which dining room they may eat in. The division at the door is solely for facilitation of bookkeeping. The three option food plan was initiated this fall at the U of I. Photo by Erich Korte

Dorm food service point system with 3 options not criticized yet

The three option point system of dormitory food service which was initiated this fall has been operating for five days with no criticism yet, according to Miss Bernice Morin, director of food service.

"I've talked to a number of students and they seem delighted with it," she said. "Of course I haven't been able to talk to many of the upperclassmen yet. We're trying to get more information to them now."

A total of 226 students were registered for the A plan, according to the business office yesterday.

Signing for the B plan were 713 and for the C, 722.

Under the A plan a student purchases 8 tickets per semester, each with 56 points. The 56 points are scheduled through a two week period, and at the end of that two week period the points not used become invalid, according to Miss Morin.

An A plan costs $270.

Under a B plan, a student purchases 31 points per week and pays $300 per semester. The semester total is broken into four payments and during each payment period the student will receive two tickets. Again, unused points are nullified.

Under a C option a student pays $320 and is eligible for three meals a day.

We used to budget meals on a 30 percent absentee rate," Miss Morin explained. "Under the C plan this allowance is still made and so meals average out to about $2.65 per day for C plan students."

Some confusion has arisen, according to Miss Morin, about where student may eat. "But they can eat in either the large or the small dining rooms. They are simply divided at the door to make bookkeeping easier."

Students who wish to change meal plan options may do so Sept. 28 until Oct. 7. But after that date, what the student has is what he must stick with for the rest of the semester, she said.

Some of those who may be changing meal options are the students who work in the cafeteria. Under the present system, cafeteria workers are paid the standard university wage, $1.45 per hour, she said.

But for every meal they work, they are charged the price of that meal, whether they eat it or not.

"We can't possibly let someone come in. We wouldn't have any control and they would be snitching behind our back." They can't just say, "Well I want to work today but I don't want to eat." Then they would never pay for any meals but still eat."

Faculty Club to become Satellite Student Union

A satellite Student Union Building in the center of the campus is being planned by the Student Union Board, according to Dean Vetrus, SUB director. The satellite SUB will be located in the old Faculty Club Building across from the Dairy Science Building.

"For some time we have been trying to think of a good location for this Satellite Student Union so that students will have easy access to it," Vetrus said. "We considered the basement area of Willis Sweet for a while but decided that it was not too desirable for habitation. It was a fire trap, and had no restrooms, it only had one door and it would take too much to fix it up. It would have been a liability problem for the University so we decided against using it."

At the end of May, the Board got confirmation that Faculty Club would vacate their building and move to first floor of the Faculty Office Building, according to Vetrus. "The University said we could use the building so we started making plans for the satellite SUB."

Remodeling is being done by the Physical Plant and will get under way this week. A minimum of remodeling is planned because of the age of the building.

"We hope the first floor will be ready right after Thanksgiving," Vetrus said, but the Physical Plant won't commit themselves any sooner than December 1.

Coffe, soft drinks, cold sandwiches and donuts will be sold on first floor. No grill can be set up because of a shortage in electrical power.

"We have some really innovative ideas for the downstairs area," Vetrus said. "It is still in the planning stage but we

Consent unnecessary

Jr. women live off campus

By Carolyn Cron

Junior women may live off campus without parental consent this year, according to Mrs. Marjorie Neely, Dean of Women.

The Idaho Board of Regents passed a policy on June 9 stating "effective immediately women of junior status or above shall not be required to live on campus."

The previous regulation required freshman men and freshman, sophomore and junior women to live on campus. The only women allowed to live off campus were seniors or women who were 21 years old or married. Women who didn't fall into this category could only move off campus with special permission from the Dean of Women. Parental consent and a good reason such as financial or medical were the criteria for this special permission, according to Miss Jean Hill, Assistant Dean of Women.

Action was triggered by a Campus Affairs Committee report on "change in Housing Requirements," under the direction of Professor Paul Mann. This report stated "Effective with the 1971-72 academic year, change the housing requirements for undergraduate students on page 28 of the 1969 general catalog to require that only freshmen (men and women) shall be required to live on campus." This report passed Faculty Council and was sent unchallenged to University President Ernest Hartung and the Board of Regents.

In support of its action, Campus Affairs took the position that on-campus housing regulations for men and women should be equalized as promptly as possible, in view of changing social patterns, according to Mrs. Neely.

The University of Idaho Administration recommended to the Board of Regents that junior women be allowed to live off campus this year. The Board passed the recommendation, but nothing was said about possible future action on behalf of sophomore women. According to Mrs. Neely, this recommendation will probably be made to the Regents this year so that only freshmen will be required to live on campus in the 1971-72 school year.

"Our philosophy is that it is a good idea for sophomore through senior students to be allowed to live where they want," Miss Hill said. "We want to get to the basis where the upperclassmen will be living in dormitories only on a volunteer basis."

"However, we feel it is important for freshmen men and women to live on campus," Dean Neely said. "This helps them establish study habits, helps them adjust to the routine of going to school and just generally helps in the break from home and high school to college living."

Miss Hill cited court cases in Louisiana and Virginia concerning requiring students to live on campus. "The courts decided it was legal to require students to live on campus if the college could justify it. We feel we can justify Freshmen living on campus and we are doing our best to allow free housing for the rest of the students."

Student Matching Program Offered by Placement Center

The Career Planning and Placement Center at the University of Idaho has developed an on-campus computerized placement operation to aid its Seniors and Graduate Students in their choice of employment interviews.

The project, known as Student Matching Program, was utilized last year on an experimental basis using technical students only. Because the initial test proved so successful, it has been expanded this year to all graduating seniors and graduate students, outside the education field, looking for employment.

The project is intended to assist the candidates in selecting those organizations that have the right kinds of jobs in the right locations. After this selection has been made, the candidates will then have an opportunity to either interview on campus or write to the organizations personally. This student matching project is expected to improve the entire placement operation at the University of Idaho from both the students' and companies' standpoint.

Each student utilizing the project will receive a print-out of the companies meeting the criteria established by that student. This print-out will not determine those organizations that a student must sign for nor will it preclude him from signing for interviews with companies not on his list.

Not only will the students receive a print-out of those companies that meet their criteria but the companies, as well, will receive a print-out letting them know which students are available for the jobs they want to fill.

Miller feels this project has become available at a good time because jobs are not as plentiful as they have been in recent years. The computer matching will not only bring to the attention of students those companies that are well known but should also bring out the names of organizations not necessarily well known to students at the University of Idaho.

Miller will explain the operation at several Senior Seminars — Chemistry and Engineering on September 29th and Agriculture on October 6th. He is also establishing an open date at the Student Union Borah Theater where he will further explain this project and other services available at the Career Planning and Placement Center.

The dates for the orientation session at the Student Union Borah Theater will be announced in the Argonaut at a later date.

If any students have questions about the program prior to the meetings, they should contact the Career Planning and Placement Center for further information.

Game traffic route

Spokane Police Department requests that students traveling to Saturday's game at Joe Albi stadium via Interstate 90, that they leave the freeway at the Maple Bridge Street Exit. From that point, signs will be erected and policemen will be stationed along the stadium route to direct the football game traffic.

No concrete arrangements yet for transportation to Spokane

No concrete plans have been made for transportation of students to the Washington State University — Idaho football game Saturday afternoon at Joe Albi Stadium in Spokane, according to Mrs. Imogene Rush, assistant activities director. Mrs. Rush did say that a bus may be borrowed from Washington State if enough freshman students indicate that they are willing to pay $3.50 for the round trip ride.

Earlier plans called for a car caravan with a police escort, which was used two years ago to transport students to the Albi Stadium, but the Washington State Police found a ruling in the Washington law-books which cited that they could be sued if any accident occurred during the caravan, Mrs. Rush said.

"Students are definitely willing to pay for this round trip by bus, they should come down to the SUB information desk today and sign the bus list," said Mrs. Rush. "Washington State will furnish us with a bus if and only if we can guarantee a full bus load of students.

Renting buses for the Spokane game was considered earlier in the week, but at that time it appeared that very few people were willing to pay $3.50 for the ride.

The caravan plans were disbanded after the Washington State Police announced they couldn't lead the caravan. Without a police escort, there would be no authority to keep the traffic speed of the caravan down, said Mrs. Rush.

"Students without rides or students with cars should call our offices at 6484, and will we try to arrange some rides," Mrs. Rush emphasized. Tickets are still available for the game and may be purchased at Memorial Gym. A student I.D. card or fee receipt must be shown to insure that the buyer is a student. The tickets are for seats between the 10 and 20 yard lines on the west side of Albi Stadium and the game will begin at 1:30.

Tickets same as last year

Disagreement concerning the cost of tickets and seating arrangements for students at the Washington State University — University of Idaho football game this Saturday at Spokane, Wash. raised the possibility of a student boycott of the game.

Price of student tickets will be $3, according to Mike Stanley, U of I ticket manager. U of I student seating will extend from the 5 to the 20 yard line.

W. S. U. is the home team.

Disagreement concerning the cost of tickets stemmed from the fact that Washington State University students were charged $1 plus activity card to get into 1969 University of Idaho games and that U of I students would be seated between the 15 yard and the end zone.

ASUI Senator Mike Hunter said several other ASUI Senators and himself called presidents of living groups on campus informed them of the price of tickets and asked them to check into the situation.

The U of I Athletic Department received about 300 calls asking about ticket prices according to Ed Knecht, U of I Athletic Director.

Hunter said that ASUI President Jim McFarland spoke with both Ed Knecht, U of I Athletic Director and Stanley Bates, W. S. U. Athletic Director.

McFarland was in San Francisco and unavailable for comment.

The price of tickets according to Knecht has been $3 for students from the visiting school since 1965. This included a 1966 game in which W. S. U. students were charged $3 when the game was played at Neale Stadium.

The price of tickets according to the W. S. U. Ticket Manager have been $2.50 since 1965.

The price of tickets went to $3 last year, the W.S.U. ticket manager said, but W.S.U. didn't play the U of I last year. Price for student tickets is one-half the price of reserved seat tickets.

Students have been allowed into U of I games at Rogers Field at Pullman, since Neale Stadium was condemned in 1969. The W.S.U. ticket manager said, W.S.U.

students were not allowed into U of I

—W.S.U. games for $1 and an activity card. Seats available to W.S.U. students for U of I games at Rogers Field for $1 and an activity card were seats in the end zone according to Stanley.

Seating for University of Idaho students will be in section 14 of Joe Albi Stadium, said Stanley.

Section 14 is the section for which student tickets were printed by W.S.U., said Stanley.

Hunter said he and McFarland had scheduled an appointment with Bates to discuss the ticket price and the student seating arrangements.

"Ed Knecht should be watching out for the students," said Hunter. "I don't think that U of I students can afford to pay the $3 charge for tickets and the cost of transportation to Spokane."

Hunter said that the price of tickets could not be changed for this year's game but that he and McFarland would attempt to obtain lower prices for future W.S.U. — U of I games.

To be or not to be ... telephones

By Dawn Reynolds

Telephone problems in Chrisman and Willis Sweet Halls may or may not be remedied this October when the new CENTREX telephone system is installed at the University of Idaho, depending on which official one talks to.

According to a reliable source in Chrisman Hall, the Theophilus Tower men's halls now have only one campus telephone per floor and one pay phone per hall. This creates a problem, he said, because of the large number of men living in the two halls. There are 78 men living in Willis Sweet Hall and 76 in Chrisman Hall, according to the proctors of those halls.

The telephones are located in the ironing rooms, the Chrisman Hall source said, with no booths and no privacy. "When you call home," he said, "you don't want the whole world listening."

This source said at least one more telephone was needed per hall. He said he understood that if the hall wanted another telephone, it would have to pay for it. The phone would then become a private line with a $25 deposit fee, a $10 installation fee, and a charge of $8.70 per month.

An official in the Wallace Residence Center said the situation was only temporary and when the University switched to the CENTREX telephone system in October it would mean more telephones.

Another official in the Wallace Residence Center said if the two men's halls wanted more telephones they will have to pay for them.

An official of the Student Affairs Office understood the CENTREX system would mean another telephone per floor for Willis Sweet and Chrisman Halls. This official also said the men of Theophilus Tower were made aware last year that if they voted not to have individual room telephones, they would have only one telephone per floor.

Individuals living in the Wallace Complex and Theophilus Tower can obtain a telephone for their rooms by dealing directly with the Moscow Telephone Company, according to Miss Jean A. Hill, Assistant Dean of Women. (Forney, French, and Hays Halls in Theophilus Tower already have individual room telephones. The cost of the telephone is added to each individual's room fee.) This option is open only to residents of the Wallace Complex and Theophilus Tower, Miss Hill said, because those are the only halls on campus wired for individual room telephones.

The cost for an individual room telephone, according to the telephone company, would be $10 for an installation fee, $8.70 per month for a one party line, $7.52 per month for a two party line or $6.60 per month for a four party line.

Senators, investigate before boycotting

A boycott of Saturday's football game has been rumored around campus for several days because some individual members of student government thought that the price of the tickets are unreasonable. Money right now is subject dear to the heart of every student, especially after paying more for registration and books than we had to the previous year, but several of the student senators should have investigated the ticket prices more before they blew the boycott whistle.

Yes, it is a bit steep to pay $3 a head for a football game that you have to travel about 80 miles to see and it is unfortunate from that aspect, but we must remember it's Washington State's home game, and seats for this ever popular contest are in high demand in Spokane. If Joe Albi Stadium is filled for this contest, in the long run, part of the money will come back to the University in the form of gate receipts. When either Idaho or Washington State played at Pullman, it is hard to draw a capacity crowd, because the Palouse Country population is so low.

WSU athletic director claims that when WSU plays the University of Washington in Spokane, U of W students will have to pay at least $3.50 for seating. This is another factor. As we play the bigger named teams in the country the admission price even to students is bound to go up, especially if it's the other team's home game.

A boycott is pretty powerful language to be talking, especially for a student senator. It sounds very impressive to say that WSU students have gotten into Idaho games last year at Pullman for a dollar plus their activity card, but further examination reveals that these tickets were to seats from the 15 yard line to behind the end zone.

It appears that most of the boycott is based around either misunderstanding or lack of adequate knowledge. Yes, I realize that several senators were doing their home work yesterday by checking with Mr. Knecht in our Athletic Department and Stan Bates over at WSU, but I am also aware of the fact that they phoned several living groups early in the week and suggested that the game be boycotted. In the future, they ought to investigate and find out what the facts are first, then make calls. If not, I know of several senators that may have just started their own private creditability gap. Watch for Washington Patrol

The great traditional battle of the Palouse has once again been transplanted in Spokane, the heart of the inland empire, just 90 quick minutes from Moscow in the reknown Astropit. The stadium is better known as Joe Albi Stadium, but recent improvements like the addition of astroturf, new concrete seats, (splinter proof), new concession stands and press facilities make the name "Astropit" much more appropriate.

A word of warning might be in order. Interstate 90 between Moscow and Spokane is under constant surveillance of the Washington State patrol. The speed limit is 60 m.p.h., even though it looks like freeway. When entering Rosalia, slow down because the town is a mile long, a block wide and a very well known speedtrap.

If you drink at the game or afterwards, remember this sobering thought. Washington's finest troopers are out there along the highway (hidden from sight) waiting for you. It could turn out to be a very expensive football game, especially if you get stopped. . . . or something stops you. Don't become another statistic.

Credits lowered for requirements

The credit requirements for full time undergraduate students at the University of Idaho have been reduced for administrative purposes from the current 14 semester hours to 12, following action taken Wednesday by the university's Administrative Council.

However, a student must still successfully average 16 hours for eight semesters in order to meet the minimum degree requirements for graduation at the end of four school years.

In other action, the council passed a resolution requiring that all military recruiting at the university take place in the Student Union Building or in the Placement Office located in the Adult Education Building.

The council also elected two of its members, Dr. H. Sidwell Smith, dean of the College of Engineering and Albert R. Menard, dean of the College of Law, to be incorporators and serve on the board of directors for the University of Idaho Foundation, Inc., a non-profit foundation designed to receive gifts and funds on behalf of the university.

Students enroll

Seventy-three students have enrolled in the General Studies program this semester. The program, now in its second semester, is a non-degree program for students who are unsure of their major or who are having difficulty in their college.

Since most entering freshmen are unaware of the program, there are few signed up for it. Only 19 are currently enrolled, but General Studies Coordinator Francis Seaman feels that enrollment should be up significantly within a year. This will come about, he said, when more students find out about General Studies.

Anyone interested in the program may contact either Professor Seaman or the Student Counseling Center. A brochure compiled by Professor Seaman has been distributed to all living groups. It describes the services of the counseling center and offers descriptions of introductory courses in most study areas.

U of I students sign petitions but Tony Skrbek still dismissed

By Mike Kirk
Argonaut Feature Editor

The dismissal of a faculty member is seldom a cause of grief among students. Tony Skrbek's dismissal was different. He was more than a teacher — he was, to many students, a friend.

Somewhere between 1,500 to 1,700 students signed petitions requesting a reversal of the Political Science Department's decision not to rehire Skrbek last spring. These students were encouraged by his stimulating classes, his leadership in activist causes and his involvement with other concerned individuals during the Cambodian-teach-in, and assorted Borah symposiums.

When news of the Political Science Department's decision reached President Hartung he recognized the potential value of Skrbek and formulated a plan of action which would keep him on campus.

Viewing the rising trend on most campuses toward disorder and observing Skrbek's apparent rapport with the students Hartung felt, according to the Intermountain Observer, . . . the immediate need at the University was for a man on the staff who knew the scene, knew the students and knew the problems."

The man Hartung wanted was Tony Skrbek. He wanted to place Skrbek in a new administrative position, student exchange program director. The new post deals with exchanges between Idaho and other "culturally different" campuses in this country.

It is designed to give American minority and disadvantaged students a special chance on Idaho campuses. Originally, the Board of Regents was not in favor of funding the program. At the July meeting they approved the program but would have nothing to do with Skrbek.

There were apparently some political connotations to their decision not to have him fill the post. The Intermountain Observer story reported, ". . . the board would be reluctant to accept him, or to face Gov. Samuelson if it did."

According to the Observer, Hartung said that Skrbek could be accurately described as a dedicated pacifist.

"But Skrbek's pacifism, his leadership in activist causes . . . triggered complaints about his presence from the Moscow Jaycees, through their state convention and on to the desk of Governor Samuelson. Campus Young Americans for Freedom also trumpeted the alarm," the article added.

Skrbek came to the University in 1968 to fill the vacancy created when Prof. K. H. Fan temporarily left. During that first year he was awarded "outstanding teacher of the year" by the student body.

He conducted his classes in an informal, intelligent way, attempting to instill a desire in his students to become involved in such subjects as International Relations, The Developing States and American Foreign Policy.

During the July regents meeting Skrbek had the lobbying support of Student Body President James McFarland and Student Attorney General John Orwick.

Their collective estimation of Skrbek was that he was a stimulating teacher.

The Intermountain Observer quotes McFarland as saying, "The teach-in was deliberately cathartic. Skrbek helped defuse an explosion with plans that eventually involved 1,200 students in an issue centered discussion on the Administration building steps."

And the favorable comments go on and on. The Board of Regents decision may prove to be wise, or it may be the basis for future problems. One thing seems certain — Tony Skrbek is gone, apparently to New York State for further graduate work. Many students will continue their education at the University of Idaho — hopefully in equally capable hands.

The IK Booksale will continue today and tomorrow. It will run from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and 8 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday.

Noon tomorrow is the deadline for receiving books or money from books sold at the sale, according to Mike McLaughlin, an IK. They are also no longer receiving books, he said.

SPURS are helping with the sale.

"Maybe we took him too literally when he said 'off with his head.'"

The Idaho Argonaut

The Idaho Argonaut is published Tuesdays and Fridays by the Associated Students of the University of Idaho under the authority of the Idaho Board of Regents.

Editorial offices are located in the basement of the SUB and hours are from noon to midnight on Monday's and Thursdays.

Advertising and mail circulation are co-ordinated through the Student Union Business Office and advertising material must be submitted to that office by noon Friday for Monday's paper and noon Wednesday for Friday's paper. Advertising rates are available on request.

The Argonaut is entered as second class postage in Moscow, Idaho Post Office 83843.

Studio theatre renovated

About $500 and several volunteer hours later the studio theatre and student lounge in the U-Hut have a new look. The rooms were remodeled this summer by student volunteer help and the help of Randy Welch, a fifth year architecture student who helped on work-study program, according to Dr. Edmund M. Chavez, head of the drama department.

Some of the features of the studio theatre are a new thrust stage, new floor and carpet, a proscenium arch accented by cedar strips, a new black curtain, a seating platform and new chairs. The old wiring and curtain ropes have also been replaced. The room has been repainted.

"The construction was something we could do, as students are taught to use power tools in their drama classes," Chavez said. "All the work but the technical wiring was done by students in their spare time this summer. While the basic electrical work was done by the students, other work was done by the physical plant."

The seats for the theatre were donated by Judd Kenworthy, the owner of Kenworthy Theatre at Moscow.

The stage which had been in the theatre had been built in 1915, according to Chavez. It had been used as a recreational hall by military officers who were here at that time. When the stage was torn down, old World War I posters were found underneath. Other articles from the same time were also found and given to the university library.

An informal discussion will be held at the SUB at 3:45 p.m. Friday in honor of Jim McClure, congressman from Idaho's First District. All those interested in meeting and talking with the congressman are invited to attend, according to Tom Hill, chairman of the U of I McClure for Congress Committee.

While the studio was being remodeled, a small room was built to be used as a room for working the lights. The light board has yet to be added, however.

The student lounge was also renovated this summer. The room was repainted, a carpet was donated and laid, new window shades were put up, and a couch was added.

"The renovated theatre should be fine for what it is to be used for," Chavez said. "We needed an area which would work better for the acting classes to perform

Annual competition opens for Fulbright-Hays grants

The Institute of International Education announced recently the official opening of its annual competition for grants for graduate study or research abroad, and for professional training in the creative and performing arts.

IIE is responsible for the recruitment and screening of candidates for U.S. Government Awards under the Fulbright-Hays Act as well as for grants offered by various foreign governments, universities and private donors.

Candidates who wish to apply for an award must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the beginning date of the grant and, in most cases, be proficient in the language of the host country.

Selections will be made on the basis of academic and or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed study plan, language preparation and personal qualifications.

Preference is given to applicants between the ages of 20 and 35 and to candidates who have not had prior opportunity for extended study or residence abroad, with the exception of those who have served in the armed forces.

Creative and performing artists will not be required to have a bachelor's degree, but they must have four years of professional study or equivalent experience. Applicants in social work must have at least two years of professional experience after the Master of Social Work degree. Applicants in the field of medicine must have an M.D. at the time of application.

Plans for the building were started in January and the remodeling took place this summer. The building was finished in August.

Two types of grants will be available through IIE under the Fulbright-Hays Act: U.S. Government Full Grants and U.S. Government Travel Grants.

A full award will provide a grantee with tuition, maintenance for one academic year in one country, roundtrip transportation, health and accident insurance and an incidental allowance.

A limited number of U.S. Government Travel Grants is available to supplement maintenance and tuition scholarships granted to American students from other sources.

IIE also administers certain maintenance and tuition scholarships offered by foreign governments and private donors for study in Austria, France, Germany, Iceland, Israel, Italy, Mexico, Poland, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, and Yugoslavia.

Jack Murphy, lieutenant governor, will be at the SUB Sunday at 1 p.m. for a general rap session. All interested persons are invited to attend. Murphy, a Republican, is seeking re-election to a second term as Lieutenant Governor. The meeting is sponsored by the Young Republicans.

AT LAST the fountain in front of the University Classroom Center is in operation. After several years of just cement, the fountain was put in operation last spring.

Dr. Reid to continue in present deanship in College of Mines

Dr. Rolland R. Reid, dean of the College of Mines at the University of Idaho and director of the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology, will continue in his present position instead of returning to full-time geology teaching and research, Dr. Robert W. Coonrod, academic vice president, announced Tuesday.

Reid, who was to have resigned as dean effective July 1, 1971, said he reconsidered the matter after receiving a petition signed by the faculties of the College of Mines and the Bureau of Mines and Geology, graduate students and secretaries.

"After consultation with Dr. Coonrod, alternate means were worked out so that I could devote more time to teaching while continuing on as dean," he said.

Increased needs cause fee raise

Financial needs of the 1970 Summer School and the establishment of a university computer center have caused an increase in student fees at the U of I.

Registration fees for resident students were increased from $146 to $160 a semester.

Tuition fees for non-resident students already enrolled at the university were increased from $190 to $215 a semester. Fees for non-resident students were increased from $250 to $275 a semester.

The increased tuition was approved by the U of I Board of Regents at their December meeting. It was less than recommended by U of I Financial and Administrative Vice President Sherman Carter in October of last year.

Carter recommended an increase in resident student fees of $24.

He noted in a memorandum issued in October that the percentage of Total expenditures paid by students had dropped from 6.4 per cent in 1963-64 school year to 5.8 per cent in the 1968-70 school year.

The increase he proposed would have increased the percentage of the total expenditures paid by the students to 7 per cent.

Total expenditures have risen 70.9 per cent between the 1963-64 school year and the 1968-69 school year.

In 1963 the total educational expenditures were $6,515,784. In 1968 the expenditures were $11,135,092.

WSU students involved in crash on Moscow-Pullman road yesterday

Two Washington State University students who are living on the University of Idaho campus were involved in an early morning traffic accident yesterday.

A 1965 Chevrolet two-door hardtop driven by Jay B. Parrish struck a 1963 Dodge four-door sedan driven by Robert W. Main, Hays Hall, at about 12:20 a.m. at the intersection of Perimeter Drive and State Highway No. 8, (Pullman Road).

Parrish was admitted to Gritman Memorial Hospital with scalp lacerations. He was reported in good condition last night. Main was released from the hospital after spending a night in observation. A passenger in the Main vehicle, Jerry Anderson, Hays Hall, was treated and released early yesterday morning.

The Associated Graduate Students of the University of Idaho will hold their first meeting in the SUB at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Apparently the two automobiles collided when Parrish stopped on Highway No. 8, backed into the gravel road and was proceeding south across the main road as Main was traveling east, according to the police report.

The matter is still under investigation.

Grant awarded for observatory

A $5,800 National Science Foundation matching fund grant to develop an observatory and build a telescope has been awarded to the University of Idaho's Department of Physics.

The facilities will provide an experimental basis for an undergraduate astronomy program, Dr. Thomas E. Ingerson, associate professor of physics said. He added that the program is unusual in that the students will be able to actually use the equipment themselves.

University lists regulations for qualification as resident

For tuition purposes a student may be classified as a resident of Idaho by meeting one or more of the following qualifications:

- Any student under the legal voting age whose parents or court-appointed guardian is domiciled in the state of Idaho. Domicile is deemed to exist when the parent or guardian has established residence in Idaho for an indefinite time and the former residence is abandoned. To qualify under this section the parents or guardian must be residing in the state on the opening day of the term for which the student matriculates.
- Any student, legal voting age or older, who has continuously resided in the state of Idaho for six (6) months next preceding the opening day of the period of instruction during which he proposes to attend the college or university. Provided, however, that no student shall be deemed to have gained residence while attending any college or university in the state of Idaho.
- Any student under the legal voting age who is a graduate of an accredited secondary school in the state of Idaho, and who matriculates at a college or university in the state of Idaho during the term immediately following such graduation regardless of the residence of his parent or guardian.
- The spouse of a person who is classified, or is eligible for classification, as a resident of the state of Idaho for the purposes of attending a college or university.
- A member of the armed forces of the United States, stationed in the state of Idaho on military orders.
- A student under the legal voting age whose parent or guardian is a member of the armed forces and stationed in the state of Idaho on military orders. The student, while in continuous attendance, shall not lose his residence when his parent or guardian is transferred on military orders.
- A person under the legal voting age, married, and who together with spouse, has continuously resided in the state of Idaho for six months next preceding the opening day of the period of instruction during which he proposes to attend the college or university. Provided, however, that no student shall be deemed to have gained residence while attending any college or university in the state of Idaho.
- A person separated, under honorable conditions, from the United States armed forces after at least two (2) years of service, who at the time of separation designates the state of Idaho as his home of record and enters a college or university in the state of Idaho within one (1) year of the date of separation.

These regulations became effective July 1.

SONY SUPERSCOPE

SONY 630 STEREO TAPE RECORDER IS JUST LIKE CONDUCTING YOUR OWN ORCHESTRA!

The exciting Sony/Superscope Model 630 is both a sophisticated professional-type three-head stereo tape recorder and a complete stereo control center! Simply connect an FM tuner, turntable or record changer, or another tape deck — flip the selector switch — and you instantly have any desired sound source for listening or recording! You get a hefty, 40 watts of dynamic power, making the 630 a superb nucleus of an entire stereo system. Three heads permit professional recording techniques, such as (built-in) sound-on-sound, echo effect, and source/tape monitoring. Besides a full complement of controls for unmatched versatility, the 630 has such professional features as a non-magnetizing record head, full-size illuminated VU meters, ultra-high bias frequency for lowest recording distortion, and scrape flutter filter. Frequency response is 30-22,000 Hz, wow and flutter 0.09%, and signal-to-noise ratio 50 db. Including two Sony F-45 cardioid dynamic microphones, lid-integrated stereo speakers, and other accessories, the 630 is priced at only $419.95. Let us demonstrate this impressive instrument to you now.

Positions open on ASUI committees

The ASUI will conduct a search next week for interested and willing students to fill positions on ASUI committees.

Interviews will be Sept. 21-24 and 28 from 7 to 9 in the SUB.

According to Holly Aldridge, Senate personnel director, there are a wide variety of committees needing members. These include student committees, student-faculty committees, Senate committees, ad hoc committees, Senate-created committees, and Student Service committees.

No experience is necessary to work on most of the committees, Miss Aldridge said. It is a "learn as you go process" and applicants need only be interested and willing to work, she said.

Time spent on a committee will vary with each committee. Miss Aldridge said that one or two hours are spent each week. Some committees meet once a week and some less often.

Student-faculty committees can be especially interesting since they give students the opportunity to meet and know faculty members, according to Miss Aldridge.

"If students want to change something, this is the only way they're going to do it. They should get on these committees and work!" Miss Aldridge urged.

Three committees will interview Sept. 21. The Athletic Board of Control, which advises the president on matters relating to athletics needs four undergraduate students.

The Borah Foundation Committee needs 3 students. It aids in achieving the objectives of the foundation.

Campus Affairs needs two students. This committee considers and acts upon matters primarily of a non-academic nature and discharges the faculty's legal responsibility to establish rules and regulations governing the conduct of students on campus and at authorized University activities.

The Commencement Committee will interview Sept. 22. Its function is to plan and direct commencement. Two juniors and two seniors are needed.

The Fine Arts Committee, which promotes appreciation of the fine arts, encourages cultural growth, and acquires art objects, needs two students.

The International Student Affairs Committee needs one undergraduate and one graduate student to recommend policies which will facilitate and improve the handling of all aspects of the international student program.

Interviews for the Library Affairs Committee, the Museum Affairs Committee, and Operations Council will be Sept. 23. A graduate and an undergraduate are needed to make recommendations concerning the University Library. The Museum Affairs Committee needs one more student to make recommendations relating to the Museum.

Operations Council needs one graduate student, one undergraduate hall resident, one off-campus undergraduate, and one undergraduate from a fraternity or sorority. This committee acts as an advisory body to the president.

The Student Health Services Advisory Committee, which advises the Dean of Student on general policies related to the operation of the Student Health Center, needs three students. The interviews will be Sept. 24.

The University Curriculum Committee needs two undergraduates. This committee advises and acts on policies concerning the catalog, courses, requirements, and over-all curriculum.

The Student Bookstore Advisory Committee serves to promote better understanding of the Bookstore and advises on policy and operational matters. It needs three undergraduates and one graduate student.

Three interviews will be held Monday, Sept. 28. The Public Events Committee will interview to find one undergraduate and one graduate. This committee plans, announces, and directs public events and assemblies.

The Recreation Committee needs two students. It makes recommendation to all University agencies concerned with recreation.

The ROTC Affairs Committee advises and makes recommendations concerning military education and reviews and recommends all proposed ROTC instructional appointments to the Vice-President for Academic Affairs.

Student service committees will hold interviews Sept. 23 and 24 in the SUB from 7 to 9. There are 25 committees needing members.

In the Fine Arts area, the committees are Art Exhibits, Community Concert, Mock United Nations (MUN), People to People, College Bowl, Issues and Forums, and Stereo Advisory Board.

The Art Exhibits Committee sponsors displays in the SUB. Issues and Forums provides panels and discussions of interest to students and formulates programs around current controversial issues.

A competitive program between campus living groups similar to the national television series is sponsored by the College Bowl Committee. This committee also promotes intercollegiate competition and will sponsor a regional contest this year.

Model United Nations, a politically oriented committee, gives persons interested in international affairs the opportunity to organize and compete in campus and regional MUN sessions.

Stereo Advisory Board is responsible for programming and record selection in the Stereo Lounge of the SUB.

Descriptions of these and other committees can be found in the student handbook.

In the Vandal Rally area, the committees are Pom Pon Girls, Rally Squad, Halftime and Pre-game Entertainment, and Vandal Rallies.

In the entertainment area, Bands, Films, Coffee House Entertainment, Blue Bucket, Campus Recreation, and Big Name Entertainment need members.

The Bands Committee provides dances for students. Films Committee selects all films that are shown in the Borah Theatre. Coffee House offers small entertainment such as folk singers and poets. The Blue Bucket Committee provides buffet dinners to students and parents during special events and on Sundays.

Big Name Entertainment, one of the larger committees in the Entertainment area, is in charge of booking all big name entertainers for the campus and making arrangements for their concerts. They have already selected Jose Feliciano to entertain during Homecoming.

People are needed in the Campus Events area also. This includes Parents Weekend, Homecoming, Kiddies Christmas Party, All-Idaho Weekend, and Senior Days.

Service area committees needing members are Valkyries, Charter Flight, and Personnel Recruitment.

Applications for service committees will be available at the SUB information desk.

Law school admission test set for pre-law students

Pre-law students who plan to enter the University of Idaho College of Law in September, 1971, should take the law school admission test at Moscow Oct. 17, according to Dean Albert Menard, College of Law.

Although the test will be given at various locations on Dec. 19, Feb. 13, 1971, April 10, 1971, and July 31, 1971, the October date is the most convenient because it allows advance planning, Dean Menard said. The first year class in the law school is often filled before scores from the later tests become available, he said.

The law school admissions test is a full-day test administered in two half-day sessions. Designed to predict scholastic achievement in law school and to provide information about the writing ability of law school applicants, the test yields two scores, according to Dean Menard.

One score, the LSAT, is a measure of the academic capability and the other score determines the measure of competence in writing schools. The test is required of all applicants for admission to the College of Law.

Candidates for the test should secure a copy of the Bulletin of Information, which includes the LSAT Registration Form and sample questions. It may be obtained from the office of the Dean of the College of Law in the Administration Building, Dean Menard said.

The registration form and fees must reach Educational Testing Service in Princeton, New Jersey at least three weeks before the desired test date. Test scores should be ordered sent to the College of Law of the University of Idaho, he said.

U of I awarded grant

A $7,400 NSF grant to develop an undergraduate course which will provide students with a practical background in the field of laser physics and its applications has been awarded to the University of Idaho's Department of Physics.

The university has agreed to provide funds in an amount that will match the grant.

According to Dr. Lawrence W. Davis, associate professor of physics and project director, the field of laser applications is just beginning to realize its potential. The course which he and Dr. Edson R. Peck, professor of physics, are preparing will enable students to become familiar with modern optical devices used in a variety of research and development projects by organizations such as the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

The laser is a device which emits a very intense beam of light of a single frequency or wavelength. Some of the student experiments will be concerned with sending radio and television signals from one place to another on a laser beam. Davis pointed out that one advantage in using laser beams to send signals is that unlike radio beams, these optical beams retain their intensity when sent over a long distance.

Students will also study holography, a new technique which uses lasers to make three-dimensional images of an object. This principle may someday be used in making computer storage elements or in developing a three-dimensional television system.

Women students who are not graduating in 1971 will only be required to take two credits of physical education for graduation requirements, according to General Faculty curriculum changes last spring. Women that will graduate in 1971 will still be under the catalog provision that requires two credits of physical education plus the Healthful Living class requirement. After this calendar year, the Healthful Living requirement will be nullified as a women's graduation requirement.

Freedom Through Reading IN JUST 8 WEEKS

WHILE YOU ARE KEEPING WITH YOUR REGULAR SCHOOL WORK

Gloria Potts

University Freshman

"I DIDN'T BELIEVE I COULD DO IT"

"I was a little afraid I couldn't learn the skill of reading dynamically. After the first week I was reading twice as fast and starting to concentrate more.

By the third week I started getting excited after reading the "Naked Ape" in a little over 2 hours.

During the fifth week I really noticed the difference in my study ability.

Before taking the course I had difficulty meeting my minimum reading requirements. Now I can breeze through 5 to 10 books per week. I read about 40 books in less than 8 weeks.

I am able to complete my studies in 1/5 of the time and read additional material to gain more knowledge about the subject. I am confident that my first year in college will be more enjoyable and I expect to have more free time for extra-curricular activities."

YOU Can Enjoy School And Gain Knowledge at the Same Time

We Guarantee Results Or Money Refunded

Dr. Richard A. Neve' - Graduate Dean - C.W.S.C.

"You may be interested to know that after taking your reading course a year and one-half ago, I have recommended it highly to my students and colleagues at Central Washington State College. The increased speed with which I now read, and with improved comprehension, has made it possible for me to read more, both for work and pleasure. The vast amount of material to read is no longer tedious and boring. The study skills taught in the course should be made available to students of all ages."

Vandal coaching staff brings experience to the players

In order for a football squad to be a success, players are important. But probably as important are the coaches and in the case of Idaho, they are blessed with many fine coaches with many years of experience.

This season, Don Robbins, 36, will succeed YC McNease in guiding the Vandals into the football season. His plans are to "Use the same basic offense we've employed the past two years," which means the Vandals will move the ball.

Before joining the Vandal staff in 1968 as a defensive coach, Robbins coached the Big Springs High School team in his home state of Texas and later moved to defensive coach of the University of Texas at El Paso. Robbins also worked with Paul "Bear" Bryant and also played for him at Texas A and M.

Robbins feels that recruiting is important, but he would rather have the high school athletes than the JC transfers. "With Freshmen," Robbins said, "you can develop a loyalty to the school that is missing in many junior college transfers." This year, the Vandals picked up 26 freshmen and only six junior college transfers on the national letters of intent.

His idea of a good season: "When you get the feeling when you go out on the field that you've got a chance to win each game — that's a good season."

Ed Troxel, in his fourth year as a staff member at Idaho, has a background of success in all of his coaching fields. Troxel had a 79-4-2 football record at Borah High School in Boise for nine years. Before his years in Boise he was coach at the College of Idaho in Caldwell.

He has been a prime mover in setting up the off-season conditioning program with weights and also acts as the studies counsellor for the members of the football team. Troxel is highly regarded as a top recruiter of the Boise area.

Troxel will serve as the freshmen coach and will also be the track coach in the spring.

Bob Thompson comes to Idaho from Oklahoma State University where he served under Coach Phil Cutchin. Thompson, in his second year, also took on additional duties as the head wrestling coach for the Vandals.

Thompson started in the coaching ranks at Highland High School in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he coached his team to a 17-5 record in two years and was named the high school coach of the year in his second year. From there he jumped to Oklahoma State and was there for three years before coming to Idaho.

Fred Morris is a new member of the Idaho staff, coming in the winter of this past year.

Morris had been an assistant coach at Mississippi State for the past three years and previous to his collegiate coaching, he was a veteran high school coach with an outstanding record in Mississippi for 13 years.

Gary Withrow, also a new member to the Idaho staff, was a former staff member at Southwest Missouri at Springfield, Missouri. He played his collegiate football at Kansas State College and then started in the coaching ranks at Hutchinson JC in Kansas. He also served on the staff at Kansas State University.

Ray Fulton brings to Idaho a wide experience in coaching football as he makes his debut with the Idaho staff. Fulton came to the Vandals from New Mexico Highlands University where he was the defensive coordinator.

He coached at Perrytown, Texas, Liberal and Wichita, Kansas, before moving to the college ranks where he started as head football coach and athletic director at Pratt JC in Kansas.

The newest member of the Idaho coaching staff is Keith Lincoln former Washington State star and all-pro with the San Diego Chargers and the Buffalo Bills of the AFL.

Lincoln will work as a part time assistant while doing graduate work and he will help coach the ends and the running backs.

Idaho meets WSU in Palouse battle

The oldest football rivalry in the Pacific Northwest will be renewed on Saturday when the Idaho Vandals meet the Washington State Cougars at Joe Albi Stadium. Kick-off time is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

This will be the 70th meeting between the two teams with Idaho winning 17 and losing 49. There were also three ties. The last time the teams met was in 1968 when Washington State won 14-7 at Albi Stadium.

Both teams go into the game following losses last week. Idaho was downed by Air Force 45-7 and Washington State was defeated by Kansas 48-31.

If Idaho is to win, much will depend on how much the offensive unit has improved since the Air Force game. "We must get better performances from our quarterbacks and although I felt that both Steve Olson and Tom Ponciano did a credible job, I felt that they looked a little rusty," said head coach Don Robbins.

Robbins said there were no serious injuries after the Air Force game and he hopes that Jack Goddard, split end and Larry Bosma, 270-pound center, could return this week. Both players missed the opening game due to injuries.

"We did have a few bright spots with our young athletes and although we did not move the offense the way we planned, our staff thought that Randy Peterson and Fred Riley ran well," Robbins said. "Darrell Burchfield, sophomore from Boise, caught four passes and defensively Bill Cady and Ron Linehan impressed the staff."

Robbins hopes for repeat performances from center, Ken Muhlbeier, who won the All-Idaho award at the Air Force game as the Vandals' most valuable player, Tim Reese, who won the top defensive award and Burchfield, who won the offensive award. The awards were voted by the coaching staff after reviewing the films of last week's game.

Washington State has 25 lettermen, a bumper crop of junior college transfers and talented prospects from the undefeated 1969 freshman team going into Saturday's game.

Upcoming sophomore quarterback Ty Paine, from Billings, Montana is the player everyone will be watching at Cougarville this season. The 6-3, 200-pounder was a key performer in four straight wins hung up by the Cougar Frosh last fall and his showing against Kansas, where he hit 13 of 23 passes for 183 yards was impressive.

The Cougars return five of seven offensive line starters from their 1969 team and since veteran Ed Armstrong was voted another year of eligibility and 1968 starter Bruce Abbott, is back after an injury, they could put an all-veteran line on the field.

Coach Jim Sweeney also has considerable returning talent in his offensive back field. Running backs Bob Ewen, and Kenny Lyday, Wichita Falls, Texas, started at the running back spots last year.

The defense will require a lot of rebuilding, but they will build around veterans Terry Durst, and Pete Lazzarini. All have had experience on last year's line.

Intramural managers plan fall program

The student managers of the intramural athletic association met Wednesday night in Memorial Gymnasium to discuss events for the coming year.

Clem Parberry, director of Intramural activities, welcomed the representatives of the various living groups and encouraged them to participate to the fullest possible extent in all intramurals. A complete review of the general rules of the intramural department was then conducted by Jim Dowty.

Track stars to assist

Dick Douglas and Rick Smith, two former track stars for the University of Idaho will be assisting head coach Ed Troxel in the cross country and track programs.

This fall, Douglas, a distance star from 1960-64 will be working with the cross country team and Smith, who is famed in the discus, will assist in the weight program for the track squad.

Douglas is best known for breaking the Idaho record in the three-mile with a time of 14 minutes and 14 seconds. He is originally from London, England, and he was discovered by Idaho following the AAU northwest track meet in the fall of 1968.

Smith is another record holder for the Vandals. The four-year letterman from Boise set his first Idaho record in the spring of '68 by throwing the discus 172' 9" and he broke the record the next year with a throw of 181' 2".

Both coaches are graduate students and are working as student assistants.

The agenda centered around the fall sports calendar. A golf tournament was scheduled for Oct. 3 on the University Golf Course. Each living group will be represented by five players with only the top four scores being tabulated, according to Parberry. Entries are due by noon Sept. 23.

The annual tennis tournament will consist of three entries from each living group in single elimination competition. Entry deadline was set for noon Sept. 28.

Parberry cited the new swimming facilities as a boost to the intramural program. He expects the pools to be completed by Oct. 1. Determination of a swimming events schedule was placed in the hands of a newly-formed committee.

A drawing to form new touch football leagues concluded the evening's business. Some changes in the scheduling format were approved with opening games slated for Tuesday.

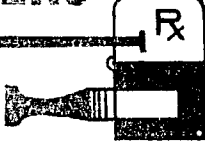

New club to be organized

An astronomy club is organizing at the U of I according to George Patsakos, in the physics department. The first meeting for anyone interested will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday in room 1 of the Physical Science Building.

A tour of the facilities available in the Department of Physics will be held and future plans will be discussed.

Patsakos said that both experts and novices are welcome. Interested persons who cannot attend the Wednesday meeting should leave their names and addresses with the secretary in the Department of Physics office, he said.

Congress OF THE United States begun and held at the City of New York, on Wednesday the Fourth of March, one thousand seven hundred and eighty nine.

THE Conventions of a number of the States having, at the time of their adopting the Constitution, expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abuse of its powers, that further declaratory and restrictive clauses should be added: And as extending the ground of public confidence in the Government, will best insure the beneficent ends of its institution:

RESOLVED, by the SENATE and HOUSE of REPRESENTATIVES of the UNITED STATES of AMERICA in Congress assembled, two thirds of both Houses concurring. That the following Articles be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States, as Amendments to the Constitution of the United States; all, or any of which articles, when ratified by three fourths of the said Legislatures, to be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of the said Constitution, viz.

ARTICLES in addition to, and Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America, proposed by Congress, and ratified by the Legislatures of the several States, pursuant to the fifth Article of the Original Constitution.

- Article the first* After the first enumeration required by the first Article of the Constitution, there shall be one Representative for every thirty thousand, until the number shall amount to one hundred, after which, the proportion shall be so regulated by Congress, that there shall be not less than one hundred Representatives, nor less than one Representative for every forty thousand persons, until the number of Representatives shall amount to two hundred, after which, the proportion shall be so regulated by Congress, that there shall not be less than two hundred Representatives, nor more than one Representative for every fifty thousand persons.
- Article the second* No law, varying the compensation for the services of the Senators and Representatives, shall take effect, until an election of Representatives shall have intervened.
- Article the third* Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.
- Article the fourth* A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.
- Article the fifth* No Soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.
- Article the sixth* The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.
- Article the seventh* ... No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or Naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.
- Article the eighth*.... In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defence.
- Article the ninth*.... In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact, tried by a jury, shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.
- Article the tenth*.... Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.
- Article the eleventh* .. The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.
- Article the twelfth* ... The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.
