Reaction, Response, Revolution?

Someone apparently isn't happy with the ASUI Senate's decision to negotiate with the administration for conditions for a proposed fee increase for roofing the stadium.

Two large signs—both anonymous—appeared on campus early Monday morning exclaiming "Down with the ASUI Senate" and accusing it of "ripping us off."

The stadium roof question is a complex one and the senate shouldn't be faulted for its actions, the Argonaut says in an editorial on page 4.

Meanwhile, we probably haven't heard the last of the nameless sign-hanger.

And it was such a nice day...

Somebody else caught fumble-itis for a change, but it didn't do our Vandals much good. They took it in the shorts before a good-sized crowd in Saturday's home-opener, despite West Texas State's ultra-shoddy ballhandling. The story is on page 12 and a pictorial report is in today's centerspread.

The on-again, off-again Barl Scruggs Revue concert slated for Oct. 25 is on again, according to Entertainment Committee Chairman Richard Brown. Bruce Spotleson reports on some back-stage concert happenings on page 2.

Scruggs not scrubbed

By BRUCE SPOTLESON
of the Argonaut Staff

Contrary to rumors currently gathering steam on campus, the Earl Scruggs Revue concert set for later this month will not be canceled, recent developments in the matter show.

Rich Brown, ASUI entertainment committee chairman, said that a sound system has been secured for the Oct. 25 Moscow date, and it now appears that the concert will indeed be held as planned.

Earlier, speculation had increased in some student gathering places that the Earl Scruggs concert would be canceled.

But that was before some "technical problems" were close enough towards being solved so as to satisfy Brown.

The hang-up, according to Brown, has been "routing sense." Earl Scruggs and his entourage had been expecting to have other contract dates in the Northwest during the time they would be traveling to Moscow, but booking agents were unable to secure such agreements with other parties in reasonable proximity of Moscow.

Brown said that three schools—in Missoula, Twin Falls and Boise—had originally sought to sign contracts with the Scruggs band, but are no longer interested in such a concert.

The College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls has reportedly suffered a financial setback from a recent concert, and this has been hinted as a prime reason for its withdrawal from negotiations. Fear of pecuniary loss is also suspected as the reason for the University of Montana and Boise State dropping their talks with the booking agency.

Handling the routing dates has been the responsibility of the International Famous Agency of Los Angeles. Presently, it looks as if that agency will shoulder the responsibility for the void of booking dates.

Frank Rio was the original agent that accepted IFA's contract with Scruggs and the U of I some five months ago, but Rio has since left the agency for a position with another business group. Tom Ross took his place as IFA's agent after Rio's departure, and it was Ross with whom the ASUI Entertainment Committee recently broke off negotiations.

When notified that the routing dates envisioned for this area had begun to fall through, Scruggs apparently began to press for a decision on whether or not the planned trip and costs of equipment transportation it would entail would make the U of I concert feasible.

Scruggs was concerned because of the fact that the U of I concert date is the lone contract the group has scheduled for a span of nearly two weeks later in this month. Playing in Florida the week prior to the Moscow engagement and in Virginia the week after, Scruggs had begun to have misgivings about hauling sound equipment across the country and back for a single date.

According to Brown, there was a very real chance that the date would have been canceled unless other actions were taken. But SUB General Manager Dean Vetrus, acting on the advice of the U of I attorney, began negotiating with the Scruggs family in hopes of avoiding cancellation.

Brown has described the Scruggs family as "willing to negotiate and work things out."

Vetrus was told via long distance telephone that if the U of I could secure a sound system for the date, the Revue would appear.

Brown said Monday afternoon that a sound system had been secured from Dave Cutter, a professional sound man in Portland, and that the ASUI hoped to relay that to Scruggs by late Monday night.

The cost of renting the system will run approximately $650 for the evening. Scruggs has agreed to deduct the cost for transportation of his sound system from his contract. That will reduce the cost of his contract with the U of I by some $500, so the ASUI will be spending about $150 of its own.

The IFA negotiators are now being by-passed, but according to Brown they will still be paid, both for what they were and were not able to accomplish. Booking agents' fees come out of the contract between the performer and the agent, so these matters will be settled privately by Scruggs.

Total contract costs are now in the area of $9,000. Brown thinks the rental of sound equipment has spared him some considerable mental duress.

"I think that $150 far outweighs the hassle I would have for cancelling a concert," Brown said. He also pointed to the costs of possible litigation by the booking agency for such a cancellation.

Brown denied having given authorization for cancellation of the concert last Tuesday, as one ASUI official had reported was the case.

"It's a purely technical problem," Brown said Monday. He was, however, reluctant to state flatly that there would indeed be no cancellation—no doubt as a result of the extrinsic circumstances of this concert.

"There's a danger of being canceled with everything," Brown said.

Senate to discuss use of breakable containers

The ASUI Senate will consider a proposal to ban all breakable beverage containers at ASUI sponsored activities, at their meeting tonight.

The bill, introduced by Senator Mary Morris would give any ASUI employee the power to prohibit any person with a breakable container on their person from entering any ASUI sponsored activity.

The appointment of Greg Casey to the ASUI Senate by President Dirk Kempthorne will be presented to the senate for confirmation. Casey, a former senator and candidate for ASUI Vice President, was nominated by Kempthorne to replace Patty Hull, who was elected to the senate last spring but failed to return to school.

The senate will also consider initiating a survey of students for their views concerning athletic funding. If passed, the survey would take place next spring.

Senate confirmation of appointments by Kempthorne to various student-faculty committees will also be considered at tonight's meeting.

Council to hear report on academic bankruptcy

Faculty Council will consider a report from the University Curriculum Committee in favor of present academic regulations concerning academic bankruptcy, at their 3 p.m. meeting, today.

The council had previously declared itself in favor of allowing a student to throw out one semester's grades, and in effect, declare academic bankruptcy. The Curriculum Committee report, however, asks the council to change its position.

A motion to eliminate fees and reduce out of state tuition for veterans was withdrawn by David Warnick, who made the motion. Warnick said that the proposal may be made again if the Idaho Legislature fails to act on the question in their upcoming session.

The council will also consider a proposed revision of the University policy of notification of contract renewals for part time employees.

Miles feels students must vote

"Legislators must have accurate supportive information immediately," says Glenn Miles.

Miles is candidate for state senator from the 5th legislative district opposing the democratic incumbent Orval Snow.

Stating that he had worked with Harold Snow, the now retired 22 year state representative from this district, Miles made the comment that there were many times "Harold needed information during session that same day or the next but couldn't get it."

"We must develop a system to provide facts to legislators to have accurate information immediately during a session. Increased liason with a political science student internship program, faculty council and student government is needed."

Education and the future of the University is a major issue. "If students want an effective lobby in the state they must register and vote," Miles said. He added that if students didn't vote they would lose their representation.

"With the increased contact and liason we cannot forget the unsung heroes of the school, the staff that keeps the school running smoothly. I'm opposed to the principle of percentage increases in salary to the lower paid staff support people." Miles stated that "10 per cent of nothing is nothing."

Miles has challenged incumbent Snow to a debate on the Sunshine Initiative and freedom of the press. Snow declined the debate because Miles "has no record to debate."

When the new marijuana bill, which makes possession of three ounces of the drug a felony, came up for vote in the senate our own Sen. Snow voted in favor of the new law. Miles had this to say. "I think the freshman incumbent senator has been more concerned with the morals of our students than the bread and butter concerns of this district. Priorities in law enforcement should be focused on crimes with victims and property ahead of victimless crimes"

Methods in getting Rees tenure argued

Student support for Bill Rees appears to be dividing. Lyle Montgomery, psychology major and head of the Students for Rees Committee, has expressed his displeasure with John Orwick, who is representing Rees to the administration.

Rees was denied tenure last spring, and students have been going through channels attempting to get the decision reversed. Only two weeks ago, Rees formally requested the Board of Regents for an appeal hearing.

Montgomery told the Argonaut that he and Orwick both agree that Rees should have tenure, however there is "strong disagreement" over the methods to be used in the appeals process.

Montgomery said, "Orwick is being almost too reasonable. This has left some question in the committee's mind how strong a case he is presenting."

Sources within the University community have indicated that Orwick had been negotiating behind the scenes, attempting to reach a compromise position with the Administration.

Orwick has refused all comment on what actions he may or may not have taken on Rees' behalf. He did say, "I believe that men of intelligence and reason, acting in good faith, ought to be able to resolve their conflict in a manner which is both rational and mutually acceptable." He declined any further elaboration.

Montgomery said, "It is time that the students, faculty, the Regents, and the legislature are made aware of a 'can of worms' that exists not only in the psychology department, but in programs administered by the psychology department."

Montgomery added, "I want to start exposing these scandals, but Orwick has kept us on a leash. We're beginning to wonder where Orwick's loyalties lay."

SONY

Our Advent, Sony, Pioneer, Grado system $639.00

If you are shopping around for your first component music system, you want to purchase a system with which you won't be dissatisfied in a year—a system which will reproduce the lowest bass and the highest harmonics, and not leave you wanting. We at Stereocraft have such a system, with a big compromise on the price, but with none on the sound quality.

The system is based around the Advent Loudspeakers. They are meant to be compared directly in every aspect of performance, including frequency response, to the most expensive and elaborate speakers available, and they sound clearly and dramatically better than many far more expensive systems. Countless owners and usually blase equipment reviewers have all commented that they sound like twice the price.

To power the Advents we recommend the Sony 7045 AM/FM Receiver; it can produce at least 35 watts RMS per channel with exceptionally low distortion. (RMS is the most rigorous and least flashy measure of power.) The Sony will fully realize the fine low-bass capabilities of the Advents.

We include a Pioneer turntable with base and Grado F3Et magnetic cartridge with a diamond stylus. Tracking is less than 1/4 grams, this combination will take good care of your records; you will get the same undistorted sound on the forty-seventh playing as you did on the first.

The total list price of this system is $750.00, but we at Stereocraft are offering it for only $639.00, with our full (2 years parts and labor) guarantee except for the Advents, which we cheerfully guarantee for the life of the original owner. This is a system which will satisfy both an ear for music and a head for value. The music lover who has not had much experience with audio components as well as the seasoned audiophile will appreciate the uncompromising value of this system.

Senate sinking

The ASUI Senate and the Argonaut are supposedly the two most unpopular institutions on campus.

Generally, we have not realized that we sink together in a common quicksand. Students have suggested this year that the ASUI Senate is "ripping us off" and that it is an example of "Taxation without representation."

We certainly hope that all those students protesting voted in the last ASUI election...and that they have contacted their living group's senator, or that they have visited the ASUI office with their complaints. (Which has been well-manned this semester by Senators and various hangers-on to the logs in the quicksand.)

So far, the Argonaut has been impressed by the judgement and discretion of the Senators as they consider the issue of a roof for the stadium, and the SUB fee increase.

Generally members of the University community have no sense of practical politics. Some members of the ASUI Senate are showing they have a grasp of how to practically work for, and represent student interests.

We commend them for it, and hope that we can both find our way out of the bog.

Sign of the times?

Debates will combat apathy

At last the ASUI is moving to reverse the cycle of student powerlessness.

Senators will be visiting groups with precinct registrars so that students can register and vote in Latah County. In addition, form letters requesting absentee ballots will be provided.

But a voter registration drive is not the only needed antidote to apathy. Students have to be persuaded there's actually a reason to vote, that we do have a choice and are not echoing the predictions of some Boise correspondent.

One good method is discussion of the issues in candidate debates. Already the ASUI administration has invited several candidates to debate.

Congressman Steve Symms and his Democratic opponent Ray Cox have accepted the invitations, as has Bob Smith, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate.

In the interests of open government, the following candidates should engage in debate before U of I students:

Governor Cecil Andrus, and his GOP challenger, Lt. Governor Jack Murphy; (Students should be able to ask why student fees have risen to a record high under the Andrus administration, and why students are paying for more buildings than the state...)

Lt. Governor candidates John Evans (Demo.) and Vernon Ravenscroft (GOP);

Attorney General Tony Park, and his GOP challenger Wayne Kidwell; (were the mistakes of Park's Narcs "honest mistakes" or evidence of something deeper...)

And superintendent of Public Instruction candidates Roy Truby (Demo.) and Ezra Moore (GOP). (If only to get Ezra Moore north of the Salmon...)

At the very least, representatives of the candidates should hold an open debate on the U of I campus, and the candidates should each submit a couple of articles giving their views on the subjects of higher education funding, and the general topic inflation.

On a local level, today at noon in the Faculty Office Building Lounge, all four State Representative candidates will participate in a "Faculty Forum". Students are free to come and question the candidates.

State Senator Orval Snow (not Harold Snow, who is mentioned elsewhere on this page), the first-term incumbent Democratic State Senator should follow their example and combat voter apathy by accepting GOP candidate Glenn Miles' challenge to debate.

Of course, Orval Snow may not support this type of openness in government, since he voted to keep part of the "Sunshine" package in committee during the legislative session.

But of course, debates and registration drives will open government up, but the rest is up to you. Someone has to enter the door.

Students protest

Stadium fee, Kempthorne

To the editor:

An open letter to Dr. Sherman Carter, University of Idaho Financial Vice-President:

It seems that you have succumbed to the fallacy (or perpetrated it) that students come to the University to (a) enhance their social lives (b) attend athletic events (c) congregate at the SUB, (d) spend money. I refer to your recent statement to the Board of Regents.

Dr. Carter, we have paid out tribute to the athletic gods in hopes of completing their shrine, only to find that the gods will not smile upon us until we come through with greater sacrifices. Also the gods of revelry dictate that their palace must be redone to the same sacrifice or we will cease to be blessed by them.

I may have gotten my point across by taling circles around this, but for those in the dark, I shall now be more straight forward.

The students have been royally soaked to build an athletic complex

Satyriasis

To the editor:

To answer a couple questions posed by Corky Bush in the Friday Arg...

The male counterpart of nymphomania is satyriasis after the half man, half goat creature of Greek mythology.

And the counterpart of whore is stud, horses kept for breeding purposes only.

Neither of these is very flattering nor are names like Dick, Peter and John for the connotations they can have in our everyday language. The women don't suffer alone.

when state law says that tuition cannot be charged at the University of Idaho. Now instead of telling us that since costs are up and all students find it a little harder to get by that this money will be returned to us to help in our academic pursuits, we are told we must cough up more.

We see a remodeling project at the SUB. Next we find that fee increase is necessary to defray a deficit. Why should we remodel instead of paying that deficit first?

Finally, we are told by way of justification for these increases that we are paying the lowest fees in the region. It seem in keeping with the spirit of the original formation of the University that this should be the case.

I submit this proposal to Dr. Carter:

1. Add a dollar or two to the admission price of all events held in the stadium. Use this money to pay for a roof and to refund the student investments for the past few years.
2. Assess the PE majors and athletes in the same manner the Law School students were assessed.
3. Allow no remodeling or student facilities or other improvements beyond necessary repair and maintenance until all deficits are paid.
4. Stay out of student pockets unless the students themselves propose the funding.

Robert L. Smith

To the editor:

I am sure there are additional abuses of student fees allocated to the ASUI, but one flagrant instance that I observed last Tuesday night galls me extremely.

ASUI President Dirk Kempthorne is paid $200 per month to represent the members of the ASUI. Based on Tuesday's Senate performance, in October he will be overpaid by 90 per cent

Among other moneys allocated for the commission of his duties, he is sent to the U of I Regents meetings, wherever in the state they may be held.

When asked if he had any official communications to make to the Senate, he said that he had none.

He had no word on any Regents actions? Perhaps he might have explained why he came out for the U of I administration against the students concerning the matter of having student transcripts and registration packets withheld.

He also might have informed the Senate, and thus the students, that the ASUI Constitution, approved by students in an election 4 1/2 years ago, was never submitted to the Regents. Kempthorne might have told us what Dr. Richardson had indicated was the Administration's position on this matter.

But for some reason he felt no need to report, and in the meanwhile, students who attempt to follow what is happening around the University are still in the dark. Why?

John Hecht

Thanks

To the editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to the students at the University of Idaho for your generous donation of blood designated in my name.

My deepest gratitude for your overwhelming response. Many thanks to those of you who worked toward this effort. There are many individuals who deserve recognition for the special effort they put forth.

I want each of these individuals to realize how much I appreciate it.

Representative Harold Snow

Truby will be on campus

To the editor:

I read the editorial dated September 24 in which you lambasted the candidates for Superintendent of Public Instruction because you felt they were ignoring U of I students.

As Latah County Coordinator for Dr. Roy Truby I assure you that when we arrange his scheduling for Moscow we make every effort to see that he does not ignore students. Even in your editorial you mentioned that Dr. Truby was heard on campus this summer and again when he was here for the Latah County Fair. He has, in fact, appeared in Moscow five times since the announcement of his candidacy and in every instance but one—he was in town for less than an hour on that date—he spent considerable time on campus visiting with students as well as faculty and staff.

Also, I should hope you will recognize that it is not unlikely Dr. Truby might encounter a number of U of I students in such places as Moscow's main street, the ice cream social in the East City Park, and even the Latah County Fair. Students seem to move rather freely from campus to other parts of town and back again.

Dr. Truby was interviewed by a U of I reporter on June 25. He also went into the Argonaut office seeking an interview on the afternoon of September 12. No one was available to talk with him so he left and visited with students instead.

Now, I will grant you that he has not talked with everyone and we are willing to try again, as a matter of fact twice again.

Roy is a graduate of the U of I. He received a graduate degree here a few years back. As befits all loyal alums he will be on campus for homecoming weekend. Anyone who wants to talk with him might wander down to the Vandal Lounge area around 3:00 Friday afternoon and he will be there to meet with you.

Now we recognize that political interest may not be at its zenith during homecoming weekend so we have rearranged the schedule for him to be on campus Wednesday, October 30. Anyone or any group interested in meeting with him on that date should call 882-0493 or Judy Mohr, 885-7263.

The only legal relationship the State Superintendent of Public Instruction has to higher education is that of an ex officio member of the State Board of Education. Nevertheless Roy Truby has great concern for statewide educational needs and that certainly includes a concern for the needs of students at the U of I.

Now I may not be absolutely certain how he would vote on every issue concerning higher education. Would he vote to cover the stadium? Would he support teacher tenure and student evaluation? Would he have supported the move by the U of I to leave the Big Sky? Why doesn't an Argonaut Staffer grab a pencil, paper and bring your reporter's inquisitiveness to the Vandal Lounge and ask him yourself. O.K.

Taxation without representation

To the editor:

Re: proposed fee increases of $5 for the SUB, and $5 for the stadium roof.

First, no one asked me nor anyone else I know if the SUB should be redecorated with sunken seats and carpeting on the walls. It was functional and moderately comfortable the way it was. If someone desperately wanted sunken seats and carpeting on the walls, they should have asked me and I would have gladly pointed them to several bars in town which fit the criteria. On this issue I "vote" no.

Secondly, I have been hearing a commercial on a local radio station announcing that donations are now being accepted to complete the stadium roof. An extra: all donations are tax deductible. Now, I might consider my fees being raised $5 if I also have the right to take a tax deduction in that amount. However, considering our present tax laws, my $5 is not deductible. Therefore, on this measure I "vote" no also.

Ironically, at this time, I have no vote. The Senate has already decided to OK this rise in fees provided certain criteria are met. In this situation, I can only echo our forebears in saying "Taxation without representation is tyranny!"

Yours in the revolution.

Hard work makes Miller play success

By CAROLYN HARADA
Of the Argonaut Staff

The play "Death of a Salesman" has been resurrected. This two-hour drama comes alive from its pages by the fine talents of 14 captivating actors.

Willy Loman is no Christ like figure, but to his loving wife, he is. His sons, who sort of parted from under his wing, are like lost sheep in the flock of society—one son almost making good (Hap) and the other drifting along (Biff).

Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman" is a story of a timebeaten drummer who "never knew who he was." This average man clung all his life to a cheerful delusion that he was a man of great importance. However, he is unable to accept the fact that his role in the world is a truly insignificant one. And when Loman finds that all the values he had lived by are false, he becomes a tragic figure.

Miller believed that tragedy was too remote and the average man is a tragic hero because he is capable of suffering. This thought-provoking and emotion evoking play conveys these statements well.

Throughout the drama, a play on the audience's emotions are relevant. Emotions of sadness, loneliness, desperation, dislike, as well as humor are depicted very tastefully. Although the dialogue was a bit dead in part, the play moved along smoothly.

Effective lighting techniques and the three-level setting designed by Robert B. Chambers, theatre arts professor, aided the smooth shifts from one scene to another. Costume and make-up techniques enhanced the character of the role players. The febleness of age 60 and the liveliness of youth were well represented.

Director Forrest E. Sears was being very modest when he said he doesn't believe it is one of his best plays, although he justified his reply by noting that he was "terribly satisfied" with the outcome of it.

Sears believes there is a "real emotional kinship" between him and the play since it is his favorite and was his thesis play.

"The cast has been practicing since school began, four and a half weeks ago. This time entails better than 130 hours, four to five hours a night which is extremely intense because we usually rehearse about six or seven weeks prior to the engagement at the rate of two to three hours a night. It is undoubtedly the dedication of everybody in it to do that because they love the play, too."

Sears was correct in assuming that he had never seen anyone leaving without being moved or shaken by it. Comments from a tearful viewer expressed that "Willy Loman is just like my father, but so much exaggerated. I've seen lots of kids treat their parents in the same way."

"This play is entered into the American College Theatre Festival and if fortunate enough to win at the local level, we go to Eugene, Oregon in February to a regional festival and from that, the ten best plays in the country are taken to Washington D.C. in the Kennedy Center for competition," explained Sears.

It is the 25th anniversary of the play. To receive the full effect, it has got to be experienced, added Sears. The play will be held again Oct 17 to 19 at 8 p.m. at the Performing Arts Center.

Q: I see in a department store mail order catalog that a certain amplifier that they sell produces about 250 watts for about $150. Yet, when I was shopping in your Team store, I noticed that that amount of money only bought about 10 watts, how is this possible?

A: In order to make this comparison valid, it is necessary to compare "apples with apples". There are about six methods of rating output power from an amplifier, and it is necessary to make sure that both manufacturers are using the same method. The major name brands of component receivers and amplifiers have always used a "RMS continuous power" rating. Because many brands of low cost units have used truly meaningless inflated figures, the U.S. Government will require all advertisements to use the RMS continuous power method when making power claims. This ruling will be starting in 1975. Until that time it will be necessary to determine what method is being used when selecting equipment. A 300 watt instantaneous peak music power amplifier rating might well be actually only putting out 5 watts when measured in the same way as major brands such as Marantz, Pioneer, Harman Kardon, and other reputable component brands.

All major brands of component amplifiers and receivers carried by us are rated in accordance with the forthcoming federal standard. We tell the truth about watts!

West Texas-21 Idaho-6

The Vandals found the going rough as they were on the lower end of a 21-6 score in Saturday's football game. The bright sun and warm weather were unusual for a Moscow October afternoon but even though the weather was encouraging, the Vandals just couldn't get it together. Here's a blow by blow view of exactly what happened that gruesome Saturday afternoon. Let's all hope that it doesn't happen again. Go Vandals.

Senators to visit living groups to promote voter registration

ASUI senators representing Moscow precincts no. 2 and no. 8 will be visiting their living groups this week for voter registration.

Emily Hansen, president pro tem of the senate and chairman of the voter registration project, said students will have the opportunity to register in Latah County or to register and request an absentee ballot from their home counties.

Special letters requesting absentee ballots have been printed by the ASUI for this purpose, Hansen said.

Senators from precinct no. 2, mainly the independent side of campus, will be accompanied by Kathleen Pratt, precinct 2 registrar, and senators from precinct no. 8, the Greek side of campus, will be accompanied by Lorraine Frazier, that precinct's registrar.

The chart below lists all the precinct registrars in Latah County. Those students living off-campus or not contracted during the week should contact the Latah County clerk's office to learn the registrar for their precinct, Hansen said.

Each precinct registrar has a list of the registered voters in their precinct, according to County Clerk Kelly Cline. If students are not sure if you are registered, they may contact their precinct registrar, Cline said.

If a voter has changed his address from one precinct to another, it is his or her responsibility to re-register either with the registrar or at the office of the county clerk, Cline said.

Students wishing to register in their home counties and obtain absentee ballots can pick up letters at the ASUI office in the SUB, she added.

Deadline for registering with a precinct registrar is Oct. 25, while registration in the county clerk's office continues until Oct. 30. The Latah County clerk's office is located in room 101 of the county courthouse.

Ford vetoes arms aid

WASHINGTON AP — In his first major confrontation with Congress, President Ford vetoed a measure Monday to cut off U.S. arms aid to Turkey, declaring the ban would dash hopes for a Cyprus peace settlement.

House leaders arranged a vote Tuesday on a move to override the veto. The measure had been enacted by a lopsided vote, but Democratic leaders acknowledged chances of overriding the President's action were slim. A two-thirds vote is necessary to override a veto.

The Turkish aid cutoff amendment was attached to a resolution continuing the funding of such major government operations as foreign aid and health and housing programs, while Congress decides on the agencies' annual appropriations.

The amendment would cut off U.S. aid to Turkey until Ford can certify substantial progress toward a settlement on reduction or withdrawal of Turkish troops from Cyprus.

DG's take flag football tourney

The women's intramural flag football tourney ended last Thursday with the Delta Gammas defeating the Pi Phis. The tourney was extended two days because a game was protested and had to be replayed. Another reason for the extension was the DGs had to play the Pi Phis twice because of the double elimination rule. Alpha Phi finished third.

Volleyball action starts on the fifteenth with games being played at 6:30 and 7:55 on Tuesday and Thursday nights. Fifteen teams make up the two leagues that are competing.

Football title goes to Lindley

Last week Lindley Hall defeated the Law School (TMA-1)12-6 to become the independent touch football champions. Wednesday night the Alpha Tau Omegas will face Sigma Alpha Epsilon for the Greek title and the winner will play Lindley for the overall championship on Monday, Oct. 21.

Men's volleyball and co-rec softball start next week and the co-rec softball championship game will be played between Alpha Tau Omega and McConnell Hall tonight.

Tennis competition has moved into quarterfinals and finals will be played tomorrow night.

Home opener spoiled by charging buffaloes

By KEVIN KELLEHER
of the Argonaut Staff

The West Texas State Buffaloes trampled the Vandals 21-6 in the first home game of a season that may last too long. It looked as though the students were better prepared for the clash than the Vandal squad. Needless to say, the students, and some alumni, were stimulated long before kickoff.

Troxel was noticeably disgusted with the Vandal performance. He said "It was hard to believe how flat we were, these kids just weren't ready to play." Maybe so, but the pre-game warm-up was a show in itself.

The Vandals didn't make any adjustments at halftime. According to Troxel, "We just faced the reality of how terrible we looked. We didn't do a damn thing for the second half except to decide to play football."

Idaho failed to get a first down the entire first half. They compiled only 36 yards of total offense. Moreover, a couple bad breaks hurt the Buffaloes when they were in great scoring position. It could have been a lot worse.

The Vandals had no leadership on the field the first half. Troxel pulled Comstock because "he was totally ineffective." Ballock didn't do much better.

The Buffaloes overpowered Idaho. They played basic hard charging football and stuck it to the Vandals. Every member of the original WTSU starting backfield gained over 80 yards. They accounted for 356 yards of the total 516 yards offense that the herd compiled. Buffalo coach Gene Mayfield singled out Darden as playing "a good game." The big fullback rushed for 110 yards.

The Buffaloes didn't do anything exotic besides faking a punt in the early going. It was simple hard running football. If their colors were green and yellow and the WT on their helmets were substituted for a GB, one may have been deceived into believing that it was the old packer power sweep, with guards Fuzzy Thurston and Jerry Kramer leading the 'Pack' of Taylors and Hornings. But didn't Jerry Kramer go to Idaho? Oh well, all things must pass. . . so did the 'Pack', and they're not back.

In all fairness, the Vandals performed better the second half. The offense showed some spark in their long scoring drive. The Buffaloes still managed to get 10 first downs compared to eight Vandal advancements. The defense could not halt the consistent Buffalo charge, although forcing several turnovers.

Kjel Killsgaard was probably the most noted Vandal standout. The aggressive linebacker from Spokane made 16 solo tackles and assisted in another 10.

The fact remains the Vandals played poor football. The overtures of our dedicated alumni, who have contributed so much to the ASUI New Idaho Stadium, probably sum it up best: "Oh hell, it's the same old story" and "Praying won't help now."

Maybe Idaho needs more Reagers, helicopters and golf carts.

Kevin Kelleher

Plunders and Blunders

Massacre at steelhead run

Many sportsmen in Idaho are outraged because of the ban imposed on steelhead fishing. The big ocean going rainbow trout that has thrilled anglers for a century seems to be heading towards extinction if something isn't done fast.

It is unjustified that sportsmen, in particular, should point the finger of guilt at the Indian gillnet fishing. Throughout the annals of American history the Indian has borne the brunt of the white man's dubious activities. Accusing the Indians of the plight that faces the steelhead is as absurd as blaming them for the disappearance of the buffalo.

Apparently many sportsmen place more credence in what they "hear" about gillnetting, than they do to vividly clear natural, and physical fact. Why not sit in a tavern and blame the Indian? It's an easy way out and an endless subject.

The steelhead is vanishing because man has changed the natural path of rivers, built enormous dams, and commercialized the fish. Sure, the Indians are included, but hardly the sole conspirator. The only thing that can save the steelhead is cooperation from all interest groups.

First, and most important is the restriction of further dam construction. Dams cause pollution by choking off the natural current of the river, allowing more rampant growth of marine growth, which further stagnates the river.

More importantly, the water released from the dam collects large amounts of nitrogen in passing from the flood gates and falling into the plunge basin. These tiny nitrogen bubbles saturate the water beneath the dam and are released into the river. In high water years this is a most difficult problem.

The nitrogen affects fish only if too much is incorporated into the fish's blood stream. The fish can contract decompression sickness, or more plainly—the bends. It is the same sickness that scuba divers are trained to avoid. In a high water year, like this year, nitrogen can kill many fish.

Commercial fishing is also to blame. This industry is controlled by powerful commercial interests, not Indians. These commercial interests pose a barrier to Idaho in that they "control" the Columbia River Contract, in which Idaho serves only an advisory role yet produces 55 per cent of the Columbia River steelhead run and is allowed a mere 5.4 per cent of the catch.

Sportsmen have affected the steelhead run to the extent that the season is shortened a little more every year. It could be the end result of too many people flocking to the steelhead banks. I'll bet a sportsman has never held up a catch of nitrogen bubbles, or mailed a postcard of a gillnet.

Instead of pointing the finger toward a people who have long been the end result of good old American know how, sportsmen ought to wise up, rise up, and retaliate against the political blockades that put up those damn physical blockades.

Vandalbabes take first victory in closing seconds of game

The Vandalbabes won their first game of the season Friday, when they drove 90 yards in the final 45 seconds to pull out a 13-9 victory over Treasure Valley Community College.

Freshman quarterback Dan Dinning of Bonners Ferry connected on a pass to receiver Dan Davidson at the Treasure Valley 15. Davidson pulled down the aerial in the midst of three defenders and eluded them in a mad scramble for paydirt, with no time remaining on the clock. In all, the play breached fifty yards.

Davidson scored both Vandal touchdowns. With two minutes left, he scored on a forty yard pass from Dinning.

Offensive back Bob Brooks, splitting his duties between fullback and tailback carried the ball 26 times for 153 yards. In all the Vandals compiled 336 yards total offense.

Idaho is now 1-1, while Treasure Valley dropped to 2-2. The Vandalbabes will end the season next Friday evening in the annual Shrine Game against the WSU Cou-babes. The game will be played in Lewiston, and kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Women athletes to get funds in the spring

A limited number of financial grants for women athletes will be given during spring semester of the current academic year, according to Kathy Clark, head of women's athletics at the University of Idaho.

"Our decision to offer these first grants for women is in keeping with proposed HEW Title IX Guidelines and the philosophical framework of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (IAAW) and the Northwest College Women's Sports Association (NCWSA)," Clark said.

The grants will be awarded to present participants on women's varsity teams or students who plan to become varsity team members, Clark said. "These awards are not for physical education majors only, rather for athletes from any academic discipline," she said.

The aid, in the form of cash grants for payment of academic fees, will be awarded primarily on the basis of athletic ability, financial need and academic achievement. Clark said a student-faculty committee in the department of Physical Education for Women will select the recipients.

Application materials will be available from Clark, WHEB room 107 beginning Monday, Oct. 14. Applications must be completed by Nov. 8 to be considered for spring semester.

Hockey team claims win over weekend

The field hockey team traveled to the west coast for a three game weekend trip. The U of I team opened with a 7-0 win over Puget Sound Friday afternoon. All of the six players playing in the forward line during the game managed to get into the scoring column with Debbie Schenk scoring twice.

The team then traveled on to Mt. Vernon, Wash. to meet Skagit Valley J.C. and Western Washington State College. The U of I team fell victims to Skagit J.C. with a game score of 3-1 in the morning tilt, and just missed in a hard fought game with Western, losing 2-1 in the afternoon game.

Volleyball team wins

The women's intercollegiate volleyball team opened the season Friday afternoon by defeating North Idaho Junior College in a doubleheader played in the WHEB.

The Vandals (2-0) won both A and B divisions. The A squad was led by captains Julie Schweitzer and Kathleen Taylor, winning two of three games; 15-6, 11-15 and 19-17.

The B unit, captained by Martha Arne, won two games, 15-9 and 15-10. The victories are the first of the season for an inspired team under the eye of new coach Kathy Clark.

The next action sees the Vandals travelling to WSU for an A and B match in Smith Gym, at 4:30 tomorrow.

Adventure photographer to show outdoor film

Dick Barrymore, world-famous adventure photographer from Sun Valley, will present his new adventure film "Mountain High" tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom. Barrymore himself will lecture on film-making at 3 p.m. the same day in the room 101 of the UCC.

Barrymore had filmed many sports and nature events around the world. He had filmed many skiing events including the tenth winter Olympics at Grenoble, where cameras were forbidden. He has also filmed glaciers, volcanoes and President Nixon.

"Mountain High" features much of his footage accumulated during his many adventures. Scenes will include skiing in British Columbia, World Championship Skiing at St. Moritz and bob-sledding behind world champion Rene Stadler. It will also include his Matterhorn climb with trick skier, Art Furrer At Wengen, in the Lauberhorn, Barrymore handed the camera to Bernard Orcel, a famed French downhill racer, to get a racer's view of skiing.

The program is being presented through the cooperation of Issues and Forums, Outdoor Programs and Night-on-the-SUB.

Barrymore is a sportsman as well as a photographer. Besides bob-sledding, he has skied around the world, glided in kite gliders and flown his own plane. Once when fishing he speared a 400 lb' grouper in 40 feet of water and caught his foot in the line — without scuba gear.

A gambler as well, he once won enough money in a single poker game to finance a two-month vacation in Hawaii. He also lost $100,000 in a bet that no one could walk 300 miles wearing ski boots.

Idaho voting pattern is topic of seminar

Idaho's past voting patterns and future political issues will be discussed by Prof. Sydney Duncombe Wednesday evening at the U of I's first social science seminar of the year.

Duncombe is chairman of the department of political science and public affairs research and has studied Idaho voting patterns extensively.

Included in the evening is a pre-dinner cocktail party at the home of acting president Robert Coonrod, a roast beef dinner at Johnnie's Cafe and Duncombe's presentation, which will start at 7:30 p.m.

Any graduate student or faculty member is welcome to attend any or all events of the seminar, according to Ronnal Lee, coordinator.

Reservations should be made by contacting Lee at the department of sociology-anthropology.

"Mountain high" is an outdoor adventure film by adventure photographer Dick Barrymore showing some of the greatest outdoor photography ever filmed. It will be shown tomorrow night at 8 pm in the Sub Ballroom.

The University of Idaho soccer team walked away from Missoula last Sunday protesting the last goal of the game which enabled the University of Montana to tie the score at 2-2.

Apparently a tripping foul was called in the last minutes of the match, but before Idaho was informed which squad was at fault, the referee blew the whistle and Montana kicked the ball toward the Idaho goal. The Vandals, caught by surprise and unable to prevent the ensuing goal, marched off the field protesting the referee's negligence for not informing Idaho the penalty was on them. After cooling off the Vandals returned to the field and played out the rest of the game under protest.

Idaho dominated the game right to the end displaying a crisp passing and a stingy defense. The Vandals struck early when player-coach Nicos Rossides stole the ball in front of the Montana nets and booted it into the upper left corner.

In the second half the Vandals bombarded the Montana goal, but were unable to score until Oyvind Lorentzen completed an unbelievable pass to Rossides, who rifled a kick into the nets making it 2-0, Idaho.

The contest turned into a brutal battle of rough playing and Montana slipped through Idaho's defense for a quick score. Moments later the penalty was called and Montana evened the score 2-2. Idaho decided to play it out and protest to the president of the league.

Rossides, who filed the complaint, is confident that Idaho will win the protest changing the Vandal record to 2-0 rather than the existing 1-0-1. Idaho's match with WSU this weekend has been cancelled, but replaced with Whitworth College of Spokane. Whitworth, which boasts a team containing seven Nigerian aces, will be on hand to face the Vandals, Sunday, Oct. 20 at 1:30 in the New Idaho Stadium. Halftime activities will include the presentation of the 1973 league championship trophy to Idaho and admission will be free.

Special prosecutor vows to show guilt in nation's most powerful men

AP - Asst. Special Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste laid out his case against the five Watergate cover-up defendants Monday, declaring he will prove an illegal conspiracy among the most powerful men in the government of the United States.

He said the plan to cover up the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters more than two years ago "involved the participation of even the president himself." The 31-year-old dark-haired prosecutor, speaking from a lectern only a few feet from the jury box, said former President Richard M. Nixon was willing to sacrifice a close aide to save himself and closer associates when the cover-up was unraveling.

Quoting from an April 19, 1973, White House tape, Ben-Veniste said Nixon believed that if former White House Counsel John W. Dean were turned over to Watergate prosecutors, they might not try and make a case against presidential aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman or Nixon himself.

On the tape, Nixon said Haldeman and Ehrlichman should "give the investigators an hors d'oeuvres Dean, maybe they won't come back for the main course," the prosecutor said. Ben-Veniste said that in mid-April 1973, Nixon, Haldeman and Ehrlichman "considered a strategy of pushing Dean outside the circle of wagons around the White House."

On April 19, Dean issued a statement saying he would not allow himself to become a scapegoat. He was fired by Nixon on April 30, after months of handling the White House response to the various Watergate investigations.

Dean will be the first prosecution witness Tuesday once three of the defense lawyers have made their own opening statements in the trial, which is expected to last three or four months.

Ben-Veniste presented the now-familiar story of the cover-up in a courtroom jammed with reporters, about 35 spectators and some relatives of the defendants. He spoke for just more than three hours, describing the cover-up in short, simple sentences, describing hundreds of meetings, phone calls and actions which comprise the complicated conspiracy case.

Among the few new developments was the assertion that former aide Richard Moore, who attended one of the crucial meetings of the cover-up, was pressured to forget what he remembered about how some payoffs to the original Watergate defendants were handled.

Ben-Veniste quoted Haldeman as telling Nixon that Moore's memory on the February 1973 meeting at La Costa, Calif. "has become feeble beyond measure." Nixon, according to the prosecutor, said later he was "gratified that Moore's recollection had dimmed a lot."

Earlier, Ben-Veniste said Moore had been prepared to back up Dean's testimony on the meeting.

Another new element disclosed in the alleged conspiracy was $25,000 Ben-Veniste said was obtained from Nixon's friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, for use in paying the original Watergate burglars.

In his opening statement to the jury, Ben-Veniste said defendant and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell dispatched an emissary to Florida to pick up $50,000 in cash from Rebozo.

The prosecutor said the money was picked up by Nixon reelection committee official Frederick LaRue on Oct. 12, 1973. Half went to an unnamed seven Watergate defendants and half went to an unnamed gubernatorial candidate, he said. It was not clear if Rebozo knew how the money was to be used.

For more than a year, the prosecutor told the jury, the defendants illegally tried to write off the original Watergate burglars as men "off on a lark of their own."

He said they failed because too many of those running the cover-up knew about the plan of illegal wiretapping and burglary in advance.

Ben-Veniste told the jury: "The word conspiracy is not a difficult one—an agreement among two or more persons to violate the laws"

He said the prosecution will prove that the defendants and 19 unindicted co-conspirators, including former President Nixon, spent $400,000 and attempted to thwart the FBI to keep the investigation away from themselves.

"We will prove to you in the course of this trial," Ben-Veniste said, "that attempts of legitimate law enforcement agencies of the United States to ascertain the facts which led to this Watergate break-in, including those who authorized and paid for the illegal burglary and bugging of Democratic national offices, were met by an effort to cover up the facts and obstruct the investigation by the most powerful men in the government of the United States in a conspiracy that involved the participation of even the President himself."
