Harding bids farewell to ISA

by Marty Trillhaase

Boise — ASUI President Bob Harding Thursday said goodbye to the executive board of the Idaho Student Association in a meeting mixed with charges, counter charges, and pleas for compromise.

Harding, in effect, formalized the Jan. 25 ASUI Senate vote not to pay its dues to the student organization. That leaves Boise State University, Lewis-Clark State College and several private and junior colleges in the ISA. Idaho State University has never belonged to the ISA.

The ASUI decision to leave the ISA is a serious and perhaps fatal blow to the ISA. With only one of the three major state universities remaining, it is doubtful whether the ISA can continue as a viable student lobby organization, according to executive director Will Roy.

Harding explained some of the senate's reasons for the move. He pointed out the ASUI received half of its requested $6 fee increase.

But, he added, a major factor in the senate's decision was a disillusionment with the ISA itself. "The benefits per dollar spent were not worth it," Harding said.

LCSC student president Carol Weber noted the ASUI had participated in all decisions. She said the ISA had tried to cooperate with the ASUI.

BSU student president Mike Hoffman claimed the ASUI was not accepting its share of the responsibility for the ISA's problems. "You guys are in a perfect position. You can blame everything on Lynn's (Tominaga) ignorance and he's out of it now and we're stuck," Hoffman said.

Harding said that the ISA had not provided adequate information to the ASUI. He added he had received only one newsletter since the opening of the state legislature this year.

Roy countered, saying two letters had been sent out.

Harding said he had only received one. Roy then asked why Harding had never attempted to reach him concerning the legislature. "Did you ever call me?" Roy asked.

Harding then complained about the information he had received. He said the information concerning the Board of Education's requested amendments to the Administrative Procedures Act was inadequate.

Roy noted the second Board bill dealing with the APA had just been printed.

Harding disagreed with Roy's explanation. "At that time, we learned more from the Argonaut than we did from the ISA," Harding said.

Roy brought up the issue of past ASUI dues. "The biggest question people are having to face is the verbal commitment of the U of I," he said. He added the ASUI was a full-fledged member of the ISA for six months. He noted that former ASUI President Lynn Tominaga held office in the ISA during his term of office.

"To say you can't join this year because you can't get one full year's value...is grossly unfair," Roy said.

"No one is trying to rake you over the coals. It's just frustrating. We just need to find out what the ASUI's feelings are," he said.

"If you want to wash your hands of it....," Hoffman said.

"That's what we want," Harding said.

Weber then proposed billing the ASUI for six months membership fees in the ISA. That would amount to roughly $2,000. She added the ASUI Senate had promised to pay its dues if it got a fee increase.

Harding disagreed. He said the dues were to be paid following passage of the $6 fee increase, not just a fee increase.

Hoffman then proposed formulating a compromise. He added the loss of the U of I would be disastrous to the ISA. "It's really frustrating to work on this for two years and see it fall apart over an insignificant amount," he said.

Harding conceded the concept of the ISA is good. He endorsed approaching the legislature with a united student approach. "I just don't think that's what we've been getting," Harding said.

Hoffman offered to allow the ASUI full year membership if it paid the $2,000. "I can get the extra $2,000 out of my senate to get us by," he said.

Weber echoed Hoffman's sentiments. She said she "could go to my senate and arrange something if it is purely a money thing that keeps the ASUI out."

Harding would not endorse such a compromise.

APA bills will go to committee this week

by Marty Trillhaase

Boise—Two bills which could have a significant effect on the law governing conduct of the State Board of Education in arriving at policy changes are due to face a crucial vote in the State Senate Health, Education, and Welfare Committee this week.

Senate Bills 1352 and 1435, which would provide for modifications in the Board's compliance with the Administrative Procedures Act, will face final HEW Committee action. That committee's decision will have a direct impact on how the bills are presented to the state senate.

Though not technically an exemption from the APA, the bills would provide the board with a greater degree of leeway in dealing with the law.

The APA provides that state agencies give prior notice of pending decisions through publication and public hearings. The APA, however, states that decisions affecting "internal management" are not bound by those guidelines. The Board has maintained publicly that most of its functions fall in this category.

But the Fourth District

Court in Boise disagreed on the question of alcohol policies at the four state universities and colleges.

That ruling struck down the Board alcohol policy in May. Following the APA guidelines, the Board enacted a 120-day emergency policy. The Board followed the emergency policy with a permanent one in December.

Again, APA procedures were followed including public hearings at Moscow, Boise, and Pocatello. The final cost of the process was roughly $2,500.

The Board had requested a blanket exemption from the APA last year. The HEW Committee rejected that request. The senators expressed a fear that a total exemption possessed potential for abuse. They also said such action may prompt similar requests from other agencies.

But the Committee did not rule out modifications in the APA for the Board. Acting on this, the Board arrived at another plan in August.

The Board voted last year to submit a bill which would clarify the definition of the "internal management" clause. S.B. 1352 deals with that clarification. If passed, the measure would classify the following as being matters of internal management:

- imposition of student fees
- tuition rates
- personnel management
- student activities and discipline
- admission requirements
- courses of study and curricula
- academic standards
- use of physical facilities or student housing.

S.B. 1435 is a new bill submitted to the HEW Committee. The measure is also sponsored by the Board.

Muscular Dystrophy marathon sets money-raising record

by Kathy Barnard

Regardless of a few stiff muscles and several terminal cases of bags under the eyes, dancing for 28 hours for the Muscular Dystrophy Association was well worth the effort. The dance marathon raised exactly $6,514.34 this year, more money than any previous year.

Sue Meyer and Ray Hine totalled over $800 and won the traveling trophy for Olesen Hall. Shan Wolverton and Bruce Warnberg will be spending three days and two nights in Reno, all expenses paid, after earning over $500.

Publicity chairman Mary Lou Cannon said, "We had set our goal at $4000 this year, and we ended up with three times as much as we made last year. It couldn't have gone better."

Sponsored by Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Upham Hall, and KRPL, the dance marathon started at 8 p.m. Friday with 23 couples and a lot of energy. 21 couples went the duration.

The couples danced to everything from hard rock to blue grass to country western. Most of the music was provided by live bands; tapes were only used in the wee hours of the morning. One of the bands was too loud; cotton was distributed to all couples as a safety precaution.

Emcee Tom Rafetto added another dimension to the music with Al Jolson originals such as "Camptown Races" and "Beautiful Dreamer."

With a variety of bands came a variety of dances. The couples learned the Hustle, the Virginia Reel, an Israeli folk dance, and a new dance called "After 10 hours Lean." The "Lean" consisted of the partners standing extremely close to each other in one spot and swaying very, very slowly. The "Lean" was especially popular about 4:30 Saturday morning.

"Trains" were also extremely popular, and the

APA bills face committee

Board. S.B. 1435 provides the Board will be held in compliance with the APA if:

—notice is given of an impending decision in the official agenda for a regularly scheduled Board meeting. That agenda must be available at the central office of the Board in Boise not less than five days before the meeting.

—the intended action is discussed at the meeting but final action is postponed until the next or a later meeting.

—at least fifteen days before the scheduled date of final action, the Board shall mail a brief description of the intended action to all persons who have made a written request for it. The Board also must publish in a newspaper of general circulation the intended action within that deadline. Those papers would include Pocatello's Idaho State Journal, Boise's Idaho Statesman, and the Lewiston Morning Tribune.

—upon the adoption of a rule, the Board shall issue a concise statement explaining the reasons for its action. The Board shall also issue a statement explaining its rejection of a proposal. The statements shall be issued to persons requesting it either prior to the action taken or within 30 days following it. The statement is to include reasons for overruling dancers made countless treks around the floor.

Fifteen minute rest breaks came every hour and 15 minutes. During these breaks nourishment, beverages, and first aid were doled out as needed.

Meals were a half hour long. Breakfast consisted of Egg McMuffins and orange juice, lunch was sandwiches and fruit, and dinner consisted of McDonald's cheeseburgers, french fries, and milk.

Door prizes were given away during the breaks. The prizes, donated by local merchants, ranged from car stereos to free "bounty burgers" at Arctic Circle.

Approximately 400 people came to watch the dancers finish their 28 hour stint. More than $400 was earned within the last 45 minutes.

Senate to consider committee appointments

Appointments to student-faculty committees, evaluation of senators, and campaign statements on ballots will be considered by the ASUI Senate Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the SUB.

A bill outlining the procedure for evaluation of Senators has been submitted by Vice President Gerry Wright. The procedure provides for each Senator's living groups to return evaluation forms every month.

The bill provides that the Vice President will discuss the evaluations with each Senator. He will also discuss the Senator's meeting attendance record, office hours, and general involvement.

A bill providing for the use of campaign statements or slogans on the ASUI ballot was tabled last week, but it will be up for consideration again this week. The bill, submitted by Senator Dan Prohaska, would permit each candidate to have a slogan of up to twelve words printed underneath his name on the ballot.

The Senate will consider approximately 30 appointments to student-faculty committees. The appointments, recommended by ASUI President Bob Harding, will fill all but four of the remaining student positions on the committees.

Also before the Senate may be the expenditure of $170 for Senator Rick Howard to accompany members of the Moscow Chamber of Commerce on a two-day visit to the State Legislature. Since Howard is scheduled to leave Wednesday morning, the bill will reach the agenda only if enough senators express support for the trip.

arguments against taking the action.

The HEW Committee has several options open to it. Perhaps the most permanent would be to hold the bills in committee indefinitely. That, in effect, would kill the bills. The HEW Committee moved to hold the Board's request for a blanket exemption from the APA indefinitely last year.

This year the prospects appear better. S.B. 1435 appears to have the best chance of passage, according to Board President A.L. Alford of Lewiston.

Other committee alternatives include sending the bills to the senate for a final vote with a "do-pass" or "do not pass" recommendation, or sending the bill to the floor without recommendation.

The HEW Committee heard testimony on the proposed legislation last week. Among those giving testimony were the Idaho Student Association, the Idaho Federation of Teachers, the Idaho Public Employees Association and the Board.

Representing the Board, Alford said the bills would "clear up some of our problems with the Administrative Procedures Act." Alford added S.B. 1352 is not an exemption. "It is a serious attempt on the part of the Board to find out precisely what is meant by 'internal management' in certain areas of Board decision-making," Alford added.

The Board President said S.B. 1435 is a measure to aid the Board in complying with the APA. "It was obvious we didn't have to come up with anything radically different.

But Alford noted S.B. 1435 leaves open the question of what is a rule and what "internal management" constitutes. "We would still be struggling on many issues to decide which is which," he said.

ISA Executive Director Will Roy opposed S.B. 1352. Roy noted the APA is cumbersome and time consuming. "But we also see the wisdom in the APA to protect the people of Idaho. We agree that the current APA has some difficulties, but we disagree that S.B. 1352 will be to the benefit of the people of Idaho," Roy said.

Roy expressed support of S.B. 1435, but added the reservations the student organization had about the bill.

Roy voiced two objections to the bill. He said the bill does not eliminate the necessity of judicial review of Board decisions. Roy suggested a process of review would eliminate the need for court action and the costs that go with it.

"Secondly, the amendment proposal does not specifically guarantee the right to be heard in the decision process," Roy said.

KUID starts foreign features

KUID-FM and the U of I Foreign Language Department are presenting a series of foreign music, radio programs entitled "The Greater University of Idaho International Music Revue."

The programs, which will feature a variety of cultural styles and artists, will begin Wed., Feb. 8 at 6:30 p.m. on KUID-FM, 91.7, and will continue every Wed. night.

The programs will be broadcast in sections, beginning with "Hispanic Expression." Other sections include French and German expression.

The musical series is the creation of Harvey L. Hughett, U of I Superintendent of Language Laboratories. Hughett said the radio program is "designed to stimulate international awareness and appreciation of foreign cultural tradition as expressed in popular folk music."

Tapes of the programs will be available for public use in the U of I Language Lab.

R.A. applicants file now

Applications for resident advisors are available from the Housing Office, Wallace Complex, or the Student Advisory Services, UCC 241, beginning today. Completed applications are due at the Office of Student Advisory Services by 5 p.m., Feb. 28.

Resident advisors must be full-time students, have lived in a residence hall or Greek chapter house, be at least a sophomore and in good academic standing.

Responsibilities include being available to residents for counseling, advising and assisting; encouraging hall programs; assisting with room check-ins and check-outs; reporting emergencies to the proper supervisor; attending training sessions and staff meetings and participating in all staff evaluations as planned by the supervisor.

Compensation includes a single room, full board and a telephone. Resident advisors are required to live in the room assigned to them, dine in their assigned cafeteria and use the stipulated meal ticket.

The job begins Saturday, Aug. 19, 1978.

Free university enrollment slides

Free University enrollment is down 127 from last year but Saturday's registration saw seven classes close with waiting lists, according to Mark Nuttman, program coordinator.

Nuttman attributed the enrollment drop to the program's "change of centers" and said the Free U "could have used broader publicity."

The now-defunct Talisman House formerly sponsored the Free University. The program is now under the ASUI Programs Office.

Three classes ended registration day with no enrollment and have been cancelled. Those classes were Film Appreciation, Bible Study and Radio Madness and Management. History as a novel topic received only two enrollees and has also been cancelled.

Tai chi received the highest numbers of takers with 10 entered in the class and 19 on the waiting list. Shaitu followed with 10 entered and 13 on the waiting list.

A Free U brochure says those still wishing to enroll in classes with space available may sign up by calling the programs office at 885-6484.

Financial aid deadline is April 3 for scholarships

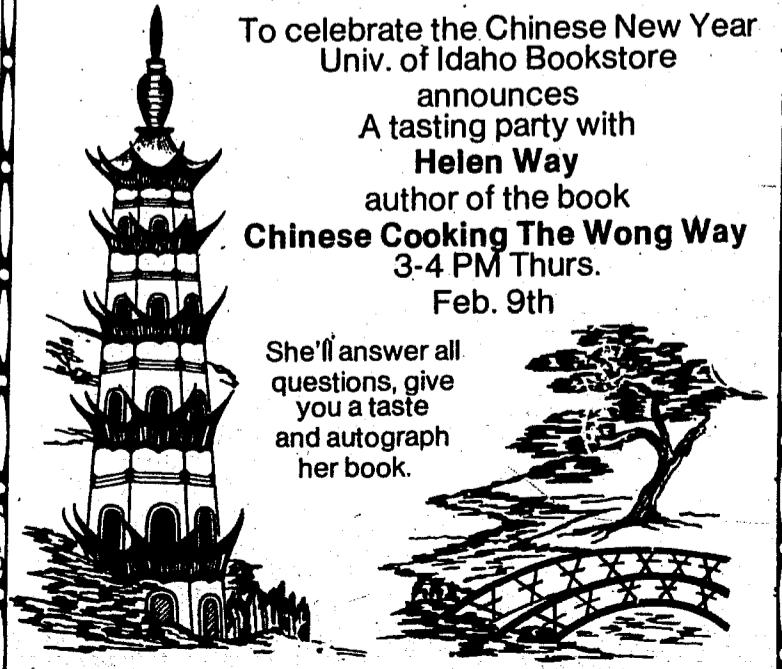

Summer and academic year applications for scholarships should be completed and in the Student Financial Aid office by April 3, Dan Goyette, Assistant Director of Financial Aid, said last week.

April 3 is also the preferred filing date for academic year financial aid, other than scholarships.

Each applicant's file is assigned a priority date for consideration as soon as it is complete. Everyone who has completed financial aid forms by April 3 can almost be assured of having their needs met, Harry Davey, Director of Financial Aid, said.

Full-time summer work-study positions will not be available this year due to lack of funds. However, part-time work-study and awards from loan and grant funds will be used to help needy summer school students.

University offers facilities to Idaho summer groups

The U of I is now offering a summer youth conference package to Idaho groups wanting a conference site with meeting and lodging facilities as well as easy access to scenic and informational tours.

The U of I Office of Continuing Education will help groups plan agendas and facility needs, and develop cost information, Lynn Thomas, conference coordinator, said. Arrangements can be made for groups to use campus gymnasiums, the swimming pool or the ASUI-Kibbie Dome.

"We also have a list of area speakers willing to give talks and programs on subjects of interest to youth groups," he said. Some of the topics on the list of speakers include wildlife photography, Idaho archaeology, and outdoor survival.

The basic package—including two nights of lodging, two breakfasts, three lunches and two dinners plus two refreshment breaks—is approximately $29 per participant, Thomas said.

Republicans hold spring meeting

The U of I College Republicans will hold their first meeting of the spring semester Thursday, Feb. 9, according to club chairman David Ritchie.

All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting at 7 p.m. in the SUB.

The agenda will include formation of committees, appointments of chairpersons and discussion of the upcoming state elections. Also, a speaker will be featured.

An informal social hour will take place immediately following the meeting.

The animal in ISA

What is an ISA animal? For simplicity we will start with the head. The head can assume a multitude of shapes and sizes for the head is comprised of the Approx. (sic) 50,000 students of higher education...their needs and desires. The head being the thinking part of the corpse is methodic and technical therefore the thoughts of this large corporation of individuals are centralized in primary nerves(student body presidents) for communication clarification. The primary nerves then supply, inject and debate concerning student strategies and hence the truth of the brain.

Next the body..the brain decided that a body should have arms, and legs to perform the dictates of the brain thus an Executive Director and staff would be made up of delegates from the brain. So far so good.

The membership and task assignments go something like this: BSU, being the largest and strongest as well as ideally located would serve as the legs for the body. North Idaho College and the College of Southern Idaho will serve as the arms, (again because of location) to transmit information into the brain. NNC and Lewis and Clark State College are the vital organs necessary to facilitate and service the entire body.

Now the animal is nearly complete...the animal needs an anus and the U of I seems to fit the bill. Why? Well recently the U of I Senate voted 9-4-1 not to appropriate (sic) their ISA dues. They did so after enjoying the following privileges.

- 1) hosted (sic) the 2nd Idaho Student Convention
- 2) maintained full voting rights in the ISA

After promising the allocation for six months they have decided not to pay their dues therefore it is fitting for the ISA animal to have an asshole.

John Priscella, Editor, BSU Arbiter
(reprinted from the BSU Arbiter)

(Editor's note: The U of I, having not paid ISA dues, is, of course, no longer a member. Since the U of I was the anus of the ISA, and since the anus of the ISA is no longer with the animal, certain bodily functions have necessarily been removed from the ISA animal. The logical conclusion is that without an anus to help carry on those bodily functions, the ISA has quickly become full of...)

Ever since I've been doing these columns for Betsy Brown when she has writer's block or too many term papers due or whatnot, I've been wanting to try out what it's like being a real reporter. Brown isn't a real reporter, she just types up her opinions and the Argonaut prints them. A real reporter actually goes out there on the street and gets the real facts.

So over Christmas vacation that's what I did. You see Brown invited me to go home to Philadelphia with her over Christmas. At first I didn't want to go because you know how the East Coast is - cockroaches in the halls and street gangs in the streets. But then I remembered the big argument that keeps going around in our dorm. Everyone who's from the west keeps talking about how ignorant the Easterners are and how they still think everyone out here are cowboys and goes around with six-shooters and stuff. And Betsy keeps saying they're exaggerating - nobody could be that stupid. I believed her, because city people are smart, and everyone knows that everything east of the Mississippi is one big city. Anyway, I figured here was my big chance to be a real-life reporter and discover the Truth.

Well, I went home with Betsy and while I was there I took a survey to see whether these Easterners really are as dumb as everyone says. I stood on a street-corner downtown and asked people what they knew about Idaho. (I didn't want my topic to be too broad like it would be if I asked them about the whole West).

The first guy I asked thought Idaho was a kind of potatoes they grow up in Maine. Then he changed his mind and said Idaho was the Indian Chief who defeated Custer at the Little Big Horn. He thought the whole battle was over whether or not the Indians got a fair price for Manhattan.

Well, I figured this was a fluke. Maybe this bimbo was a victim of police brutality as an adolescent and hasn't been the same ever since.

The next person I asked was some teenybopper who thought that Idaho was the ski resort where John Denver lives at in Colorado. You should've heard her go on about how wonderful Idaho is since it gives old John inspiration for all of his songs. I didn't know whether to laugh or to throw up.

But I figured no matter where you go you're bound to find a couple fruit loops. So I kept right on with my survey.

Next I asked some lady who seemed to know what she was talking about. She gave me the whole spiel about Idaho being a state in the western United States and how big it was and how many people it had and when it was admitted to the union. Just like an encyclopedia. So I asked her how she knew so much about Idaho, and she started in about some cousin of hers she said she has in Idaho who has a potato ranch and how they always herd the little potatoes around and how this cousin just got a new covered wagon with power steering and power brakes.

By this time I was sick of standing on the street corner.

Likes language

To the Editor:

I read with interest the editorial in the Argonaut of January 31, which presented your opinion about the reinstatement of the foreign language requirement for the B.S. degree.

As a student of foreign languages (five, more or less), I would like to present another side of the story. First, a foreign language is more than a list of word-equivalents for familiar objects and everyday actions. It is a reflection of a completely different perspective on oneself, other people, nature, and the supernatural. It is a means of opening the mind of the learner to the approaches of people of other cultures in dealing with the ancient problems of being human.

For example, to learn Spanish is to enter into the world of people who value feelings and human relationships above time and individualism. To learn Chinese is to participate in the lives of those who waste nothing, who use everything resourcefully, whether words, agricultural products or technology. To study Arabic is to be immersed in the culture of people for whom the spoken word is an artistic creation and an affirmation of the honor of the speaker.

I definitely agree with you that the world is growing smaller. It is a continual source of wonder to me that a person can be in Jakarta, Lagos, or Quito one day, and in Moscow, Idaho within 36 hours. And because of the increased contact with people of other language backgrounds, it is our east coast survey

It smelled like they ought to be getting ready to put out a pollution alert. Besides that, you could never tell when a mugger might turn up.

So I went back to Brown's house and tried to do my survey by phone. But I got discouraged after one phone call, because the only answer I got was heavy breathing on the other end of the line.

Anyway, these are the scientific facts as proved by my scientific survey. Obviously I did it just like a real reporter would. Easterners are more ignorant than anybody ever thought, although they're not Californians. And if I'd known that being a reporter was so exciting and adventurous, I would have tried it earlier.

obligation to go the extra mile in making our international relationships more comfortable by learning the language of our foreign guests.

Even though we may never leave the United States, for many of us, there will be a time when, on our home territory, we will discover the importance of being able to communicate in another language; the fifth-largest Spanish-speaking population in the world is in the United States; many critically important scientific documents are published originally in German, Russian, or French; the growth of multi-national corporations and the proliferation of overseas trade agreements demand a new sophistication from those whose economic interests depend on successful international communication; food production is a critical factor in the progress of every nation, and those concerned with it are seeing an increasing need for interdependence. I could list many more examples.

Language study is interesting, both because of the knowledge we gain about our own language, as the editorial stated, and, moreso, because of the new understanding and discoveries we make about other people and their systems of thought and behavior.

It is an adventure, an opportunity to open the doors of our minds to the appreciation of those who are different from us. Phyllis Van Horn, Instructor English As a Second Language Department of English

To the Editor:

It is difficult for me to begin a response to a letter that talks about moral decay, equating diseased people and criminals with homosexuals, and broadly labeling them "misfits." I read Mr. Singewald's letter (published in Friday's Argonaut) many times before I could discern his purpose. It was ambiguous phrases like "tender years of its people" (meaning children?), and "special pastime" (meaning sex?) that confused me. And the paragraphs concerning the venereal disease posters in Hartford, Connecticut during the war—"the big one"—, and the walls of the "Temples of Khajuraho" that were inserted, hoping to show further evidence of moral decadence, only succeeded in side-tracking me from the unsubstantiated point.

What interested me the most were Mr. Singewald's perceptions of the Gay Movement. First and foremost, I don't think he and I would ever come to a point of agreement simply because we disagree on the basis of his entire argument—the decay of society's morals. It's impossible for me to undertake a discussion on pornography, crime and corruption, and teenage prostitution in this short letter. There are too many variables concerning the rights of the people involved. Therefore, I will concentrate on homosexuality.

Obviously, Mr. Singewald doesn't understand the fight for the rights of homosexuals. The Gay movement's main purpose is to make people aware of their situation so they can bury the stereotype of being mentally ill or "abnormal." Once people are educated, they will stop condemning them, for hopefully they will learn to understand. Gay people are simply asking for the same rights as heterosexuals—to be accepted and left alone. When he said, "There will be no stopping them after getting legal protection," Mr. Singewald made it sound as if they were out to recruit, instead of to educate.

I suspect when Mr. Singewald talked about people being "clobbered," he meant that it sometimes seems as if we are bombarded with information about the Gay movement—information that hasn't been requested. But it is necessary for homosexuals to be constantly publicizing their fight for rights, and perhaps repeating themselves, it only shows that people are not willing to listen and try to comprehend the first time around.

As far as Anita Bryant and the Dade County decision goes, I believe that was one of the largest propaganda schemes I have ever witnessed. For a woman to present the Bible as proof of the rightness or wrongness of homosexuality is as irrational as using the Bible to tell us the place of Woman: "...and as the Church submits to Christ, so should wives to their husbands, in everything." Ephesians 5:24-25.

Finally, I wish to comment on Mr. Singewald's closing suppositions. Being gay is simply not a "Homo activity"—it is a lifestyle, just like heterosexuality. One's sexual preference is a statement about one's values and beliefs. More importantly, to say that it is an insult to anyone is to assume that it concerns anyone else. Sexual preference is an individual's right, to be respected.

Homosexuality is not an "unhealthy state of mind." To judge homosexuality is. Chris Mroczek

Betsy support

To the Editor,

Betsy Brown has been criticized before, and she always defends her critics' rights to their opinions.

In the Jan. 27 issue of the Arg. however, Ms. Brown was unfairly and down-right wrongly accused of being the direct cause of the "notorious failure of innovative education." She was impersonally labeled as a "pseudo-liberal intellectual," a class which is "notorious for complaining, crying, wringing their hands and precious little else."

This letter was donated to society by a Mr. Ron Yankey, who introduces himself as a former student-earth shaker from way back in '68, who has returned to bless us with his wisdoms.

In all fairness to Mr. Yankey, his letter was well written and did make a few very good points. But his attack on Betsy was uncalled for and, in my opinion, unjust.

Betsy is far from the whimpering leech Mr. Yankey portrayed her as. She takes an active involvement in things around her and has a genuine concern for people. The column Mr. Yankey refers to was written, I am sure, as the result of her concern for some close friends.

Betsy Brown is not a saint, and she frequently comes up with some ideas that are a little off track. But she is certainly not as Mr. Yankey described her.

You really have pegged

Betsy Brown wrong, Mr. Yankey. Maybe you should do a little more research. More bluntly, Ron, "LESS TALK, MORE ACTION." Beth Goff

To the Unsigned-letter Writer,

We are sorry to say that we are unable to print your letter because it was unsigned. We did, however, call Donna Granville at the Women's Center on campus to find out what you want to know.

You may contact the Northwest Gay People's Alliance by writing to P. O. Box 8758, Moscow. All letters and personal contact with the group is confidential, we have been assured. Also, there will be a meeting of the NWGPA in Pullman in room 224 of the Compton Union Building at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and if you would like to go, you can catch a ride by being at the Women's Center at 7 p.m.

As for counseling, if you are a student, you can get free and confidential help at the Student Counseling Center on campus, 885-6716. If you are not a student, you can go to the office of Mental Health Services in Moscow, 106 E. 3rd St., 882-0562. There is, however, a sliding scale of charges for services.

Pro-languages

To the Editor,

I must take strong exception to the editorial on language requirements in Tuesday's Argonaut. The view that foreign languages are no longer necessary in a rapidly changing world is short-sighted and ultimately detrimental to our own society as well as to our relationships with the world.

There is much evidence today that indicates that the typical college education has been diluted to the point where the B.A. or B.S. is not worth much at all. The original concept of a liberal arts education, that of preparing people for meaningful and responsible participation in a free society, has rapidly lost ground to a shallow, pragmatic notion of unlimited free electives or tight inflexible technical curricula. Our educational goals can be accomplished only by a broadly-based curriculum in the humanities, social sciences, and the natural sciences.

A knowledge of foreign languages is an integral part of such an education. The fact that world communication is more and more done in one language is certainly no excuse for giving up language requirements. None of us should be too proud of the fact that English is a "universal" language primarily because of British and American imperialism. That imperialism still continues in the form of Europeans, Asians, and Africans learning English as a foreign language in order to accommodate us. Your editorial implies that language requirements are OK for all those who don't speak our language.

I have more and more juniors and seniors in my classes that have never heard of Goethe or Thomas Mann, of Jean-Paul Sartre or Proust, of Cervantes or Unamuno, or Virgil or Homer. This makes me very sad and depressed. Nicholas Gier

Faculty group has free concert

The U of I Faculty Chamber Ensemble will play a varied program of music by the three "M's"—Milhaud, Mendelssohn and Mozart—in a free concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 16, at the Music Building Recital Hall.

The program includes "Suite for Violin, Clarinet and Piano" by Darius Milhaud, featuring Stephen Folks, violinist, Floyd Peterson, clarinetist and Richard Neher, pianist. The other works are a string quartet by Felix Mendelssohn, featuring Folks, Robert Burroughs, violinist, LeRoy Bauer, violist, and William Wharton, cellist; and "Quintet for Clarinet and String Quartet" by Wolfgang Mozart, with Folks, Burroughs, Bauer, Wharton and Peterson.

All the musicians are members of the U of I music faculty and all the string players are members of the U of I Kennard Artists.

Peterson said the work by Milhaud is "a light piece featuring various solo and ensemble qualities of violin, clarinet and piano." Parts of the composition present Milhaud's interest in jazz as an influence on modern music.

The Mozart work is "one of the first, of the works to combine the clarinet as an instrument to be featured with stringed instruments."

The concert is open to the public.

Brown bag it!

Brown bag noon programs on Tuesdays and Wednesdays at the Women's Center on Line St. will start for the second semester on Feb. 7 with a program, "No, I don't teach here—I'm a student."

This first program will deal with older women returning to school. Other programs throughout February will include building your own house, women in Libya, International women, Song to the Diving Androgyne, and a reading by author and poet, Marge Piercy.

The noon programs take place in an informal atmosphere where participants are encouraged to bring a lunch. The programs have been quite successful in the past, said Donna Granville, Director of the Women's Center.

From Myth to Choice: Toward a vision of androgyny, a special symposium will be held March 10, 11 and 12. The symposium is sponsored by the Women's Center.

MEDICAL DEDUCTIONS WORTH STUDY
by H&R Block

Most taxpayers are aware they are entitled to deductions for certain medical expenses if they itemize on their income tax returns but many overlook changes and additions made from time to time by the IRS.

According to H&R Block, the income tax preparation service the cost of insurance premiums for damage or loss of contact lenses is now deductible.

Also, two other recently approved deductions include the cost of vasectomies and legal abortions even though these were not performed to improve the health of the individual or as part of general medical treatment for an illness.

Uncle Sam also allows a medical deduction for acupuncture services, patient costs at a treatment center for drug addiction or alcoholism, including meals and lodging, and expenses for false teeth and artificial limbs, eye glasses, hearing aids, crutches and guide dogs for the blind or deaf.

A deaf person is also allowed to deduct the cost and maintenance of a special telephone device which permits him to communicate over the phone by means of a converted teletype system.

In addition, persons who are donors of body organs such as kidneys or eyes are allowed to deduct all related surgical, hospital and transportation expenses.

Taxpayers should be aware however, of many medical costs which are not allowed as deductions. H&R Block adds. Some examples are nonprescribed vitamins, health foods and diet pills, trips for rest and relaxation and toothpaste—even if recommended by your dentist.

Longer skits hurt Duck's Breath performance

by Andrew Brundage

Duck's Breath Mystery Theatre didn't exactly lay an egg Sunday night at Hartung Theatre but the performance was a little scrambled.

Playing to a half-capacity crowd, Duck's Breath got its comedy show off to a rousing start with a succession of quick-paced routines.

Included was a fast-talking magician with plenty of planted tricks up his sleeve; an excellent slow motion mime of a tennis game, with one of the Ducks as the tennis ball; a spaced-out non-guitar-playing folk singer named Randy of the Redwoods who sang about Roy Rogers, Dale Evans and Trigger while accompanying himself on hammered knees, and the life story of Branigan the Badger, a cartoon character with a Barbara Walters' speech impediment.

The first half of the show ended with a take-off on the detective story theme. Duck's Breath jammed every private eye cliché possible into its skit with hilarious variations on the theme.

The quick change costumes the comedians wore - apparently fished from the bottom of the barrel at a Goodwill store or salvaged from last year's Halloween rejects - also added to the entertainment.

Something was missing in the second half of the show, however, as Duck's Breath attempted to switch from short skits to a "full length feature."

The idea of condensing the Bible (the Duck's version of it) into dramatized Cliff's Notes was a great idea but the actual performance seemed to lack cohesiveness.

There were flashes of inspired humor - a Jewish Pharaoh; "The Guy" (God) giving "Mo" (Moses) the Ten Suggestions (suggestion No. 1: "If you don't see it, ask") - but by the end of the skit everyone seemed to have had enough.

Kansas key is in variety

The latest creation of Kansas, "Point of Know Return," is an inspired combination of moving lyrics, interesting harmony and instrumentation, and sophisticated rhythms.

In "Paradox," the lyrics deal with a young man's having seen it all and wanting to see more. In this piece, the violin work of Robby Steinhart blends nicely with the electric bass, electric organ and drums, as they expertly maneuver their way through difficult passages.

The "Closet Chronicles" is about a once-powerful leader who withdrew into his own world and eventually died. About midway through the number is a lengthy instrumental interlude which is an electronic masterpiece in itself.

"Lightning's Hand" moves along in a driving six-eight rhythm, which is a common idiom for Kansas. The lyrics personify the lightning as an evil force, which seems fitting for this rather ominous-sounding song.

How Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics gives you a competitive edge in school.

School at any level means reading . . . lots of it. Keeping up with thousands of pages can take a heavy toll in time and energy, and grades. If you're typical, you read 150 to 350 words a minute. But how do you get ahead of the rest?

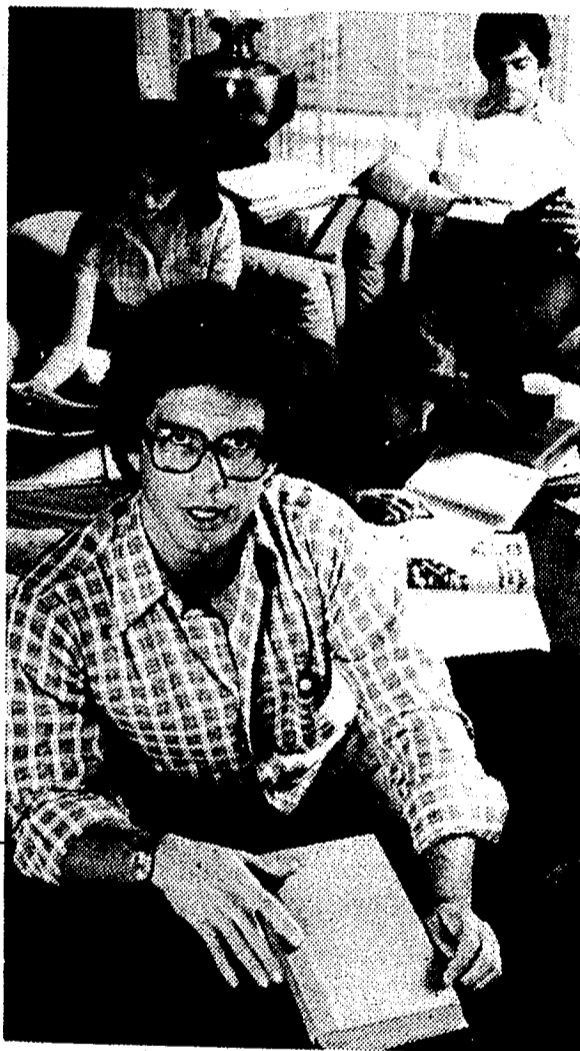

Evelyn Wood can triple your reading rate and improve your comprehension and study skills.

Hundreds of thousands of students use the Reading Dynamics Method. They find reading less of a chore. Concentration and retention improve, which can lead to better grades. A competitive edge is important . . . too important for you to delay.

Prove it to yourself today!

Whether you're thinking of grad school or the job market, or if you want to keep up with course reading today, let Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics give you a competitive edge.

In fact Evelyn Wood guarantees that you will triple your reading rate if you follow the course correctly, or your full tuition refunded. That's our competitive edge.

A different movie title appears on this marquis at least once a week. Variety is the mainstay of a small theatre like the Micro that must compete with large theatres in the same area. Photo by Phil Baechler.

Micro in the land of giants

by Phil Baechler

Catering primarily to a student audience, the Micro Cinema in Moscow might be characterized as a midget in the land of the giants.

With a mere 130 seats, this small theater, once a Seventh Day Adventist church, operates in an area with four much larger theaters: the Kenworthy and NuArt in Moscow and the Audian and Cordova in Pullman.

How is a small operation like this able to operate around larger organizations? One reason is variety. The Micro shows two films a week, with a three- or four-day run, compared with the larger theaters' longer runs of two or more weeks.

Another reason is ticket costs. The Micro's $1.75 admission is a bit more affordable to the student pocketbook.

Ever since they bought the Micro in December of 1976, Jack and Elaine Clark have tried to operate with one watchword that has brought success so far: variety.

With over 100 films each year, there would seem to be little trouble providing that variety, but Jack Clark says that the movie business has changed a lot in the 70's.

"Studios are making fewer films now than they used to," said Clark. "Where they used to make 50 films a year, they only make maybe 10 now."

One reason for this is that many films are now made for television, Clark said.

With fewer films in circulation, one of the problems the Micro faces is booking films when they want them. A recent example is Annie Hall, Woody Allen's latest film. It was booked to appear at the Micro this month, but was removed from circulation preceding this year's Academy Awards.

Films are sometimes removed from circulation for other reasons too, such as being scheduled on T.V. Sometimes when a movie is printed in advance on the Micro's schedules and is later replaced, Clark gets complaints from patrons, but customers are predominantly satisfied with the fare offered, he said.

Many of the films that are scheduled are requests, said Clark. There is a suggestion box for requests at the theater, and Clark said that even if they are unable to get every film that is requested, they notice trends in taste.

Some films do better than others at the box office, sometimes surprisingly so. Lady Sings the Blues was a recent success, as was Little Big Man. Other films don't live up to expectations, he noted, such as Jaws.

Who are the best stars in terms of appeal? Woody Allen and Bogart are two of the most consistently popular, said Clark. Others include Monty Python, Sherlock Holmes flicks, Kris Kristofferson and Jeff Bridges.

Clark said that he gets a lot of satisfaction from meeting people and getting their responses.

"One of my biggest kicks was recently, following a showing of the 3-D flick," said Clark. "A little kid was coming out of the theater with his glasses on after the film and he told me 'gee, that was exciting!'"

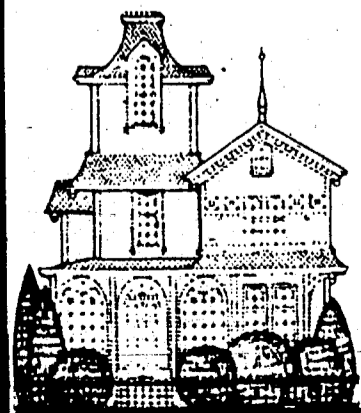

That's the name of the game when you're a Micro in the land of the giants: variety and customer satisfaction.

Rebounds, top scorers prove fatal for Idaho over weekend

A rough and tumble road trip took its toll last weekend as Idaho dropped two games, 81-68 to Montana Friday night in Missoula, and 66-59 at the hands of Montana State Saturday.

The two league losses effectively shoved the Vandals into last place in Big Sky conference standings, as they fell to a 4-15 season, while 1-6 in league play.

"We've never played well at Montana State since I've been here," said coach Jim Jarvis of Idaho after the Saturday game. "We lost our motion and didn't do a good job on the boards." Idaho was throttled 52-39 in team rebounds.

MSU got a taste of revenge after a 91-84 loss to Idaho a week before in Moscow. Four Bobcats, led by scoring ace Craig Finberg, ended up in double figures.

But it wasn't all MSU's game as Idaho came back from a ten-point deficit at the half to score 18 points to the Bobcat's three to spark a second-half lead.

The magic was to wear off. The Vandals couldn't control Finberg and with less than nine minutes to play the Montanans regained the lead and a little respect in league standings. It was their second 'Sky win this season.

Friday's game was a virtual repeat of the game held in the dome a week earlier as Michael Richardson came out shooting for the Grizzlies, earning 28 points and eight rebounds.

"It seemed like every time we'd get the score cut down on them, we'd take a shot when we should have waited for a better one," lamented Jarvis.

Even so the Vandals came up with a respectable 49 percent from the field. Four Idaho players earned double figures, including Terry Gredler and Reed Jaussi, both with 16.

This weekend cager action continues as Idaho plays host to cross-state rivals Boise State at 8 p.m. Friday and Idaho State, current Big Sky leader, on Saturday.

Co-ed double dual goes to Vandals

Idaho's first home swim meet of the season turned into an easy romp as Linda DeMeyer swept three freestyle races, while Mark Nordquist and Steve Cobb earned two firsts each to lead the Vandals to wins over Whitman and Whitworth colleges here Saturday.

The coed double dual belonged to Idaho as the women beat out Whitman 82-55 and Whitworth 98-33. The men's team score was just as convincing as they won 77-24 over Whitman and thrashed Whitworth 81-11.

DeMeyer, a freshman from Olympia, Wash., was a triple winner in the 500, 200, and 100 frees. Nordquist led the field in the 500 free by 30 seconds and 1:51.72 was good enough for a 200 freestyle win. Cobb took firsts in the 200 back and 200 medley.

Even though they had "a little trouble getting started," women's coach John DeMeyer was pleased with his athletes as they won ten firsts out of 16 events.

"Our times are dropping with every meet," he said.

In the men's arena, nine firsts went to the Vandals out of 13 possible, but men's coach Chet Hall noted that this Saturday's home meet against Puget Sound will be a question mark for his club.

"UPS will be a real test for us. They'll give us all the competition we want and a little bit more."

Basketball action features women's Palouse battle

After a "painful loss" Saturday to Central Washington State University, the U of I women's basketball team resumes action tonight against WSU.

The 5-4 Idaho women will meet palouse rival WSU in the Women's Health Education Building at 7:30 p.m. Junior varsity action begins at 5:30 p.m. as a preliminary to the varsity game.

"WSU is tough. I think we'll see a different style of ball game than we saw before Christmas," U of I Coach Bonnie Hultstrand said, referring to the 70-50 defeat the Vandals suffered at the hands of the Cougars.

Hultstrand expects WSU to change to a faster-paced ball game rather than the slow-down type offense they used before Christmas. The Cougars also have a lot of height under the basket, she said, adding that they have three or four players six-foot tall or taller.

"I feel that we have a good chance but we'll have to play 40 minutes of good ball," Hultstrand said. Washington also uses a full-court zone press but Hultstrand feels "confident that it won't give us any problems."

Saturday night's game was an exact replay of the Jan. 28 match-up between the Vandals and CWSU.

In a "very physical" game the Vandals again met defeat at the hands of the Central players, 60-58. Jean Hayman Chamberlain lead the U of I squad with 23 points.

Willis bounds to EWU victory in triple jump

Three men from the U of I placed at the Eastern Washington University track meet in Cheney, Feb. 4.

Claude DeFour, running unattached, placed second in the 300 meters at 36 seconds flat. Steve Willson, placed second in the 800 meters at 1:59. Mike Willis won the triple jump at 46 feet and 5 inches. The next meet is the U of I Intercollegiate meet at the Kibbie Dome, Feb. 18, at 9:30 a.m.

HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD LOWER TAX BRACKET

by H&R Block

A specific tax filing status called Head of Household is often overlooked by eligible taxpayers who can receive special tax benefits if they qualify.

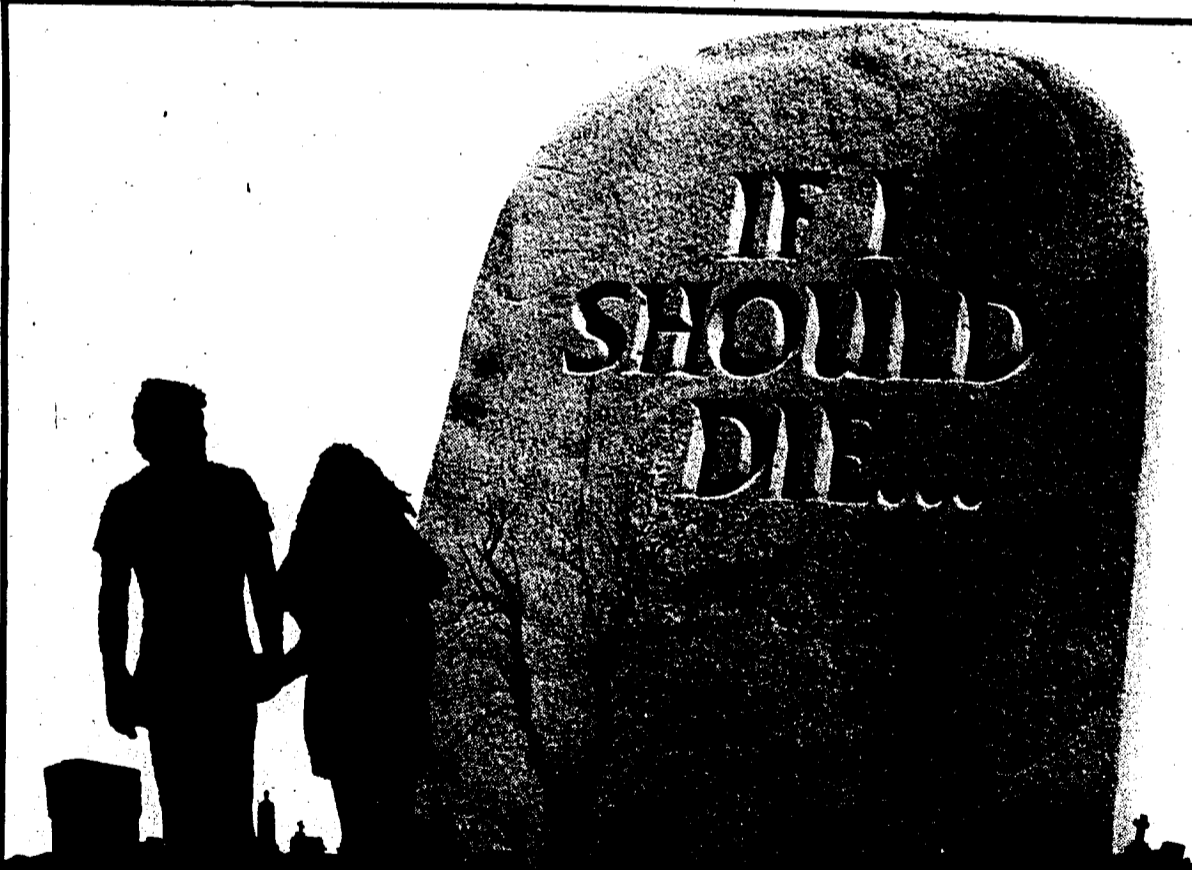

H&R Block, the tax service, reports the most common examples of taxpayers who qualify as Head of Household are widows and widowers, and divorced or legally separated parents who are providing a home for a son or daughter and who are furnishing more than half the cost of maintaining that home. The child, however, must reside in the home for the entire year.

Such circumstances as temporary absences due to illness, school, or vacation will not deprive the taxpayer of the Head of Household status. The important point is that the parent must continue to maintain that household during the child's absence.

Household maintenance—again for which you must furnish more than half the cost—includes such expenditures as property taxes, mortgage interest, utility charges, rent, upkeep and repairs, domestic help, property insurance and food. You cannot include the cost of clothing, education, medical treatment, vacations, life insurance or transportation.

Situations that will disqualify you as Head of Household occur when a child leaves home to "try it on his own for awhile" or leaves home during the summer to take a job even though he intends to return home to resume school.

In the case of divorced parents where the child lives with the mother for part of the year and the father the remaining months neither parent can qualify as Head of Household because of the requirement that the child reside in the taxpayer's home for the entire year.

Seattle, Montana challenge gymnasts in home opener

The first home meet of the season awaits the U of I women's gymnastics team when they face Seattle University and Montana State Saturday, Feb. 11.

The meet, scheduled for 1 p.m., will be held in the Women's Health Education Building main gymnasium. Friday the gymnasts will give an exhibition during halftime of the men's basketball game against Boise State.

"We have been on the road since we started our season so it will be nice to have a home meet," coach Judi Haas said. "We have several gymnasts qualified for regional competition and others that need another six or better score to make regionals. The rest from travel might put them over the top.

Last week the U of I women travelled to Missoula for a meet with Montana, WSU, and Montana State. The Idaho team took third with 94.24 points. UM took first with 112.37, followed by WSU at 97.47 and fourth went to MSU with 79.91.

Cindy Bidart, a freshman from Winnemucca, Nev., took second in floor with 7.1 and Sue Hawk, a freshman from Moscow, took third with 6.97. On vault, Leslie Miller, a freshman from Boise, took third with 7.63 and Sue Williams, a freshman from Boise, took fourth with 7.53. Bidart also took fifth in all-around at 23.79.

Bowlers roll against WSU

The U of I women's bowling team will face WSU's team at 4 p.m. tonight, at the SUB. It is a "tune-up match" for the Association of College Unions International regional tournament in Missoula, Feb. 10 and 11, said coach Kathy Clark.

Lori Townsend, Sue Romig, Cris Rice, and Linda Dartsch are on the U of I bowling team. Fighting for the last spot are Chris Britt and Penny Hathaway.

Area schools' campus champions compete at the ACUI tournament in bowling, billiards, foosball, table tennis and chess.

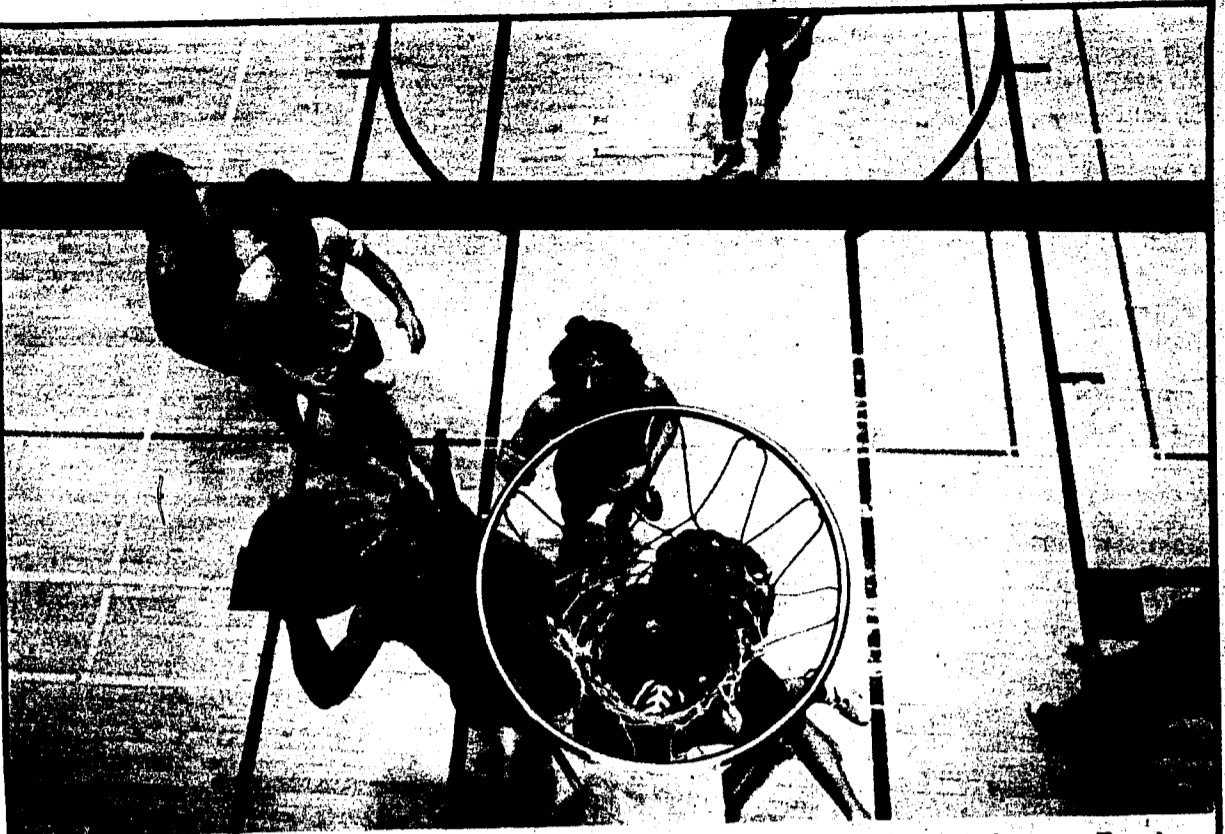

If the Idaho team wins in Missoula, it will go to a roll-off with the western champs at Boise in April. The winner there gets an all-expense paid trip to Florida for the national finals.

Older students talk problems

Problems of older students returning to school will lead off the spring semester

Movie on death comes to SUB

"If I should die..." an elaborate and highly unusual 45-minute multi-media presentation, will be shown Feb. 8 and 9 in the SUB Ballroom at 7 and 8 p.m.

Emblazoned on a huge 36-foot triplex screen, "If I should die..." utilizes special lighting effects with more than 700 images flashing from six synchronized projection units.

The major accompanying music from Blood, Sweat and Tears, Bloodrock, Black Sabbath and others, carries a powerful message regarding the meaning of life...death...and beyond.

Brown bag it!

There will be a women's athletic staff "brown bag" luncheon meeting in the Conference Room of the Women's Health Education Building tomorrow at noon.

Topics for discussion will include auditions, scholarships, travel procedures and budgets.

schedule of noon discussions today at the U of I Women's Center.

Isabel Miller, an older student returning to school, will give a talk entitled "No, I Don't Teach Here—I'm a Student" at noon on Tuesday, Feb. 7. She will discuss how "pupil personnel" can help make a student's educational experiences as positive and successful as possible.

Tomorrow Alayne Hannaford, Jenifer Klindt and Sharon Araji, all of Moscow, will give a program on "Women in Libya." They will use slides from their recent trip to illustrate their discussion about the impact constitutional equality has had on Libyan women, their status positions, expectations and changes in lifestyles.

Marlene Adrian, a member of the WSU physical education faculty, will give a program on 'Building your own home' at noon Feb. 14. She is in the process of constructing her home.

There will be celebration of Susan B. Anthony's birthday at noon Feb. 15 with songs and readings and a birthday cake.

The programs are open without charge

President and Mrs. Gibb, special guests at the Foreign Student Potluck in the Galena Room of the SUB Saturday night, sample foreign foods with Philippine exchange-teacher Rita Mata, who later performed a dance from her native land. After the potluck foreign students and friends held a business meeting, at which they ratified the constitution of a new campus organization. Photo by N. K. Hoffman.

Foreign group ratifies constitution

The Organization of International Communities of the U of I (OICUI) ratified its constitution with amendments at a business meeting following the Foreign Student Potluck Saturday night.

The OICUI aims to "bring the international communities together for the promotion of educational, social, cultural, and civic activities," according to its constitution.

The Foreign Students Potluck was the first OICUI activity. Potluck participants cooked and ate foods from Sudan, Korea, Vietnam, the Philippines, and other countries.

Dr. Elton Graves, a mathematics professor from WSU gave a slide show on the Philippine Islands, and Pullman exchange teacher Rita Mata performed a Philippine dance called a 'curacha.'

One of the drafters of the constitution, Manuel Manuel (Philippines), said OICUI intends to hold more activities like the potluck with a different culture highlighted at each.

U of I President Richard Gibb, a special guest at the dinner, encouraged foreign students in their intent to form the organization.

"I wish we could learn to get along with each other all over the world," he said. "Creating this organization will represent a step in that direction."

Gibb arrived at dinner an hour late. He claimed "those kidnapers kept me hostage too long."

Membership in the OICUI is open to everyone. Foreign students are considered automatic members unless they choose otherwise. Others may join as associate members. Membership fees were set at $5 annually.

OICUI officer positions were outlined, but no one was elected.

Conservation group takes trips

"Playing in the woods, cross country skiing, and sitting around the fireplace" are among activities planned for an Idaho Conservation League outing this weekend to Washington's Fields Spring State Park.

The lodge at Puffer Butte near the Grande Ronde River has been reserved for participants in the Friday-Sunday outing. The trip will cost $15 per person for ICL members, $20 for non-members and $7.50 for children 12 and under, according to an ICL release.

Participants are asked to bring beverages and dinner for Friday, sleds, warm clothes and complete bedding gear.

CHILD CARE CREDIT FOR WORKING PARENTS
by H&R Block

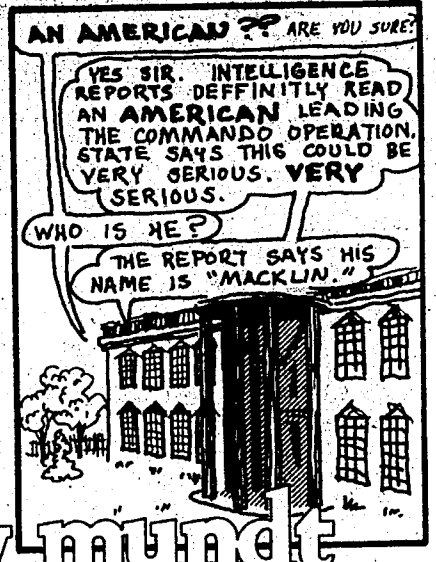

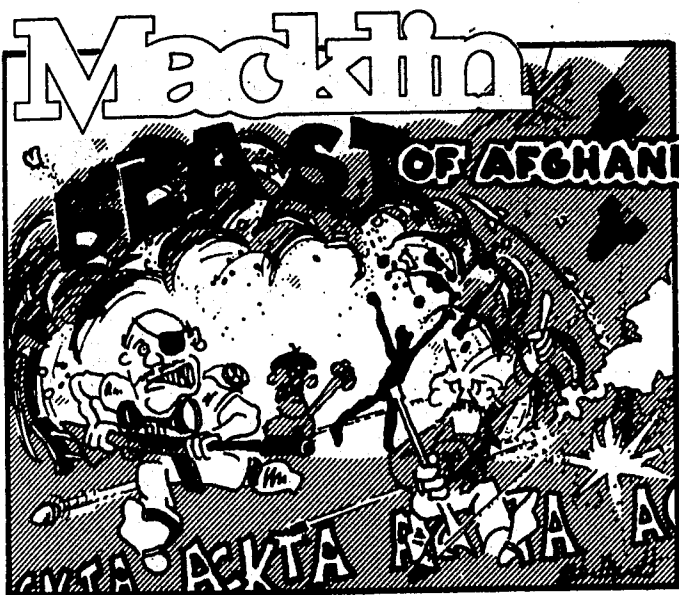

A substantial credit is available on the tax returns of working people who have to pay child care expenses in order to be gainfully employed.

The rules allow a credit of up to $800 for child care along with other employment related costs incurred in the taxpayer's home.

"Employment related" refers to costs for a maid or household services performed such as those of a babysitter.

The amount of expenses which may be taken into account for purposes of the credit may not exceed $2,000 for one qualifying individual or $4,000 for two or more qualifying individuals. The amount of expenses which may be taken into account for purposes of the credit may not exceed the taxpayer's earned income (or the lesser of the taxpayer's or his spouse's earned income if married). The credit is equal to 20 percent of such expenses.

Child care expenses can only be claimed for dependent children under 15 years of age, with the exception of older children who are mentally or physically incapacitated (or expenses for a taxpayer's disabled spouse or spouse who is a full-time student).

Palouse adults build single club

If you are a single adult seeking the opportunity to get together with other single adults, then the Palouse Area Singles Group may be what you're looking for.

The PASG was formed in November by people of the Moscow-Pullman area who felt a need for a singles group in the area.

According to Mary Stockton, media publicist for the group, a "single" is anyone who is divorced, separated, not married or whose mate is deceased.

Piano classes will begin

So, you always wanted to learn to play the piano. Well, here's your chance—a U of I Continuing Education beginning piano class starting Tuesday.

Two sessions of beginning piano for adults will be offered at 6:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday evening for 15 weeks.

The group piano instruction uses the electronic keyboard laboratory facilities in room 118 of the U of I Music Building to teach note reading, basic keyboard theory, individualized repertoire, sight reading and multi-key reading.

A beginning piano class for children will be offered from 6:30-7:30 p.m. Thursdays, beginning Feb. 9 at the same location.

Colleen Sudderth, U of I graduate student in music education, will be the instructor.

There will be a $30 fee and those eligible may earn college credit. Classes will be limited to 12 students, with a minimum of seven students necessary for a class session to be offered.

MAGIC MUSHROOM

6th and Main - Moscow

Open 7-days 882-8569

Pilot ground class offered by continuing ed.

A ground school for private pilots will be offered through the U of I Office of Continuing Education beginning Tuesday, Feb. 14.

The class will meet from 7-10 p.m. each Tuesday through May 9 at the U of I Navy Building on Line St.

The instructor, Mel Hirschi, is a former U. S. Navy flight instructor who holds a commercial pilot's license in addition to having 6800 hours of pilot flight time. He has taught three previous private pilot ground schools at the university.

Students completing the course should be able to pass the written portion of the Federal Aeronautics Administration private pilot certification test. The "Pilot's Handbook of Aeronautical Knowledge" will be used as the text and is included in the $40 tuition fee.

Students will need an E 6 B computer, or an equivalent approved by the instructor, and a plotter. The approximate cost for new equipment is $18. Students may make arrangements to acquire the equipment during the first class session.

Interested persons should contact the U of I Office of Continuing Education for more information and to pre-register.

Openings exist in varied classes

It is not too late to sign up for U of I classes in painting and bookbinding, according to Susan Burcaw, director of Continuing Education.

Two other classes will be meeting for the first time Tuesday and Thursday, and there are openings in both of them as well. A job interview skills workshop and a course on life choices for women begin next week.

"Tom Jenness really does an excellent job with the job interview skills class he teaches," she said, "and I think it is of real value to someone finishing career training to learn how to prepare a resume and how to sell himself or herself to a potential employer."

HELP STARVE A FEEDING BUREAUCRAT.

Center for the Defense of Free Enterprise

Each year, you pay about 45% of your income to local, state and federal government in taxes. Every dollar you earn from January through June goes to feed the bureaucrats.

And what do you get? More taxes and more regulations. Stifling regulations and taxes that drive prices up.

And government regulations often make more people poor. The minimum wage, for example, puts young people and minorities out of work. After all, would you rather be employed at $2.25 an hour, or unemployed at $2.65 an hour?

We're concerned about these problems and many others. We believe that less government, not more, is the answer. Free people working together freely can accomplish more than millions of federal bureaucrats telling you what to do with your life.

The free enterprise system built the prosperity we have today. The government bureaucrats didn't achieve this property. People in a free marketplace did.

We believe that America must return to the free enterprise system now. We're the Center for the Defense of Free Enterprise and we're working to lower taxes, eliminate unnecessary government regulations and undertake programs to educate people on the free enterprise system.

If you've ever complained about high taxes, high prices or annoying bureaucrats, but didn't know what to do, just write us. Together we can work to restore the free enterprise system.

Join our drive to cut the bloat out of government. And help starve a feeding bureaucrat.

I'm tired of the bureaucrats and their regulations. I'm tired of high taxes and I want to help starve a feeding bureaucrat.

Please send me more information on how I can help.

It's about time. Enclosed is my tax deductible contribution to help starve a feeding bureaucrat. $ _____
