We know the scores

Football intramurals are well underway. The scores make for such interesting reading, we've sent copies to Jimmy the Greek. The scores of 21 games last week are on page 6.

But first, a pledge allegiance...

President Ford announced amnesty for Vietnam-era draft resisters and evaders yesterday, but it wasn't full, free nor absolute. That story is on page 3.

Oooooooh, what a blast

Readers are blasting KUOI radio, another letter writer is questioning the dynamite editorial logic of the Argonaut, while in an explosive special this week, a special package of two (presumably illogical) editorials are presented on such topics as voter registration and ballet, all on page 4.

Denver can be chilly

Football hostilities were reported to have been taking place in Denver Saturday, but Air Force attacks weren't limited to the air. Unfortunately, our own Vandals couldn't find shelter from the barrage. Kevin Kelleher's observations of the 37-0 season-opening loss are on page 6.

'You do dishes, I'll grade papers'

There are two new members of the geography department, and they not only have the same last name, they also share the same home. Rhonda Brammer, who has eaten lunch in every restaurant in town, talks with Nancy and John Hultquist on page 8.

Senate may discontinue rally squad funding

The ASUI Senate will consider reducing or eliminating ASUI funding of the rally squad at tonight's 7:30 meeting.

The resolution to eliminate funding, introduced by senators John Rupe and Mark Beatty, charges that rally squad "has not provided an important function, and is used primarily for public and alumni relations. The resolution proposes that the athletic department and the Alumni Association fund the squad, and that ASUI funds be reduced or eliminated."

The senate will also consider a motion by David Warnick, ex-officio senator, recommending a re-routing of traffic at the United States Post Office downtown. The motion was considered last week, but postponed because of the absence of the sponsor.

A bill appropriating $250 to KUOI for the purchase of a new microphone will also be considered tonight. The bill is presently in the senate finance committee.

Other senate bills scheduled to be reported from committees tonight include the transfer of funds to ASUI graphic arts director Mike Tyacke to attend a graphic arts conference in Chicago. Consideration of a proposed appropriation of $595 dollars to rally squad for uniforms is also scheduled to be reported from the finance committee.

Also scheduled for senate consideration are bills appropriating funds to the University drama club to attend the American College Theatre Festival in Eugene, Oregon. The senate will also consider a bill providing for the transfer of $54.00 to obtain a Notary public for Bev Henderson, ASUI secretary.

Council considers bill to examine programs

A bill which would create a committee to examine the roles and functions of the University of Idaho's student service programs will be discussed at this afternoon's Faculty Council meeting.

Consideration of such an evaluation was postponed at last week's meeting until Thomas Richardson, vice-president for student services could attend. Richardson, who will attend today's meeting told the Argonaut that he favors such an examination and has some examination guidelines that he plans to present.

The council will also consider a report from an ad-hoc committee on audio visual services. The committee's report recommends that all audio-visual services be brought together under the vice-president for academic affairs and the dean of instructional services.

Further, the report calls for the creation of four new departments under the dean of instructional services; materials preparation services, instructional radio-TV, consulting services and an independent study center.

A proposal submitted by Floyd Franks of the department of veterinary sciences, will recognize student advising as part of the function of a faculty member.

Placement center lists

job interview dates

Interviews are now being conducted in the Job Placement Center for students seeking work. Beginning next week companies in all fields from mining to advertising will begin to send interviewers to the center. Sid Miller, director of the center, is co-ordinating the interviews.

Companies are signing now for interviewing rooms for a half-year hence. The center's rooms are filling up much as a dentist's appointment book; days in March and April are already filled, and Miller says that he expects that companies will soon be signing for October 1975.

Debate: Smith wants it

The Associated Press

A challenge for a debate and rail service to Idaho were issues aired by Idaho politicians Monday.

Bob Smith, the Republican candidate for U.S. Senate, challenged Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to a campaign debate saying he "owes it to the people of Idaho to descend from his personal Mount Olympus and discuss the real issues..."

Smith said Church has partially accepted a challenge for a debate, but only if he, Church, "is protected from tough and unrehearsed questions by a sanitized panel of questioners."

Smith said he insists on the right to ask Church questions directly and wants the senator to have an equal opportunity to question him. But Smith told a Boise news conference Church "apparently doesn't want anything that spontaneous."

Smith said Idaho deserves a right to compare both senatorial candidates through the same atmosphere of free discussion that characterized the historic Lincoln-Douglas debates.

"Neither of those great Americans shrank from an honest public airing of their differences," Smith said. "It's hard to imagine why Frank Church feels himself above those legendary figures."

Meanwhile, Church said he had presented to members of the Senate and House conference committee the names of more than 5,000 Idahoans who have signed petitions backing his bill to force AMTRAK, the national government rail service, to restore rail passenger trains to Idaho. "These petitions testify to the overwhelming support of the people of Idaho for restoration of passenger trains," said Church.

The senate has passed church's legislation as an amendment to this year's AMTRAK authorization bill.

Tribe gets support

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (AP) - Indians from Montana and British Columbia are gathering here to aid the Kootenai tribe in its effort to obtain treaty status, a Boundary County sheriff's deputy said Monday.

The deputy said about a dozen cars from the two areas arrived during the weekend.

"They apparently are coming to offer advice and general support," he said. "They are not coming armed."

'Conciliation of all our people'

President Ford officially offered judicial forgiveness Monday to thousands of Vietnam-era draft evaders and deserters if they reaffirm their allegiance to the United States and work for up to 24 months in public service jobs.

In disclosing his conditional amnesty plan, Ford declared it is time to bind up the wounds of the past "so that we may all get going on the pressing problems of the present."

The amnesty program was effective immediately when Ford signed a presidential proclamation and two executive orders during a brief, nationally broadcast appearance in the White House Cabinet Room.

Under the program, draft evaders and military deserters who have not been convicted or punished can turn themselves in before next Jan. 31, reaffirm their allegiance and agree to spend up to 24 months in approved public service jobs such as hospital orderly.

The President set no minimum period of alternate service but said the 24-month requirement can be reduced for mitigating circumstances.

For men already convicted or punished for desertion or draft evasion; Ford established a nine-member clemency board to review their cases "as equitably and as impartially as is humanly possible."

Men now in prison will have their cases reviewed first, and officials said confinement would be suspended as soon as possible.

Reaction to Ford's announcement was mixed.

Senate Republican whip Robert Griffin of Michigan hailed it as a courageous, compassionate move and House Republican leader John Rhodes of Arizona said it should have broad support in Congress.

Among the Democrats, House Speaker Carl Albert said he is accepting the President's leadership but added, "I don't know what he is going to do, to tell the truth."

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said he estimates 2,500 draft resisters will take advantage of the conditional amnesty offer and that a lot of deserters will do so.

Questioned by reporters as he left a congressional hearing, Saxbe said Ford's plan "goes right down the line with recommendations submitted by the Justice and Defense departments."

No congressional action is required for the program, which was enacted under the presidential powers of the Constitution.

Ford used those same provisions eight days ago to grant an unconditional pardon to former President Richard M. Nixon.

Ford described the main purpose of the program as "the conciliation of all our people and the restoration of the essential unity of Americans within which honest differences of opinion do not descend to discord and mutual problems are not polarized by excessive passion."

"My sincere hope," he added, "is that this is a constructive step toward a calmer and cooler appreciation of our individual rights and responsibilities and our common purpose as a nation, whose future is always more important than its past."

Officials said that about 15,500 draft evaders are potentially eligible for clemency. Of these, about 8,700 already have been convicted and another 4,350 are under indictment, 4,060 are listed as fugitives and an estimated 3,000 of them are in Canada.

Prison sentences now are being served by 130 persons convicted of draft evasion.

Bravo Ballet

The Moscow Ballet Folk put on a superb show last weekend in the Administration Building auditorium.

The group had to overcome some obstacles, summed up by one spectator: "I forgot all about the heat, and the bad seats when they did that adaptation from Godspell."

The Performing Arts Center (PAC) with its air conditioning and great seats, has a "thrust stage", which puts the performers too close to the stage, in some cases. Yet hopefully the PAC will be the scene for some future ballet performances.

Phase Three of the PAC will be a music hall, which would serve the University's resident ballet company well. But unless some rich donor comes forward this project must wait a decade.

Phase Two of the PAC, which is primarily academic, can be funded by state monies. It will consist of several classrooms and a studio stage, which would replace the U-Hut facilities. But right now, on the list of U of I building requests, it's the seventh priority out of eleven items.

Until Phase Three, the Ballet Folk deserve better than the present Ad Auditorium. It should be extensively renovated. All plans for correcting the ventilation, the curtains and seating problems should be moved up on all priority lists.

Hurry, ASUI

"We're here to serve," was the motto of at least one previous ASUI administration.

This year's administration should think of at least adopting that philosophy, if not the words themselves.

The administration is tardily moving in one area where they can be of real service to students—voter registration. In 1972 a well-executed ASUI drive got students registered and voting.

Yet this year, students were not even given a chance to register to vote at the end of class registration line.

We urge the ASUI Senate and administration to speedily take the steps necessary to insure students can register to vote for any where in Idaho.

Meanwhile, if you'd like to vote in Latah County, you can register to vote in the County Clerk's office in the County Courthouse on Sixth Street.

Nixon pardon, no bargain

Nixon's Pardon: We have been bombarded with questions about the pardoning of ex-President Nixon. We have carefully investigated the story behind the pardoning and have spoken to sources who are in a position to know what happened.

Did Nixon make a deal for a pardon before he brought Ford into the White House? We have found absolutely no evidence of any advance understanding about a pardon. On the contrary, President Ford specifically instructed his representative, Benton Becker, not to promise a pardon during the preliminary discussions at San Clemente.

Jack Anderson

Why did Ford grant the pardon? He acted strictly out of compassion. He had received reports that Nixon was terribly depressed and despondent, that his nerves were strung like a harp, that he was deteriorating daily. Ford thought the humane thing to do was to pardon his predecessor.

Why didn't the President wait until the courts had determined Nixon's guilt? Ford was told that a Nixon indictment was imminent. He felt the indictment crack Nixon's emotional stability. Since Ford had already decided upon mercy, he thought it would be more compassionate to act immediately.

Didn't Ford realize that a Nixon pardon would be unequal justice and might upset the whole Watergate prosecution? His lawyers told him that the power to pardon had been used in the past as the President's personal prerogative, without regard for equal justice. But the whole truth is that Ford simply didn't consider all the implications.

Readers blast KUOI format

To the editor:

I am writing in response to the Sept. 13 Idaho Argonaut letter from Michael D. Jones. Both my wife and I strongly agree with Mr. Jones' belief that the majority of the University (which KUOI supposedly serves) has other taste qualities than "Top 40."

We fully support Mr. Jones' discussion in the letter and believe the type of music he played should be returned to the program.

Mr. Jones and more announcers like him should be hired to change the present format.

Please let the support of the University on this issue become known so that if possible pressure by numbers will cause a change for the better.

Kelly and Mary Courtright

To the editor:

Bring back Michael Jones to KUOI and get more announcers like him. Michael is considerate enough of his audience to play good music, rather than top 40 tunes over and over and over again, and dispense with the absurd small talk with which most KUOI announcers aggravate their audience.

Mary Sue Hine

To the editor:

In Mr. Jones's (Argonaut letter Sept. 13) his sentiments were like a balm to my sore ears. I for one, am very favorable to the idea of a program such as the one mentioned. (even more than one).

Had I only been capable of listening to our illustrious "top 40" radio station longer than 15 minutes out of every week, I might have known of Mr. Jones's program last semester.

It is even more unfortunate, in my opinion, that the program no longer exists (due to the decree of the station manager) and that Mr. Jones is unable to continue his employment and his attempt at getting the program back on the air.

Mr. Jones's program took up a little over 2 per cent of total radio listening time per week (this estimate is made from considering 24 hours of radio time per day) and I feel that such a small amount of variety in a somewhat already mundane radio station is not too big a sacrifice.

Is that too much to ask?

Phillip M. Hartwig

Editorial logic questioned

To the Editor:

I'm alarmed with the political comment on Sept. 10's editorial page.

Dave Warnick's column shirked the whole issue—the meaning and effect of the Nixon pardon. But Editor Bird's logic is more troublesome. Bird proposes that draft evaders are as "equally deserving (of amnesty) as a man who corrupted the nation's highest office."

That notion, so in vogue among political writers today, is infuriating. Let me make myself perfectly clear.

In essence Nixon was the war, the lies, and the tragedy of Vietnam. I think it is incredibly offensive and degrading to the anti-war movement and to the anti-war protester per se to be categorized with Nixon.

Political maneuvering, even at the highest level, does not change the facts of the case. A deal has now been made and Nixon pardoned. It is not the first time men of power and influence have helped each other off the hook. But let's not kid ourselves. In the words of my grandfather "It's time we people, the pawns in all this hogwash, began seeing Nixon for the SOB he is; and grouped as war protesters, taxpayers, TV watchers, and beer drinkers together as 'the People'."

I respect Nixon's cleverness in misleading people, for winning the elections, manipulating the energy crisis, helping big business into our pocketbooks. But the worst thing he did was to get us all at each other's throats, i.e. parents/ children, blue collarworker/student. He has wasted the spirit of the country for six years and we still smell of him.

Are we so confused and in such a frantic rush to dispel the nightmare that the distinctions between the cause and effect, the right and wrong of our national misery are no longer meaningful?

Pardoning the draft resisters will never make right the death and devastation Nixon visited on Vietnam and Cambodia nor the pain and confusion he has nourished in America. If we think that those maimed and killed can be restored or that the years of division between parent and child can be regained by simply saying now that it's alright, that categorically all are pardoned and absolved of wrong-doing, then we are ready for it to all happen over again.

Guidelines sought by center

The University of Idaho Women's Center is sponsoring sessions Sept. 17-18 to solicit ideas for any changes in the proposed rules and regulations implementing Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

Celia Banks, center director, said the sessions from 12-2 p.m. each day are open to the public. Speakers will be Sandi Gallagher, U of I affirmative action officer, and Pamela Jacklin, Washington State University affirmative action office.

Title IX regulations, published last June, will implement the prohibition against discrimination on the basis of sex in educational programs and activities receiving or benefiting from federal financial assistance. The regulations are not final and the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare is soliciting comments from interested citizens and organizations until Oct. 15.

"Some lobbying organizations are really working to water this down, which means we have to work even harder," she said. "We hope to come out of this with a lot of ideas for HEW."

Concert tickets now available

The Associated Students of the University of Idaho programs office is sponsoring the first fall concert to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, in Memorial Gymnasium.

Music will be provided by Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids, Dusty Drapes and Dusters, and the Northwest's Ron Gardner Group.

Advance tickets for all students are $3, then $3.50 at the door. Non-student tickets cost $4.

Tickets are now on sale, at the U of I Student Union Building information desk, Lewis-Clark State College SUB, Washington State University Compton Union Building listening lounge, and Moscow High School.

We can help you.

As you may suspect, selecting a stereo system is more than just a matter of taste. It is first and foremost the process of discovering just how much performance you can get for your dollar. How much sound will a system produce? How much of the full musical range does it cover? How clean and detailed is the overall sound?

We at Stereocraft are uniquely able to demonstrate sound in our stores and show the easily audible differences that may be important to you. But we can be of help even before you come in. Because we spend a good deal of our time evaluating all kinds of stereo equipment for ourselves, we can supply a good preliminary summary of what performance characteristics can be had at what price, what you will gain if you spend more, what characteristics you might want to see emphasize at a given price level.

What your dollar buys

A Summary.

With a limited budget ($200-$350), you can get a system of reasonable accuracy, but some sacrifices are necessary at the extremes of the musical range to get satisfactory acoustic output (loudness). A system in this price range is most appropriate to small listening areas.

With a moderate budget ($400-$500), you have two choices. On one hand, you can get a system which provides accurate musical reproduction in every respect, with sufficient sound output for medium size rooms (2000 cubic feet or less). Alternatively, if you like to play music very loud in a large room, you can select a different kind of system in this price range that sacrifices some musical accuracy (bass response in particular) to get extra sound output.

With somewhat more to spend ($550-$700), you will be able to get a system that combines completely satisfying accuracy with ample output for even very large listening areas and very loud musical levels. In addition, it will include features which add to ease and flexibility of operation, and which help to preserve your records. For most people, the point of diminishing returns is in this price range.

An unlimited budget ($1000 and up) will afford you the very best equipment available. Such a system can provide a number of sonic refinements for the ultracritical listener; truly thunderous sound output on demand; and a myriad of luxurious and helpful control features.

Examples.

At Stereocraft, we demonstrate, sell, and service the majority of good stereo equipment available. Of the many systems we can put together in each of the price ranges we've discussed, we've selected here an exemplary system from each category that will offer the best possible value for your particular number of dollars. We can probably furnish you with a better system for less money and with better service than you are likely to get elsewhere.

Experience...

An end to stupid mistakes

By KEVIN KELLEHER
of the Argonaut Staff

People are saying "They're the same old Vandals." It's possible that many people actually believe that they are a reincarnation of last seasons fumble prone squad. The second play from scrimmage the Vandals fumbled away the ball deep in their own territory. It seems nightmares never end.

Air Force is a high caliber team and you just don't make mistakes like fumbling the ball away early in the game and deep in your own territory. A mistake gives a team too much incentive and all but destroys the moral of the fumbling bunglers.

The Vandal defense did manage to hold the Falcons to a field goal, but the offense lost the ball on another fumble on what amounted to their third play of the game. This time Air Force didn't screw around with the three points and suddenly the score was ten zip.

Anyway you know what happened the rest of the day. It was like listening to last seasons games. The Vandals can boast about talent, new offenses, and roofing projects, but they can't boast of finesse, style, or backs that hold on to the football consistently. The offense made too many minor mistakes that grew into an absolute horror for the defense unit, which played over two-thirds of the ball game. "Too much time" isn't a mistake, it's stupid.

There is no rational reason why a team can't get a play off in the allotted twenty-five seconds. Consequently, there is no reason for the multitude of timing problems, especially off side and illegal motion, that either helped the Air Force sustain a drive, or eliminated any chance for the Vandals to as much as start a drive. The Vandals made stupid mistakes.

Coach Troxel said "Well, ya know we did make a lot of mistakes, but our boys just didn't have the experience... game experience ya know".

It is true that they didn't have the experience going into the Air Force game, but they have it now. Troxel was awfully worried about his defense earlier this year and spent a considerable amount of time working with the defensive squad. In all fairness, the defense played well. Consider the fumbles deep in the Vandal's own territory, the tremendous Force's kicking game of Air Dave Lawson, which twice pinned Idaho inside their five yard line, and the fact that the defense played most of the game.

So, were the Vandals outclassed? Were they playing a team that they had no business even thinking about scheduling? The answer is self-evident. It's college football. The little guy wants the shot at the big boy. Nine chances out of ten the little guy gets stomped, but there is that one chance. That is the real beauty of college football, everything is not even, everybody has a chance. The Vandals were not outclassed, they were out-finessed. They made mistakes and the Air Force took it to'em everytime. In order to pull off an upset, you don't make stupid mistakes or turn over the football constantly.

This weekend the Vandals will be playing WSU and they can't afford to make stupid mistakes. The Cougars are a tougher team than Air Force and they will really take it to the Vandals if they are given the opportunity.

As far as the Air Force game is concerned, experience and finesse coupled with stupid mistakes and turnovers, turned a hopeful Vandal dream into a nightmare.

Men's football and golf highlight intramurals

Intramural sports are in full swing with a total of 21 touch football games played last week and a golf tournament held last Saturday.

TMA-1 representing that everpresent Law School snatched first place in the golf contest with a four-man low of 314 for 18. Sigma Alpha Epsilon took second with 323 and third was garnered by Beta Theta Pi with 327 points. Members of the winning squad were Curt Thomsen, Jim Knickrehm, Davey Wishney, and those slicing Sheils brothers Tim and Max.

Tennis and co-rec softball will start Sept. 23, but entries for the teams are due today at noon.

The touch football results were:

Sorey, Novak lead cross country win

The Air Force Academy cross country squad has been defeated only five times at home since its opening in 1959. Last Saturday while the football Vandals were smitten by a superior Air Force team, the Idaho cross country team beat Air Force 26-29, handing them their sixth loss in 15 years.

Despite the more than mile high altitude to which the Air Force team was accustomed, the Vandal harriers finished first, second, and fifth on the four mile course. Shane Sorey clocked in at 21:16, grabbing second for the Vandals. Idaho's Scott Kniblich, Tim Williams, and Doug Beckman finished fifth, eighth and tenth respectively.

1965 was the last year that the Vandals held the Big Sky cross country championship and not since 1962 has an Idaho harrier placed in national competition. Coach Mike Keller believes that this year's team has the potential to update those records by walking home the Big Sky title and by doing well in the nationals.

Next week some of the harriers will trek to the North Idaho College Open in Coeur d'Alene while the top runners will stay behind to train for the Bellevue Invitational scheduled for Sept. 28.

Two-for-one

Geographers give U of I break

By RHONDA BRAMMER
of the Argonaut Staff

The geography department just hired two people for the price of one.

Nancy and John Hultquist are geographers who decided to marry each other back in graduate school at the University of Cincinnati even though their friends told them, you two will never be able to find jobs in the same department.

But their friends were wrong because Nancy and John Hultquist are now sharing a teaching position here at the University.

On Friday, I met them for lunch. Sam Scripter, the head of the department, came too.

Nancy arrived late, all excited, carrying a brown paper bag with an onion, a carrot, a tomato and a potato inside.

No, it's not my lunch, she said, I took these to class and asked my students to write a concise, descriptive comparison.

Maybe the best answer was from a student who said that with a little water those things would make a good stew. That student, she said, saw similarities where most people saw differences.

She seemed very excited as she talked about what her students had seen.

We went to eat at Taco Time. There Sam Scripter told how he got the idea of hiring them both by reading an article in the newspaper about husband-wife teams. (He even remembered the page number.)

"It was an article on page 26, April 19th of the Wall Street Journal," Scripter said. (Maybe that is why he gets to be head of the department.)

"We really weren't applying for a joint position," Nancy explained. John was the one who was looking for a teaching position. He just put a note on the bottom of his applications: my wife is also a trained geographer, he said.

John did not talk much because he was eating his tostado.

After hiring John, Scripter had suggested, why don't you let your wife teach half of the time. So this semester Nancy is teaching two courses, John, one, and next semester John will teach two courses and Nancy, one.

Last spring, John Hultquist was the assistant director of the Institute of Urban and Regional Research in Iowa City. He was also a visiting assistant professor of Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Iowa. Besides a number of papers, he has a book soon to be published in the McGraw-Hill Problems in Geography Series entitled Urban Transportation. "I'm very interested in teaching," John said, "but I'm still interested in research—in planning my own research." And he hopes to do both here. "Here you can use graduate students for research—graduate students that know a few things," he said.

Nancy has yet to finish her dissertation and then she too will have her PhD from the University of Iowa. After finishing her M.A. at Cincinnati, she taught for two years at Georgia State University. (And yes, she has published things too—13 papers in all.)

"I like this University," John said, "because I like to know who I'm working with or for."

"Hobbies—well—I like to hunt and fish and shoot the bow and arrow," John said.

But one thing made him unhappy. He was very disappointed that in Idaho he became a resident immediately when it came to paying taxes, but he cannot buy an in-state hunting and fishing license for another six months.

"and I refuse to buy an out-of-state license," he said.

Nancy did not seem unhappy about anything—not even about being a little isolated. They told me there weren't many places to shop around here, she said, but I don't mind ordering clothes out of the catalog.

The Hultquists have a house in Troy with a place next year for a garden, a Brittany Spaniel named Wisty, and two cats called Skeeter and Sammy. And they just bought a used 4-wheel drive Jeep.

"We like the area," Nancy said, "we took a cut in pay to come to a nice place..."

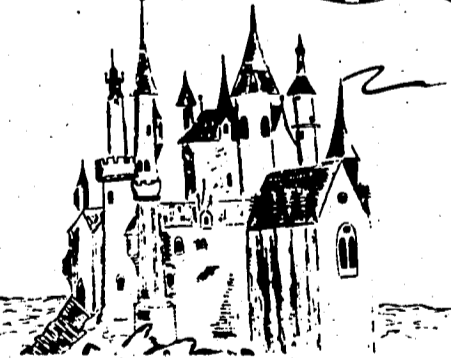

"...an initial cut in pay," John corrected her.

"We're hoping to convert them to fulltime," Scripter said. "Sure you can print that," he added.

So perhaps by next year, the geography department will no longer have two people for the price of one.
