Two administrators resign

by Marty Trillhaase

U of I academics vice-president Robert Coonrod has resigned from that post, effective August 20, President Richard Gibb announced Friday.

Gibb also accepted the resignation of Carolyn Cron Ogden as director of university relations. The resignation is effective August 30.

Gibb announced the formation of a search committee for a new vice-president, but he added he does not intend to replace Ogden.

Funds budgeted for the position will be transferred to academics, Gibb said.

Gibb made the announcements during a press conference.

Coonrod will remain at the U of I as a history professor. He had requested that position.

In his resignation letter, Coonrod noted the move "comes as no sudden decision on my part." He added he had indicated his interest in teaching at the university two years ago. That letter was dated April 3.

Ogden had apparently submitted an undated letter of resignation several months ago. "I have always felt that it is very important for a new chief officer to be able to select the staff that works most closely with him," Ogden wrote. She submitted a formal resignation last week. Ogden, whose husband is expected to finish his doctoral work at WSU this summer, added she is leaving Moscow. Gibb said he is not considering any further administration personnel changes at this time. "I know of none at all," he said. But "year to year" changes can not be predicted, Gibb added.

Gibb noted three dean positions remain unfilled. Candidates for dean of the law school, grad school and college of business have rejected U of I offers.

Gibb noted money may have entered in the candidates' decisions. But he added other factors entered into it.

"We don't rank in the top 25 states" in terms of salaries, Gibb said. But he added, "Many will sacrifice some salary to work here."

The president outlined three reasons for the rejections—money, family and negative feelings for the institution. Gibb said one candidate for the Business helm rejected the offer due to misgiving towards living in Moscow. "He felt that he'd have far more opportunities in New York. I think he may have underestimated his opportunities in Idaho," Gibb said.

Gibb said the candidate for law dean rejected the offer for family reasons.

The candidate for graduate dean rejected in order to remain at New Mexico State University, Gibb said.

The search committees in each case recommended against accepting the second choice candidates, Gibb said. Those committees will meet with him next week to discuss new plans, he added.

Gibb also gave the 1978 Idaho legislature high marks. "I did not find hostility present," he said. "I think we got a fair shake."

The president noted the university received less state revenue than needed. Gibb added the legislature is faced with less revenue than desirable. But the possibility of increased state revenue brought on by increased taxes is slim, he said.

The U of I received an eight percent budget increase. Gibb called it "moderate" but added some state institutions are faring worse. Based on incomplete national statistics, the U of I increase could be slightly above the national average, Gibb said.

The increase "enables us to hold our own and inch forward slightly," Gibb added.

Gibb also announced a Vice Presidential Search Committee. Members include Dr. Elmer Raunio, dean of Letters and Science; Dr. John Ehrenreich, dean of forestry; Dr. Warren Owens, dean of instruction services and library director; Roland O. Byers, professor of general engineering; Dr. Elizabeth Stevenson, Faculty Council chairman; Dr. Paul R. Dierker, professor of mathematics; Dr. Steven Davis, Faculty Council vice-chairman; Norman Vieira, professor of law; Dr. Judith George, associate professor of educational administration; C. Randall Byers, associate professor of statistics and management; Dr. C. Jack Smylie, associate dean College of Mines; and ASUI President Bob Harding; and a student named by him.

Coonrod has held the vice presidential post for nine years.

University responds to suit

The U of I has formally submitted its response to a complaint filed by injured student Godwill Otokhine.

Otokhine is asking $134,336 in damages as a result of injuries he sustained in a gymnastics course last year.

The defendants in the case, the Board of Regents and gymnastics instructor Charles Thompson, filed a response last week denying every allegation made by Otokhine.

The defendants charge Otokhine's injury was due to his own negligence. They charge Otokhine knowingly assumed risk of injury when enrolling in the class.

The defendants also charged:

-Otokhine failed to file a "timely" complaint as required by Chapter 6, Title 9, Idaho Code.

-Otokhine is not entitled to claim reasonable punitive damages by reason of Idaho Code 6-918. That act provides punitive damages can not be assessed against a government agency or its employees. Otokhine is asking $20,000 in punitive damages.

-"Complaint and each count thereof, fails to state a claim against the defendants or any of them, upon which relief can be granted."

The university and Thompson are requesting case dismissal and attorney's fees.

The university's action came within one day of a deadline set by Otokhine's attorney, Lynn Farnsworth.

Otokhine broke his neck during a trampoline exercise last May. The injury required him to spend 26 days in a hospital and four months in a neck brace.

Otokhine filed his complaint in mid-January.

Special Olympics meet scheduled for this weekend

Over 100 mentally retarded children will be on campus Saturday for the regional Special Olympics meet, according to Peggy Spofford of Delta Delta Delta, sponsor of the local event.

The Special Olympics provide daily and weekly athletic training programs for retarded children in addition to the more than 15,000 community, area, regional and national games.

Most of the youngsters participating in the regional meet Saturday will also compete in the state meet in Pocatello next month, Spofford said.

Events of the meet will include the 50 yard dash, two mile run, soft ball throw, horse shoe throw, wheel chair race, log roll and crutch race. The meet will begin at 9 a.m. on the outdoor track behind the Kibbie Dome. The public is invited to attend, Spofford said.

The objective of the Special Olympics program is to create opportunities for sports training and athletic competition for all retarded children.

"The mentally retarded may not be able to do everything normal children can but they have a right to try. They know what they are missing. They know especially when they are missing the fun of play...or competition...of success," a release quoted Eunice Kennedy Shriver of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Foundation. The foundation founded the Special Olympics.

Fewer than 1,000 mentally retarded children took part in the first Special Olympic Games in Chicago in 1968. Now 300,000 are involved both in year-round training programs and in local, state and national games.

The regional meet was held in Orofino last year and state was in Boise, Spofford said.

Greek Week revives old tradition

The Greeks are reviving an old tradition April 24-28; for the first time in five years, U of I fraternities and sororities will celebrate Greek Week.

"We are going to get everyone together to have a good time and to get something worthwhile done," said Mark Mustoe, chairman. "We are going to let people on campus know the Greeks are organized. We are going to work together and get to know each other and make money for a charity."

A shirt and pin day will start the week. On Tuesday, Irving Field, national president of Acacia Fraternity, will evaluate national trends of fraternities and sororities at 7 p.m. in the Borah Theatre. Workshops to help house officers will follow his talk.

The next evening Ratskellers will host a Greek night 8:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. with a dance contest and foosball tourney. A quarter of the $1 cover will be donated to charity. Also on Wednesday is an awards banquet at 5:30 in the SUB ballroom.

Houses will compete against each other Thursday in an All-Greek Olympiad. A pyramid contest and decathlon relay will be featured.

Greek Week activities will culminate with a street dance behind the Gamma Phi house from 8:30 p.m. to 12 a.m. Friday.

According to Mustoe, "If all goes well, we're sure going to make Greek Week an annual event here."

Turtle derby raises money

Fast runners, slow runners and some who didn't run at all—that is how 18 turtles looked Saturday at the U of I as they raced to raise nearly $1,000 for the Mountain States Tumor Institute of Boise.

Steve Ohms, Phi Delta Theta fraternity public relations officer, said a crowd of "at least 500 people" attended the annual race which was held during Parents' Weekend.

Ohms said Gamma Phi Beta sorority raised the most money for the event, turning in about $800.

In one of the early heats of the derby, Rocky, the Olesen Hall turtle, set a new turtle race record of eight seconds.

In one final event, turtles from Phi Delta Theta and The Perch, a campus grocery, were pitted against two hares and a rat. The rat, entered by Beta Theta Pi, treated the race in a "ho hum" manner. He just sat there. That race was won by an enterprising hare entered by Phi Gamma Delta, who galloped around the course three times before crossing the finish line a clear winner.

More women become students

A large increase in the number of women students was the major enrollment story at state and land-grant universities in fall, 1977, according to a report from the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC).

Enrollment by sex reported by the 353 campuses providing comparable data for 1976 showed a 3.2 percent rise in the number of women students with total enrollment up from 1,438,347 to 1,484,391. At the same institutions, the enrollment of men declined .7 percent, dropping from 1,711,197, to 1,699,522.

Almost 3.4 million students were enrolled in state and land-grant universities in fall, 1977, making up 30 percent of the estimated 11.5 million students attending all U.S. colleges and universities.

Solar technology taught in summer workshop

Solar technology, commercial solar systems, and other alternative energy concepts will be taught in a practical workshop on solar energy this summer at the university.

The class is designed for the individual with no technical or engineering training, said James Cassetto, assistant professor of Industrial Education and one of the three instructors for the workshop. When the course is finished, students will have enough design technology to build homemade solar devices themselves, he said.

Hot water heaters, forced air heaters, food dryers, and bread box hot water heaters are some of the devices the participants will design and build. A 60 gallon hot water heating system costs about $1,875 at a commercial dealer, but a similar self-built system costs about half that cost, said Cassetto.

As part of the class, students will install forced air heaters and collector installation in the Industrial Technology building, said Cassetto.

Mazanians snatches five awards in photo contest

He won $15 in certificates redeemable at Ted Cowin's Fast Foto Finishing. Cowin donated the awards.

Mazanians took first places in the slides, small prints, and black and white divisions. Scott Bell won first in color

Last year the same workshop cost each participant $80, but this year the cost is only $35. Professors from the Domestic Institute of Technology from Colorado taught the workshop last summer, but this time campus experts will teach. This and a special $4,000 program grant from the university help cut the price down, said Cassetto.

The workshop attracted 60 people last summer and with a better teaching ratio, better commercial systems and control devices, an expanded program, and a much lower price Cassetto expects expanded interest.

Two one week sessions will be held, June 26-30 and July 17-21 in the Industrial Education building on campus. One credit may be earned with satisfactory completion of the course. Sessions will be limited to 50 participants each and pre registration with a $15 deposit is encouraged. For more information contact Cassetto at the Industrial Education Building, 885-6492.

and Ray Roderique took top honors in experimental.

Jury members for the contest were Randy Kalisek, Idahonian photographer; Bill Woolston, assistant professor of photography; and Peter Haggart, associate professor of radio/TV.

First, second and third place photos from each division are currently on display 3-10 p.m. daily in the Wallace Complex Stereo Lounge.

women were more evenly balanced among first-time freshmen than at any other level. Women accounted for 49.1 percent of all first-time students.

First-time freshmen enrollments climbed almost two percent in the fall of 1977 after declining sharply in the fall of 1976. There were 1,152 new freshmen at the U of I last fall.

There were 470,556 first-time students reported by 301 campuses. These students comprised 21.3 percent of the total undergraduate enrollment on these campuses.

Part-time enrollment at the participating institutions continued to climb. Part-time enrollment represented 27.3 percent of the total, up from 25.9 percent in fall, 1976.

Council considers campus security plan

Faculty Council will consider the campus security plan and a proposed amendment to the Regents' personnel file in its meeting Tuesday at 3:10 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge.

The Faculty Affairs Committee requests that Faculty Council representatives work with Thomas Richardson, vice president for student and administrative affairs, to propose a policy for campus security that will "balance the need for building security and the maintenance of a proper academic atmosphere in the university."

Faculty Affairs Committee also recommended that the State Board of Education's personnel policy be revised to state the university shall have the right to be represented by counsel at hearings involving a faculty member. The current policy says the university's counsel is entitled to present witnesses and evidence against a faculty member, and may have the right to cross-examine the faculty member. The committee recommended that the policy be simplified stating that the revision would do what the Board wishes.

Some lots are still left empty

Several campus parking lots are still used at less than 85 percent occupancy, according to Charles Woolson, director of institutional services.

Lots which require a yellow parking sticker are 12, 13 and 14, on Sixth St.; 41, behind the Music Building, and 43, behind the Alumni Center.

Blue sticker lots are 1, near the Information Center; 8, on Sixth St.; 9, near the greenhouses by Wallace Complex; 18, by the Student Union Building; 24, behind the Law Building; 36E, off College Ave., near Native American Development Center; 37, Veterinary Science; 38, near the Industrial Arts Building, and 39, on College Ave., off Deakin.

If Bob Hope looks angry, it may be because only 3,326 people paid to see him Sunday. It was estimated before the show that 5,000 tickets needed to be sold to break even. Fortunately, the show's promoter and not the ASUI absorbed the loss. Photo by Steve Davis.

State student association resolution faces Senate

The ASUI Senate will Wednesday consider a funding request from MECHA and a resolution concerning development of a state student association.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the SUB Chiefs Room.

MECHA, a Chicano students' association, has requested $325 from the ASUI to pay for office equipment and supplies.

A resolution in support of the redevelopment of a state student association to take the place of the ISA passed the senate last week and was vetoed by ASUI President Bob Harding.

The resolution was written by senators Rob Mitchell and Greg Switzer. The senate can override the veto with a two-thirds majority.

Candidates speak to board

ASUI Senate candidates will meet with the Communication Board to discuss their opinions about communications-related topics Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The room will be posted at the SUB information desk.

Candidates should arrange interviews

Candidates for the ASUI Senate should call the Argonaut to arrange for interviews. Interviews, which will be published in Friday's paper, must be done before Thursday noon.

Opinion

Cooperate or vacate

The Student Union is currently experiencing a shortage of seating space during lunch hours. Part of the problem is that some "subbies" use seating space for study while some eaters are left holding their trays. Should studiers vacate to make room for eaters?

Well, let's face it. It is the STUDENT Union. Students pay good money for the facilities and should be allowed to use them. Agreed.

In addition, most of the studiers are good, paying customers as well. They just don't happen to be eating at the time when space is a problem. Also, many of them come from out of town and have no other place to go.

But because of the problem, consideration is being given to the idea of closing the Wanigan and Blue dining areas to persons studying and not eating. There are things you as students can do to prevent that happening.

The SUB board will be trying the gentle approach, and all they're asking is courtesy, and only between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Here's what you can do to help: 1. Only take a table large enough to suit your needs. 2. Use the Vandal lounge for studying when you can during lunch hour. 3. Share your table if it looks like you have room and someone else needs a little. 4. If you must stay at the table, eat or drink something.

The fact is that if there is no cooperation here, they're going to try and force non-eaters out. In this age when students are losing more and more ground to the administration, you can retain a little of that ground by cooperating. But if you think about it, it's cooperate or vacate. Take your pick.

Quiet campaign

Democratic Attorney General hopeful Mike Wetherell brought his campaign to the Argonaut offices Friday. No one was there to greet him.

Wetherell, who has not formally announced candidacy for the post, has been campaigning without a press secretary.

Wetherell intends to take care of both by holding off his formal announcement until his brother, Bob, can join him. Wetherell intends to name his brother to the press aid post.

Press secretaries traditionally set appointments for their candidates with the local press. They also author press releases.

Wetherell couldn't do much about the appointment. He didn't have one and Arg staffers prefer to be anywhere but in the office on Friday afternoons.

He did the next best thing—he sat down at this writer's typewriter and composed his own interview article.

One can only admire his determination. Can you imagine Steve Symms or John Evans walking into this joint, literally as if he owned it, and substituting himself for an absent reporter?

Wetherell, of course is a former Arg staffer. The place may have changed somewhat since he composed his last article for this paper, but the basic principle behind this operation remains the same—anyone can work here.

Letters

Film Society

Editor,

The article in Friday's Argonaut concerning the Film Society was a good example of biased, uninformed journalism. It is strange that, although an article has been submitted prior to every Film Society show (the only Film Society advertising), it is only now that they are sufficiently interested to print anything except reviews of downtown films. This seems odd for a responsible student newspaper.

Friday's article suggested that the chairman recklessly overspent his budget. After scheduling, ordering, writing articles, distributing posters, taking tickets and running the projector the bookwork was left in the hands of others. Admittedly this was a mistake. The FS was required to make up all money spent (the only program required to do so. SUB Films, with a budget twice as large, was not.)

When this semester's schedule was prepared, it was thought that there was some money left over from last semester. Also it was planned to ask for more money. More money ($1,200) was allotted, but then it was discovered that after extra shipping charges, advertising, and other costs were totalled, there was no money from last semester. Films were not cancelled, however, because it was hoped money could be found so the schedule could be completed (about $500 would have been sufficient.)

The general reserve, however, has been depleted in the name of entertainment. So while the FS has made more money than it spent, this money went into the general reserve and was not available to the FS, and is now gone. It is hoped that in the future, FS earnings will be retained in the FS budget, but it is too late for this semester. It is also hoped that the Argonaut will take some interest in student films and other programs, and maybe employ some of their journalistic talents where they are most needed.

While there have been problems in the FS, it is grossly unfair to blame David Gaffney, the chairman. I am a member of the programs board and equally responsible for the program.

It is a lot of work keeping a program like the FS running smoothly and the ASUI has had a program that would stand up against any student film program in the country, considering its resources (most schools allocate five to ten times as much for films.)

So while the budget was indeed overspent, it was in the attempt to provide the best possible service to the students and in the belief that the ASUI would see it through. No one person can be blamed for its failure.
B.A. Short
Film Society Programs Board

(Editor's note: During this semester, the Argonaut has run reviews or promotions of films "uptown" on nine occasions, Micro movies three times, and ASUI Film Society films eleven times, which hardly constitutes preference for films other than Film Society's. As for the rest of Friday's article, the Argonaut stands behind every word.)

Film Freak

Editor,

Something should be said about the article in the last issue of the Argonaut on the cancellation of the Film Society's schedule. I have been a student here for two years now and I am what some people might call a film freak. I try to see every film I can possibly afford to lay my eyes on. Since I came here from Vermont to study forestry, I have seen some excellent movies, thanks to the efforts of the Film Society. I was glad to see that there was someone out here in Moscow who was as interested in film art as I was.

It's a real shame that the entertainment committee head Devon Cuddy or the student senate or whoever runs the finance operations, could not have made some effort to save the schedule. After all, movies are a major form of entertainment offered here along with rock concerts and it seems that more effort was made to save concerts than was for the Film Society. I have been to almost every movie that has been shown here and by the size of the crowds, they could not have been doing as poorly as the concert program which has not been cancelled.

I just think something could have been done. I don't think the entertainment head knows how important a good film schedule is to a college program and unless she is artistically numb, they could have found funds somewhere. Films are an art form. Rock concerts are not. (Unless the standard of art in the world has slipped below the surface while our backs were turned.) Mr. Gaffney's programming was not "faulty." The fault lies with the people who were above him, in control of finance, for allowing an arts forum to die for lack, not of funds, but artistic interest.
John McGuire

TKE thanks

Editor,

The men of Tau Kappa Epsilon would like to thank all those people responsible for the success of the celebration of our 50th Anniversary, held both here at Idaho and at WSU with our twin chapter there. This includes the SUB Food Services, University Relations, Moscow School District, Moscow Elks Club, University Alumni Relations, University News Bureau, and special thanks to our own Little Sisters whose hard work is much appreciated.

Letter Policy

The Argonaut will accept open letters to the editor until noon on the days prior to publication. Letters must be signed in ink by the author, but names may be withheld upon request. In the interest of allowing space for as many letters as is possible, we request that letters not exceed 500 words.

Letters will be edited for spelling and grammar but not for content. The Argonaut reserves the right to refuse to run letters containing offensive or vulgar language, or libelous material.

Greer to speak at IFT luncheon

Sam Greer, executive director of the Idaho Federation of Teachers, will address a U of I Federation luncheon noon Wednesday in the SUB Ee-da-ho Room.

Nick Gier, IFT's public relations director, will speak about his forthcoming article, "The Phenomenal Rise of Faculty Unions."

The luncheon is free to all interested faculty members.

The University of Idaho Federation is Local 3215 of the American Federation of Teachers.

"Randy (Stonehill) is an artist of rare depth. He sings from his soul straight into yours. He plays a fine guitar and the music that is blended around it is clean, clear, and tasteful," according to Who's Where in Music.

The Randy Stonehill Band, with special guest Tom Howard, will appear at the U of I Memorial Gym, 8 p.m.

April 18. Advance tickets are $3 at the SUB, the Music Room, Paradise Records, and Crossroads in Moscow. In Pullman, tickets are available at Grand Avenue Music and One Way Books. Tickets at the door will be $4.

The Stonehill Band Concert is being sponsored by the Christian Artist Series of the U of I.

James Doohan talks Star Trek

by N.K. Hoffman

"People say, how did I ever get the part of Scotty?" said James Doohan, guest entertainer at the baron of beef dinner Saturday night. He proceeded to explain how he tried out for a part as an inspector of Scotland Yard.

"I read for it, and the director said, 'Well, that's great,' and the producer said, 'He looks too much like Gene Barry.' So I didn't get the part."

"Ten days later the director called me and said, 'Would you like to come and do some of your accents for the Star Trek people?' I said, 'Who are they?'—I hadn't heard about it."

Doohan said he tried several accents, but "thank God, they picked the Scotsman." He proceeded to delight the audience with several versions of a different Scotty, ending with "Reggie"—"I'm teddibly sorry, Captain, but I can't seem to get the little buggers to move any fawster."

"As you well know, those of you that have followed the vargaries of Star Trek, Paramount has finally got with it," he continued. The new Star Trek movie will begin filming this summer, he said.

"As a starting budget, it's $15 million, $4 million of which will be special effects, and $1½ million will go to construction alone. All the rest is spread around Bill Shatner, and Bill Shatner, and Bill Shatner."

In response to a question from the audience, Doohan said that Leonard Nimoy would be in the movie. "In fact, the day he told a press conference he signed the

Dinner theater returns with Mary Sunshine

Dinner theater returns this spring with the Moscow Community Theater's presentation of Little Mary Sunshine, a musical comedy by Rick Besoyan, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the SUB.

Tickets are $7 for both dinner and show and are now on sale at the SUB information desk. Reservations may be made for each show. Reserved tickets must be paid for by noon the day before the performance.

Dinner begins at 6 p.m. and the show will begin afterwards.

A husband and wife team stars in the Jeannette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy spoof. Rob and Gara Newman play Captain Jim Warrington and Mary. Ed Chavez is directing the production.

contract, they asked him why the delay? He said, "The mail between the planet Earth and Vulcan is still a little slow."

Doohan also said, "Everybody else is going to be in the movie, including Yeoman Rand, who was fired after the first thirteen episodes. NBC wanted her fired because they didn't want a love affair aboard ship for Captain Kirk. They wanted to be able to spread him around on other planets."

"We're having one other character. Her name will be Ilya. She is an alien who will shave her head. She's from India and she's absolutely gorgeous. Unfortunately for Captain Kirk she has taken a five-year vow of chastity."

Someone asked Doohan how he felt about Close Encounters. He admitted that he hadn't seen the movie, but added, "A lot of people ask me what I believe about UFOs. I have to tell you I don't believe there are little people up there watching us to make sure we do everything right. No way.

"I think the people who believe in UFOs or want to believe in UFOs are looking for a new Messiah."

Does Doohan have a favorite Star Trek episode?

"Well, because it's mainly to do with science, I like The Doomsday Machine."

Doohan ended his show with a Scottish toast, a poem, and two Gaelic songs.

Vandals need wins to stay in race

The U of I baseball team is in a must-win situation this week if they hope to make a challenge in the Nor Pac conference race.

The Vandals are 8-14 on the season and 2-6 in conference play. Five conference games are scheduled this week beginning with a single nine-inning game against Gonzaga University in Spokane on Wednesday.

In action last Saturday, Idaho fell to Lewis-Clark State College 13-8.

Against LCSC, Idaho played error-less baseball and collected 11 hits including two home runs by first baseman Dennis Phillips. But it wasn't enough as Idaho pitchers allowed 14 hits while walking 10 batters.

The Vandals' hitting remains strong with Phillips, Kelly Davidson, Terry Hiller and Bill Stokes pacing the club. Phillips has a .350 batting average that includes 11 extra base hits. Davidson is batting .288 and has 11 extra base hits, including a team leading eight home runs.

Tennis continues winning streak

Idaho tennis continued its assault on its northwestern opponents by rapping the University of Montana, 9-0, and Eastern Washington University, 5-4, in weekend action.

The Vandals stand 13-3 on the season as they enter competition in the Weber State College Invitational tournament this week. Along with the U of I and WSC, Utah State University, Boise State University, the University of Nevada-Las Vegas and the University of Northern Colorado will attend the tournament in Ogden.

BSU will face Idaho for the third time this season in the final day of competition Saturday. The Broncos lost to the U of I 6-3 in their first encounter and 8-1 in the second.

"We always love to beat Boise State as bad as we can,"

Idaho coach Rod Leonard said. "We're always up for that one."

Number one singles player, Jim DeRoeth, will be back for Idaho after sitting out the weekend with a sore elbow. Steve Davis, regularly the number two player, filled in for DeRoeth in the top spot.

Idaho women take second in tournament

A team of two U of I women captured second place in the Washington State University Volleyball Co-ed Doubles Tournament over the weekend.

Chris Studwell and Maureen Taylor advanced through the 16-team tournament by winning their designated pool and then through the single elimination playoffs.

The pair lost the championship match in two close contests, 16-18 and 18-20. Each match was the best two out of three games to 15 points or to win by two points.

Blues, Boise top divisions

Moscow's Blue Mountain Rugby team took first place in its division defeating Spokane 22-0 in the second annual Columbia River International Rugby Union Tournament last weekend.

The Boise team defeated Trail from British Columbia in the independent division and was scheduled to play Blue Mountain to determine the tournament winner, but cold, wet weather Sunday afternoon prevented the play-off.

The women's Dusty Lentil rugby team tied for first place with the Central Washington team at 2-1. The team defeated Snake River from Caldwell 8-4.
