ARMY ROTC Three Ways To Do It In Two Years

1. Six Weeks Basic Camp at Fort Knox, Kentucky

You'll get $500 for attending a challenging camp. And, if your performance is exceptional, you just may qualify for a two-year scholarship as you enter the Advanced Program.

2. Brand New / On-Campus Summer Program

Enter Army ROTC during your freshman or sophomore year with no military obligation. You'll find a curriculum that's flexible and exciting enough to meet your class schedule and academic needs. You may even consider enrolling this summer in Army ROTC on campus. At the end of the summer you may find yourself eligible for the Advanced Program and $100 (tax free) each month when you return to the University in August.

3. Advanced Placement

If you are an Army veteran or a Junior ROTC graduate, you are eligible to automatically enter Advanced ROTC.

No matter how you enter Army ROTC. you il experience adventures in leadership. You'll learn how to lead through hands-on training. And as a cadet in the Advanced Program, you'll receive $2500 over your last two years.

No matter whether your career plans are military or civilian, upon graduation Army ROTC provides for both-active duty status with a starting salary of over $11,300 or reserve status (90 days of duty) while working in the civilian community.

Learn what it takes to lead.

Appointments, bills Senate issues legion Tuesday

A routine session faces the ASUI Senate this evening, but several bills introduced for action next week could cause some discussion between now and then.

The major items of old business to vote on are bills to appoint ASUI media heads for next year. However, at this time the Communications Board recommendation for coeditors for the Gem of the Mountain will not be accepted.

The Senate General Appointments (GOA) has Operations Committee indicated that it will return the bill appointing Judy King and Steve Bonner back to the Comm Board. They will suggest to the board that King be considered as the only editor.

The appointments of Mike Downun as manager of KUOI-FM and of Steve Davis as Photo Director receive 4-0 'Do Passes" for their positions by Argonaut Editor GOA. candidate Rosemary Hammer will be screened this afternoon.

Senate bill 94, which was vetoed by ASUI President Lynn Tominaga last week will be reintroduced with a clarifying amendment. The bill had called for the various ASUI department heads to keep a running record of income and expenses for the fiscal year. It is being amended so that it will require that both department heads and-or board managers will check the records.

Senate Bill 93, up for final consideration, provides for guidelines and standards for the removal of ASUI board members who do not attend a certain percentage of required meetings.

business New being introduced this week includes several bills, which will be sent to the Rules and Regulations Committee, to resolve contradictions between the ASUI Constitution and the Rules and Regulations.

However, Senate bill 96, which calls for the repeal of Bill number 11 of 1975 could run into some flack. SB 11 provided for censure and probation for ASUI senators not fulfilling their duties. Gary Quigley, ASUI Vice President, who introduced the repealer, said that he has doubts about the constitutionality of SB 11, and as a housecleaning matter wishes it removed before determining procedures, if they are desirable, for such reprimands.

Quigley said that he had doubts if the Senate as a whole could remove another senator's powers to vote on legislation, especially if such power derives from the student body and the ASUI Constitution.

Entertainment dead, no input poll offing

If the proposed $3 feeincrease fails in the general election this Wednesday, the entertainment budget bringing concerts to the U of I will not be in any danger. That's because the entertainment budget no longer exists, according to the ASUI President, Lynn Tominaga. No funds were allotted for entertainment, he said, because the ASUI is hopeful that an outside producer can be found to bring concerts to the University without financial obligation by ASUI. "The entertainment budget is zero now," Tominaga noted.

If the motion before the students fails, then some program cuts will be made, he said, probably in the communications areas.

Students will be unable to express their preferences for various programs before they are cut, Tominaga said, because of the short time involved. Some budgets, like Gem of the Mounains and KUOI, will start this July, and it would be difficult to poll the students for their desires, before then, he explained. "Besides, my position has the authority to make decisions like this,"he said. The president said that if the students refuse the $3 increase, then he will make

Tominaga said that if the ASUI is unable to reach an agreement with an outside producer for concerts, then funds resulting from other programs being cut could be channeled into an budget, entertainment probably abut $10,000. WSU is a major competitor for U of I, he noted, and are usually successful in outbidding us or booking competitive concerts that reduce the attendance. Conference to discuss Idaho water resources

The 1977 Idaho Water Conference will be held at the U of I tomorrow and Thursday in the Borah Theater.

The conference, sponsored by the Idaho Water Resources Research Institute, will consider water policy planning and the role of research. It welcomes the public "as a chance to acquaint yourself with Idaho's water problems and the efforts it's going to take to solve them.

Registration for the conference will be at 8 a.m. Wednesday morning. Dr. William E. Benson of the Office of Science Technology Policy in Washington, D.C., will be the first speaker at 9:30. The conference will continue through the day ending with a on panel discussion which begins at 3:15. Senator Norma Dobler will initiate Thursday's program

Argonaut April 26, 1977 3 Local groups play Saturday

The Afternoon Delight Folk Festival, with eight acts of Moscow groups, will take place under a potentially burning Palouse sky this Saturday on the lawn of the WHEB from 11 a.m. until sundown.

Produced and sponsored by KUID-FM, the performance will also be simultaneously broadcast over that radio station, located at 91.7 MHz.

This is the second Afternoon Delight produced by the station, the first was last summer in the Arboretum. In summer of 1975 KUID also produced a street dance on the Ad Building parking lot.

Groups, included in the performance include Bob Payton and the Paradise Ridge Boys; Roger Frisinger; Faith & Bo; Dandelion Wine; Ross & Friends; Mark & Mark; Buffalo Rose; and the Howlin' Covote Band. Their music will range from folk to traditional American country and western. The sound system has been assembled from the equipment of Buffalo Rose and Howlin' Coyote.

It is anticipated to be a lowkey music festival, and

U of I prof receives grants

A pair of energy related grants totalling $150,000 have been awarded to William J. Thomson, U of I professor of chemical engineering.

The first, for $70,000 from National Science the Foundation, will support a twoyear effort to determine how to make substitute natural gas or methane using catalysts. The second, an $80,000 grant from the Energy Research and Development Administration, will fund a twoyear study of how to use the energy-rich carbon that remains in processed oil shale. According to Thomson, the waste carbon-bearing contains enough energy to fuel the entire retorting process whereby the rock is heated to derive oil.

The art of inbreeding

There is a purpose to the practice of inbreeding. At least when developing a thoroughbred species it has proven invaluable. But the value of inbreeding in both the human species and human politics is at best an end to a very questionable means.

The ASUI governing body is currently suffering from an acute case of inbreeding. The student body as a whole suffers both directly and indirectly from that too-close-for-comfort condition.

The most obvious result of the mutual admiration society which has developed in student government is the growing remoteness of the governing process from those of us who are affected by its workings.

It is my contention that those who have controlled the direction of student politics for the past several years have with the best of intentions created an inbred monster with a glutunous appetite for self consumption.

The result has been a senate which calls for better communication on the one hand and then refuses to communicate on the other. The result has been appointment after appointment given out as plums or favors and rarely based on merit or ability. The result has been that the monster has positioned himself far beyond the hail of the average student.

The only real power the students have is the power of the vote. But the monster has control of that process as well. The very nature of his remoteness causes a vast majority of students to stay away from the polls. Most major issues are decided not by those who vote but by those who don't.

This year for maybe just the hell of it go to the polls and vote. Let's surprise the old bastard. Where he lives KOSSMAN

You'll notice that Betsy Brown doesn't have a column in the Argonaut today. You see, she's got a whole bunch of papers due in the very near future and the last thing she needs is to have to write something else.

So I'm taking over for her. My name is Myrtle Greenwich. Betsy'll probably shit in her pants when she sees what I'm doing to her column, but that's too bad. I'm no hot shot writer, I haven't even passed English 104 yet and this is the second semester I'm taking it. And I don't have any hoity-toity ideas about what's proper to put in a newspaper column, so I'm going to give you a political plug for a friend of mine whose running for the ASUI Senate. She didn't get to the Arg in time to get in on Friday, which I think you'll understand once you read this. So here's my article. It's as professional as I can make it, so I hope you like

If you have been voting in U of l elections for several years, or even if you read the Argonaut, every year at election time you have heard the candidates making their endless promises, promises, and more promises. Intelligent voters often realize that most of these promises won't be kept, and have good reason to fear what will happen if some of these promises are kept.

Do you want to be represented by a senator who is constantly pleasing one high pressure interest group or another? Do you want a senator whose compromises and attempts to reconcile the views of conflicting factions result in a policy combining reform making with preserving the ASUI power structure? Of course not!

Yet most senators, once elected, are forced into the practice of juggling various constituencies in order to stay out of political hot water. When they promise to do what the students want, they are attempting a more difficult feat than they realize. Who are the students, anyway? Here at Idaho we have east coast liberals, conservatives, rednecks, blacks, chicanos, racists, vegetarians, feminists, engineering students, home ec majors, gays, junior politicos and the totally Unless the apathetic. members of all these groups decide that they want the same things, the average senate candidate is in a real bind when elected.

But Antoinette Snavely can keep her campaign promise. She has only one: N to do absolutely nothing if elected.

One thing that concerns me is the basis of the arguments Steve presented. The literature he cites seems to circumvent the lack of fact, or at least fails to sufficiently differentiate between fact and fiction, by utilizing fundamental logical errors, specifically that of "begging the question." Christian theologians and biblical scholars. I beseech you, exactly how objective can their investigations be? 1 feel it is fraught with bias (as indeed my arguments are). Mr. Cross suggested that I read Josh McDowell's Evidence That Demands A Verdict. I had the opportunity to examine the book and found it to be full not only of begged questions but of "black and white thinking" and other forms of logical error.

Steve concluded his letter with the statement "CHRIST IS RISEN INDEED." Allow me to conclude this missive by saying that Steve's statement conflicts directly with what I have heard recently. It has been said that Jesus is dead. Not to worry however, Mary's pregnant again. Yes, God has been fornicating with a moral (and virgin?) woman once again.

Balancing out To the Editor:

After reading Mr. Kossman's editorial in last Friday's Argonaut I felt it was time to get some misunderstandings balanced out. Neither the editorial nor the article written from the proceedings at the senate meeting explained the reason for why senate bill number 95 was put on the agenda. To think that senate bill number 95 was trying to curtail the free press is about as foolish as comm board not keeping Mr. Kossman suspended for longer than 72 hours. The fact is that senate bill number 95 stated that the Argonaut editor should be suspended on the grounds of mismanagement of funds and gross incompetence. And I do not believe that there are many concerned students here at the university who don't agree that such charges are

In the area of mismanagement of funds there was one major problem which primarily goaded me, so to speak, into submitting senate bill number 95. The problem was that besides the monthly wage of $150.00 which Mr. Kossman was receiving for being editor, he was turning in column inches, (the standard for paying for work done), for items which I did not see fit to pay him for. Such as entire front pages where there were no typed columns, just an artist's creation which the artist was already being paid for. It is bad enough that Mr. Kossman is paid for the column inches within his editorials, which are printed with substantially larger type, but to pay him for thinking about the implementation of the front page--I believe that is where we must draw the line. As far as the editor's incompetence extends, I don't feel I need to elaborate on the subject. I believe that last Friday's Argonaut exhibits all the evidence I would need. I do not believe that students want to see their ASUI money go for the printing of an 8 page supplement which was taken directly from some other news source. That poor lack of judgement used up time, money, and space which could have been used for real news--the kind that readers are truly interested in. Currently more students would be happier if the Arg was printed at PFI in Lewiston and distributed in rolls with perforated pages. The last misunderstanding which was brought out in last Friday's Arg was the indecision of some as to whom I was referring in my comment on particular personnel. That definition of one of our employees was brought up while I was talking about senate bill number 95. I guess I should have made it more precise as to whom I was talking about, but then I guess I just took it for granted that everyone would know. I agree that "low rent scum" was not the proper term to use while referring to the Arg editorship, but then we were in a public meeting. George Ambrose

What's a granola?

To the Editor: There are a few questions to be answered and some comments to be made concerning Mr. Schmoeger's letter in last Friday's Arg. First the questions. Just because someone living off campus decides to voice his opinion, why is he determined by you to be a "granola"? And why is someone who lives in the dorm, in the same situation, labeled a "dorm rat"? If that had been someone from a fraternity who had written the letter that offended you instead of Mr. Ostertag, how would you have labeled him, concerned student? We seriously doubt that you would have called him a "frat rat". You refer to "some eccentric nut who has nothing better to do than stare at the walls of his room. and write letters to the Argonaut. Does that only apply to those of us living off campus and in the dorms and not to you and your fellow greeks?

The ATO house probably is capable of dealing with their own problems, but we don't think they need individuals Continued on page 6 from other fraternities to condone these acts as long as a slap on the hand follows.

If you look at the style in which Mr. Ostertag's letter is written, we think you'll find it quite similar to the style used by Mr. Wells in his letter in the same issue. Satire, Mr. Schmoeger. Mr. Wells also seems to have his negative opinions on a problem. But since he's not attacking something Greek, you probably felt that was okay.

Please don't get us wrong. We have friends that live in Greek houses. Just because they live in a fraternity doesn't make them better or worse than ourselves. And we don't believe that they look on us as "social rejects who squirm around campus", unless you Mr. Schmoeger and the few others like you that find our life styles "less than desirable" tell them to judge us this way.

There are problems in the dorm and off campus too, Mr. Schmoeger. But just because some happen there and not on greek row doesn't mean that all of the insecure people are put in the dorms or off campus. All living groups have people who are insecure, and as much of a shock as this may be to you Mr. Schmoeger, if you'll open your eyes we're sure you can find at least a couple on greek row.

Forum: to fee or not to fee?

By MARTY TRILLHAASE

With the signing off of last night's KUOI student forum concerning the proposed ASUI $3 fee increase, the official debate over the matter ended. But whether U of I students will be willing to pay an additional $3 in student fees won't be known until the results of tommorrow's election are in.

Speaking on the issue last night were ASUI President Lynn Tominaga, ASUI Senators Bob Harding and Mike Ayersman, and students John Hecht, David Neiwart, John Christensen, and Tom La Pointe. The comments made on the program by the panel members point to one thing. The requested $37,000 is not Earlier this spring, the ASUI senate finance committee decided a $3 increase in student fees was necessary, after completing next year's budget. The possibility of the budget. The possibility of the proposal's failure at the student polls carried with it the threat of curtailments in the funding of ASUI programs. David Neiwart, special editor

David Neiwart, special editor of the Argonaut, told the radio audience, and a near empty Borah Theatre, the fee increase is necessary. But he added he "questions the tactics" used in bringing the proposal before the students. Neiwart said the senate threatened to cut back the entertainment budget in order to get support for the ASUI Sen. Mike Ayersman, noting that the ASUI has not increased student fees in the last seven years, said the increase is necessary, because of higher program operating expenses due to projected increases in salary and wages.

John Christensen, a S.U.B. employee, questioned the priorities of the senate's proposed budget, saying, "I've found that most (students) could care less about the Gem." He added that most students would rather see the money currently supplied to the Gem of the Mountains put into other programs.

ASUI Sen. Bob Harding replied that while all ASUI programs are subsidied to some extent, not all programs are used by all students. "We provide many services that the majority of the students do not use," Harding said, adding there are "one or two programs that everybody uses."

John Hecht, ASUI Senate candidate, disagreed with Harding's position. The budget priorities should reflect the amount of student use the programs recieve, Hecht said.

Ayersman later told the Argonaut that although he believes the increase request will recieve a majority of the votes cast, he isn't optimistic about its chances. For the issue to pass, 25 per cent of the entire student body, or roughly 1,660 students, must vote at the election. Ayersman said he expects about 1,200 voters turn out tomorrow.

Should the increase request be approved by the voters, the summer senate will make modifications and implement the already completed ASUI budget Ayersman said.

Editor's note:

These are the candidates for the ASUI elections, which will be held on April 27. The following statements were submitted by the candidates and in some cases they had to be shortened to fit in the space available.

Faculty Council

One year position

Tamara Sloviaczek

Tamara Sloviaczek is a senior. She is seeking a one year undergraduate term on the Faculty Council.

"I was a senator for a year and a half and while on the senate, I saw a lot of changes made. Now I want to see some changes in Faculty Council. I'd like to see the ASUI Senate, administration, and Faculty Council work closer together, so when we go to the Board of Regents we're all pulling for the same programs, policies and people. Money for higher education is tight in Idaho and we all need to work together if we're to remain the top university in the state.

"I support the early start calendar. I'm only in favor of noon classes if they are those classes with several sections.

"The university is a great institution and it can be even better if all the governing bodies work together.'

Randy Welsh is an Upham Hall, resident majoring in Wildland recreation management. Welsh, a sophomore, is seeking a one year term as an undergraduate representative on the Faculty Council.

'The faculty council deals not only with faculty problems and the curriculum, but also with academic calendar changes, class scheduling, parking proposals, and grading policies. Student input on these issues is my main priority. I will try to open new lines of communication to the senate and stress that together they form a powerful representative group. Effective representation is the key to student welfare.

"For the past year I have been a member of the Student Affairs Council of the College of FWR and also a representative of the college's Research Committee.

Students complain about a lack of representation but do nothing. I challenge everyone faculty and students on a more personal basis which will widen my scope of education.

"At the same time, I will best be able to express my concern for what takes place at the U of I and can show the care I feel for the many individuals that make the U of I the super university that it is.'

Two year position

Brian Dockins

Brian Dockins, a Pre Vet freshman from Farmhouse is year seat on the Faculty "the Council because students need strong voices on Faculty Council to watch out for their interests.

"A new president will be arriving this summer, and that is the time to let him see that the students of Idaho care about their school. I will be here this entire summer, and able to help represent the student view. "I will be a voice for all students on the Faculty Council, and not just another member of the ASUI who is 'involved' for their own glorification.

"I am a strong believer in student rights and representation. I've had problems with the Hill and have worked out solutions. 1 feel that I know my way around the system and know where to go and help students."

Dan Mertens

Dan Mertens, a mining engineer major from Upham Hall is running for a two year seat on the Faculty Council because "I believe student input on the faculty council is too important to be left to to put this election to good use and gain their rightful representation."

Bev McBride

Bev McBride, who is majoring in English as a second language, is running for the one year seat on the Faculty Council. She is a member of Teachers of English to Students of Other Lands and has served two years as a Nightline Volunteer Telephonist.

"I am anxious to be part of this definite year of change working with our new university president and implementing the various adopted and proposed items for 1977-78 at the U of I. I feel that by being a student member of the Faculty Council, I will be able to help the student voice in such things as academics, and the new curriculum, etc. | also believe that by becoming elected to this office, I will

leann to cooperate with the running for a two year seat on the Faculty Council because "I feel that I am qualified for this position and can serve on the committee successfully. I have served on several faculty committees in the past and many

'The Faculty Council acts on many very important issues that deal with the university. Virtually anything that involves academics or the general faculty in any way goes through the Faculty Council. There are manv dissatisfactions with some of these issues, that, with more student involvement, could have been made more Consequently, we need capable student representatives on this committee to make sure that the students' viewpoints are heard and understood and proper action taken."

Gary McCalmant An education major presently living in Troy, Cary A McCalmant is seeking a two individuals who are relatively inaccessible to the general student population.

'My first priority, if elected, would be to establish office space and hours in the ASUI offices.

" My second priority would be to implement a monthly poll of living groups and the off campus seminar.

"Some current policies that need attention are the pass fail option, the academic calendar, and the scheduling of classes. The pass-fail option should be re-instated as a "P" or "F" grade, rather than the present "P" "D" or ''F''

Because students overwhelmingly favor the early start calendar, it should remain unchanged. The scheduling of classes should also remain the same instead of the noon hour rescheduling, or starting of classes on the half hour

Graduate position

Scott Plaisted

Scott Plaisted, candidate for the graduate student position on the Faculty Council, is an instructional assistant in the chemistry department. Plaisted is seeking the post because "I have noticed several standards on this campus. Some exist between students and faculty, others have arisen between graduate students and other students. It am running for this position in order to try and alleviate these problems.

"We as graduate students seem to be in a position midway between that of students and faculty members.

Pat White

Pat White, who is seeking graduate the student representative position on the Faculty Council, is currently enrolled in a doctoral program majoring in early childhood education and administration. She has held an instructional assistantship for the past year. "I have been active in campus affairs at the graduate level during the current year. My efforts, combined with other graduate students across campus, have been instrumental in renewing the Graduate Student Association. "The role of the graduate student representative should be a liason between the faculty and the graduate students. It is of paramount importance that graduate students become aware of and give input concerning issues which directly affect I believe that the them. araduate student representative must facilitate communication among departments, the graduate student association and the faculty.

"I am running to study and publicize how ASUI money is being spent. The ASUI spring budget is evidence this is not being done. That isn't the way I think it should be done.

"It's not fair to surprise students in the spring with a fee increase. I do know that the ASUI is short of money and probably does need the increase, but it could have been handled differently.

10 Argonaut April 26, 1977 Gridders wind up preparations for Silver and Gold contest

As the U of I football squad winds up its spring training, head coach Ed Troxel is generally satisfied with the way things are looking for the upcoming season.

The big question marks for the team - the offensive line and linebacking positions have been shaping up well, gaining valuable practice time inside the ASUI-Kibbie Dome. While the team had seven inside practice days last spring, things are different this time around as they will have spent 17 days in the Dome by this weekend.

"Last year, what hurt us was we didn't throw the ball and do the things we would like to do because of the short time we had in the Dome," Troxel said. "Consequently, we didn't throw the ball like we would have liked to have done during the season, so in that phase we are further along.

"We have worked more on new things offensively. We aren't running the same kind of veer. I feel we have come a long way offensively, but we have a long way to go yet."

The current number one players on the offensive line are Tom Randel (6-4,235,Jr.) and Larry Coombs (6-4,235,Jr.) at the tackle positions, Joe Dahlin (6-3,236, sr.) and Dave Wiggum (6-4,240,Sr.) at the guards and Joe Kramer (6-3,237,Sr.) at center.

They will have a tough job filling in for the loss of several all-conference players, including All-American center John Yarno, but Troxel thinks the players are showing improvement.

"I think we will be harder to defend against if our line develops like we hope it will," Troxel said. "Of course, defense is our strong suit. "Overall, I'm happy with the practices because we have had a good chance to evaluate our personnel, and I'm also happy with the development of our offensive line and linebackers.

Spring practice will end this Saturday with the playing of the Silver and Gold game, which matches one half of the U of I team against the other. The event will start at 7:30 p.m. with admission one dollar for students and two dollars for adults. U of I students with ID cards will be admitted free.

Netters third at Ogden

After dropping their first match, the U of I men's tennis team came back to win four straight matches in the Weber State Invitational Tennis Tournament last Thursday through Saturday in Ogden, Utah. The Vandal's 4-1 mark at the tourney raised their overall record to 22-6.

On Thursday, Idaho first went up against tourney favorite Nevada-Las Vegas and gave them a grueling match before bowing 7-2. Later the same day, the Vandals came back against Utah State to dump them by an identical 7-2 tally, but they had to struggle to do it.

Idaho took on their third and fourth opponents, Weber State and Nevada-Reno, on Friday and downed both of them 5-4. The two wins helped little in catching leader Nevada-Las Vegas, as team standings were kept on a basis of total team points rather than win-loss records.

The final match of the tourney for Idaho was Saturday against Boise State, whom the Vandals easily disposed of 8-1, thus finishing with a 4-1 record compared to Las Vegas' 5-0 and Reno's 3-2 mark. Second place was awarded to Reno, however, since their total number of team points was higher, a move which rightfully upset head coach Jim Sevall.

"I felt we came in second," Sevall said, "because we beat every team there except Las Vegas."

Idaho's number five player Rod Leonard was named to the all-tournament team after winning all five of his singles matches.

Vandals split twice

In weekend Nor-Pac action at Guy Wicks field the U of I baseball team broke even, splitting doubleheaders with Portland State and Portland

Roger Vanderhye stroked a solid single to center field scoring Rick Britt with the tying run in the last inning of Saturday's second game with Portland State. Two strikes later centerfielder Steve Gregor connected for a dramatic home run over the leftfield fence to gain an 8-6 win and avenge a 6-2 loss suffered in the opening game.

The circuit clout was the third hit of the the game for Gregor in four at bats. Jim Guy went the distance on the mound against the Nor-Pac league leaders and picked up his third victory in eight decisions. Idaho took an early 1-0 lead in the prior game on singles by Mark Harris, Pat Bailey and Steve Gregor. U of I trailed 3-2 in the sixth when Rick Britt scored from third base after Steve Gregor grounded a ball to shortstop and the throw to first was wide.

Portland State, however, jumped on losing pitcher Rick Ketring (3-5) for three runs in its half of the seventh and assured itself of the win.

Vandal pitcher Mike Hamilton and Portland's Bob Lund were locked in a pitching duel in Sunday's game against Portland, with the Vandals trailing 1-0 until their half of the fifth inning. Pat Bailey then singled to score Dave Eckhamer with the tying run.

In the sixth, Roger Vanderhye reached first on an error, advanced to second on a sacrifice fly and hurried to third on an errant pick-off attempt. Bill Stokes stepped up to the plate and lined a ball off the Portland shortstop's shoulder for a single and accounted for the winning run in the 2-1 victory.

Mike Hamilton allowed the Pilots only four hits while striking out six and walking three. His record now stands at 2-4.

Portland bunched together all seven of its runs in the last four innings and walked away with a 7-2 decision in the opener.

Van Briggs (1-3) was the losing pitcher. Mark Harris and Pat Bailey collected two hits apiece in a losing effort.

The Vandals overall record now stands at 10-22 with a 6-9 mark in the Northern-Pacific League.

The Blue Mountain rugby teams of Moscow took the tourney championship and third place titles over the weekend in the Miller-Rugby River Columbia Tournament.

The field consisted of Gonzaga, Washington State, Spokane, and Kootenai, British Columbia, in addition to the Blue Mountain teams.

First round action Saturday saw Blue Mountain I defeat Spokane 24-0, and Blue Mountain II nip Kootenai 15-9. The two losers then played again, with Washington State a 30-6 victor over Spokane ripped Gonzaga while Kootenai 19-0.

Blue Mountain I made it into the championship game with shutout of 10-0 its Washington State: Although Blue Mountain II tied Gonzaga 6-6 in the other semi-final match, the Zags advanced to the finals because of their higher margin of victory in the first round.

championship Sunday's game looked more like a lesson in rugby as Blue Mountain I demolished Gonzaga 50-0 to claim the tourney title. Blue Mountain II nailed down third place with an 18-10 win over Washington State.

SEVEN THINGS NOT TO DO THIS SUMMER.

Summer can be fun if you know a few common things to avoid

- doing. 1. Do not swim at any beach where they have loudspeakers playing the soundtrack from "Jaws."
- 2. Do not, under any circumstances. try to pick up a cow.
- 3. Do not answer any want ad for a summer job that sounds too good to be true — unless you enjoy selling steak knives.
- '4. Do not tell your parents that, after graduation, you have decided on an exciting career in motel management. 5. Do not accept a date from anyone wearing a green leisure
- suit and roller skates. 6. Do not, under any circumstances, attempt to feed your pet
- gerbil a boa constrictor. 7. Do not forget the one word for beer. As your Dean of Beer.
