

Student suit may test $50 fee hike in court

by Mark Kirk
Staff Reporter

Student leaders of Idaho's higher education institutions will discuss a lawsuit against the State Board of Education/Board of Regents Wednesday in Pocatello.

The lawsuit, which could challenge the board's proposed $50 fee increase, will be the topic of discussion by the newly-formed Associated Students of Idaho in its organizational meeting in Pocatello. Five representatives from the four higher education institutions belong to the ASI Board.

ASUI President Scott Fehrenbacher said the ASI Board is considering a lawsuit against the board for several reasons:

— Numerous people in the state have advised legal action because they see the fee increase as "blatantly unconstitutional" and because they question whether the revenue from the fees will be used for expenditures that are definitely separate from instruction.

— The state and students need the issue of what constitutes tuition clarified so that in the future fees are not assessed any time state funding is short.

— The ASI Board wants to address the policies of the state board and the entire area of student fees-tuition/state funding.

— The ASI Board wants to demonstrate that college students can make intelligent, credible decision and are organized and not inconsistent.

"We demand a part in the decision and policy-making for the future of higher education in Idaho," Fehrenbacher said.

If the ASI board decides Wednesday to look into a lawsuit, a lawyer will be contacted and cost estimates made. A final decision to proceed with the lawsuit will not be made until after state board has decided whether to impose the across-the-board fee increase at its Dec. 3-4 meeting.

Student presidents at U of I, Lewis Clark State College, Boise State University and Idaho State University first began planning for the new organization in June. This fall, the student senates at each of the institutions approved the constitution for ASI.

ASI Board members from each institution include the student body president, vice president, a senator, the editor of the student newspaper, and one student at large. Those board members from the U of I include, in order, Fehrenbacher, Tom Crossan, Eric Stoddard, Diane Sexton and Jan Driscoll. Driscoll is president of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

According to the ASI Constitution, the organization will increase communication among the schools as well as create more influence for student wishes.

At an 11:30 a.m. ceremony Wednesday, all charter members of the ASI Board will sign a proclamation formally organizing the body. Janet Hay, president of the State Board of Education/Board of Regents, will speak on the student role in higher education as it relates to the state board. Chick Bilyeu, state senator from Pocatello, is also expected to speak at the ceremony.

ASUI may have to pay $10,000 concert cost

by Suzanne Carr
Staff Reporter

The ASUI is prepared to do whatever it must to recover the money it has put out for the Atlanta Rhythm Section concert, said ASUI President Scott Fehrenbacher.

The concert was cancelled early Friday when the group's lead singer Ronnie Hamlin broke and swallowed an artificial tooth, while eating in Boise Thursday night.

Hamlin was flown to Georgia to see his dentist because Boise dentists were unable to help him.

Whether the ASUI will be reimbursed for the costs to put on the concert hinges on a clause in the contract which allows ARS to cancel if unable to play.

The clause states that if a member of ARS becomes ill or incapacitated, ARS will not be required to perform the en-

Contract negotiated to aid Gambia

U of I News Bureau

The University of Idaho is in the final stages of negotiating the largest contract in its history, to improve crop production and livestock forage management in The Republic of The Gambia, West Africa.

If the contract, tentatively set for $5.2 million over five years, is approved by the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), several scientists from the U of I and other U.S. institutions will work in The Gambia to increase crop production, particularly maize, for human consumption and for livestock, said Gerald Marousek, professor of agricultural economics.

The contract would involve two agronomists, a range ecologist, two agricultural economists and one sociologist for a period of five years, Marousek said.

Although the University of Idaho has a considerable amount of agricultural expertise to offer to other countries, it hasn't been largely involved in applying it around the world," said Ray Miller, dean of the College of Agriculture.

"This grant will give U of I agriculturists the opportunity to be involved and to get better acquainted with agriculture in the true global sense," he said.

The project, to be funded by USAID, has been negotiated between The Gambia and the Consortium for International Development, a group of 11 member universities who have contracted to offer their expertise in similar agricultural development projects all over the world. The U of I is a consortium member, and, because it is the lead institution in this project, staff members would be recruited initially from here, Marousek said.

Each U.S. staff member will have a Gambian counterpart who can offer practical knowledge about local problems, Marousek said.

"Obtaining this grant speaks well of the College of Agriculture and the other disciplines which worked to obtain it," said U of I President Richard Gibb.

"Many prestigious institutions are interested in obtaining this kind of grant and I think it shows that agencies in Washington, D.C. have confidence in the University of Idaho to award it to this institution," he continued.

While the project is designed to develop an integrated crop-livestock industry, it is also designed to increase diversity and productivity of Gambian agriculture by improving the government's agricultural data base and strengthening its planning and evaluation operations.

A socio-economic data base for the country will be developed, including information on the composition, education and activities of family members, types of land ownership and financing, types of crops, health of livestock, agricultural tools owned, soil conservation practices and so on.

The Gambia is a tiny African country whose basic industry is agriculture and whose half-million population increases by 2.8 percent per year, according to Marousek.

Marousek pointed out that, although the control of population growth is beyond the concern of the project, it has been shown in some developing countries that increased productivity can relieve population pressure by increasing income and leading to changes in attitude toward family size.

Marousek said he hopes the country will be able to see improvement in its crop and livestock industries.

"We are trying to extend the application of our knowledge to a part of the world that can use it," he said.

"This is an extension of the education and service role we have here. I hope we can be beneficial to our host country and the U of I by increasing the scope of the activity of our own personnel, as well."

The project proposal was developed by Marousek with assistance from Manuel Montalvo, professor of sociology at Colorado State University, and the staff of the Consortium for International Development.

The grant will support six U.S. staff members and their families in Africa over the five-year period, beginning Jan. 1, 1981, and will pay the cost of overhead to CID and the U of I. Also, the grant will pay for nine Gambian students to study in the United States and obtain bachelor's degrees during this time.

Regents meet in Pocatello this week

Fees, A&A college on agenda

Student fee and tuition increase for spring semester will again have the attention of the State Board of Education/Board of Regents when it meets in Pocatello Thursday and Friday.

A fee increase of $50 for resident students, a tuition increase of $100 for non-resident students, and a $4 per credit hour fee increase for part-time students have been proposed to offset the effects of a 3.85 percent holdback in state funding.

At this meeting, the board is expected to decide whether it will pursue the increases. If it opts for the increases, a public hearing will be scheduled for the Dec. 3-4 meeting, and a final decision will be made following the hearing.

The University of Idaho will also ask the board to create a new College of Art and Architecture. College status for the Department of Art and Architecture has been discussed for two years on campus and last May was endorsed by the general faculty.

Because of procedural problems, the U of I administration could not ask for board approval until this month. The new college status will require no additional funds be appropriated, U of I administrators have said. If approved, the new status would become effective Nov. 1.

The board will also be given "role and mission" statements from each of the higher education institutions.

The statements, requested as part of a long-range planning effort, outline current programs, major areas of service and future plans for the universities.

A $2 per semester fee for ASUI entertainment will also be up for board approval. In the general election last spring, U of I students approved the fee by a vote of 749 to 352. The fee would become effective second semester.

Reports of the specific enrollment figures for this fall are also due at this week's meeting. Preliminary indications are that enrollment is up slightly at U of I, with about 6,507 registering on the first day of the semester.

The board will also be asked to authorize an agreement making the U of I the coordinating university in a $5 million project on Gambian agriculture.

The Consortium for International Development has selected the U of I to be the coordinating university in a project titled "The Gambia Mixed Farming and Resource Management Project."

The project is designed to increase the diversity and productivity of the West African country's agricultural sector. The project will begin in January and last for five years.

The Physical Science Building on campus will be remodeled to reduce energy loss and improve the air quality if a $203,176 matching grant from the U.S. Department of Energy is accepted.

The university's 50 percent share of the costs would come from the balance of an account that funded repair of the fume hood ventilation in the building and from capital improvement funds accumulated in the classroom/office building debt service reserve.

The College of Forestry, Wildlife and Range Sciences will also forward a copy of its memorandum of understanding for a cooperative program with the People's Republic of China.

The long-term program will initiate cooperative projects, and exchange of scientists and students, including visits, seminars, short courses and graduate programs.

Also on the U of I agenda for the board meeting are the following items:

—acceptance of 120 grants totaling $5 million made to the university since May.

—report of the donation of a $10,000 vibration analysis tool from Hewlett Packard Company in Boise. The "Frequency Spectrum Analyser" will be used by senior and graduate level mechanical engineering students in mechanical vibration courses and in research.

—report of the donation of a microwave tower worth $3,000 from General Telephone Company.

Writing proficiency exam given Wednesday night

The fall semester writing proficiency test will be given Wednesday. Students who have transferred with composition credit from another institution must sign up for the test today at the English department in the Faculty Office Complex.

The next test will be given again in April.

Weekend marred by auto accidents

Three apparently unrelated automobile accidents occurred on campus over the weekend.

Brenda Lee Taylor, 3127 B Eighth St. Lewiston, was cited for improper backing and for leaving the scene of an accident that occurred near the Farmhouse fraternity early Friday morning.

Taylor backed a 1977 Ford Thunderbird into a 1961 Buick owned by Lonn Leitch. The accident occurred about 12:30 a.m. Saturday on Blake Avenue.

A car driven by Mark J. Wilkerson of Lindley Hall backed into a parked car in front of the Wallace Complex about 10 p.m. Saturday. Wilkerson was cited for leaving the scene of the accident. About $225 damage was done to the parked car, and about $50 damage was done to the car Wilkerson was driving.

Brian James McFarland of Sigma Chi fraternity was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs after the car he was driving became involved in an accident with two other vehicles near the Kappa Sigma fraternity at Sweet and Blake avenues.

THE BIG PLUS

I am told that a young Russian czar, many years ago, was walking in the royal gardens one day when he noticed that out in a nearby field a palace guard was standing in all his pomp and ceremony. He asked him what he was guarding. The soldier did not know, except that orders called for a sentry at that spot.

The young czar, curious, looked up the records. He discovered that at one time the great Catherine had sponsored acres of rose gardens. And on that spot a choice and beautiful rosebush had grown. Every week she ordered a sentry to stand guard over that particular bush. The order was never rescinded. The rose garden had since disappeared. But a sentry stood guard over a patch of weeds!

Could it be that we are earnestly and sincerely standing guard over some things that are not sacred at all? The bible says in Rev. 14:12 "the saints are those who keep the commandments of God." Today, many keep the traditions of men. As the soldier who stood over the weeds and didn't know why, so do many today rob themselves of the blessing God wants them to have. The fourth commandment is the only sabbath (which means a rest day) is a memorial of creation; it points us to our roots and our creator. Also that it is God who has redeemed us from the bondage of sin and that it is God who sanctifies us. (Ex. 20:8-11, Deut. 5:12-15, Ex. 31:13). There is only one day during the week that is hallowed by God (hallowed means to make holy. Only the presence of God makes something holy) and that day is the 7th day. The Sabbath. What God asks is always reasonable, especially when it is for our benefit; he made this day for man (Mark 2:27) The BIG plus is the blessings that God desires to give us on this day. Jesus came to give men life more abundantly, and to fill it with joy (John 10:10, 15:11) "Blessed is the man that keepeth the Sabbath," and "the Sabbath is a delight." (Is. 58:2, 58:13, 14)

The records of history bear the witness to the rose garden, and how it changed to a patch of weeds. What a rich treasure you can find by resting, worshipping and drawing near to God on the day he has blessed. That's the BIG PLUS!

Thanks for trying

Editor,

Homecoming weekend didn't begin as successfully as it ended. After hundreds of telephone calls, letters, meetings, and months of work, Idaho's first major concert in two years seemed to be ready to open.

At 1 p.m. Friday I received a call from Atlanta, Georgia announcing the cancellation of the ARS Concert and tour. Immediately, we tried to let the media know so that students would be aware of the change and of full refunds. The stage had already been completed and equipment had been set up for the concert. It subsequently had to be taken down in disappointment.

We did our best to develop an alternative function on Friday night for those who had planned on attending the concert. A dance in Memorial Gym, or a three band concert at Rathskellers with ASUI support were possibilities. However, because of the short time involved, we were unsuccessful in preparing any alternative on Friday night.

It is very unfortunate that the concert had to end the way it did. However, I would like to personally apologize for any inconvenience that the concert cancellation caused. I would also like to personally thank all of the students who volunteered many hours of their service. Student volunteers combined to form a tremendous effort to get this concert off the ground.

Any concert will invite cynics and pessimists, but those who are valuable are the students who wish to help work and spread enthusiasm. I think we have at least proven that the U of I is a viable place for major entertainment, and with such continued support, successful concerts will become a reality. Already we have been contacted by outside independent promoters who may bring in no-risk concerts.

Once again, even though the Atlanta Rhythm Section concert ended in disappointment, I thank all those who made it such a successful effort for the ASUI.

Scott Fehrenbacher
ASUI President

One more time

Editor,

In order to discuss a controversial topic like the Panama Canal, one must allow himself to consider the "Total Picture" and look a little deeper. There are, you can be sure, strong points both for and against the pay-over of a strategic point on earth like this waterway. But considering long-term vital interests and known Soviet intentions, it will prove a serious mistake to lose our direct influence in that area.

In the real world, as opposed to a Frank-Church dream world of Soviet and Cuban appeasement (people were risking death to get away from Frank's "friend"), it can be concluded that communist leaders are overjoyed at the current state of international tension and the numerous and varied U.S. geopolitical withdrawals around the world (many of which the Soviets have instigated and inspired through totally unrestricted intelligence service initiatives).

A few years back, when we were speaking from a positions of strength and sound foreign policy was in evidence, we could allow for moves such as this without alarm, but that is no longer the case. The fact of the matter is when looking hard at the "Total Picture" one sees that communism, extreme human suffering, and instability (which the Soviets strongly desire and encourage) are running rampant on a global basis. I am specifically speaking of Southeast Asia, Afghanistan, the African continent, Central America and the Middle East. Think on it.

In response to the ill-advised criticism of Congressman Symms, I can only say that one can't avoid being concerned about the present condition of the world and the direction this country is heading without intense curiosity as to how long our politicians can continue their non-adherence to the Constitution and common sense economics and our survival time as a sovereign nation. It depends on your view of the word "effective" in evaluating the Franky Church campaign rhetoric of no bills passed by Steve Symms. The kind of bills he introduces are not popular with the Democratic Party majority in Congress (i.e. recent Symms bill was to repeal the Gun Control Act of 1968-it didn't get through). The main issue of this race isn't the hope of Steve Symms and the bills he introduces as a member of the minority party to cut back government regulations and unnecessary mounds of red tape, and to restore prudent public fund management. Rather the central focus is on the 24-year VOTING RECORD of Frank Church and the current condition of this nation, making one ask directly: Do we want to continue with more of the same? I think Idahoans will answer that question in November from the Whitehouse down to the courthouse that it is time to change directions, restore incentive to produce, maintain monetary common sense, and keep up a strong deterrent defense posture, which is nothing more than maintenance of the peace through strength.

Greg Conradi

P.S. I deeply regret the unfortunate inference made of my having an affiliation with the John Birch Society - it is also FALSE in every sense of the word. My international beliefs and information are based on personal experience and my economic viewpoint is based on the monetary fact that you can't keep spending more than you take in without a devastating day of accountability somewhere down the road.

File foul-up

Editor,

Due to several deletions in the story which appeared in the Friday, Oct. 17

Argonaut concerning graduate student files, we feel it is necessary to clarify a few points.

These files contained "very confidential" information about former students. Personal correspondence dealing with divorce, marriage and financial situations were abundant. Incriminating files pertaining to several local high school principals were found. One school district superintendent even wrote Dr. Green about his apparent mental breakdown which included a form of drug abuse. One student had a minimum requirement of a 2.00 GPA waived so he could graduate with a 1.66 GPA.

This and much more were in these files. Not only does this raise the question of how our files are handled, but also raises the question of liberty. Had we been malicious students, the thought of blackmail could have been a real possibility.

U of I students should be as concerned as Dr. Green's former grad students probably are. We believe this is a typical example of the university's lack of follow-through. But the question must still be raised as to how 131 files got misplaced without anyone missing them. Then to blame a helpless work-study student is simply a shuffling of responsibility and a blatant cop-out. We sincerely hope the university will efficiently deal with this matter instead of following its usual "ignore the problem and it will go away" policy.

Barker leads Vandals past MSU

by Bert Sahlberg
Sports Editor

After Boise State racked up more than 400 yards total offense and 44 points against Idaho last week, many people had doubts about the Vandals' defense.

Those doubts were quickly put to rest Saturday when Idaho won its homecoming game in front of 15,000 fans in the ASUI-Kibbie Dome with a 14-6 triumph over Montana State.

Idaho kept its Big Sky title hopes alive with the win as the Vandals are now 4-2 on the year and 2-1 in Big Sky play. Montana state drops to 3-3 on the year and 2-3 in league action.

It was a fired-up Vandal defense led by senior defensive end Larry Barker that shut down the Bobcats' explosive running game.

"Our defense really redeemed themselves from last week's sins," said Vandal coach Jerry Davitch. "And Larry had a great game."

Barker ended the game with 11 tackles but made four big plays. Three times he dropped the Bobcat quarterback, Barry Sullivan, with diving tackles for losses. Two of the plays came on fourth down and gave Idaho the ball.

"It was a really high emotional game, and the fans really helped a great deal," said Barker. "I don't think we would have won if we had played it there, (Montana)."

The stingy Vandal defense held the Bobcats to just 257 yards in total offense stopping their running game.

"We played well and didn't break down," said junior cornerback Greg Jennings. "They had a different type of offense from Boise State so we tried to force things inside."

Meanwhile, the Vandal offense marched up and down the field but couldn't find the goal line until mid-way through the fourth quarter.

The Vandals mustered 406 yards in total offense with the rushing attack gathering 276 yards. Ken Hobart, the Vandals' quarterback was the leading rusher for Idaho with 85 yards on 22 attempts. The sophomore suffered bruised ribs in the second quarter but still managed to complete 8 of 17 passes for 130 yards with one touchdown and one interception.

"We moved the ball well, but we should have scored at least 20 more points," said Hobart. "We certainly controlled the line of scrimmage."

Davitch was quick to agree with Hobart on the offense's performance, saying Idaho should have scored 30 points.

"We almost came away with nothing, and you can't do that against a team like Montana State," said Davitch.

The Vandals nearly got a touchdown on their first possession of the game when they marched down to the Bobcat one.

From there, the Vandals tried sending running back Wally Jones up the middle, but the Bobcats stopped him short inches from the goal line on the third down attempt.

On fourth down, Hobart kept it himself and dived up the middle. When the referees unstacked the pile, they ruled Hobart fell short of the goal line and gave Montana State the ball.

"I was in," said Hobart about the fourth down play. "There is no doubt in my mind about it. They just pushed me back after I was in."

Montana State finally broke the 0-0 deadlock in the fourth quarter. The Bobcats marched 81 yards in 14 plays as running back Steve Roderick dove across from one yard out.

But the Bobcats had problems all game with their kickers. Earlier, the Bobcats were in scoring position three times. But Terry Alberta's three field goal attempts all sailed wide to the right.

On the extra point try, the Bobcats used their second kicker, defensive end Toby Alt, who's kick also sailed wide to the right.

That was enough to get the Vandals moving again

Volleyball team continues its league dominance

The Idaho volleyball team continued its dominance of Interstate League opponents this past weekend in Ellensburg, Wash. with five straight game victories.

The Vandals defeated the University of Alaska Fairbanks, U of Alaska-Anchorage, University of Portland, host Central Washington University and Western Washington University.

The tournament was the final half of round-robin play to determine seeding in championship play next month. The Idaho women also were undefeated in Lewiston two weeks ago in the first half of league competition.

Tonight the squad travels to nearby Pullman to meet Washington State University in a best three-out-of-five match. Idaho split with the Cougars in Lewiston earlier.

"We're hoping for a good turnout of Idaho supporters," said coach Amanda Burk. "We haven't beaten WSU since I've been here, and we'd really like to muster up some energy." According to Burk, the crowd is definitely a factor.

The contest is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in Bohler Gymnasium on the WSU campus.

The Vandals started out shaky at Ellensburg in their first match (Alaska-Fairbanks), according to Burk, but rebounded to show a season-typical steadiness throughout the tournament.

"They really don't show any high highs or low lows," Burk said. "Nobody gets shook up if they get a few point behind. We just seem to toughen up and get the job done."

Everybody on the team saw action in the games which impressed Burk. "The depth of the bench is terrific. Our substitutes are able to fit right in with the play," she said.

Another highlight for the Vandal women was the blocking effort. "For awhile there against Western we were an invincible wall. They couldn't get anything over the net," Burk commented.

Linda Kelling, a sophomore setter, was named "Athlete of the Week" for her play in the tournament. She recorded seven service aces and had a 41 percent mark in assists leading to kill attacks.

Thursday the Idaho women leave for Colorado Springs, Colo. to play in the Colorado College Tournament.

after a slow third quarter. Idaho marched 80 yards in nine plays with the help of two Bobcat penalties to keep the drive alive.

Terry Idler, the Vandals' second leading rusher of the game with 80 yards, raced 20 yards down the right side line to tie the game up. Pete O'Brien's kick gave the Vandals the lead.

After a Bobcat punt, Idaho took over on its own 22 with 5:31 left to play.

Hobart used wide receiver John Palumbo on two key pass plays that accounted for 52 yards to put the Vandals down on the Montana State 23.

Hobart again dropped back to pass and found his big tight end Tom Coombs alone in the endzone to put the icing on the cake.

"Once we had to break it, we knew we could do it," said Coombs. "It was just a matter of time."

Coombs was the Vandals' leading receiver with three catches for 39 yards. Palumbo, who started for Jack Klein after Klein suffered a twisted knee in practice and said he wasn't ready to play, caught two passes for 52 yards.

Another key offensive injury was to running back Russell Davis. The Vandals' leading rusher suffered a muscle pull in the second quarter and played with a limp the rest of the game. Davis ran for 58 yards on nine carries.

Bobcat running back Tony Boddie was the game's leading rusher with 88 yards on 18 attempts. Jeff Davis added 46 yards on the ground for the Bobcats.

Sullivan hit on nine of 14 passes for the Bobcats for 86 yards. Sullivan also ran for 22 yards on 17 carries.

The Vandals' Big Sky title hopes were helped when Northern Arizona bombed league leading Weber State 32-7. The loss gave Weber a 4-1 record in the Conference.

Film Review

by Linda Welford

The life of Honeysuckle Rose

Honeysuckle Rose is a film that really gives a sense of what it must be like to be a musician on the road — the highs and lows, the boredom, the pressure.

But what distinguishes Honeysuckle Rose from other musical road epics is its sense of life. The film is so real and basic, I felt I was curled up on Buck Bonham's Band's bus, sharing the experiences of being a road musician.

At first, Honeysuckle Rose seems empty and trite. Most of the action is taken up with Willie Nelson's commendable song repertoire.

For several hours we follow an easy-going country-western star named Buck Bonham, portrayed by Willie Nelson. He travels the country in a colorful bus with his rowdy fellow band members. We see the importance of his music, which conflicts with the importance of his wife and son. We see him succumb to the desires of a "younger" woman — and the thorny consequences that follow.

Although there isn't much to the plot, the film is done with such sensitivity and grace that it glows with life. The concert trips are especially flattering, seeing the sights and stops along the way and sensing the passion of eager and devoted fans.

Willie Nelson also makes this film. He sings with a nasal whine, and resembles Rip Van Winkle in his younger days. But his refined song-writing skills, and his ability to dramatize those songs, give his prominence — he's a natural.

Dyan Cannon, who plays Bonham's wife, gives a convincing portrayal of a woman up against a double faceted husband. Slim Pickens, the country western side kick who plays the band's retired guitar player, gives one of the most charming portrayals I've seen in a long time.

As the curtains closed, I had the most uncanny desire to grab hands with my partner and frolic into the street. This little film gives life.

Honeysuckle Rose is playing at the Old Post Office Theatre at 7 and 9 p.m. Go early — crowds have been large.

Theater auditions scheduled

Scripts for the Christian Drama A Man Born to be King are available for overnight check-out at Crossroads Bookstore and the U-Hut.

Auditions for the play will be held at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 27 and 28 at the Borah Theatre. According to director Paul Bendele, no experience is required.

A Man Born to be King will open Dec. 5 and will be presented at local churches.

Arts commission offers state-wide residencies

Idaho Commission on the Arts Coordinator Bitsy Bidwell will be available to discuss the Artists-in-the-Schools program Wednesday from 1:30 - 3 p.m. in the east lounge of the Faculty Office Complex.

The Artists-in-Schools program employs professional artists for residencies in schools and communities around the state. Idaho currently has the following component areas: architecture/environmental arts, film/video, folk arts, performing arts, poetry, and visual arts and crafts.

Pulitzer poet visits campus.

Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Gary Snyder, whose work centers on the relationship between the external and internal environment, will be here to read from his poetry and meet with people Wednesday and Thursday.

"More and more," says the California poet, "I am aware of very close correspondences between the external and the internal landscape." His poems, which include the Pulitzer-prize winning volume Turtle Island (1974), reflect that awareness and his special interest in relationships between poetry and community.

Snyder will give a "community reading" from his poems in Moscow at the Davids' Center, at 8 p.m. Wednesday. He also will meet informally with those interested on Thursday, at the Faculty Office Complex lounge on the University of Idaho campus from 9-11 a.m.

American Festival Ballet

The poetic genius of Shakespeare and the glorious music of Mendelssohn make a perfect combination for a ballet, according to American Festival Ballet choreographer Elizabeth Rowe-Wistrich, whose newest ballet, A Midsummer Night's Dream, will be performed in Moscow this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Hartung Theatre. The American Festival Ballet, formerly Ballet Folk, is Idaho's professional ballet company. The AFB, currently on tour in Montana, has already presented 18 performances this fall in Southern Idaho, Spokane, Wash. and Montana.

Tickets for the performances are on sale at Cox and Nelson in downtown Moscow, at the U of I SUB information desk, and at White's Drug Store in Pullman. Prices are $4.50 for adults; $3.50 for students and $2.50 for children under 12. Sunday is group and family night and groups of 10 or more may purchase tickets at 50 cents each reduction through the American Festival Ballet office.

The curtain will open at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Jazz man to perform

Trumpeter Clark Terry and his combo "The Jolly Giants" will appear in concert at the SUB Ballroom, Oct. 29.

The concert will offer area jazz buffs an opportunity to see a world-renowned jazz man who has played with Count Basie, Duke Ellington and the Tonight Show Band in New York City.

Terry and the "Giants" will also offer a jazz clinic that day at 11:30 a.m. in the ballroom. The two-hour concert will begin at 8 p.m. Reserved seat tickets are $4 and are now on sale at the SUB information booth.

Known for his ability as a quality entertainer as well as his lively and happy style of jazz, Terry and his group are currently touring the Northwest region. During his long career, he has played at every major jazz festival in the world.

GRADUATING ENGINEERS AND SCIENTISTS

Have you considered these factors in determining where you will work?

1. Will the job offer challenge and responsibility?
2. Will your future employer encourage job mobility?
3. Will your future employer encourage, support and reward continued professional education?
4. How much choice will you have in selecting your work assignment?
5. Big starting salaries are nice — but what is the salary growth and promotion potential in the job?
6. Can you afford the cost-of-living in the area?

At Naval Weapons Center we have given these things a lot of consideration and believe we have the answers for you.

Unpaid bills cut into ASUI reserve fund

ASUI income-producing departments averaged more than expected last year, but bills that came in after may cut into this year's ASUI general reserve fund by about $11,000.

Each year the ASUI freezes $10,000 to pay for bills outstanding from the previous fiscal year.

Bills from the golf course and the Gem of the Mountains totalled $21,000, however, so an additional $11,000 came out of the original $33,000 general reserve.

At the end of fiscal year 1980, which ended May 31, the ASUI Golf Course had made $5,510.17 more than its projected income, but bills largely for irregular help and maintenance caused the golf course to exceed its budget by about $15,000.

The 1980 fiscal year projected income for the golf course was $67,000; it actually made $72,500 providing a $5,000 surplus.

An additional $6,000 was cut from the ASUI general reserve due to a bill that came in after May for a design change in the binder for the Gem of the Mountains sections. The first binders were the wrong size.

The Gem had projected an income of about $17,000. But its actual income was only $13,000 putting the Gem almost $4,000 below the original estimate.

The Argonaut projected an income of $66,524 and its actual income was $73,494, giving it a surplus of nearly $7,000.

The projected income for the Production and Graphics Department was $41,452. It made $1,200 more than expected.

Outdoor Rentals made $2,613 more than its projected income of $11,030.

The Photography Bureau had a projected income of $750, and it brought in $100 more than that amount.

The ASUI Programs Department had a projected income of $2,000 but its actual income was only $490.

KUOI-FM was $225 below its original estimated income of $2,150.

ASUI departments exceeding their projected incomes get to keep 10 percent of their surplus.

Faculty council will consider revealing causes for nonrenewal

A proposal to revise procedures for providing reasons for nonrenewal will be the center of discussion at today's Faculty Council meeting.

The proposal gives non-tenured faculty and other exempt personnel the right to receive reasons for nonrenewal of appointment.

The current policy states that reasons are not required to be given, but the president may do so, and usually does.

Requiring the reasons to be furnished shifts any burden of proof to the university. Also, as a general rule, nonrenewal or a recommendation of nonrenewal is not grievable within the university and is not appealable to the board.

The revised proposal would give personnel the right to submit a written request for reasons for the recommendation.

The employee also then would have the right to request the person or unit responsible for the recommendation to reconsider it.

The meeting will be held at 3:30 p.m. in the faculty lounge of the Faculty Office Complex.

Concert

gement, in which instance, any monies paid by the purchaser (ASUI) shall be returned forthwith."

About $10,000 of the costs the ASUI is asking ARS to pay are for crew set-ups, stage rental, spotlight rental, catering, promotion, electricians, septic facilities, mobile home rental and the lead-in band.

"The contract said we had to have all that was needed to set up," said Fehrenbacher. "All the arrangements had been made when they cancelled six hours before the concert, so if we aren't the injured party, I don't know what you'd call us."

Fehrenbacher said ASUI Attorney General Trudy Hanson and U of I Attorney Jon Warren are optimistic about the ASUI's position in recovering the costs.

Alex Hodges, the ARS booking agent, told Fehrenbacher Friday there would be no problem reimbursing the ASUI for the costs, but later told the Argonaut that the clause only covers any deposits the ASUI may have paid ARS, not the set-up costs.

ARS representatives told Fehrenbacher Monday they would be willing to reschedule the concert for sometime in December, but Fehrenbacher said the only way he would consider the possibility is if it were "practically a benefit concert."

If the ASUI is unable to recover the costs, about $8,700 for set-up and promotion, and $1,250 for the lead-in band, the money will have to come from the ASUI general reserve fund.

According to ASUI Finance Committee Chairman Jeff Thomson, all expenditures from the general reserve will be frozen until the ARS situation is solved.

"If they are nice about it and will pay, it could be settled in a week," said Thomson. "If not, it could continue all semester and possibly the money would come out of next year's general reserve." The ASUI currently has about $13,000 in the reserve account.

Hodges said ARS is losing a lot of money because they were forced to cancel concerts in Cheney and Ellensburg, Wash., Corvallis, Ore., and Santa Clara, Calif.

According to Thomson, student representatives from Central Washington University at Ellensburg, said they would combine forces with the ASUI to recover costs.

To obtain a ticket refund, take concert tickets to the SUB information desk or, if living out of Moscow, send them with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to SUB Manager Dean Vettrus.

U of I Career Day reveals job futures for students

Anyone who needs more information about career fields, the kinds of jobs available and where they are is invited to attend University of Idaho Career Day Thursday, Oct. 23.

Sponsored by the Student Alumni Relations Board, the event will be held from 9 a.m.-noon and from 1-4:30 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom. There is no admission charge.

More than 50 representatives with information about more than 40 career fields will be on hand to visit informally with students and others needing career information.

Some of the fields to be represented are business and economics, agriculture, art and architecture, counseling and education, engineering and computer science, forestry and wildlife management, communications, law, medicine, the military, home economics, recreation and travel and many others.

THE FUTURE. MAKE A CAREER OF IT.

At General Dynamics Convair Division, imaginative, highly-motivated people are working together to develop the technology of the '80s and beyond. Engineers applying their ideas, education and technical know-how to the design, development and production of vitally important, on-going programs: Advanced avionics, digital integrating systems. Commercial aircraft design and development. The cruise missile program. Advanced space structures and aircraft design. Energy systems.

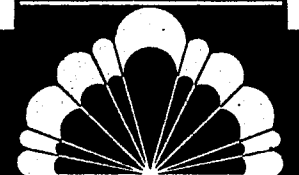

Moving forward through the '80's requires the best team of enthusiastic, creative professionals in all areas of engineering — Avionics, Structural, Computer Technology, Mechanical, Industrial, Manufacturing, Electrical, Aerospace, Systems and Numerical Control.
