26 more thermal plants possible

By N.K. HOFFMAN

A bill that will give the Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) the authority to finance the construction of 26 new thermal plants in the Northwest is now before Congress, according to Bill Arthur, a member of the Coalition for Safe Energy. Arthur spoke to Friends of the Environment and others Nov. 17.

People who object to nuclear plants will have the opportunity to testify at the congressional hearing which will be held in Spokane on Dec. 5, Arthur said. "We need to get a good turnout."

"I think that there are a lot of questions that need to be asked, but if a hasty piece of legislation is rushed through, there won't be time to ask them," said Arthur.

According to a forecast made by the Pacific Northwest Utilities Conference Committee (PNUCC), the 26 new nuclear and coal plants would be needed by 1995. The forecast projected a 4.9 percent annual growth rate in energy demand. Later this projection was decreased to 4.5 percent for unspecified reasons, according to Arthur.

Arthur said that two other studies done by reputable institutions indicated that a smaller growth rate was likely.

The important clause in the PNUCC bill is the "guaranteed purchase agreement," Arthur said. This clause guarantees that the BPA will buy the output of the new thermal plants in advance of their being built.

Because the power is already sold, getting a government subsidy to build the plants is no problem, Arthur said. The plants can be built whether there is a demand for them or not. If there is no demand for the expensive nuclear power, people will pay for the plants anyway, by paying a much higher price for electricity, Arthur predicted.

Arthur said he is "not fond of nuclear plants," and added that at least two problems relating to plants remain unsolved: how to dispose of nuclear waste, and how to dismantle the plants.

People who want to testify about the proposed PNUCC bill should send a postcard to Rep. Lloyd Meads, Chairman, House Subcommittee on Water and Power Resources, Longworth House Office Building, Wash., D.C. 20515.

The hearing will be held in the Terrace Room of the Ridpath Hotel in Spokane, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Dec. 5.

A preliminary meeting to discuss testimony will be held Dec. 2, 7:30 p.m., in the Moscow Hotel Ballroom.

Police tickets speeding bikers

(ZNS) This must be a "speed trap" first: police on the campus of Central Washington University say they will start using a radar device in order to ticket bicyclists on campus who are exceeding the five-mile-per-hour speed limit.

Officers on the 350-acre campus explain that radar will be employed against the two-wheelers because of a recent increase in bike accidents and near-misses.

Anyone clocked at pedaling 10 miles an hour will be fined $30; each extra mile per hour will cost another $2 to $3.

What's more, the bike speeding tickets will be included on the pedaler's permanent driving record because, according to police, a bicycle is a "vehicle."

The election of Gerry Wright to the ASUI Vice-President's seat has created a vacancy in the ASUI Senate that must be filled for next semester. Accordingly, student officers have opened applications for consideration for the seat.

Linguist's office target of burglars once again

By KIT FREUDENBERG

The office of John-Baptist Sita, professor of Italian and Spanish language and literature, was burglarized sometime between Wednesday and Friday morning for the second time in 2 and one-half years. Each time, Sita's research papers and manuscripts seem to be the target of the thieves.

Sita said his research concerns a possible link between the language of the Basques in Spain and the Georgian language in the Soviet Union. During the first robbery, a freshly typed 120-page manuscript had been taken. This time, his locked filing cabinet was opened and two drawers of personal notes, papers and correspondence from the past eight years was stolen.

"I have no secrets," said Sita. "I am trying to be a scholar. I am trying to do research. It is my duty as a professor." He said the research has no political implications and is "pure linguistic work."

Included in the stolen information is a questionnaire with 200 sample sentences which Sita mailed abroad to be filled in with the Basque equivalent. He said an extensive bibliography about his notes and some papers which contained personal poetry and poetry of friends had also been taken.

After the first burglary, campus security placed a metal plate in front of the latch of his door, said Sita. This time, the robbers taped a portion of the glass in the door and broke it in. The book shelves and the material on top of a working table also appeared to have been gone through, he said. His desk had been searched and keys and blank checks taken.

"Do they think I am an agent?" Sita asked. "I am not interested in the Basque language" beyond linguistic analysis, he said. "Somebody is trying to hurt or discourage me." Sita said perhaps some "crazy idiot" thinks he is anti-Soviet. He has written cultural articles for the "Voice of America" radio station in Georgia, but said it is "not a political action."

Sita said his research project is not an easy one. After eight years of work, he has been able to read only two papers for his colleagues. He said he has invested $1,500 of his own money into the project, plus several national grants. Sita is waiting to become a naturalized American citizen and feels he has a debt to repay the United States through research.

His personal notes cannot be replaced. The eight years cannot be replaced. "I am innocent" of any political intrigue said Sita. "I am here to serve the students." He hopes he will not be robbed again.

Oregon sells African stock

(ZNS) Oregon's state board of higher education, in a precedent-setting move, has voted to sell its holdings in all companies that do substantial business with South Africa or Rhodesia.

By an eight-to-three vote, the board decided it would liquidate its stock holdings in 27 major companies, including such corporations as General Electric, I.B.M., 3-M, Xerox, Kodak, and Exxon. The stocks in question are valued at about $6 million.

The Oregon board acts as trustees for public institutions of higher education throughout the state, including both the University of Oregon and Oregon State University.

Its action followed demonstrations and demands by several hundred students who showed up at meetings to protest the State policy of investing in companies doing business with racist governments abroad.

The trustees at numerous universities across the United States have been asked to take similar actions, but the Oregon board is the first in the nation to have done so.

Senate tables fee decision after lengthy debate

The advisory vote on the $6 fee increase was the main topic of discussion during last Monday's special senate meeting.

The meeting saw only seven senators: Bob Harding, Dave Lockhart, Gerry Wright, Mark Nuttman, Dan Prohaska, Bruce Moorer, and Steve Bradbury present. Rusty Jesser, senate president pro-tem presided over the quorum until he yielded the chair to Bob Harding.

Jesser is the author of senate bill No. 266, which would levy a $3 ASUI fee increase on Idaho students.

The minutes were approved and presidential communications as well as the university governance report were not heard because ASUI president, Lynn Tominaga was out of the room at the time and no faculty council members were present.

On a motion from Wright, the rules were suspended and senate bill No. 266 was placed at the top of agenda by a voice vote. Debate over the bill ran the entire length of the meeting being occasionally broken when the senate's quorum was broken by someone leaving the room.

One of the main points of contention over the bill was the margin by which the advisory passed in the recent election. Several of the senators and members of the gallery felt that the 47 percent of the student body that voted against the increase might be able to live with a $3 increase as opposed to a $6.

It was also pointed out that seven senators passing any type of a fee increase bill wouldn't be representative of the entire Senate.

Several people including Chris Foster, KUOI-FM manager, and ASUI president pointing out that with the minimum wage going up at the first of the year and needed equipment purchases next semester, the increase should be instituted next semester.

Mike Smith, a member of the Graduate Student Association said there is a petition being circulated which will exempt graduates from paying a $6 fee. He said that graduates would be more likely to go along with a $3 increase.

The meeting was adjourned and moved because the Chief's room was reserved for another meeting.

After the recess Bradbury moved to table the bill. The motion failed in a roll call vote of 3-4.

After some debate Nuttman moved to amend the bill to read $6 instead of $3. Prohaska pointed out that the whole purpose of decreasing the fee was to look at the efficiency of the various ASUI departments. He asked if the ASUI is perpetuating the problems that it has.

Jesser moved previous question which passed on a voice vote. But before the bill could be voted on, Prohaska and Bradbury walked out of the meeting.

The senate was then forced to adjourn because of a lack of a quorum and senate bill No. 266 was automatically tabled.

CAMPUS CAPERS

Unknown persons stole $1,152 worth of stereo equipment from the stereo lounge in the Wallace Complex sometime Tuesday or Wednesday. According to the campus police report, one Sony tape recorder, two Hitachi amplifiers, one Hitachi amplifier AM-FM tuner and two Hitachi turntables had been taken. Clarence Robison, president of the Wallace Complex committee, said the thieves broke through three doors to reach the equipment. There will be an effort to replace the equipment, according to Ron Ball, dormitory coordinator; however, he said he did not know if the insurance would completely cover the replacement cost. He said he is checking into more firmly securing the equipment and other different security measures.

Two juveniles were arrested early Sunday morning by campus police for stealing a 1965 Chevy belonging to Connie Ingram, 608 S. Jefferson. According to the campus police station, the juveniles were caught as they attempted to flee from the vehicle. The police took them to the Latah County Juvenile Center and they were later released into their parents' custody.

Someone knocked out the glass and wire on the library's second floor emergency exit door on the south side of the building on Nov. 19 causing $25 worth of damage. Also, personnel found the ground level emergency exit door on the west side ajar and unlocked the same day. During the same weekend, the north window in the ground floor conference room had been broken by stones. Only the outside thermal pane had been damaged, according to the report.

Steve Daggar, McConnell Hall, reported about $305 stolen from his pants while playing handball Nov. 16 in the Memorial Gym. According to the police report, Daggar had left his wallet in his pants which he folded and left outside the handball court door. The thief left him $1 in the wallet.

Campus police noticed the door on the south side of Pi Beta Phi Sorority House might have been tampered with last Tuesday. The door, which leads into the kitchen, had the screen cut and the chain lock taken off as if someone made an entry. The officer estimated the occurrence at about 3:30 a.m. that morning. According to the police report, it was unknown if anything had been taken.

Robert Hoffman, White Pine Hall, reported the theft of a new $40 Wards battery from his Chevy pickup between 3:30 and 6:00 a.m. last Tuesday.

Fire extinguishers and hoses seem to be popular targets of vandalism according to police reports. Someone turned on the fire hoses on the first and second floor of Ballard Residence Saturday night. Two fire extinguishers were taken off the wall and emptied on the floor of the Memorial Gym last Sunday or Monday. Four white males entered the SUB basement Nov. 20, took a jacket from the camera room, opened the fire hose cabinet in the hallway and sprayed the extinguisher and later broke a light fixture in the stairwell. The men left the jacket at the bottom of the stairs, according to a witness.

Fees, press autonomy on agenda

The ASUI Senate will consider the proposed fee increase in its meeting Wednesday night. A bill has been submitted to change the amount of the increase from $6 to $3. The proposed $6 increase was approved by the students in an advisory ballot.

A bill providing for the termination of the affiliation of the Idaho Argonaut will also be before the Senate. The bill is accompanied by a resolution stating that the Argonaut should have full autonomy of operation. The resolution adds that the current situation of the ASUI providing the editor and financial backing for the paper makes it a state-owned and operated newspaper, thus creating potential for abuse of the Argonaut by the Senate.

A resolution concerning the reprimand of ASUI Senator Steve Bradbury will be considered. The resolution states that an ASUI Senator is responsible for visiting his assigned living groups and keeping them informed of the actions of the Senate. It adds that Bradbury has not visited his living groups during the entire semester. If passed, the resolution will have the effect of a statement from the Senate that Bradbury has not fulfilled his responsibilities as an elected official.

The Senate will also consider a bill concerning the vacation time of ASUI Student Union employees, and a bill requiring candidates in ASUI general elections to have completed one semester at the University of Idaho.

Congress considers repeal of treaties

(ZNS) A congressman from the State of Washington has introduced a bill that, if passed, would repeal all existing treaties and agreements between the Federal Government and American Indians.

Representative Jack Cunningham, in introducing the controversial measure, said he decided to draft it after a federal court ruled that Indians in the State of Washington were entitled to special commercial fishing privileges under existing treaties with the government. Cunningham says he doesn't think this is fair.

The bill, as drafted, would even repeal all Native

American claims to their reservation lands.

Staff members of the House Subcommittee on Indian Affairs, where the bill has been forwarded, are doubtful that the bill will ever be passed. The Committee's chief counsel, Frank Ducheneaux, predicts that chances for eventual passage of Cunningham's proposal "are not good."

Sneaky parkers beware

Starting December 1, the university is getting tough on unauthorized parking in spaces reserved for the handicapped. Offenders will receive a wheel lock - which immobilizes the vehicle in return for their sly parking habits.

On the senate side, lawyers for the Senate Indian Affairs Committee suggested that the taking away of Indian properties without compensation would be blatantly unconstitutional. A staff counsel added that if the tribes were to be compensated, then the costs would be, in the lawyer's words, "staggeringly expensive."

Sport's sports

Letters

Sports writers are supposed to be impartial. No yelling for the home team or cheering for the favored school in the press box. You're not even supposed to let fly with an occasional "all right," when the Vandals score, nor are you allowed to bitch and moan when a cross-state rival like Boise State rubs the home school's nose in the dirt to the tune of 44-14 in a very emotional Saturday night game.

I always watch the "professionals" during these mass interviews hoping to pick up some of their interviewing expertise. You can learn a lot by watching, right?

You also learn to respect coaches by the way they handle some of the questions "impartial" sports writers ask them. Questions like those a couple of unforgettable reporters asked Idaho football coach Ed Troxel after Saturday's loss to BSU.

"What do you think was the key play that led to your defeat?" or, "I just spoke with Coach Criner, and he said he has no adverse feelings about you, do you have any towards him?"

Sports writers are supposed to be impartial. Maybe they ought to enlarge journalism school's curriculum a bit and hold classes in common sense and tact. It might not hurt the profession at all.

More Brains!

To the Editor:

I was fascinated by your article on the BRAIN organization headed by R. T. McComb. I figure it's about time people start looking seriously and scientifically at their brains as the tool to expand consciousness and I'm glad to see some one is doing just that.

But the general public needs much more information to stimulate mass thought and action than was carried in your first article. Hopefully you will carry more in depth reports on the work of the BRAIN organization people. For example, how does their work differ from research into right and left brain hemisphere functioning now so much publicized? And what is a "brain orgasm?" UFO's? And just what part of the brain is dormant?

Thanks again for the article, but please give us more brain information.

for convictions of marijuana. It almost seems that this man has a personal vendetta against people who get high. It is understandable that a judge must hand down sentences to the best of his ability when a breach of the law has occurred; a judge must also interpret the law to meet the needs of society. More and more Americans are starting to get high yet people like Judge Mossman try to ignore the fact and punish otherwise honest citizens with harsh sentences; this process includes a ridiculous waste of time and money. Several friends and I were "caught" getting loaded by Moscow police and we were let go; maybe the police realize something that Judge Mossman is ignorant of—democracy is based on majority rule with minority rights.

Boo Booze

To the Editor:

I think that the University's alcohol policy is very unfair. It was set up to be enforced on all property that the University owned or was connected with. Now the University says that it won't be enforced in fraternities and sororities because there is no one living in any of these groups that is on the U of I payroll. If any drinking, outside the individual rooms, goes on in the residence halls, the resident advisors have to turn it in to the board of housing. This is not good because it makes the resident advisors look bad to the members of the living group that he or she is a part of, or else he loses his job and the U of I's support.

In making up and signing the alcohol policy, President Gibb forgot one thing of real importance, the students that live in the residence halls pay nearly three hundred dollars a semester to live there. And the halls and lounges in the residence halls are considered by the University to be public places, but if any damage should occur to either of these places, it is the residence hall that pays for the damage and not the University. This to me seems as though these two places should be the residence halls' private areas where the members can feel free to do the things that they enjoy.

Most everyone living on campus is a legal, responsible adult and should be treated like one. A lot of us moved away from home to gain our freedom to do as we please, but the alcohol policy is again limiting us from doing things in our own way. I feel that the policy should be dropped and the students' rights be brought back into existence.

Brain's Adventure

To the Editor:

I read the article by N.K. Hoffman on the 90 percent dormant brain dated Nov. 11, 1977.

It was of special interest to me as this sort of program is quite lacking at the University of Idaho. I was very curious about Mr. Lingo and the Adventure Trails Survival School that the Idaho chapter of the BRAIN organization is affiliated with.

Will there be a follow up article on the school and their experiments? Perhaps Mr. McComb could further describe the Program in Colorado.

Perils of peace

To the Editor:

After surviving so many turbulent decades in this century some of us may feel a certain confidence that the present will prove no harder than the past has been. It has been a favorite taunt of European critics that in America there are no tragedies, only mistakes. The quality of current experience is rapidly dissipating any remaining truth in this charge.

We should remind ourselves that peace and affluence have their own perils as surely as wars and depressions.

Nowadays so many look to education for salvation as once we looked to religion or political ideology—before we succeed in building the great society, we shall need to resolve the doubt and bafflement about its validity and worth in the minds of those now in college who should serve as leaders—what is, needed are fewer books and articles by college professors and more cooperative search by teacher and taught for an authority upon which to base freedom and individuality. Though personal life is of short duration, and subject to chance and misfortune while it lasts, actions are of great importance in the moral sum of things. The pity is that so many retreat into research, government contracts, and sabbatical travel leaving counsel and instruction to junior colleagues and graduate assistants.

I find a deep uneasiness about the course that American higher education has taken—will it be the true victim or highest proponent of tunnel vision? How many specialists can crowd into one lifeboat before one comes who knows how to row? Triumph and tragedy can both be proportional to education. Nancy Brossman

Band vs WSU

To the Editor, and Robert Spevacek, U of I Band Director,

On behalf of the entire Music Department at Washington State University, I would like to commend you, your new Marching Band Director, and each student in your marching unit for a fine job at the WSU-Idaho game this past Saturday. While nothing but respect and appreciation for your group was exhibited by our musicians, I would like to extend apology for the inexcusable behavior of the WSU general student body towards the Dixieland Band who came over to the north side of the stadium for a special presentation during the second quarter. Please convey to your band the regrets of our entire band and music staff over this incident. Obviously, there are problems in crowd management at WSU home games which must receive immediate attention by appropriate supervisors and administrators responsible for these situations.. The actions of the WSU crowd proves beyond any doubt the small-time, bush-league character of too many WSU football fans. I know I speak for all of our music faculty and music students when I express our regret over such reprehensible conduct.

Sincerely yours,
H. James Schoepflin
Chairman, Music Department

Real Brains?

To the Editor:

Thanks for the laughs! Are these people (The Brain Organization) for real? A lot of what they're claiming seems to be rather absurd, claiming to know how to teach ESP, and telepathy, and then the bit of multiple orgasms and brain orgasms. (Does anyone even know what the latter are?) The biggest laugh came when they claimed to be trying to make contact with "higher intelligences;" modern technology and astro-physics can't even make contact with their radio-telescopes, and they're trying to do it holding hands? Pass the popcorn, please. Bill Parks

Inaudible 'Hiding'

To the Editor:

Thursday night, November 17th, some of us drove several miles on icy roads NOT to see what should have been a very good movie!

"Hiding Place" in the Ad. Auditorium, was not only inaudible to many of us, but a real challenge to watch! After nearly 30 minutes of craning our necks to catch an occasional glimpse of the screen, and struggling to hear a few words which made sense despite the garbled sound system...we gave up, and went home.

Other frustrated members of the audience moved around the auditorium, some also walked out, but apparently a number with remarkable hearing and/or patience remained after us.

At any rate, I think the entire situation reflected poor planning, and I, for one, felt cheated! Perhaps there are others in the community who still want to see "Hiding Place," and feel that the Campus Christian Organization (not to be confused with the Campus Christian Center) owes us another showing. If facilities are not available to enable 300-plus people to see (and hear!) the movie at one time, other arrangements should be made, but everyone who purchases a ticket should be able to expect the same for his or her money.

Idaho humiliated 44 - 14

After winning 47-44 against New Mexico State a week ago, the Vandals were humiliated by a vengeful, point-hungry Boise State team 44-14 in the Dome.

It was the last game for both teams and clinched the Big Sky championship for BSU. For Idaho it was the finish of a frustrating season. The Vandals recorded a dismal 3-7 record and 2-4 in the Big Sky. BSU was perfect with a 6-0 in conference play and 8-3 overall.

The Vandals started out hot when they scrambled 55 yards in four plays to score and complete the point after touchdown.

But it didn't last.

Near the end of the first quarter, BSU's Willie Beamon picked off a Rocky Tuttle pass intended for Vandal tight-end Rick Mayfield. A combination of pitchouts and handoffs by Bronco quarterback Dee Pickett to tailback Cedric Minter resulted in BSU being able to tie it with 1:53 left in the first quarter.

Into the second quarter BSU steadily moved the ball into scoring territory. It looked like the Broncos were going to score again but a determined Vandal defense and an illegal procedure penalty forced BSU to attempt a field goal. The attempt good, Boise State took the lead 10-7.

Disaster struck when on the first play after the kickoff return, Tuttle attempted to again throw to Mayfield and was intercepted by Sam Miller.

The Idaho defense again hung tough and Tom Sarette kicked the three points for BSU making it 13-7.

Idaho's offense could do nothing. The Vandals turned the ball over twice and BSU managed a 92-yard drive on nine plays raising the score to 20-7 at half time.

Later, Fred Goode fumbled a out of the late '50's. Juntunen pitched right to Robert Taylor. Taylor then stopped and threw long to Allen. Result: a touchdown. The Lowe kick was good and the score was narrowed to 20-14. It looked like Idaho was on its way back.

No way. After the kickoff BSU mounted a long scoring drive which was successful. The Broncos led 27-14.

Fourth quarter action saw Idaho's back break as repeated attempts failed and a handoff and Idaho recovered. The Vandals couldn't move the ball and were forced to turn it over.

Boise State seemed stalemated also and had to punt the ball away from the 46 after an illegal procedure penalty.

Kirk Allen took a fair catch on the 22 and Idaho began to move up-field on hand-offs and pitchouts. Then the Vandals pulled a play straight Boise State interception spoiled their chances of coming back. Moving the ball at will, BSU added two more touchdowns.

An on-side kick with less than two minutes to go was successful for the Broncos. With a field goal, that made it 44-14 and the first win for Coach Jim Criner as the head mentor for BSU.

The series now stands at 4-2-1 in BSU's favor.

Basketball loses opener

Idaho basketball opened its season on a sour note, falling 120-70 to the hands of heavily favored New Mexico Friday night in Albuquerque.

Lamenting over the "freshman kind of mistakes" his team made, Vandal head coach Jim Jarvis saw his club hand over the ball 22 times, which helped the hosting Lobos to mount a 62-32 halftime lead.

"They pressured us the whole game," said Jarvis. "I thought we were going to be beaten, but not by 50 points."

The young Idaho team, made up of eight freshmen and sophomores out of the 12, saw forward James Bateman, a 6-5 frosh earn the team's highest with 17. Point guard Bill Hessing banged the boards to be a leader for the team in rebounds.

Friday night's score is the second highest any opponent has scored against Idaho. The record was set last year by the UN-Las Vegas famous Running Rebels who flew past the Vandals 135-78.

That season saw the Vandals fall to a dismal 5-21 record, earning a berth for the cellar of the Big Sky conference. Coach Jarvis is in his third year at Moscow, compiling a 22-66 record. The last time Idaho had a winning basketball club was in 1970 when coach Wayne Anderson produced a 14-12 year.

Idaho's next opponent will be the University of Alaska at the Dome Monday evening.

DON'T PAY MORE FOR PRESCRIPTION SERVICE

SAVE & COMPARE
Save on Your next Prescription
Compare Our New Pricing System with Other Discount Prices
It will be worth while

How are prescription prices determined?

At Hodgins Drug we use a "professional fee" pricing system. The prescription is simply the price of the product from our supplier plus a flat fee.

How is the "professional fee" determined?

The fee is the result of a complete financial analysis of the pharmacy — from taxes to label costs. The services offered are important. At Hodgins Drug we provide patient profiles, insurance & tax records, charge accounts & free local prescription delivery. We've streamlined our system to keep service fast & costs down, but not at the expense of patient care.

How is that different from other systems?

Prescriptions are traditionally priced on a "markup". In other words, the more it costs the store, the more the store makes. On inexpensive products the store does not cover expenses, but on expensive drugs it makes much more. Let's take an example:

|---------------------------|--|
| Drug Cost                 | _____                                    |
| Fee System                | _____                                    |
| Mark Up Less 15% Discount | _____                                    |
| Mark Up                   | _____                                    |
| DOLLARS            | 0    3    6    9    12    15    18    21 |

How do larger quantities save you money?

Each time you fill a prescription it costs — for containers, paperwork and time. So when you fill your prescription once for 100 tablets instead of twice for 50 tablets the savings are passed on to you. Ask the pharmacist about your medications — some of them can be filled in larger quantities

Can I ask for price comparisons?

Yes! We're happy to explain what we're doing! We feel we'll gain a new customer.

Keep in mind the advantages of the fee system:

(1) You pay only for the product & our costs — when your doctor prescribes an expensive drug you aren't penalized.
(2) On "maintenance medication" — such as blood pressure or diabetic products you save even more by buying larger quantities.

Senior Citizens

(3) You don't need a "discount card" or an age bracket to qualify. The fee system is the only equitable way to keep prices as low as possible. Your health is too important to us — we don't play games with you or your pocketbook. Take a moment & compare our prices. It will be worth while.

Swim teams start season

The University of Idaho men's and women's swim teams open the season in a double dual meet against Whitman and Eastern Washington University, Dec. 2 in Walla Walla, Wash.

John DeMeyer, women's swimming coach, said that the team was strong "everywhere" and predicted this year's team will be one of the best Idaho has ever had.

"Our first meet should give us a real good start as I feel our swimmers will do real well there. But included in our regular season schedule are four of the strongest teams in the Northwest and two of them—University of Washington and Pacific Lutheran—were ranked nationally last year," DeMeyer said. "Central Washington is going to be very strong this year. They picked up five new women that should put them up in the rankings."

Chet Hall, men's swimming coach, said, "In summary, in a word of fact, our team is young." Hall added that the oldest member in eligibility is a sophomore and half of the team are freshmen, "So we are definitely in a rebuilding year."

"We will have our work cut out for us this year," Hall said. "We know this is a down year for us but we will be competitive. We are building immediately for the future with the young swimmers."

We have scheduled tough this year," Hall continued. The reason we do is that we have to face them by the time we get to the Nor Pac Championships. We could schedule easy but we might as well swim them now and find out where we'll be."

Idaho will go against Central Washington, University of Puget Sound and University of Washington in what is considered the top competition in the Northwest.

Bowling team ends season

The U of I women's bowling team placed third in team standings during tournament action at Bozeman, Mont., Nov. 12-13.

Washington State won the tourney with 77.7 Peterson points, followed by Boise State with 69.4, U of I with 64.9, Montana State with 63 and Montana with 57.9.

Idaho's Randy Ralph recovers a Boise State fumble during the third quarter of last Saturday's game. The Broncos gained their revenge over last year's loss and a Big Sky Championship by defeating Idaho 44-14.

Field hockey team has 18-2-2 record

The U of I field hockey team made history by defeating the University of British Columbia in Burnaby, B. C., Nov. 12-13. It was the first time an Idaho field hockey team had defeated a Canadian team.

The U of I women also defeated Central Washington 3-0, Southern Oregon State College 1-0, and lost to Simon Fraser 0-3.

Betty Fiandaca, Idaho's leading scorer, scored in all three victories. Debbie Schenk and Karen Stambaugh each scored one goal in the CWU game.

The team's season record is 18-2-2 and the women scored 68 goals to their opponents' 17.

'Monkey Wrench' author to visit

ASUI Issues and Forums presents Edward Abbey, author of The Monkey Wrench Gang. "On the Rocks," Thursday at 8 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom. "On the Rocks" will consist of poems and lecture. Admission is free.

Edward Abbey is not a naturalist. He never was and never will be a naturalist. He is not even sure what a naturalist is except that he is not one.

He has never studied botany or zoology or ecology or any other branch of natural science. Like most war veterans he went to college because it was easier than working. While in school he majored in philosophy, not biology.

During his long erratic seasonal career with the National Park Service he was employed not as a naturalist but as a ranger and sometimes as a fire lookout.

Today Abbey considers himself a working novelist and his highest ambition is to compose one good long novel.

Several years ago, Abbey published a book called Desert Solitaire, followed closely by Cactus Country, Appalachian Wilderness, and Slickrock. His most recent book is The Monkey Wrench Gang.

According to the New York Times, "There has been an Abbey mystique among cognoscente for some time. Abbey has no desire to become the next literary guru to the nation's campus readers. It doesn't matter. His followers, undergraduates and post graduates alike, have already enshrined him."

Jazz marathon is on

A full evening of jazz music with nine student ensembles is planned for the second annual KUOI-FM and MENC Jazz Marathon this Friday, from 7:30 p.m. until the musicians call it a night. The marathon will be in the SUB Ballroom. Admission is $1.

The U of I chapter of Music Educators National Conference (MENC) is a student group interested in promoting music and music education. KUOI will broadcast the event later.

Groups planning to participate include the U of I Jazz Ensemble I, directed by John Harbaugh, U of I assistant professor of music. Harbaugh is new to the music faculty this year, coming here from North Texas State College, where he received a master of music degree.

Also on the program are the U of I Jazz Ensemble II and the U of I Jazz Singers, both directed by Dwight Logee, U of I graduate assistant; Savannah, a Washington State University group; the Pullman Jazz Septet; U of I Faculty Jazz Combo; a U of I Student Jazz Combo; a U of I Student Woodwind Quintet playing the music of Scott Joplin; a horn quartet performing modern pieces for French horn and quartet; and a return engagement of the U of I Jazz Bassoon Ensemble by popular demand.

Comic opera coming

Puccini's comic opera "Gianni Schicchi" will be performed by the U of I Opera Workshop at 8 p.m. Saturday, and at 4 and 8 p.m. Sunday, in the Music Building Recital Hall. Admission is $1.

"Nowhere is Puccini's music more lyric and yet so dynamic as in this small masterpiece of intrigue. The plot is loaded with humor and the music is filled with sparkle and melody," said Charles Walton, U of I professor of music and director of the Opera Workshop.

The story follows the scheme of the grasping relatives of a man who has recently died. They find that he has willed all of his money to his church and they are irate to think the "friars" should reap the benefits of his estate, not his family.

Gianni Schicchi, a clever man, arrives on the scene at this point and offers to impersonate the dead man and write a new will. The scheming relatives take him up on his offer and ultimately find themselves thoroughly entangled with this clever rogue.

"Gianni Schicchi" is one of a triptych of one-act operas written by Puccini during the 1914-18 war. It is said to contain some of his best music. Puccini was born in Lucca, Italy, in 1858 and died in Brussels, Belgium, in 1924.

Argonaut/Clarke Fletcher

Bernarda Alba, played by Megan Richman, decrees to her shocked household that they will observe an eight year period of mourning for the death of their patriarch.

'Bernarda Alba' opens Thursday

The second production of the U of I Theatre's 1977-78 season, The House of Bernarda Alba will open Thursday night and run through Sunday. Performances of the all-woman drama will be at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. All shows will be in the Hartung Theatre. Admission is $1 for students and $2.50 for the public. Forrest E. Sears directs the play.

Sears, who has directed the classic tragedies Antigone and Hamlet for the U of I Theatre, sees the play as a 20th century version of a Greek tragedy.

The House of Bernarda Alba, famed Spanish playwright Federico Garcia Lorca's last play before his mysterious death in 1936, is a portrait of the entangled relationships between Bernarda, the stoic, prideful matriarch, and her daughters, who are desperately trying to escape her domination.

Bernarda's husband has just died and Bernarda has ordered an eight-year mourning period during which the family is to be confined to the house.

"I see Bernarda and Poncia (the servant) as Greek figures," Sears said. "Poncia is the seer whose warnings Bernarda will not heed, and the failure to recognize what is happening in her own family causes Bernarda's and her daughters' climactic downfall."

All the characters in the play are women, which prompted director Sears to recruit a woman assistant director in order not to lose the feminist point of view. In the past, the play has usually been directed by women, but Sears soon discovered that "the play is universal in its emotions and passions. Everyone can relate to it, not just women."

Sears approached the drama by developing the theme—"women trapped in a barren, burning passion"—a dominant image echoed in the set design and the costuming.

The characters are trapped in every level. While the five daughters are trying to escape their mother's domination and the rigid rules of their society, they are dressed in stiff, corsetted black costumes, and the loosening of the costumes parallels their desire to break out.

Appearing in the all-woman drama are Judi Dickerson, Theresa Stone, Ginger Vanderschaaf, Norma Smith, Jean Elliott, Vicki Blake, Maggie O'Donnell, Carol Elliott, Jenny Davey, Bethamy Peterson, Laurie Weeks, Mary Lou Knutson, Megan Richman, Peggy Mead, Suzanne Koeplinger and Wendy Carmen.

Season tickets still on sale

Because a large number of people have requested it, the U of I Theatre is now offering a four-show season ticket, good for the remaining plays of the '77-'78 season. The tickets at $8, are available through the Department of Theatre Arts.

Upcoming plays are The House of Bernarda Alba, an emotionally intense drama by leading Spanish playwright Federico Garcia Lorca, Dec. 1-4; The Importance of Being Earnest, March 2-5; Alice In Wonderland, April 20-23; and A Moon for the Misbegotten, May 4-7.

Individual tickets for the performances are $2.75 for non-students and $1 for students.

Mountain climber tells tale

John Roskelley, Spokane mountaineer, will speak in the Compton Union Building (CUB) Auditorium at Washington State University, Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 7 p.m. Outdoor Activities Program and ASWSU Lecture Artist Committee are sponsoring the free lecture.

Roskelley will speak and show slides of his ascent of Nanda Devi, a mountain in the Himalayas. Nanda Devi is located about 220 miles northeast of New Delhi; the capital of India, and about 500 miles northwest of Mount Everest.

Nanda Devi, which is 25,645 feet high, was first scaled in 1936 and was one of the highest peaks ever climbed, until the early 1950's. Roskelley and two others reached the summit of Nanda Devi on Sept. 1, 1976, three days after the 40th anniversary of the first ascent. According to "Summit," a mountaineering magazine, Roskelley's party made the climb by a "new and extremely difficult route."

Roskelley is expected to talk about the hardships his group encountered, the fun they had, and show some of the slides they took on their recent climb of Nanda Devi.

Nuclear growth crimps liberty

(ZNS) High officials with the government's Nuclear Regulatory Commission have reportedly told The Washington Post that the expansion of the nuclear power industry in the United States will probably result in fewer civil liberties for American citizens.

The Post says that a Stanford University study, prepared at the commission's request two years ago, warned that a national nuclear police force would be necessary to prevent the theft of potentially dangerous nuclear fuel.

The author of that study was Professor John Barton. Barton warned that if nuclear materials were stolen, police would probably have to do anything necessary, including ignoring civil liberties and constitutional rights, to recover the material.

The Post says that government nuclear officials agree with Barton. The newspaper quotes what it describes as "a top N.R.C. official" as admitting: "if someone runs off with a substantial amount of this stuff from one of these plants, (the police) are probably going to go out and break down all the doors in America to get it back."

Another N.R.C. security expert interviewed by The Post conceded that civil liberties would likely be compromised in a nuclear power economy: According to The Post, the security expert put it this way: "it's a question of what you want. A safe reactor or a happy people."

Journalism teacher in trouble with governer

(ZNS) What do you think of New Hampshire?

Well, if you are a college journalism teacher living in that state, and you don't think New Hampshire is so hot, then you'd better keep your opinions to yourself.

Take the case of Jack Thomas.

New Hampshire Governor Meldrim Thompson has asked for the immediate dismissal of Thomas, a part-time journalism instructor at the University of New Hampshire, after the teacher wrote an unflattering portrait of the state in a column he produces for The Boston Globe.

The governor, in a letter to the University Chancellor, said that the continued employment of the Globe columnist "would be an affront to our citizens and a gross waste of their tax dollars."

The governor then demanded to know who hired the journalist, how the university guards against hiring "incompetents" and what could be done to cancel the university's contract with Thomas.

Incidentally, what ired New Hampshire Governor Thompson was Thomas's description of New Hampshire as an "unfriendly, meddlesome, ill-mannered state."
