

how the weather...

changes so quickly in Moscow???

THE IDAHO ARGONAUT

Vol. 77 No. 25

65) a firs

atchei atting

ses ir

therr

er and

a .542

h the 1964)

d was vell ir

st

r the rday.

n the

each

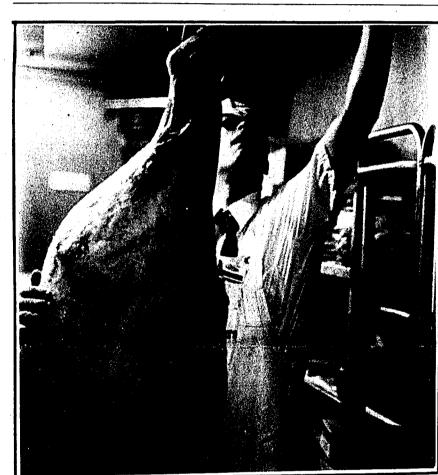

m. at

ut 100

about

seats.

ck

Previous patients question Health Center's competence

Bv KENTON BIRD Argonaut Staff Writer

Are University of Idaho students getting the quality of nealth care that they should?

That's a difficult question to answer. Most people seem fairly satisfied with the service that the Student Health Center provides.

But the Argonaut has learned of several cases of alleged improficiency on the part of the health center. Appendicitis problem

Perhaps the most serious of these incidents involved a girl who had appendicitis last semester. The girl, who asked not to be identified, told the Argonaut she went to the health center complaining of a pain in her stomach. She was admitted to the infirmary for observation, but appendicitis was not diagnosed, she said. Then several days later, the pain went away suddenly

Two days later, doctors noticed an abnormally high white blood cell count and called in a specialist (a downtown Moscow surgeon). He determined that the girl's appendix had ruptured two days before (that was why the pain had ceased). She was immediately taken to Gritman Hospital where extensive surgery was performed.

ΎΙ think we're pretty capable of handling most cuts and broken bones." --Dr. Robert Leonard

Friday, April 27, 1973

Beef profits:

who gets what

By Maryjude Woiwode Argonaut Staff Writer

The beef price dilemma has raised nation-wide protest and many unanswered questions. Why are prices high? Will they ever come back down? Who is making a profit from the increase?

John Jacobs assistant professor of animal industries at the U of I named a number of reasons for the price rise. "First of all." he said. "the demand this year is high. About five years ago, each American was eating about 60 pounds of beef a year. Now it is up to 118 pounds. Second, the supply of beef cattle has declined, and farmers cannot raise enough steers to meet the demands of the feedlot operators.

Jacobs explained that farmers cannot raise as many cattle because the price of grain has risen. This is because the US is selling its surplus wheat and barley to Russia. Since the supply of grain decreased, the price went up.

Another reason for the beef shortage is that severe blizards swept the cattleraising states this winter. Thousands of cows were lost that could have produced calves, Jacobs said.

Beef unavailable

"There are world shortages of beef because of the increase in population." says Jacobs. "When President Nixon lifted the import quota on beef. it did not effect the American market because beef was just not available.

Economics professor David Campbell said, "When the import quota on beef was imposed, Australia started looking for other markets for her beef. Japan, for instance, will pay about $3.50 per pound for it." When the quota was lifted, he explained, the US wasn't affected because Australia already had other buyers for their beef.

Jacobs noted that in the past, the, farmer could lease federal land for grazing. Recently, the government has cut back these privileges to allow more space for recreation. "If the farmer loses his grazing rights," said Jacobs, "he can raise less cows and the beef supply will be cut back even further." Since the supply of red meat will decrease, prices will remain high

Economist disagrees

Some economists see things differently. One economics professor here said "The government used to pay farmers for not growing crops. They have begun to abandon this practice. This means that farmers will raise more grain, thus lowering the prices. In turn, the cost of raising cattle will decrease. The end result is the lowering of red meat prices unless the demand for beef rises faster than the supply.

As far as profit goes, farmers, retailers and economists agree that each person along the way gets some share. The meat Department Manager at Rosauer's. Keith Bieren said, "But I don't thing anyone is making a haul on this.

Several persons are involved in the beef (continued on page 4)

ortunately, the ruptured appendix was discovered in time and her health is no satisfactory, she said.

Another student, Bob Black of Theta Chi, told the Argonaut he injured his ankle and went to the health center. The ankle was x-rayed, he was told it was broken, and a cast was put on it. he said.

Several weeks later, he got the cast wet and it was obvious that a new cast would need to be put on. This was over spring vacation and the health center was closed, so Black went to another doctor downtown.

New x-rays

Since the other doctor couldn't use Black's original x-rays to put on a new cast because the health center was closed, he took a new x-ray of the ankle.

"He came out and showed me the x-ray," Black said, "and asked me if I saw a break in the ankle. I told him I didn't. He said, 'That's funny, neither do I.'

Black said the downtown ductor's diagnosis was that it was probably just a bad sprain and that he should stay off the ankle for awhile.

X-ray shown

When asked to comment on this incident. Dr. Robert Leonard of the health center showed this reporter the x-ray report from Bob Black's health file.

Leonard explained that all x-rays from the center are sent to a radiologist downtown who then returns them with a report. The x-ray report for Bob Black said "fracture.... right ankle" and was signed by the radiologist.

"As far as we're concerned, that's proof that the ankle was broken." Leonard said. Not Center's fault

So from this observation, it appears that any mistake or mix-up with the x-rays was not on the part of the health center.

But Black contends the mistake was there at the infirmary. "That place is just worthless, and you can quote me." he said.

Dennis Burkhartsmeier, another Theta Chi student, told us what happened when he was injured one evening last semester. Burkhartsmeier went through a window and had a bad cut in his side.

Poor healing

He went to the health center and "after about an hour, a doctor came and stitched it up." Later, Burkhartsmeier noticed that the cut didn't seem to be healing properly.

"I went to another doctor downtown and the first thing he said was 'That looks like an infirmary job," Burkhartsmeier said. "He said he knew right away where it was from - it wasn't stitched close enough. He commented that it didn't look like a professional job.

Burkhartsmeier said the doctor couldn't do anything about it because it had been too long and it was too late to restitch it. "Now I've got a scar that's about an inch wide because of it." he said.

Mono diagnosed

A slightly different situation was reported by one girl, who also asked to remain anonymous. "I had a really bad sore throat and went to the health center." she said. "They took a blood test and diagnosed it as mono (mononucleosis).

The girl said she was admitted into the infirmary, and the doctor she usually sees told her not to worry about it and just keep going to class. "He didn't even see why I should be in the (continued on page 5)

What hands is your body in?

The Infirmary

The history and class use of the U of I observatory is revealed in an article found on page 3.

Observatory

Budget and tenure in the Agricultural Science department are discussed on page 3 Dean Auttis Mullins gives his comments on the situation.

Agriculture

The U of I Health Center is a subject of interest to many students, especially to those personally involved. The continuation of this front page story appears on page 5.

THE IDAHO ARGONAUT Nine period class days --

ate are as follows:

equest. same) request. same)

request, $335)

salary)

something.

amazed

of I publication, 1998

For instance

executive request, $12,200)

executive request, same)

Twist of irony

2. Golf Course: $62.000 (executive

3. Department of Justice: $3,331.50

4. Coffee House: $1.425 (executive

5. Rally Services: $715 (executive

6. Student Services Board:

$67.50/month salary for Program

Director (executive request, $90/month

"All that is required for mediocrity to

- from "The Rosy Cheek Papers" a U

The twistings of mediocrity and the

neculiar brand of irony which exists at the U of I sometimes leave one a little

- the passage of the

triumph. is for mediocre people to do

EDITOR ROD GRAMER

ASSOC. EDITOR BARB BALDUS

Comment and Opinion

Our goal is information and our message is peace.

The "solid seven" picking on Rose

Alan Rose's name has been more common around this University this semester than the presence of President Hartung. The average student may be tired of hearing of Rose's plight and indeed up until now. everyone believed that Rose would, in the end, be maintained in the foreign language department.

This assumption was made on the record which Rose holds with his students, with his Ph.D. advisor in England and with the recent decision by the Regents to open up the position of senior advisor. a position that Rose is seemingly ideal for.

At this time however, it is apparent that Rose, in short, is getting the shaft.

By student support Rose has proven he is an excellent teacher. By letters written by his advisor he has demonstrated that, not only has he got the potential for research, but he is good at research.

And the Regents and administration have shown that they completely support maintaining instructors like Rose who are excellent teachers but have no Ph.D.

There is no apparent reason that Rose should have been slighted out of the senior instructor position last week.

What is interesting to note is that there is a strong bloc against Rose in the language department \rightarrow namely the "Solid Seven'' who seem to stick together like elmer's glue when a vote on Rose comes up.

The only factor that is cohesive enough to hold these seven together is the mutual biases these people have against Rose.

It is hoped that when Rose's last try before the appeal board comes up next week, the board will find itself open minded enough to look at Rose's qualifications and shut out the sickening biases of the "Solid Seven" anti-Rose block. -GRAMER

Whatever happened to lunch hour?

Continuing this time on a subject similar to Tuesday's, the time schedule. A committee headed by Registrar Matt Tellin has been studying the time schedule and a proposal and alternative were presented to Faculty Council Tuesday. The first would be a nine period day running from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the alternate would start an hour later with an eight period day.

Among the advantages listed for this would be that the "prime time" periods of third through fifth would have the addition of another hour during this period and the added advantage of eliminating in part the noon hour traffic congestion.

Cooperation with WSU Probably the best advantages would be that this would allow easier cooperation

The President's Column Carl Wurster 7. The presidential and senate budgets were approved as requested with a 10 per cent cut in the president's and vice president's salaries. Items which the Senate will be considering next week will be the Community Concerts budget and the General Communications budget. I would be interested in any public comment concerning the advisability of funding Community Concerts, as it came to the Senate with no recommendation from the Currently the Senate is considering the Senate Finance Committee. The Executive budget in a committee of the Executive budget contained a request of whole. Parts which have been affirmed to $2.745. The money goes for dues to bring concerts to campus. which students can attend free of charge with the activity 1. Big Name Entertainment: $10.000 card

The State Board of Education will be meeting at the State Office in Boise on May 10 and 11. Hopefully at this time the Associated Student Body President's Council will be incorporated into Board policy

Senate Bill Nine, giving Communications Board the right to transfer up to $200 four times a year for equipment without Senate approval. will come from GOA next week. as will Communications Board appointments: See you all at Blue Mountain III.

Chubby Checker at Idaho

a case named after you - "The Mystery of the Rosy-Cheeked Chiseler" by G.

No Ph.D. necessary

Who?)

teaching.

with the WSU/UI cooperative course offerings because there would be a half hour between starting times at the two institutions. This could result. according to the study. in "Potential savings by exploiting the WSU co-op course concept. especially for departments with small enrollments.

Rambling On

There are plans to expand the co-op program to include more undergraduate courses in the near future and the staggered time for classes would be of advantage.

Another advantage mentioned by Tellin Tuesday was that the Residence Hall Food Service office has pushed for a staggered system with no "off hour" for some time now. They reason that at present the hours of service are staggered over nearly two hours and the plan would eliminate rush periods that now center around noon. This, however, brings up a disadvantage in that most fraternities and sororities serve sit-down dinners at noon and would probably have to switch to buffet style.

Committees in jeopardy

Another disadvantage of the new system would be that a great number of committee meetings now scheduled for noon involving both students and faculty would be in jeopardy. This could force a good number of committees to change to night meetings. There is also a potential conflict with public schools with a resulting traffic problem.

Two and a half years ago. Professor Lloyd Peterson of the School of Music proposed a similar system of continuing classes during the noon hour. That was turned down by the Faculty Council.

Night classes proposed

The schedule study also recommended that more classes, especially those involving more than one section, be held at night. As part of the WSU co-op program, more classes in the co-op will be held at night to allow a single, threehour meeting rather than forcing before next fall. One problem that could come up is that of a student who has classes all day and can't arrange a schedule for anything else. That person would have a problem getting lunch, a situation that doesn't occur now because there is always at least one free period.

Dave Warnick

The senate is considering the budget, a procedure that always seems to drag on One thing that seems almost alarming is the figure they are considering for a General Reserve, which is the unallocated figure after all the remaining money has been budgeted

Many experts figure for a 10 per cent reserve and this has been the figure most of the time in the past. However, they are currently considering about a $5500 GR as a minimum and it doesn't look like they will be much above this. Last year the budgeted GR was about $20,000 and through varying expenses, this figure has dropped to around $5000.

If this figure goes through, the senate had better not plan on any Black Cultural Week's coming up or any other major expenses to be drawn from the reserve. It had also better not have any emergency situation such as a lawsuit come up There wouldn't be the money to foot the bills in such a case.

- a position was needed where a person could remain and just be teacher. First twist of irony. So it was passed by the Faculty Council.

General Faculty and the Regents.

After all, it would not be necessary to have a Ph.D. to gain the rank, one would (Possibly another twist of irony - the just have to have shown outstanding same faculty who were perfectly willing to put in the "up or out" policy just a few

The first twist of irony is that the years ago, now put in something to solve the problems it has created.) original policy which created such

someone to travel nine miles three t a week The proposal was assigned an agenda number and will probably not surface

Loren Horsell

senior instructor rank, which established essentially a strictly teaching position. There would be little if any advancement out of the position - although someone holding the rank would get increases in salary and eventually could be granted tenure.

It was first introduced in Faculty Council. and in the debate one kept hearing the reference - "It would certainly solve such problems as the Rose Case." (Wouldn't it be an ego trip to have problems as the "Rose Case" was designed to prevent department chairmen and other administrators from keeping faculty from advancing, just leaving them in a low-salaried "instructor" position for ages

Well, it didn't work the way it was supposed to - it was supposed to bring about more and swifter advancement from instructor rank. Instead, the policy known as "up or out", which said that either an instructor be advanced or dismissed after three years, brought about more dismissals.

''Just a teacher'

And one of these dismissals became a case, that of Alan Rose. The students pointed out that the policy wasn't working

Viewpoints

Officials reprimand Arg editorial

To The Editor:

Following Tuesday's editorial about cutting down the Argonaut, we now take advantage of the fact that it is a bi-weekly paper by writing this response to Mr. Gramer's criticism. One of the classical problems of press coverage is timing. In preparing for Tuesday's edition. the editor must have had no knowledge of the fact that the reasoning behind cutting the Argonaut in half had already been found to be faulty. But, in his editorial, he didn't point out the right reasons for our mistake. It has been found that the amount of printing expense the paper has incurred is not as large as we had at first thought. There is a good chance that the paper will have as much as $8,000 left in its budget at the end of the year. The amount of money saved by cutting to a weekly paper would only be about $3,000.

Then the foreign language department turns down Rose for promotion to "senior instructor.

(That's worth about three twists of irony - what's really ironical is that they used essentially the same reasons for turning him down for this as they did for promotion to assistant professor. And yet research competence has nothing whatsoever to do with this position. (Another case of joking through the tears.)

Not in English

Then the tenured faculty of the English department met and decided that they weren't going to have anyone promoted to this position - it would be departmental policy.

We can, however, trim the budget for the Argonaut without affecting its quality.

Since they did not spend their full allocation this year, we can cut by the amount not spent and still have the same number of issues, the same fine

journalistic stature. The revised budget

presented to the Senate Tuesday night

reduced the printing expense by $5,000 to $24.000. still a conservative figure based

The Budget Director and Vice President are not playing political games and are not narrow-minded. We are just trying to find extra money in a tight

budget for programs (Big Name

Entertainment) and services (Outdoor Recreation) that the students have shown

.Rick Smith ASUI Budget Director

Mike Mitchell ASUI Vice-president

on this year's experience.

they want

The reasons they gave were a little spacious - for instance that you might end up with a lot of women in the position. resulting in sex discrimination since this is comparatively a lower-paying position. Yet (another twist) according to a study of the Women's Center, the English department is already one of the prime villains in salary differences between male and female faculty members.

Foreign language considers

And then comes a final twist, for the moment. The foreign language department. (That is everybody in it, not just the tenured faculty who didn't promote Rose) meet to consider the English department's àction. Guess what they did?

Well, to quote from the document:

"The Department of Foreign Languages accepts the rank of senior instructor with enthusiasm and may wish to avail themselves of the rank. Oh really.

Salary cuts urged

To the Editor:

This letter concerns the recent "fee" increase and the cuts in the agriculture program

One of the main focuses of the U of I has been and will be agriculture. Why was it necessary to cut back this program?

If we are to believe the administration. the school is in serious money problems and departments must cut back. Is or is not the function of the University education in various fields? If this is so I feel that the administration should show the rest of the University how sericus this is, and to justify the cutbacks by voting themselves salary cuts - starting with the president and Board of Regents

Advertising Manager.

Photographers:

Staff Artist .

STEVE BARGE

HM HUGGINS

CRAIG EVANS

MIKE MUNDT

SCOTT HANFORD

Sinch B¹ Pilen

Writer replies to Publishing or Perishing

To the Editor:

Replying to Carla Hoeger's letter is not as easy as it first might seem. For her imagination is so fertile that it is difficult to know where to begin. She says that Idaho's educational establishment is single-minded in cracking the whip over every faculty member's head to 'publish or perish' when there is not one iota of evidence to back this claim. She says that Idaho's tenured commisars of quality are demanding that instructors complete their doctoral degrees in spite of the fact that she knows good teachers who have 'only an MA degree'. Let me kick off this letter by saying that I believe I was just such a person in my two years of teaching at a college in another state. I was popular, people said I was a good teacher. So what? Rather than coercing students of a pro-me position to mount a crusade in my behalf and against the partisans of evil who said, "no Ph.D. no permanent job". I packed my bags and headed to Idaho to work on said degree even though it would put me thousands of dollars in debt with no prospect of a job at the conclusion of the program.

The letter is right in one point. "the amount of material published is no indication of a person's teaching ability." Amen to that! I have shared her and it is fortunate that students and departments are finally realizing this. You have to mix it up with a class in order to interest their apathetic selves in any subject. Some college instructors are afraid of people. let alone college age people. Others prostitute themselves to the wishes of their constituents. which is just as bad. When hiring a person, how does one know the candidate's teaching ability? Many graduate students applying for their first job have never taught. Whose recommendations on the subject can a hiring committee believe? To this item. I agree. "taxpayers and legislature" as well as those in personnel should give serious consideration. Another crisis situation comes in the experience of having dozens of people with considerable degrees behind their names who have been lousy teachers.

Teaching is largely inborn, not taught.

heavy bias in classes, especially by instructors in the social and behavioral sciences and language arts. Evidently while the federal government and "affirmative action" committees are very concerned about slighting minorities or women in hiring procedures. no consideration is given to philosophical balance. The 90 per cent who are tirelessly devoted to one political party and the causes of one ideology are concerned not with fairness but with reproduction. Finally, the writer might rejoice at the removal of "tenured" positions anywhere. I am not speaking for staff cutbacks necessarily but there is more likelihood of trimming there than in administration, where Parkinson's law has been honed to a fine point. Tenure assures those who make it of a future insulated from scholarly production. Many instructors take advantage of this University job and incompetency insurance program.

Teaching is an art based on skill and information. A University professor in most fields cannot present anything to his students without a doctoral degree evidencing formal training and some research. A publishing person interested in a variety of projects enhances his teaching if he is not called upon to teach too broad a load. If I did not believe this, I would be crving about my former job like the infantile followers of certain sour grapes instructors.

The letter held some good points, but the qualifications of having a "GPA above 3.0" and being a "Resident Advisor" hardly qualify the lady to see the issue from all perspectives.

Bruce Rickerson Sincerely. Political Science

THE IDAHO ARGONAUT

THE IDAHO ARGONAUT is published by the Associated Students of the University of Idaho twice weekly uesdays and Fridays.

The offices are located in the basement of the Student Union Building, Deakin Avenue, Moscow 83843. THE IDAHO ARGONAUT is entered as second class postage at the post office Moscow, Idaho 83843.

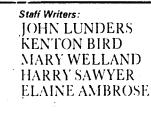

Letters to the Editor may be accepted for publication provided they are properly submitted before 2 p.m. of the day preceding publication. All letters must be typewritten and are limited to a maximum length of 250 words. Letters to the Editor must be signed and the author's name and address must appear legibly. The author's name will be withheld from publication on request.

ROD GRAMER Associate Editor BARB BALDUS Design Manager:

Editor.

WENDY YOUNGS News Editors:

DORIS THOMAS LINDA HINRICHSEN Feature Writer. MARY SOCHINSKY

Sports: MARSHALL HALL

Political Columnist: LOREN HORSELL

Political Writers: BETTY HANSEN DAVE WARNICK MARGI BIRDT RALPH KLIEM Entertainment.

HM STACK JEFF STODDARD PAUL SPEER CHRIST VLACHOS

Mullins explains agriculture college cuts

By Dave Warnick Argonaut Political Writer

sell

agenda surface

is that ay and iything

oblem

ioesn't

ays at dget, a rag on ting is for a s the aining

r cent

e most

ev are

GR as

e they

ar the

0 and re has senate

iltural

major

rve. It

genev

ie up ot the little

might sition

e this ition.

to a nglish

prime tween

or the uage

it. not

didn`t

r the reign

senior

v wish

'fee'

ilture

Inas

vəs it

ation

blems

or is rsity

s so I.

show

s this oting

with

Pilen

1

1

ت .

1

"Our action is just a hard cold business fact." said Dean Mullins commenting on the termination and reclassification of 19 faculty members in the College of Agriculture.

He went on. "When you run a business for three years below cost by cutting back all capital outlay, and all plant improvement. and putting that in the operating budget; we had no real alternative but to cut programs.'

Mullins said the 1973-74 budget was $874.652 less than had been sought. He said that although the stress in reports has been given to cut-backs in federal funds. this was not the only factor.

Funds problems in '69

The funding by the state has been lagging behind since 1969 according to Mullins. 1973's support fund figure for the Agricultural Experiment Station is $497.971 less than the college should have had just taking into account 8 per cent inflation since 1970 said Mullins.

"This lack of support funds is an over-riding factor." The amount appropriated for support funds in 1973 is $777.082. "And when you compare that with the almost $500,000 we need just to keep up, you can see the problem." commented Dean Mullins.

Most students new Other problems which put a financial burden on the college. leading to the Regent's action. were pointed out by the Dean. "We're teaching approximately 100 more students than in 1963, with today the same number of teachers." However, the Dean added that through reorganization and realignment of the college they're doing an equal if not better job.

After the "state of emergency" was declared by the Board of Regent's, the administration of the College of Agriculture. and several programs and personnel were terminated or reclassified. The total deficit made up from terminating and re-classifying amounts to $328,876.

According to Dean Mullins. another $545,776 in new positions. and expanded program requests and new equipment was put off. These two figures make up for the steps necessary for the construction of a

Even for a small uncomplicated

building such as this, it's necessary,

Ingersol said. to get permission from the Regents and the legislature and it takes time and money. so he found another method of accomplishing his end. Several junior high, high school and University students volunteered their time, and with money provided by the Physical

Science Department, they built an ob-

They would have preferred to have used bedrock. he said, but there are too many feet of Palouse dirt beneath our feet for that. The next problem was the dome on the Physical Science building that needed to be on the observatory. Without equipment or money, it looked like a

Dome moved

Ingerson called a general in the National Guard who said he'd be happy to move the dome as a training exercise.

One day in the spring of 1971. a helicopter picked up the dome and placed it on

The structure is used mainly by astronomy students. Ingerson has, he said, tried to get away from the usual

stereotyped lab in which one mixes two chemicals together. they turn green and a neat little lab report is written to show

these results. Instead, he's trying to allow

each student to proceed at his own pace

the finally completed observatory.

rather difficult task.

servatory on twenty feet of concrete.

difference between the College's request of and the appropriated figure which was $874,652

Observatory enhances astronomy class

new building.

Everyone knows how hard it is to get up for those eight o'clock classes. If you were a student of astronomy you'd discover what it was like to get up for class at 3:30 a.m. Dr. Tom Ingerson teaches astronomy to about sixty students interested in the movements of the heavenly bodies.

This course is possible partially because the observatory belonging to the University is located a short distance from the old Pullman highway. The observatory is equiped with a 16-inch Schmidt-Cassegrain telescope, which allows the students to photograph the planets they observe.

Getting the observatory was quite a complicated process, Ingerson said. When the Physical Science Building was constructed, an observatory was placed on top. Unfortunately, this was poor planning because the vibration of ventilators and motors in the building prevents proper use of the equipment. Also, the area is too well-lighted, and an observatory should be in a fairly remote spot

Conditions bad

Three years ago. Ingerson received a $12,000 grant to buy a telescope. but with conditions as they were. he refused to place it where the vibrations would make such a sensitive instrument useless. He set out to build a new observatory. After procuring the site closest and most suitable for the project, he looked into the

Hog Heaven means bluegrass

By Jackie Johnson Argonaut Staff Writer

Spring is here and the Blue Mountain

Rock Festival, as a sort of initiation.

comes with it. In fact, the festival is next

Saturday.

to wherever we're playing just 'cause they like the music.

'Bluegrass grew up in the Appalatians. I lived in North Carolina and every weekend there'd be these festivals. Musicians would come and there'd be a 1.000 people there. This was true from Virginia through Georgia." Brown said. "They'd be mostly mountain people but a and pursue what he finds the most interesting. He outlines a set of well-defined goals they can choose from which require no reports but only visual proof of completion. Goals include such things as photographs of sunspots. looking for astroids or comets, computer work, discovering the temperature of stars by the color of the light they produce, and other activities.

No time

After the initial orientation sessions, the lab has no set meeting time. The students get together when the weather conditions and the position of the heavenly bodies is correct. If it's necessary to use the observatory in the middle of the night. Ingerson has been known to get up and be there when the students come. It is possible to borrow keys. Besides the lab, there is an Astronomy lecture class. Both can be taken independently of the other.

New plans are in the offing for the telescope. Because it's still too close to city lights, it can't be used for in-depth research. The physical science department has been granted funds to build a mobile lab so the bus available will be the vehicle for a mobile observatory. A new mount is being built to accomodate this unusual operation. Some spots in the mountains to the east have been chosen as sites. When this is accomplished, the telescope will have the dual functions of research and teaching.

There are occasional open houses at the observatory so that everyone can see the facility. Of course the best way to gain access is to take Astronomy and do a little star gazing yourself.

an the same is Plastino comments on school funding

(Ben Plastino, vice president of Idaho's parents Association and editor of the Idaho Falls Post-Register comments on the Legislature and Idaho higher education in the following article

Perhaps the most devastating blow, the legislature violated the Idaho Constitution by failing to appropriate sufficient funds and forced the board of regents to approve student fee increases to balance the University of Idaho 1973-74 operating budget. Out-of-state tuition will rise to $450 a semester, to $900 a year, and in-state students go up $12 a semester. to $190. In addition board-rates in the Residence Hall system were raised. Instead of encouraging Idaho students to go to Idaho schools, the legislature is forcing financially-pressed students and their families to pay more. Considering the legislature is well-heeled as witnessed by hoarding $5 million in a "contingency fund," serious doubts are raised on the state government's performance in the field of higher education. The increase will net the University some $144,000 to help make up the underfunding of some half million for the university. The university president. Dr. Ernest Hartung, and Financial Vice President Sherman Carter, ignored the students' opposition to the fee increase. said Roy Eiguren, the outgoing student body president.

Perhaps the worst offender is a farmer. William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, speaker of the House, who sent a letter to Dr. Hartung pointing out what he said were reprinted from the Post-Register with . 3 permission.)

Higher education in Idaho has made tremendous strides in recent years.

As result of out-of-state colleges abruptly raising student fees. especially those for out of state, Idaho students have been attending Idaho schools in greater numbers, primarily the University of Idaho, Idaho State University and Boise State College.

This trend can't help but benefit the state as the young people take greater pride and loyalty in their own state. While enrollment in Idaho universities and colleges has increased, those in most other states has dropped. Utah. for example, decreased some 4 per cent mainly as result of Idaho students shifting to Idaho universities.

differences between the cost of education in Idaho and neighboring states. However, his figures compared the cost for an instate student in Idaho and out-of-state tuition for other states, which of course, is a gross error.

The governor recommended $31.4 million for higher education, an 8 per cent hike from $29.5 million the preceeding year. The legislature appropriated $31.8 million. Both apparently prepered to keep higher education at minimum funding. The legislature, however, is the deciding agency on this final figure and must be held responsible.

Unless some drastic revisions take place in the 1974 session, many legislators, particularly Lanting and the leaders on the Joint Finance-Appropriations committee, will have some answering to do with the concerned people of the state.

the US armed forces. The ASUI

Draft Information Center will

an application.

mer Session 1973.

Veteran's:

Relax At

MORT'S CLUB

with a good, cool brew

1.

One of the groups playing is Hog Heaven. The group consists mostly of students and ex-students of the University of Idaho, who have been playing together about one year. Steve Brown, the mandolin player, attributes a lot of their popularity to the increasing popularity of bluegrass music.

"Dueling Banjos." from the movie Deliverance is probably the first bluegrass tune to get on the top forty. Deliverance definitely exposed a lot of people to gluegrass. We've noticed a surge of interest in the last six months.

"That scene in Deliverance where the little boy and the guy on the guitar just start playing. well that's real. Bluegrass musicians, if they're good, can get together, having never played together before, and sound like that," Steve said. "However, that kid couldn't have gotten the sound he did out of that old, homemade banjo. That was dubbed in at the movie studio.

Country fans

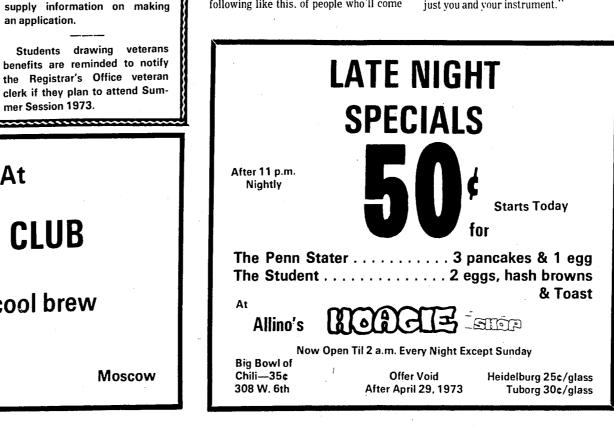

Jake Hoffman. the group's banjo and pedal steel guitar player. said the recent popularity of bluegrass has a lot to do with the "back to the country. ecology movement." "There are a lot of people around who live out in the country and you never see them in town unless a bluegrass group is playing. We've built up a following like this. of people who'll come

lot of college students were starting to come to them.

'Bluegrass has always been popular in Idaho." Hoffman said. "During the Civil War and after a lot of mountain people settled here. There are old time fiddler's organizations in every little county. Bluegrass was born out of fiddler's music around the period of World War II. It's (bluegrass) a lot richer and has more drive. A man named Bill Monroe is probably the grandaddy of bluegrass. He had a group named Bill Monroe and his Bluegrass Boys which is where the name for the music came from. He got Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs into the music. They're the people who did the theme song Foggy Mountain Breakdown in the movie Bonnie and Clyde. Scruggs developed the three-finger picking style on the banjo which is universally used today in bluegrass.

Improvisational

"It takes a lot more skill to sound good on an unamplified instrument than it does to play in a rock and roll band." Hoffman said. "You haven't got two million watts of power to back you up and make people listen. That's not to say there aren't a lot of good musicians who use electric equipment. There are. But you can't rely on using any electrical tricks when it's just you and your instrument."

Yesterday's nuns led a cloistered life. When they ventured out, it was two-by-two. Their roles were traditional and within church institutions.

Things have changed. The world. The Church. The roles women play.

Yet for one order, these changes are hardly apparent. Ever since the Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor were founded in 1876, they have been engaged in pastoral ministry. They have always been flexible, Always self-motivated. Always had freedom. Why? By the very nature of their work.

The Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor give free nursing care to the needy in their own homes. They travel alone by bus or by subway. Or by car. Or on foot, And their day doesn't end at five o'clock.

Each case presents a different problem: whether it is bringing physical or spiritual comfort, keeping a family together, counseling or bridging the gap between social agencies, we bring the love and devotion of Christ. We are in direct contact with the people we care for.

You see, we don't have to be libcrated, We are.

For more information on the Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor write to: Sister Marguerite Mitchell, Vocation Director Room 106 Mariandale, Ossining, New York 10562

DOMINICAN SISTERS OF THE SICK POOR.

Conscientious objectors who have completed alternative service are urged to apply for veteran's educational benefits. A recent court decision now pending before the Supreme HIBISCUS $350 TO 1250 WEDDING RING 200 Court has held that all conscientious objectors who have completed their alternative ser-ENCHANTING vice are entitled to the same benefits as those who served in Enchanting moments are reflected forever in the brilliance and beauty of a Keepsake diamond ring. Your very own, enchanting Keepsake now awaits you. Keepsake DIAMOND RINGS Exclusive At BAFUS JEWELERS Phone: 882-2631 509 South Main Moscow, Idaho 114 E. 5th ged to show detail. Trade-Mark Reg.

Friday, April 27, 1973 THE ARGONAUT

Artrain exhibit display community creativeness

Moscow will be one of four communities in Idaho to be visited by the four-car Artrain carrying outstanding art. An "Art Fair" will share the spotlight with Artrain when the traveling exhibit visits here May 27-31. Location will be a railroad siding near the Pullman Highway and Line Street.

The Michigan Art Council sponsors the train with help from state and matching federal funds. There is no admission charge, but donations after completing the guided tours are welcomed.

A grand opening will be featured Sunday, May 27 with Mrs. Cecil Andrus, wife of the Idaho governor, attending. On Sunday and Monday, Memorial Day. Artrain will be open from 1 to 9 p.m. for guided tours by the public. Each tour takes about 45 minutes. Tours by school children are planned for Tuesday. Wednesday, and Thursday mornings. The Artrain will also be open from 6 to 9 p.m. on those days for viewing by the general public.

Described as "an arts experience" the train includes audio-visual material. movies. and ordinary objects. as well as famous paintings and sculpture. Works are valued at half a million dollars. They include works ranging from Navajo rugs to a famous Indian painting by C.M. Russell, "The Fireboat," Other famous works are by Picasso, Braque. Chagall, Kandinsky, Klee and Manet.

Show area resources

Artrain is planned to show the creative works, to provide an "Art Fair" atmosphere.

The Artrain is stopping in Twin Falls. Idaho Falls and Boise before coming to Moscow. It is on tour for the Federation of Rocky Mountain States, and is supported in Idaho by the State Commission for the Arts and Humanities. Local chairmen for the event are Donna Bray, coordinator from the Idaho Arts Commission. and John Berg. community chairman

On Memorial Day, Moscow residents are urged to view Artrain and the Art Fair while picnicing at nearby Ghormley Park. A carnival atmosphere is planned with tents and areas for artists to show their art. Tours for children in Moscow schools are arranged for all day Tuesday. while school children from outlying communities will view the exhibit Wednesday and Thursday.

Golf tourney scheduled

The University of Idaho Golf team is preparing for a tournament this weekend at Missoula, Montana. Eastern Washington. Gonzaga, Montana. and the U of I will be competing. The Vandal team defeated all the competing teams in a previous meet at Spokane on April 20.

The Vandal team is a serious contender for the Big Sky Conference championship this season on the strength of an 8-win and 1-loss record against the Big Sky competition so far. The only defeat was a one-stroke loss to Weber State earlier this vear. On May 18 and 19 the Big Sky Championship tournament will be on the Idaho course. This will be the first time since the course was completed. The team's lowest shooter, Jeff Thomas, feels that this will be an advantage that will help them in avenging the early season loss to Weber and capturing the Big Sky Championship. Idaho has finished second to Weber the last three seasons. Thomas also thinks his team can win the rest of the tournaments in which they are scheduled to compete this year. This weekend's tournament at Missoula, the EWCE Invitational at Spokane on May 3 and 4, and the Idaho Invitational at Moscow May 5 and 6 will precede the Big Sky championship. Besides the Thomas team leading average of 74, Mike Neddinger, Mike Moore and Kim Kirkland are averaging about 76, and Dave Warner and Howard Crosby are averaging about 77. Dick Snyder coaches the team.

Chappelle in final contest

Gary Chappelle graduate major in Theatre Arts at the University of Idaho. has been chosen as one of the 13 top college actors in America in a competition involving over 300 colleges and Universities entered in the American College Theatre, Festival. Chappelle will perform April 29 in the Eisenhower Theatre in the Kennedy Performing Arts Center in Washington D.C., competing for a $2,000 scholarship. The award is given by the noted American actress. Irene Ryan, well-known for her portrayal of "Granny" in "The Beverly Hillbillies." Chappelle will perform a sixminute segment acting Tom, the young man in "The Glass Menagerie," a role he received high praise for in last year's Summer Theatre season: and Sammy in the new play "Echoes," which the Idaho Theatre Arts Department presented last fall as one of the first productions in the nation, prior to its Broadway premier last month.

Chappelle is supported in the scenes by senior Idaho Theatre Arts major, Terri Parker. Both students have flown, all expenses paid. to Washington as the guests of the sponsors of the American College Theatre Festival. American Air Lines and Amoco Oil Company

Chappelle's nomination

Chappelle was nominated for the Irene Ryan scholarship by theatre judges. Richard James, head of the Theatre Arts Department, University of Montana, and Richard Spero, College of Idaho, when they traveled to Moscow to view Professor Forrest Sear's production of Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya." The play, entered in the American College Theatre Festival subsequently won the Idaho-Montana subregion and was chosen to compete at the five Rocky Mountain State Regional Festival in Ogden. Utah in January. In addition, the University of Idaho Theatre Arts Department was one of the few in the country to have two Irene Ryan nominations for the national festival: Nancy Monelli, junior Theatre Arts major and Chappelle. for their performances as Sonya and Dr. Astrov in 'Uncle Vanya

At Ogden in a special presentation of scenes by regional Irene Ryan nominees. Chappelle won best actor in the Rocky Mountain Region. a $500 scholarship. and the chance to compete with the twelve other regional winners at the Kennedy Center on April 29 for an additional $2000 scholarship. The 13 performers in Washington will be representative of the finest talents in contemporary University Theatre programs as they are selected

Beef profits

(Continued from Page 1) industry: the farmer, the cattle feeder or feedlot operator. the packer and the retailer

Jacobs, in a paper entitled. "Who's the 'Dirty Bird' Who Raised the Meat Prices?", writes, "I seriously doubt that very many cattlemen make even 5 per cent of their annual investment."

He continued to outline the feeder's part by saying that the feeder must increase the calf's weight from 450 pounds to about 1,000 pounds. This usually requires about two and one-half tons of feed at $65 per ton.

With miscellaneous costs such as labor.

from the more than 5,000 performers who took part in this year's American College Theatre Festival.

Chappelle who is currently working on his Masters of Arts degree in Theatre Arts has just finished directing his thesis production which is the highly successful 'Marat/Sade." just closing its campus run.

Busy semester

The young actor-director has had a busy semester, returning the first of this month from Chicago where he was chosen to appear in the final auditions for the Theatre Communications Group - the professional auditions for the directors of the nation's 30 leading regional theatres. Chappelle is working toward a career in professional theater.

At Idaho he has studied acting with Associate Professor Forrest Sears who has also directed him in major roles in "Romeo and Juliet." "Look Homeward, Angel". "Our Town," "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe," "Room Service," "The Glass Menagerie," "Uncle Vanya," "The Cherry Orchard," and title roles in "Playboy of the Western World" and "Hamlet."

Enrollees sought

Anyone interested in Summer Pre-Session courses is asked to contact the Special Programs Office right away. Paul Kaus, Director of Special Programs, has indicated that it is possible to yet organize some courses during the three weeks between Commencement and the start of Summer Sessions.

"At the present time, we think there may be sufficient interest to offer Speech 131, Fundamentals of Speech, 2 semester hours credit. We are also working with CHORD to determine if there is enough interest to offer Human Relations Training and the Psychology of Self Management at the Ross Point Center at Post Falls June 1-10," Kaus indicated.

Kaus requested anyone interested in any course in the University Catalog to come by the Special Programs Office in the Adult Education Building and let him know what other particular courses they would like to take. He indicated that if several students indicate an interest in the same course, the course could be tentatively scheduled and advertised to see if there were additional students interested to make up the usual minimum of 12 students required to offer a course.

Sports Topics

By MARSHALL HALL Argonaut Sports Editor

The time has come for all good men to stand up and be counted, for spring semester finals are here and you might not be counted when next fall olls around.

Finals could never be considered a sport or a game for that fact, but no one can deny that many people take a loss at its hands each year. Countless numbers bite the dust when they realize that they didn't really know the answers. or that the last minute cram session didn't even come close to covering a semester's worth of material.

Now let's imagine you've just finished the test review for the Argonaut's 'Sports Topics Final' and you thing you know all the answers to this truely relevant course. The following exam is being given on a pass or fail basis, The questions will increase in difficulty and may be answered with a yes or

Q1. Is the sky blue?

- A. No, it seems to be cloudy due to atmospheric conditions.
- Q2. Is the grass green?
- A. Yes, but only on the other side of the fence.
- Q3. Is the U of I Student Union Building known for its tantalizing food?
- A. Yes and no. is fat meat greasy and does a banana have a bone?
- Q4. Is the typical U of I student brave, clean, reverent and all those other good things?
- A. Yes, just ask one on Saturday nights, he'll tell you.
- Q5. Is a pizza with canadian bacon and mushrooms the most popular pizza?
- A. Yes, but only to people who like canadian bacon and mushrooms.
- A6. Is the U of I hard to gain admittance to?
- A. Yes, this year the requirements were so tough only 8000 students from across the country managed to get accepted.
- Q7. Can John really find happiness with Martha?
- A. No, not as long as Alice finds happiness with John.
- Q8. Does the Argonaut stay on top of controversial issues?
- A. Yes, We were the first to print the Pentagon Papers, and look what happened when the New York Times reprinted our article.
- Q9. Is the Los Angeles Stadium Bridge actually 2894 feet in length?
- A. No, there isn't a Los Angeles Stadium Bridge in existence.
- Q10. Has Sports Topics ever really dealt with sports?
- A. Yes, but so does Dear Abby. Q11. Has the U of I fully examined the environmental interaction and
- biological potential rudiments of cross-cultural perspectives? A. What's a rudiment?
- Q12. Will Sports Topics be back again next year?
- A. No!
- When you have completed your final, fold it carefully into a square, put your name on the outside. remain where you are and wait for the monitor to pick it up. If you are forced to leave your position before the monitor arrives. you automatically fail.
- The people who pass the Sports Topics final deserve to be uncongratulated. There isn't really any reason to feel bad though, the instructor is impossible to take notes off of, and he failed everyone anyway.

Faculty Council takes stand on sex discrimination

The Faculty Council received a report on salary inequities for female members of the faculty and established an ad hoc committee to deal with the inequities that may exist and suggest changes to the president for solving.

The report. from the Faculty Affairs Committee, included several tables of statistics documenting the salaries of males and females on the University Faculty. Their recommendation was that a committee be established "to identify existing inequities by determining the 'fair' position for an individual in the range of salary.'

Prof. Paul Dierker said that it was difficult to tell from the figures whether the females were actually being paid this several problems have been solved. Prof. Ed Kelley moved that a committee be established to deal with the possible discrimination. and Dierker amended it to concern itself with 'possible sex-based discrimination.' Dierker added that the committee would have to "name names." and Dean Elmer Raunio of the College of Letters and Sciences added that the committee would have to make very subjective evaluations. A report from the Commencement Committee with a recommendation that Lt. Col. Waltman. a returning POW who will commission graduates of the Officer Education Program (formerly ROTC) be honored by joining Faculty Council chairman George Belt as co-marshall leading the commencement procession was turned down.

Positions

₽

1

Dierker commented. "It is peculiar that an educational institution would accord such a high honor for this reason. Many people have served their country in many ways, not just the POW's.

Prof. B. C. Borning added, "In all due respect to him. I think he can be honored in other ways

Proposal defeated

The motion tied and acting chairman Prof. Sigfried Rolland defeated it. A proposal was initiated to allow resources of each community it visits. including the performing arts, crafts, literature, and the visual arts. Local groups of singers, dancers, musicians and thespians will perform daily on the green area near the train site. Local artisans will also ply their trade and exhibit their

Vandal Open needs golfers and galleries

Come one, come all to the University of Idaho Vandal Open. Be you a dubber or a hole-in-oner. bring your sticks and swing for 18 holes on Saturday and another round on Sunday.

Can you think of a better way to spend a nice relaxing week-end than playing golf? Prizes will be awarded for the 1st. 2nd. and third winners in each flight. Your handicap determines what flight you will be competing in. If you don't have a handicap, go up the course and have one of the pros or assorted workers figure one out for you.

Don't miss this exciting event. Galleries will be permitted.

vet and equipment included, the feeder's cost for the steer is $463.00. (He paid $250 for the calf from the farmer). The current market value of a live steer at 44 cents per pound is $484.00. Thus, the feeder's net profit is $21.00.

1-2 per cent

The average beef carcass from a 1.100 pound steer weighs between 600 and 700 pounds. The current market price for this carcass is about 70 cents per pound. The packer. then. who paid $484 for the steer. will receive about $480 for the carcass. Packers do not make an annual profit of 5 per cent on their investment either.

Bieren says that Rosauer's makes about 1 percent to 2 per cent of every dollar spent on beef. They pay 76 cents per pound for their carcass.

"Usually," said Jacobs, "the carcass will only yield about 70 per cent of it's weight in retail cuts. This is because the carcass must be trimmed of all excess fat and hone. The average housewife will not buy meat with more than one-fourth inch of fat on it," he said. "This leaves only 420 pounds for retail cuts."

Jacobs reviewed the retailer's costs. A 600-pound carcass at 76 cents per pound is $456. In order to make any profit, the retailer must add about 20 per cent to cover labor. (The average wage for a butcher is $5 per hour), wrapping costs, lighting and refrigerating the counter. etc. This brings the price to $547.20. Divide this by 420 (retail cut poundage) significantly less than their male counterparts. He said one of the problems was that there was a small number of females (31) and a much larger number of males and consequently any statistical conclusions would be potentially faulty based on the given figures.

Discrimination suspected

Vice president Robert Coonrod said. "I'd hypothesize that there is discrimination in our faculty salary structure." He added that in part this has been examined this year with the salary increases and in many cases the deans have recommended changes, and through and you get the retailer's cost of $1.30 per pound.

"We're losing money on hamburger." said Bieren, "Because we buy what is called 'leaner' to put in our hamburger. This 'leaner' comes from an old cow or bull and costs us $1.02 per pound."

Both Bieren and Jacobs said that if the beef supply diminished, the demand kept up, and the ceiling prices are kept the same, there would be a beef shortage in the counter.

Shortage possible

Bieren said, "Such a demand and supply situation with the continued ceiling price would mean that the packer could not buy as many animals. We in turn. could not get as many from the packer so there would be a shortage at the meat counter. Jacobs said this situation could lead to beef rationing.

Any students interested in summer employment should contact the Placement Center and leave their name and address as the Placement Center will be sending notices to students during the summer.

Moscow, ID \rightarrow The American Cancer Society needs an area representative to work with cancer society volunteers in the ten North Idaho counties. Work is permanent and, full-time and has a base salary of $7200. Contact: Eldon Betz. 1118 South Hill Terrace No. 3. Moscow, Idaho 83843 (208-882-4973) in the evenings or during the noon hour.

In order to avoid shortage of beef in the future. Jacobs explained, the U of I Department of Animal Industries is experimenting with other beef sources.

For example, the meat consumers buy in the store comes from a steer, a castrated bull. But a bull yields 25 per cent more red meat than a steer. This takes less time and less feed. A bull isn't normally used for meat because it's meat gets coarse, tough and black when it reaches sexual maturity (15-18 months). But the U of I farms can now raise a 1,000 pound bull in 12 months.

A study was done at the U of I using bull meat and steer meat. Consumers involved filled out questionnaires about the meat's palatability. The results of the study showed that there was no difference in palatability

Until prices drop or substitutes for steer meat are perfected, what can be done?

Jacobs sums it up this way: "Thank goodness for peanut butter.

of the University who reside off the campus the advantage of taking courses from Idaho educational institutions. This would apply to people in extension stations, continuing education administrators across the state and experiment station staff members. The council sent the recommendation back to the ad hoc committee in order to bring back a firm definition of who would be involved and gave the proposal a favorable response in principal.

Car race

The "Lode Stone Autucross" will be sponsored by the University of Idaho Sports Car Club on Sunday, April 29, 1973. The club promises it to be one of the best in the current series of Autocrosses.

The payment of a $3 registration fee and technical inspection of the cars will begin at 10 a.m. The actual timed runs of the event will begin at noon. The Autocross will be held on Perimeter Drive (near the intramural fields) at the University of Idaho.

Autocrossing is the ultimate in sports car racing, and therefore, your automobile must be able to pass a very strict safety inspection. The race will be a one-car-at-a-time speed event.

Presentation of trophies and place plaques for all winners will follow immediately after the end of the autocross. In addition to the autocross there will be a beer bust for all participants and spectators immediately following the awards presentation. The cost will be $1 per person.

New 4-Ply Nylon F78x14 Sixty-Six Specials

TIRE SALE

4 FOR $70 plus F.E.T. and Sales Tax

V.W. RADIALS $36.95 plus F.E.T. and Sales Tax With Coupon F70x14 Radials $39.95 plus F.E.T. and Sales Tax With Coupon

40,000 Mile Guarantee, 5,000 Mile Free Rotation on All Radials

FREE Balancing FREE Mounting Complete Road Hazard Guarantee On ALL Tires

COME IN FOR A QUOTE TODAY!!!

If You Need Tires This Summer Now's The Time To Save

University 66 Pullman 66 Ph. 882-3555 Ph. 564-6661 Moscow, Idaho Pullman, Washington

ON YOUR NEW HONDA

Large Selection New & Used Fair, Friendly Service !!!

719 N. Main Moscow-882-7721

OPEN FRI. NITE 'til 9:00 •

KUOI Preview 73-Tempest

April 27 April 28	Tempest	5
April 28	Hogwash
April 29	In Philadelphia
April 29 April 30 May 1	Bareback Rider
May 1	Natural High
May 2 May 3	Live At Carnegie
May 3	Last Of The Brooklyn Cowboys
1

Idaho-WSU jazz concert Sunday

"This will be the first experience between the two bands." noted Cecil Gold, music instructor at the U of I. That new experience will be a concert performed by the U of I and WSU jazz bands Sunday at 8 p.m. on the WSU campus.

6

43

4.

•

ŧ

₽

÷. \mathbf{O}

2

1

v,

ų,

14

5

2

h

 \odot

k

.

all

SS

he

or se

ar ts

at nd

out

to

or

be

he

v.

n

ficer

2) be uncil

shall ssion

uliar

'ould

ison.

ry in

1 due

ored

man

This

isior

tior

and

atior

er to voulc

ill be Idaho

1973.

e best

e and begin

of the ocross

ar the

ity of sports

vour

verv

ll be a place ollow the (Cross r all

iately

The

.

9

"As two state-funded land grant colleges. it's good that we (the two schools) share these things," Gold remarked.

Of his band's program. he commented, 'We play the whole gamut of jazz - some standard pieces. students' original compositions and duplications of popular

In conjunction with Aviation

Week, Rich Werner of the Music

Department will be showcasing two of the University's Jazz Ensembles

today at 2 p.m. in the Vandal

A picnic and last farewell get-together for all NSE students will be held Saturday from noon to 3 p.m.

in the Arboreturn, on campus. See

The World Citizens Circle will have a picnic in the Arboretum

Saturday starting at 1 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend. Bring your own food

The Coffeehouse will be open

Saturday from 9-12 p.m. in the

SUB Dipper and will feature Carl

Eckhardt and Group, Jeff Jensen,

The Peoples Marijuana Initiative

will have a soup feed in the ASUI

Peoples Park (behind the SUB and across the street from the Theta Chi house) Sunday at 4 p.m. There will

The Music Departments of the U

of I and WSU will present a jazz

concert Sunday at 8 p.m. in

Kimbrough Hall on the WSU

campus. Admission will be $1 with the proceeds to be divided by the

The Palouse Audubon Society is sponsoring a field trip Sunday to

Turnbull National Wildlife Refuge

south of Cheney, WA to see

whistling and trumpeter swans,

Terry Payne and Rayne.

be live entertainment.

two jazz schools.

Sunday -

Entertainment will be provided.

the cafeteria for picnic lunches.

Friday --

Lounge

Saturday --

recordings." The two original works were composed by Paul Speer, the group's guitarist, and Greg Wellsandt, trumpet player. Other works include "Dancing Men" by Buddy Rich and "Us" by Thad Jones and Mel Lewis. Among the soloists will be Rich Werner and W. A. Billingsley, members of the music staff. Gold had no information about the WSU band's portion of the program.

Tempest The Groundhogs The O'Jays

Mason Proffit

Bloodstone

Bill Withers

Arlo Guthrie

"We have a brand new group of mostly freshmen and sophomores, said Gold. The concert will be held in Kimbrough Hall Sunday at 8 p.m. Admission will be $1 with proceeds to be divided by the two jazz schools

shorebirds, as well as migrating land

birds. Come prepared for an all-day trip. Meet at the Life sciences Bldg.

What's Happening

By JIM STACK

As last week's doldrums have passed into history, this weekend should erase any memory of boredom. Everything seems to go better with good weather, but a little night life helps too. And with that we should be amply blessed this time around. In fact, the influx of entertainment news letters this week hasturned the Arg office into a major fire hazard.

For your ease of reference, I've attempted to give this column some semblance of order by arranging everything in sequence. I know it's a lot of work, but we all feel generous at times, right?

"Marat/Sade" will be running only two more nights, tonight and tomorrow. People I've talked to have either loved it or hated it, which proves of course that you can't please everyone and probably "Marat/Sade" is every bit as violent, stunning and involved as it's supposed to be. Anyhow, I fail to see how anyone could resist getting caught up in a play like this. whether they find it appealing or not.

If movies are more your cup of tea, "Airport" will be shown Friday night in the SUB Ballroom and Saturday night in the Borah Theater. The movie won wide acclaim a few years ago as did the book by Arthur Hailey, also noted for another one-word-title thriller, "Hotel" "Airport" will be presented twice both nights, 7 and 9 p.m. Speaking of Airports, "Aviation Week" will close tomorrow with a visit from a balloonist. He'll float in around noon, make a few swings around Moscow and light somewhere on campus where he will offer rides to U of I students with ID cards. I hope to have something more on him later.

Also this weekend, our collegiate neighbors to the west and south will put the finishing touches on their respective Fine arts festivals. Some of the more noteworthy events at the WSU fest include a gallery of art films featuring art in the western world and Rembrandt, today in the CUB lobby from 11 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.; a presentation by the WSU improvisation theatre in the CUB Ballroom tonight at 8 p.m.; and a movie "Magic Christian" starring Peter Sellers and Ringo Starr Saturday and Sunday nights in the CUB Ballroom at 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Activities at the Lewis Clark State

Coffeehouse will surface again this Saturday night from 9-12 p.m. in the Dipper with not two, not three. but four acts providing the entertainment. They include Carl Eckhardt and group, Jeff Jensen, Terry Payne and "Ravne." The coffee is free. of course, and serves as a great way to come down from an early trip to the bars or even to light the fuse for a later excursion. This Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. the Peoples Marijuana Initiative will have a soup-feed in the ASUI peoples park with live entertainment, to raise funds for their drive to get the initiative on the ballot for 1974. Stroll over, have some soup and brownies and help them out. It's all for a good cause.

Monday night, the film society flick will feature that tough. swashbuckling and often incoherent son of a godfather, Marlon Brando, in one of his vintage performances, "On the Waterfront." Marlon B. isn't the only ace up the film society's sleeve this coming week. "Fellini Satyricon." the product of Mr. Fellini's rather bizarre approach to a portrayal of moral decadence in ancient Rome, will be shown twice in the Borah Theatre next Friday night at 7 and 9 p.m. This movie will climax a fine performance by the film society this semester, although it won't be the last movie shown.

Jazz fans be forewarned. Stan Kenton and his Orchestra. one of the top jazz orchestras on the planet. will perform in Lewiston Monday night, 7:30 p.m. at the Lewiston High School Auditorium, For those of you who were hoping to see Duke Ellington when plans were in the making to bring him here. Kenton could help satisfy your vearning to see a big name iazzman.

Another concert which you may find to your liking, is the Carpenters. The most famous brither-sister team on the top 40 will flood Bohler gym at WSU with their brand of music Saturday Night, May 5. The 7:30 performance has been sold out. but as of yesterday, there were about one thousand tickets available for the 10:30 performance. I confess I don't like the Carpenters, and when I heard that they were being considered as rock music representatives for the coming cultural exchange with China, I felt a sudden surge of patriotism and immediately set to writing numerous long letters of protest. All of which are neatly stacked in a bright red drawer marked "White House." available for immediate mailing. Excuse my brash opinions, but I feel much better with that off my chest.

THE ARGONAUT Friday, April 27, 1973 Black Culture Week

Increased participation expected

Black Culture Week is to show what black people are about," said Dave Long. ASUI Representative of the Black Student Union.

But not many people are finding out. as Long went on to say, "Like they could have learned what we're about at the movie Tuesday night - and a total of seven people came to that."

So far attendance at the annual program has been poor, but it is expected to pick up with tonight's event. a dance at St. Augustyn's Center. Admission to the dance will be 50 cents a person. 75 cents a couple, and the event will go from 8 p.m. 'til 1 a.m. the next morning.

Saturday night there will be a "Soul

Dinner" in the SUB Ballroom, at 6 p.m. The cost of the meal will be $2. According to Long. "Not too many people have come out to the first three things (a rap session Monday, a movie Tuesday, a fashion show Wednesday). a total of 70 people maybe -I'm a little angry at the turn-out so far "

He went on to say. "Most of these things are free, and I feel they'd be very educational." Long noted that he did not think the BSU would use all the funds appropriated to it by the ASUI. "Most of the money will go to the preparations for the dinner."

Future plans of the BSU include a retreat, with all 39 members of the organization participating.

Talisman House grows

Moscow's Talisman House plans an expansion of facilities and several new programs say Elaine Silha and Jack Kaper. the new coordinators of the house.

The north side of a Canterbury House (the old Sigma Chi house), has been granted to the Talisman House expansion program. They will also continue to occupy the present house. (The south side of Canterbury House is the new Black Student Union building.)

A drug analysis program will hopefully be put into effect next year. "It has been state approved, and now we are waiting for federal certification." Silha stated. It would consist of a room that could be locked, and, under close supervision, be used for a drug analysis unit. It would be operated by one or two certified people. They also hope to instigate a free student store. This would be a place for any student to sell his or her wares, with no commission charged.

New rooms With the additional space, counseling and workshop rooms will be provided.

These will be available to the Counseting Center and CHORD for use in workshops. as well as in drug education workshops. A room will tentatively be provided for a 24-hour study room available to all > students. In conjunction with Soc 499, a place will be provided to sell crafts made at Washington State Penitentiary, at Walla Walla through the Social Therapy Program.

> > Regular services

Another idea that may be implemented is a coffee house. Any student could perform free, and no admittance would be charged.

Services presently available at the Talisman House include a free library. available for anyone's use. a drug library with reference materials and education classes under the direction of Tom Bell. head of the department of education. and Leon Green head of the physical education department.

The house also has a dark room, (which they hope to expand). a free clothing store, and a youth hostel, which is a place for people passing through Moscow to stav for a few days.

The Talisman House runs on a budget of approximately $43,000 yearly. $32,000 is federal funds. and $11,000 comes from the University of Idaho.

> RESEARCH MATERIALS All Topics Send for your descriptive, up-to-date, 128-page, mail order catalog of 2,300 quality research papers. Enclose quality research papers. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage and handling. RESEARCH UNLIMITED at 8 a.m. We plan to join Pullman members at Burgerville. Interested non-members are welcome Monday --

Bible Studies are held at noon and 1 p.m. in the Campus Christian Center. Monday's topic is the Old Testament

A rugby game featuring the WSU rugby team will be played at 7 p.m. at Rogers Field, WSU. All rugby enthusiates are welcome

Coming Up --

Pyramid VI, the Engineering Awards Presentation, will be held Wednesday, May 2, at 7 p.m. in the Borah Theatre at the SUB. Special presentations for professors and scholarships for students will be announced at the banquet.

The CSI Alumni Association is sponsoring a Statewide Spring Reunion on Saturday, May 5, in Boise for all CSI graduates, former students, faculty and friends of CSI. The Reunion will be held in the Downtowner beginning at 7 p.m. and continuing all evening. The program includes door prizes. Admission is free.

After May 1, and through the remainder of the current semester, students will no longer be able to . cash personal checks at the Student Union Information desk. The decision to terminate check-cashing at this time was made by the Student Union Board, in light of past experience with an increase of bad checks at the end of every semester. exemplified by over $600 worth of bad checks written at the close of the fall semester.

College Fine Arts Festival will include an art show all day Friday and Saturday at the LCSC tennis courts and a rock concert on the adjoining lawn both days.

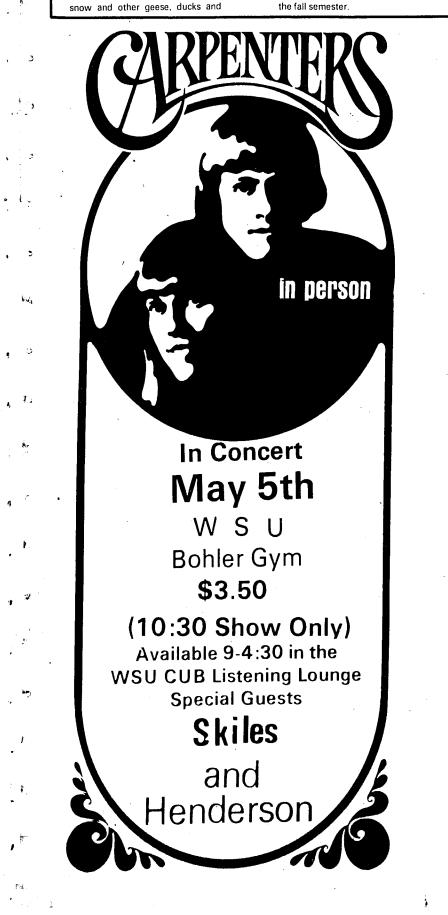

Patients question doctor's ability infirmary," she said. Then, her own doctor went on vacation and she was visited by the other two university physicians, she explained.

Told to quit school

"The first one told me I was seriously ill and recommended that I quit school because he doubted if I could recover in time to catch up on my work." she said. 'The other one took a neutral position - sort of between the other two.'' she noted. "He said I could still go to my classes if I wanted, but that I should take it easy for awhile." The girl explained she followed the third doctor's advice and eventually recovered, but "the weird thing was that their opinions were so extreme."

Other incidents

Rick Waitley, Upham Hall, related several incidents involving students that he had taken to the infirmary. "One kid had a badly dislocated toe, and the other had a severely dislocated hand.

In both cases, the doctor at the health center recommended ice packs and gave some pain pills, Waitley said. "One. they finally sent to Pullman and he had immediate surgery

Waitley said the pain became so great for the other student that later that night he went down to Gritman and they performed surgery immediately to reset his hand.

Too light attitude

Most of the students complained that the doctors at the health center looked at things too lightly.

"They don't take what they're doing seriously," commented the girl whose appendix ruptured. "They act like they know all the answers but they really don't. They just didn't seem competent - the whole experience really turned me off."

Another complaint was their improficiency in handling accidents and emergencies. especially after hours. "They seem to do pretty good with illnesses and every day stuff." said Waitley. "In fact, they probably take a big load off the hospital downtown. But I think they're too reluctant to send patients to Gritman.

Send 'em to Gritman

Leonard explained that his own view was that any case involving a bad laceration, a cut tendon. or requiring a blood transfusion should be sent to Gritman.

'But I think we're pretty capable of handling most cuts and broken bones," he said. The doctor explained that there is a nurse at the health center 24 hours a day and a doctor is on call at all times (while the University is in session).

"Usually the doctor can get there within 10 or 15 minutes, depending on how serious it is." he said.

After-hour calls

Leonard noted that he is on call one-third of the time. and he saw 174 patients after hours or on Saturday or Sunday during the 1972 regular school year. "And I imagine the figure is about the same for other doctors." he added.

And the comments on the health center aren't all bad. Ron Ball, a hall advisor, says his experiences with the center are relatively favorable.

'I've had nothing but excellent involvement with the health people - I think they're more co-operative than the doctors downtown," Ball said.

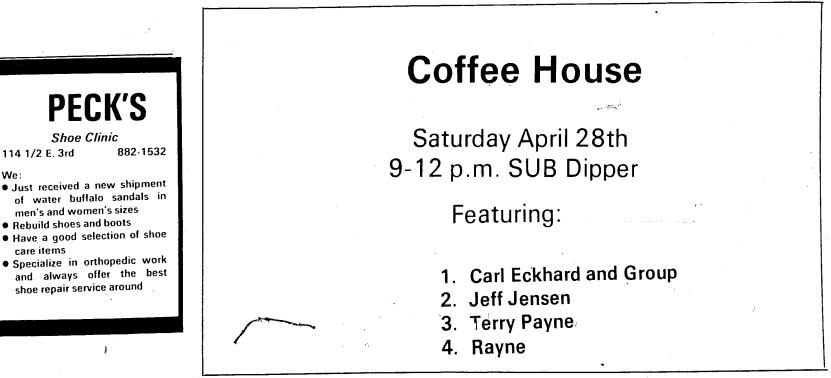

519 GLENROCK AVE.. SUITE 203 LOS ANGELES, CALIF, 90024 (213) 477-8474 • 477-5493 "We need a local salesman"

One Of Hollywood's Best

Friday 7 & 9 p.m. SUB Ballroom Saturday 7 & 9 p.m. Borah Theatre

> 50¢ Singles 75¢ Couples

College of Ag budget cuts: reflections

"When you don't have funds, tenure doesn't amount to anything," said Dean Auttis Mullins concerning the recent crisis within the College of Agriculture.

6

The dean said that when the decisions were made to dismiss some faculty members and reclassify others. "tenure was of no consideration. Tenure was not intended to protect a person from accountability.

Eleven positions are to be terminated, and ten reclassified from 12-month appointment to ten-month appointment. Five of the eleven positions are in the extension service, and six are professional research positions within the College of Agriculture.

The ten faculty members reclassified to ten-month appointments are all oncampus personnel. All but one are at least part-time teaching faculty.

Most researchers

Mullins pointed out that this was one of the factors that must be considered in the reclassification-that most of the college's personnel are researchers, and this is the primary service of college.

According to Mullins, an equivalent to 90 full-time faculty members are in agricultural research, while an equivalent to 30 full-time faculty members are teaching personnel. "In addition," he said, "we have 162 people in the Cooperative Extension Service, spread throughout the state."

"The very nature of our program gives us many research personnel." Mullins said. "We don't have anyone who is a fulltime teacher." However, he said the college attempts to reward outstanding teaching on a par with research achievements.

Information wrong

Responding to a letter to the editor which appeared in Tuesday's Argonaut. Mullins said. "Certainly the person was uninformed about the situation in the college.

He pointed out that the specific professor referred to, A. W. Helton, professor of plant pathology, who was reclassified to ten-month appointment (which brings a corresponding cut in salary) is actually on a contract which stresses research.

"His contract called for 17 per cent time teaching, and 83 per cent researching. We have to hold him accountable for that contract," said Mullins. He added that next year the contract would be changed "so that he spends one-third of his time on teaching. and two-thirds on research.

Others reclassified

Others reclassified to ten-month appointment status, which is not really ten-month as it provides for a month's paid vacation, just as twelve-month appointments. are:

William Ardrey, professor of veterinary science; Paul Muneta, associate professor of food science: C.W.Hodgson, associate professor of animal science; Richard Ross. professor of dairy science; and Ross Christian. professor of animal science.

The other tenured faculty cut back to ten-month appointment are: Warren Pope, research professor of agronomy; Ross Watson, professor of plant pathology; Howard Smith, associate professor of entomology; and A. C. Weise, professor of agricultural biochemistry.

Procedure noted

Mullins outlined the procedure followed in deciding who would be reclassified. We went very carefully, very objectively, and evaluated their work. We looked at those people who were least accountable in research endeavors."

Questioned as to the identity of "We," Mullins explained that it was himself, the three associate deans, Don Marshall, Steve Zobrisky, and James Graves. Also included were the eight department heads of the College of Agriculture.

Mullins added, "The department heads were in on our consideration, and actually in fact you could say the faculty themselves were in it, since they write their own progress reports-they can justify their activities." No clashes

When asked whether he had changed any of the recommendations made by the associate deans and department heads, Mullins said that he could not generalize on that question-"We were able through discussion and compromise to come to an agreeable position.

"We have every confidence in these people to be fair," the Dean said. "We have no personality clash with any of these faculty who were reclassified.'

He explained the evaluation procedure as looking at the achievements of each faculty member in research-the practical applications, the impact, and publication of results. "Especially where the constitutients we serve would read it." he said.

All evaluated

According to the Dean, "We look at publication over a two-three year period." Every year, the researchers have to write progress reports. and the evaluators measured actual progress against what was said in the reports. 'We have done this on all of our people this year - so we feel we're in a very good position to appraise the faculty and staff," said Mullins. He stressed that "research is the easiest area to evaluate - it's one where you can really come up with a handle on." Mullins thought teaching would be much harder to judge. Replying to another criticism which had been raised-that the College of Agriculture should have put nearly all personnel on ten-month appointment in the interests of fairness-the dean replied. "We cannot think about putting all of our people on ten-month appointment."

Not accountable

The primary reason he gave for this was the necessity of research during the summer growing season, especially field

Senate comedy — the executive budget trials which could not be carried out if the entire college went on ten-month appointment. He was questioned concerning why all the positions which had been reclassified had been tenured positions - 72 of the faculty in the College of Agriculture are tenured and 38 are non-

Landlord

would not profit by renting

to all

tenured. He responded that "If the nontenured faculty were not productive they would have been terminated.

"These people were not accountable for their research activities who have been on tenure," the dean said. Despite the crisis, Mullins contends that the college is still doing a good job. "We feel we can make more accomplishments in fewer areas now." he said.

No club

"Some people are interpreting it as a club over the legislature's head (all the cutbacks) and it's not that at all..." He went on to say that if the legislature comes back next year and says that the College of Agriculture is getting as much money as it needs, then they will just have to assess and analyze their programs again.

1

rental units into the bank and draw six per cent interest and not have to pay for repair work resulting from some of the

Newcomer to field

Dave Trail said that he doesn't know much about the profit situation on

Moscow apartments because he hasn't

Trail said the biggest cost in apartments was the financing and mortgage costs. Costs then lessen in order of real estate tax, insurance and apartments right now. They just can't rent them. Their rent is even higher than

"Pullman has about 600 empty

been involved with it that long.

maintenance costs.

baby-sitting jobs they get stuck with."

By JOHN LUNDERS Argonaut Staff Writer

Some landlords want the teacher type; others want married couples only. No matter what they want rent does not seem to be decreasing, but summer rent is somewhat negotiable--if you are lucky you might be able to rent the same old shack for $20 less during the summer months when no one has to live in Moscow

Notices of available apartments at the SUB information desk range from summer subleases at $175 to studio apartments including breakfast for $40.

According to one agent at Newsome-Mercer Real Estate "There is not that much profit in Moscow apartments."

University better off

Off campus housing projects comparable to University Ridge apartments are not making much profit according to the source.

"The 50 units at the end of Taylor cost about $600,000 and are built on free ground. That figures out to about $12,000 per unit. and since it is built on university ground there is no land cost or real estate

tax. Then they rent the units for $135 per

"The same type of project would have cost a private developer at least $10.000 same amount of rent they would still have

No taxes

cents worth of tax on those buildings or on

"They might pay for some city fire and better off to put the money they spend on

Notice:

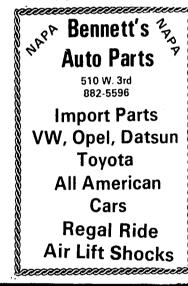

Interviews will be held for media heads May 2-3, by the Communications Board. All interested persons are requested to come. The time and place will be noted later. Among the positions open is that of Argonaut Editor.

the rent is in Moscow. They can't lower the rent because of the locked in (fixed) costs on the apartments and their construction." said Trail.

Many landlords in the Moscow area claim that they will have between 50 and 75 per cent of their apartments full by the middle of July.

"We try to get tenants to stay back to back. As soon as one is ready to move out or his lease is about to expire we open another lease and get the apartment filled again" said Mrs. Tom Trail.

Personal Note: If you want an apartment, chances are you better start looking because the bargains you will find later may not be the (high cost) bargains you want to pay for.

By MARGI BIRDT Argonaut Political Writer A new play is showing in town that

Senate and assembled multitude in which he uttered, "We have wasted 20 minutes on this crap. We should have a little less squabbling and more voting!!!'

The Entertainment Committee (not Big Name) received $10,000 which Ken Buxton said was a reasonable amount to work with. He also said it was the rock month.

for equal quality and if they charged the to pay for the land.insurance and taxes.' said the agent

"The university doesn't have to pay five

the ground.

police protection, but they don't pay taxes on rental units, he said. 'Many apartment owners would be relatively few people know about. It's worth seeing though if only for a sfew laughs

The title is "The ASUI Executive Budget" written by Carl Wurster and Ric Smith. Other credits include Parliamentary Procedure by Mike Mitchell, comments by Sue Schou and seconded by Abbott.

The plot concerns passage of the budget for 1973-74 fiscal year.

More voting asked The highlight of opening night was Sandy McLeod's stirring speech to the

CLASSIFIED ADS

Men's Macgregor golf set $160.00. Ladies Omega watch $100.00. Wanted table chairs 882-5446. after 5:00

Found: One Pair of Glasses belonging to a hitchiker picked up in Lewiston Saturday night April 20. Claim glasses at SUB offices:

Nice new apartment available May 21. Dishwasher and other kitchen appliances. Two bedroom. Call 882-1374.

For Sale: 1965 Ply. Barracuda. Good Hurst 4 Speed, New Clutch. Good Tires. Engine Needs Work. See at 219 Taylor Apt. 33 or call 885-6755 afternoons

For Sale 1972 Honda 450cc. Excellent Condition $800 or best offer. Call 882-1254

Neighborhood yard sale Sunday April 29, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. 315 East E, Moscow.

1969 Datsun 510, red four door with snowtires. Great Condition. $950, ask for Chuck, 882-9805.

1972 Yamaha 350cc road twin. 882-1924

Black Cat Lost in front of Alumni Center. Lost Friday, call 885-6865, ask for Kit.

Best prices on river supplies. rafts, kayaks, oars, life jackets. etc. Free catalog: 882-2383. Northwest River Supplies, P.O. Box 3195, Moscow, 83843.

2x15 watts stereo cassette tape recorder with AM-FM stereo. 2 speakers and 2 mikes, must sell for $125.00, Call 882-3864

Along a more constructive line, the Senate did pass $720 to the Rally Squad of which $350 went to a Cheerleading Camp. Spokeswoman Penny explained that in past years the cheerleading squad has been rotten and since this rally squad has lots of talent. it would be an investment on the part of the Senate. "It's good PR", she cooed. "Who represents the school? The cheerleaders do!'

Vandals go to?

McLeod then spoke with wit as he inquired "Why don't we send the Vandals to Football school?" However, the girls and Tony got their money with an 11-1-1 vote.

"If you want to get your money," spake. Mitchell. "show up with a lot of pretty girls, smile a lot and be positive.

This must be the reason why Steve Smith who showed up alone did not receive his $100 a month, but instead will receive $67.50. the same as the Attorney General. Naturally. the appropriations for the golf course rose $5000 (although it was explained that expenses were being cut to the bone and the golf course was more than maintaining itself). As a result of this unexpected decrease in salary. Smith may not be able to devote as much time to Programs as before.

bottom figure he could accept

In a flurry of fast voting, homecoming got its $650. Blood Drive $190. Kiddies Christmas Party $120, and the Valkries got $75. Student Services and Special Events (Bike Race, Occult Week) received $1,425 in a typical unanimous 13

Local babysitter

Greg Casey warned the Senators not to say anything to people like Argonaut reporters without checking with him first. He said that "people" had been coming up to him and asking "what did that senator mean by that" and, of course, Casey would have to answer, "Well, I don't know." Perhaps, Casey should be titled "Public Relations and Senatorial Babysitter.'

Next Tuesday night, the Senate will be continuing their performance in the Wallace Complex meeting rooms. They will be considering appropriations for Communications-Gem. KUOI. Graphic Arts, Arg, — and Issues and Forums. What they decide will affect all the students vitally.

One very disturbing aspect is the dangerously low General Reserve of $6.510.10.

