Tuition, fees top agenda at regents' meeting

A proposed second semester fee increase, a tuition increase and several legislative proposals on tuition and fees top the agenda of this week's State Board of Education/Board of Regents meeting in Boise.

ASUI President Scott Fehrenbacher said he doesn't expect the Associated Students of Idaho to take a stance for or against the proposed $50 fee hike. However, Fehrenbacher plans to tell the board that he does not favor the $50 fee increase, but might support a lower fee increase.

The fee was "arrived at arbitrarily," Fehrenbacher said, and "doesn't reflect the needs here."

A public hearing on the proposal to raise student fees $50, the per-credit-hour part-time fee by $4, and non-resident tuition by $100 is set for Thursday at 8 a.m.

Other agenda items from the U of I, Boise State University, Lewis Clark State College and Idaho State University are scheduled for Wednesday.

Among items the U of I wants regents to approve are: continuation of planning for implementation of the U of I/Washington State University public television merger, and construction of married student housing for the handicapped. The regents will also be asked to approve $1.2 million in grants accepted by the university.

According to U of I officials, some advantages of the proposed public television merger are: a one-third cost cut for taxpayers, better coverage, easily available programing services and more localized programs.

A reason given for the proposed married housing for handicapped students is that the present demand is much higher than the supply can meet. The proposal states that nearly 120 students could not be helped this year.

Students petition for longer hours

Students interested in longer SUB operating hours are circulating a petition and voicing their complaints at the SUB Board meeting today.

The petition states the SUB Food Service and cafeteria sections are open for the convenience of the best cash-customer instead of the students. The group expected 200 petition signatures by today.

The cafeteria closes at 10 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays and 9 p.m. Sundays.

Susan Machler, a graduate English student and group spokesman, said the cafeteria should be open later on the nights the SUB is most used by students--Sunday through Thursday. On Friday and Saturday nights, when most of the customers are high school students, the cafeteria's hours could be shortened, the group contends.

The students also suggest the cafeteria open later than 8 a.m. on weekends, if hours must be trimmed so that week-day hours can be extended.

Many students do not get out of classes until after 9 p.m. weeknights, and if a group of students wants to study over a cup of coffee, there is little time for it, said Brian Chatwin, a junior mechanical engineering major.

Civil suit filed against Barker, state of Idaho

Stan and Marla Slutz of Troy filed a civil suit Friday against University of Idaho football player Larry Barker and the State of Idaho in connection with a beating Slutz received in Moscow in December, 1979. The suit was filed in Idaho Second District Court in Moscow. Slutz was beaten unconscious, had his jaw separated from his skull, and had his nose and other facial bones broken in a fight at the corner of Sixth and Jackson streets Dec. 12, 1979.

Barker was charged with a felony count of battery in connection with the incident, but the criminal charges were dismissed in September for lack of evidence.

The civil suit asks for $6,000 to pay for Slutz's medical expenses, $100,000 for Slutz's pain and suffering and general damages, and $10,000 for Mrs. Slutz's loss of her husband's "society." The suit also asks the defendants to pay the Slutz's attorney's fees.

The State of Idaho is listed as a defendant in the suit on the grounds that Barker "was compensated for his athletic participation at the University of Idaho," and that "The University of Idaho is a University of the State of Idaho."

The suit charges that "the University of Idaho knew that (Barker) was a man of violent and dangerous disposition," and that the State of Idaho "permitted and encouraged Larry Barker's dangerous and violent propensities in violation of their own rules and regulations."

The suit also charges that "In permitting and encouraging Larry Barker's aggressive and antagonistic disposition, the State of Idaho knew, or should have known that Larry Barker might inflict injuries on (Slutz.)"

Slutz's father-in-law, Idaho District Judge Watt E. Prather of Coeur d'Alene, wrote a letter in October charging that U of I officials and Moscow city officials tolerate violent behavior by athletes.

Prather's letter, addressed to U of I President Richard Gibb and three other people, received publicity in the Argonaut, the Idahonian and the Lewiston Morning Tribune.

Prather told the Argonaut in October that his views might be biased because he is Slutz's father-in-law, but said, "I felt a genuine concern about the entire atmosphere that exists in a town and university community regarding athletic violence."

Prather didn't mention any specific incidents of athletic violence in his letter.

The Slutzes are being represented by attorneys Thomas A. Mitchell and Michael J. Vrable of Coeur d'Alene.

Faculty briefed on state budget, big cuts cause negative impact

Members of several faculty and staff committees were briefed on Idaho's 1982 budget forecast Monday but just how the university will cope with potential massive budget cuts wasn't revealed.

Financial vice-president David McKinney and Academic Vice President Robert Furgason met with faculty and staff members to discuss where the university stands with the 1981 and 1982 budgets.

Furgason called the budget a "changing ballgame." He said budgets were not keeping up with inflationary pressures and resulted in a "negative impact on our programs." We are "fighting the best we can," he said.

To "display the magnitude of the problems" facing state legislators in January, Furgason outlined the state general account budget requests.

Requests are about $502 million statewide, while the state treasury for next year "will be more or less $440 million." That money "will not go very far", Furgason said.

Both vice-presidents emphasized the need to convince legislators and the public of higher education needs.

McKinney said it is necessary to "convince the people of this state of the need for higher education."

Furgason added the university has to display and fight for what it considers the bare minimum for the institution.

If at the end of the legislative session appropriate funds are not given, Furgason said there will be a "real problem figuring out how to budget for this institution."

"I don't think most people realize how much cutting it takes to net a million dollars," he said.

He added that he was tired of hearing the phrase "tighten the belt." Furgason said it was "not an effective method of dealing with budgets at this time."

The academic vice-president said he has been trying to solve budget problems for the past two years and has not come up with a permanent solution yet.

Dean offered senate committee job

Charles McQuillen, dean of the College of Business and Economics at the University of Idaho, has been asked to join the staff of the Senate Budget Committee in Washington, D.C. The committee, with its counterpart in the House of Representatives, works to structure the annual federal budget.

McQuillen said the chance he will accept the job has a "low probability". One of the important functions of the committee's staff is to prepare the budget agenda, which poses the fundamental questions the Congress must address, he said.

McQuillen said last week that the job offer was made by a member of Sen. Howard Baker's staff. Baker, a Republican from Tennessee, is expected to take over as senate majority leader under the Reagan administration.

McQuillen made a distinction between an "economic" agenda and the "political." Since the agenda functions partially to determine which issues Congress will focus on, it is important that the agenda reflect the economic priorities of the nation and not the partisan concerns of politics, he said. Politicians are usually willing to look at the "hard" questions before the fact, he said, but their track record is poor in implementing programs that might offend their constituencies or powerful interest groups.

The Reagan administration hopes to cut taxes by 10 percent each year for the next three years, balance the budget, and increase defense spending simultaneously. McQuillen cited revenue sharing as one federal program that may disappear under the new administration. "Without a deficit, there's no revenue to share," he said, adding that presently the government is in the "absurd" position of sending checks to states with surpluses.

Scarcity at the federal level, however, will have to be accepted, he said, necessitating cuts in some programs and more managerial efficiency in others.

McQuillen said that if he receives assurances that the committee will place emphasis on economics instead of politics, and of a multi-year, stable agenda, he will probably accept the 10-week appointment. He previously served as deputy minority staff director on the committee before accepting his present position here in 1978.

U of I student dies in holiday accident

University of Idaho student Beverly Ann Flowers, 21, was killed in a traffic accident in Lemhi County Wednesday, Nov. 26. Funeral services were held Saturday in her hometown, Orofino.

Roger Olson, 23, driver of the vehicle and a senior in architecture at the U of I, is listed in fair condition at the intensive care unit of Idaho Falls Consolidated Hospitals—Riverview Facility with severe multiple fractures.

The two-car accident occurred at 7:15 a.m. Wednesday about one mile northwest of the Lemhi-Clark county line on State Highway 28, according to Idaho State Police. Olson reportedly was not driving in his proper traffic lane when his northwest-bound 1972 Mazda collided head-on with a 1977 Chevrolet tractor-trailer driven by John W. Allen, 23, of Montevideo.

Flowers was the daughter of Neal and Peggy Flowers of Orofino. She was born May 30, 1959, in Sante Fe, N.M., and moved to the northwest in 1972. She attended Lewis-Clark State College at Lewiston before transferring to the U of I, where she was a senior in bacteriology.

Flowers is survived by her parents; a brother, James, who is also a U of I student; a sister, Pamela Dixon of Idaho Falls; and a grandmother, Eula King of Silver City, N.M.

Free education ... ignored?

In their quest for the perfect fee increase (one which isn't blatantly tuition) the regents are tromping all over the guarantee of free education for Idaho residents.

Over the years, that guarantee has eroded under the pressure of mounting registration fees. But for the most part, the fees have been used for services and facilities not critical to students' education.

This week the board will vote on a fee that would change all that. An across-the-board, across-the-state $50 fee has been proposed to bring higher education the money it lost when the state suffered revenue shortfalls.

The money, the university presidents have said, is critical to keeping students' education up to par. So no matter how they try to juggle the fees and the ways the money is spent—in order to document that the funds aren't used for education—it is obvious that the students are making up for what the state can't (or won't) put into education.

The fee increases and bits of legislation the regents are considering all violate the spirit, if not the letter of the constitutional provision that Idaho students get free education.

Lost in the scuffle is the central issue the regents as higher education advocates should be addressing. And that is whether this state should be committed to providing inexpensive higher education for its residents.

Presence pressure

Editor,

We got screwed on the street closures; we got screwed on the East End Addition; and now those who control the Student (?) Union Building are trying to screw us concerning the operation of this apparently student-owned facility. We paid for the SUB with a fee increase — the story of our lives. (It is interesting to note that now that the bonds for the building have been paid off, this same fee is still being assessed at registration time. These SUB fees are now going to pay for — guess what? — the East End Addition.)

But this time a small group — you know, a few radicals trying to make life tough for AI and Dean — of about 200 students refuse to be screwed by the people who consider the student body a mere annoyance and a hindrance to the operation of the university. These students have signed a petition for an investigation of student demand for the facility. In other words, we want longer hours. The writers of this petition are the undersigned, two English graduate students and others, who are sick of being thrown out of the SUB because our "Daddy" has set our bedtime at 10 o'clock.

For those of you who missed the petition and want to voice your complaints, and for those of you who are concerned with the principle involved — that the SUB and university should respond to student demand — we ask you to join us at the SUB Board meeting today at 4:30 p.m. The room will be listed on the SUB Information board. In fact, we beg. Signing the petition or giving us support outside the meeting will not be enough. The success of this effort depends entirely on how many students show up this afternoon. You do not have to say anything; just exert some real pressure on the SUB Board by your very presence. We want more than faceless names on a petition or the statement "Many students feel...." Our success depends upon having "the many students" in the room, crowding out the SUB Board members themselves. Please join so that the student body, at least once this semester, can assert its identity.

Power costs

Editor,

On Thursday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Galena Silver Room of the SUB, the film Paul Jacobs and the Nuclear Gang will be shown. This is a powerful film about the effect nuclear weapons testing had and continues to have on the people of southern Utah and Nevada. It especially deals with the fight of the late Paul Jacobs to expose the government coverup of tests that were run with no regard for human safety, even though the government knew the severe risks that existed.

The nuclear weapons and power industry is stronger than ever in today's world. The proposed MX missile is an especially grave threat to people in our country today, especially those who live in the western states. This film shows the costs of the nuclear industry in human terms. Another short film, War Without Winners, will also be shown. The films are sponsored by Idahoans for Safe Energy. Admission is free.

Sincerely,
Michael Haberman

ARG obligation

Editor,

I am compelled to respond to the article regarding student financial aid and my appeal. Your article, if left uncorrected, is erroneous and misleading and does an injustice to those students who rely on financial aid.

The limited amount of information in regard to student financial aid and the option of on- or off-campus budgets require students to rely on the interpretation and arbitrary dictates of the financial aid personnel such as age and personal appearance.

I won my appeal basically because the financial aid office had not followed its own guidelines in regard to on- and off-campus budgets. In addition, my letter to HEW caused the U.S. government, the source of these funds, to require the university to comply with federal guidelines and base financial need on whether the student actually lives on or off campus, instead of where Mr. Davey, the Financial Aid director feels they should live.

The implication of your article was that because my appeal allowed me to receive the money I was entitled to, that other students would be denied funds. This of course is not true. As in my case, half of the funds were in loans. Furthermore, the amount of money which universities receive is based upon the cost of education for that institution and area. In point of fact, the financial aid office, by denying off-campus students the money they are entitled to receive, has decreased the amount of financial aid money and student loan money available to the U of I.

Mr. Mitchell, chairman of the Financial Aid Committee, should be applauded for his even handling of the appeals forum and his meeting the requirements of due process for the students at this university.

It has taken great individual effort on my part to decipher the rules and regulations so that I could understand them. Surely the Argonaut has the obligation to provide accurate and independent reporting on matters so important as this to so many students.

Sincerely,
Roxane Broadhead

The history of fees: In 1893 there were none

by Mary Kirk
Staff Reporter

"Tuition in all departments, except music, is free. There are no fees or extras of any sort."
—1893-94 U of I catalog

"Students in all divisions pay $219 a semester, (increased to $245 in fall 1980). Students in certain divisions pay additional amounts; see "Special Fees" further on in this catalog section."
—1979-81 U of I catalog

What a comparison between what was not charged to students when the U of I first opened its doors in 1892 and what students are presently paying for higher education.

Currently, the State Board of Education/Board of Regents is looking into legislation to cope with the increased needs of Idaho's higher education institutions and dwindling state funds. Such legislation could legalize tuition, define tuition and fees and permit the board to transfer, consolidate or eliminate programs.

In Boise Wednesday, the regents will vote on a proposed $50 student fee increase which would be in effect next semester only.

To understand the subject of tuition and fees which will likely be a hot topic in this winter's legislative session, it is important to understand some of its history. How does the Idaho Code ban tuition?

To show that the constitution forbids tuition, a section of the constitution and a section of the Territorial Act of 1889 are usually cited.

Article IX, Section 1 of the constitution calls for a system of "public, free common schools."

"No student who shall have been a resident of the State for one year next preceding his admission shall be required to pay any fees for tuition in the university excepting in a professional department and for extra studies."

Why did the founding fathers ban tuition?

Several reasons—both in the past and present—have been given for the constitutional ban on tuition.

1901-02 U of I catalog: "The discipline of the University is administered upon the theory that the greatest favor the State can bestow upon its youth is to give them free tuition in its University."

1900-01 U of I catalog: "Many a self-reliant young man or woman hesitates to undertake a collegiate course on account of the fear of financial inability to complete the same. But free tuition is a large offset to that."

Ernest Hartung, U of I Foundation director and former U of I president, said the founding fathers probably banned tuition for two reasons:

—the better educated the public, the more money it will make and the more taxes it will pay.

—the broader the education of the citizen, the broader the education of the legislators.

"That, I'm sure, is the rationalization of no tuition," Hartung said.

What is the "registration fee" charged to U of I students?

The "registration fee" students pay covers most lab and course charges, allows membership in the ASUI, an identification card and access to all services and facilities the U of I maintains according to the U of I catalog.

The Controller's Office breaks this semester's fee of $245 into five sections. These are: Building fees—$93.50, ASUI—$15.75, Athletic Operations—$50.50, Registration—$10, and Service Fees—$75.25.

Why did students first start to pay fees?

Building construction and service operations were the two main reasons a fee first appeared, said Gerald Reynolds, controller. When did the first fees appear?

An assortment of incidental fees first appeared in the early 1900s. These were lab fees, diploma fees, health fees, and the first ASUI fee.

It wasn't until around 1950 that a combined fee appeared which resembled the registration fee of today. Called an "institution fee," it included an ASUI fee, a service fee, a lab fee, an extracurricular fee and a registration fee.

By 1960, the fee had changed its name to "university fixed charges" and had expanded to include fees for athletic events and buildings.

The present term of "registration fee" has been in use since 1968, according to Bruce Bray, faculty secretary.

Why did fees increase the way they did?

Increased building construction, budget cutbacks and increased costs of student services all helped to inflate the registration fee.

Building construction was primarily responsible for a near tripling of the fee in the past 20 years. From 1960-1980, the fee jumped from $65 to $245.

An increased student population demanded more dorms and facilities, controller Reynolds said. And after 1961, student fees increased to pay off bond issues for the SUB, Wallace Complex, the University Classroom Center, Theophilus Tower, and the Physical Education Building.

State budget cutbacks are another reason fees have increased because of the reduction in the university budget.

Sydney Duncombe, U of I political science professor and state budget director under former governor Cecil Andrus, said a reduction in university budgets requires two responses—cuts in programs or a fee increase. He said universities usually do both.

Duncombe, however, pointed out one difference between past funding cutbacks and the latest 3.85 percent cutback.

In the past 80 years, cutbacks (a result of a failure of state taxes to reach anticipated amounts) have meant reductions in state money requested by the universities.

While that situation occurred this year, too, there was a difference, Duncombe said. After the universities (like other state agencies) received their state appropriations, Gov. John Evans ordered a cutback in funding the universities had already received.

Duncombe said Evans ordered this cutback because revenues had fallen below estimates, and there was a danger of the general fund going in to the red.

If revenues fall below estimates, Duncombe said, there must be cutbacks because the constitution calls for a balanced state budget. The increased cost of student services is a third reason for fee hikes.

The ASUI fee charged to students was recently raised by $3.50 pending regent approval. Students voted for the increase because the ASUI said inflation had increased operating expenses to a point where it could not raise internal revenue to fund departments unable to pay for themselves.

Cuts in state funding to other student services have also increased fees.

Several years ago, according to Reynolds, state-appropriated money helped fund the Student Union and the Student Health Center.

But, said Reynolds, when the Board of Regents took the money away, student fees increased in those areas.

How have the fees been justified as not being tuition?

In a legal brief prepared for the Associated Students of Idaho, ASUI Attorney General Trudy Hanson said several jurisdictions have distinguished fees and tuition. Reliance on these decisions has allowed fees, she said.

According to the brief, several court cases have decided tuition has no relation to fees for heat, light, cleaning, or interest on bonds in colleges or schools.

The courts also said tuition does not include matriculation, hospital, lab and athletic fees or fees for construction, equipment and maintenance of student union buildings.

Asked by the regents to untangle the tuition/fee ball of yarn, legislators may question whether an 88-year-old promise for free education should continue to exist.

In a personal letter to the first U of I students, the university stated: "You must remember that tuition in the State University is free. It matters not how poor your scholarship, or "backward" in your studies; as it is often expressed, the University is for you."

Vandals remain undefeated with 65-51 win

The Idaho Vandal basketball team raised its record to 2-0 on the young season with a 65-51 win over rival Washington State University Monday night in Spokane.

But the win could be costly for the Vandals because star sophomore guard Brian Kellerman injured his back after being fouled in the first half. Kellerman was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital in Spokane and will probably sit out the next two weeks.

Filling in for Kellerman was Dan Forge. The senior guard came through with four big steals late in the game to preserve the Vandal victory. Last year, the Cougars edged the Vandals 82-79.

The Cougars jumped out to a seven-point lead early in the game. The Vandals came right back, outscoring WSU 10-2 in the next three minutes, taking the lead on Phil Hopson's 15-foot jump shot.

Turnovers took their toll for the Cougars as Idaho built up a 28-23 halftime lead. In the first half, the Cougars committed 15 turnovers compared to nine for Idaho.

Junior college transfer Ken Owens hit the first shot of the second half and Hopson picked up a stuff to put the Vandals up 32-23.

The Cougars, paced by Angelo Hill and Tyrone Brown, cut the lead to 32-29 with 14:45 left to play before the Vandals hit six unanswered points.

Reserve center Mike Dow picked up his fifth foul of the night with a little over six minutes left and Hill hit both ends of a one-and-one situation to cut the Vandal lead to 46-40.

The Vandal score stayed at 46 for four and a half minutes while the Cougars came back to take a 47-46 lead with four minutes left in the game.

But that's when Forge went to work. After Hopson tipped in an Owen shot, Forge hit a 20-foot jumper to put the Vandals up by three points.

Forward Ron Maben put in a six footer and the Vandals led 52-47 with three minutes left.

Forge stole the ball from Hill and went in all alone for an easy lay-up. Forge again stole the ball and hit Hopson for another slam dunk and the Vandals were up by nine.

Forge wasn't through yet. Again he stole the ball and drove in for an easy lay-up and the Vandals were ahead 59-49 with 1:10 left.

Hopson ended up as the game's leading scorer with 19 points and was the Vandal's leading rebounder with 13. Maben added 11 rebounds and six points. Owens had 14 points and Forge had six.

The Vandals hit on 24 of 50 shots from the field for 48 percent while the Cougars hit on 17 of 44 for 37 percent.

Idaho hit 17 of 29 from the foul line and committed 20 turnovers while the Cougars committed 27 turnovers and hit on 17 of 28 from the line.

Rebounds were fairly equal for both teams with the Vandals grabbing 35 and the Cougars 36.

Idaho kicked off the basketball season in Lincoln, Neb., by beating the University of Nebraska, 64-53.

Idaho had trouble in the early going but fought back from a 9-2 deficit to take a 28-25 halftime lead.

"We started off sloppy, but the kids got going when they had to," said third-year coach Don Monson.

Kellerman was the Vandals leading scorer with 15 points while Maben added 14. Reserve guard Dan Forge came off the bench to add 13.

"Dan did a great job coming off the bench for us," commented Monson. Forge put the icing on the cake with a three-point play to foil the Cornhuskers comeback late in the game.

Monson wasn't entirely satisfied with the Vandal victory before a crowd of 7,750 that saw the Vandals beat the Huskers for the second time in two years.

"I guess coaches are never content," said Monson. "We threw the ball away too many times, and we didn't execute well at times."

Idaho turned the ball over 19 times to Nebraska's 15. But the Vandals did outrebound the Huskers 37-35. Last season, the Vandals finished last in the conference in rebounding.

In summing up the victory, Monson said winning on the road is always great. "I'm tickled for my kids. They did what they had to do."

Idaho, who was picked to finish second in the conference by the Big Sky writers and named to finish in the No. 2 spot by Sports Illustrated, will open its home season Friday night against Simon Fraser.

Vandal volleyball team gains spot in national tourney

Idaho's volleyball team continued its domination of Pacific Northwest opponents by capturing the Division II Region IX Championship Nov. 21-22 at Bellingham, Wash.

The Vandals were seeded first in the NCWSA sanctioned event and won all their matches in straight games.

After a first round bye, Idaho defeated rival Eastern Washington University 15-9, 17-15. The Vandals were forced to employ new tactics and just learned plays against Eastern after the Cheney school forced Idaho to go five games in a Vandal home match only one week earlier.

Later on Friday, Idaho disposed of another tough opponent Lewis-Clark State College, who had finished second to the Vandal women in the Interstate League Championship. The scores from the Warrior match were 15-10, 15-7, and the victory propelled Idaho into the tourney's championship match.

In the title contest against host Western Washington University, Idaho found themselves down in the early going and had to call time out in the first game with the score 7-1 in Western's favor.

"Our game plan going in was to tip and hit off-speed. However, it obviously wasn't working, and we went back to a hitting game," said assistant coach Vicki Powell.

After the time-out Idaho battled back and captured the first game of the match 15-13. "We took advantage of bad serves by Western and the fact our players are in good condition and have a vertical leap that allowed them to get above our opponents," added coach Amanda Burk.

The second game was all Idaho, and the Vandals captured the championship by the score of 15-6. More importantly, the victory means a trip to nationals.

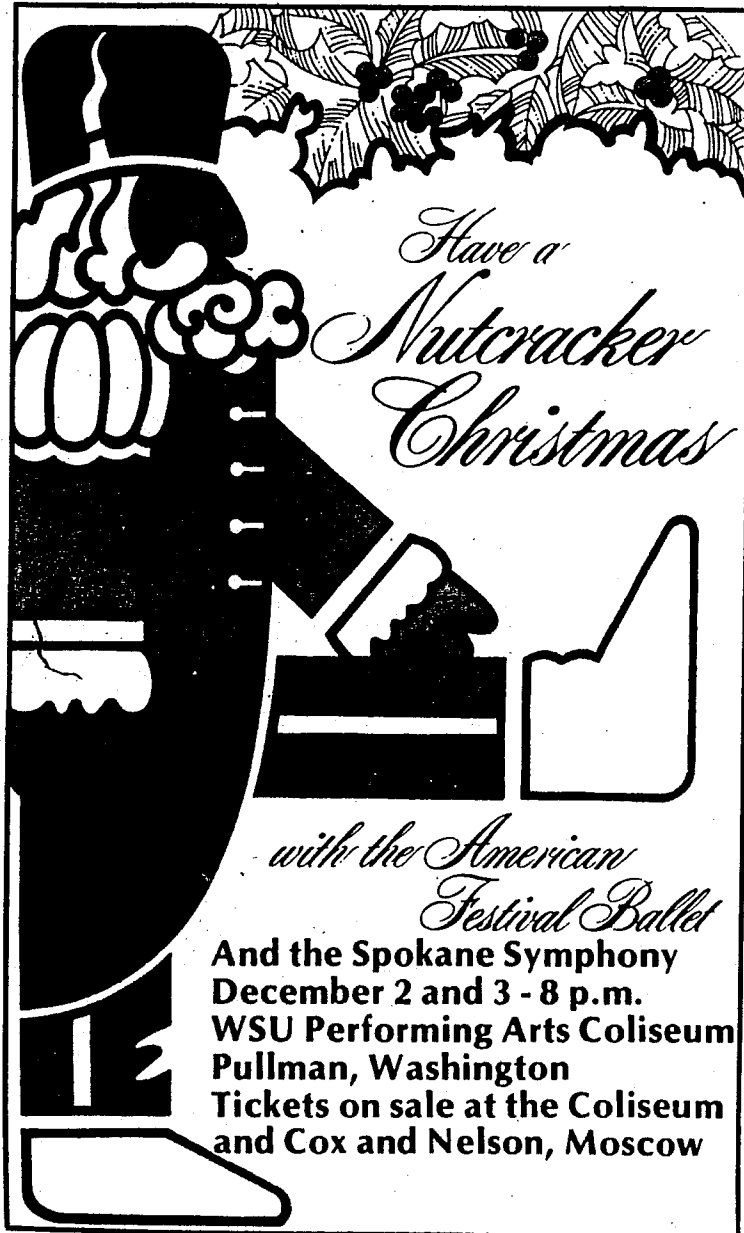

For their efforts in regional competition, four Idaho players made the Region IX All-Tournament team.

Making the first team on unanimous choice was Pam Ford. The freshman had 28 assists and 33 kills for Idaho. Also on the first squad was team captain Yvonne Smith. The senior paced Idaho with 31 defensive saves and recorded 34 kills in the competition.

Chosen for the second team was sophomore Linda Kelling. The Lyons, Colo. native was perfect from the service line in 29 attempts and added 45 assists. Joining Kelling on the second team was Jenny Rothstrom, a freshman from Newport. She had 15 kills and had 44 serves with one error.

Powell reported the team was playing at its peak throughout the tournament. "There wasn't one facet of play either offensively or defensively which was weak. We served the best we had all year and had good passing," Powell said. "As a team we hit over 40 percent kills and anything over 20 percent is considered good."

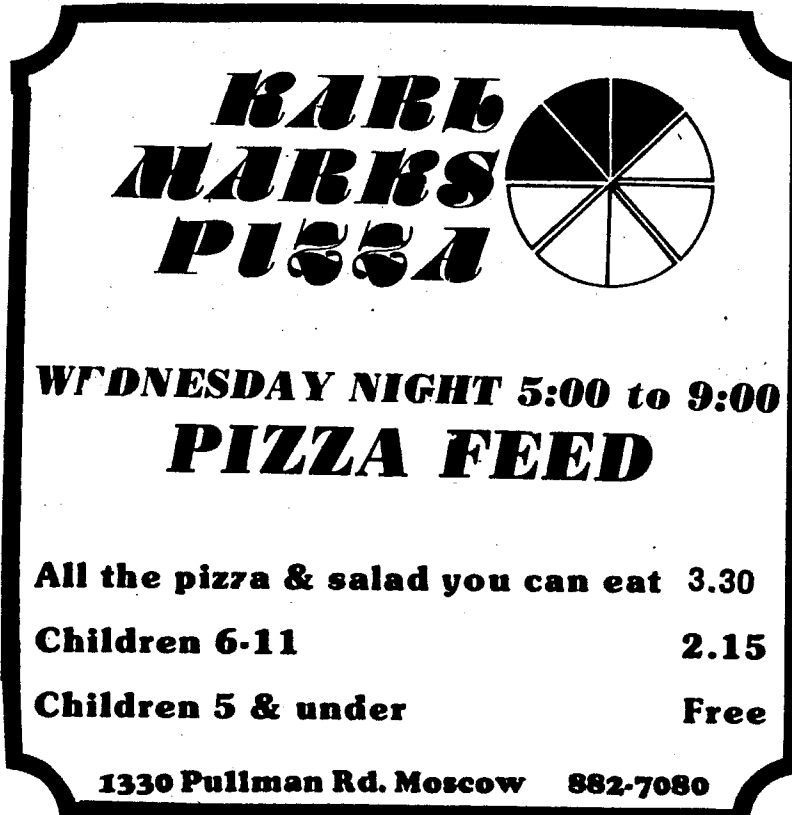

Nationals are slated for Cal-State Northridge Dec. 11-13.

Vandals end successful football season on sour note

The Idaho Vandals concluded their 1980 football season with a 6-5 overall record and 4-3 Big Sky Conference mark which earned them third in the league. It was Idaho's best performance since 1976 when the team posted a 7-4 mark.

Nevada-Reno spoiled Idaho's hopes to equal the 1976 mark by upending the Vandals 38-7 Nov. 22 in Reno. Nevertheless, Idaho coach Jerry Davitch was pleased with his club's overall performance on the season.

"I think it's a tribute to the university and to the players that we were able to go over the .500 mark this season. The kids, many of whom will be back next year, played as hard all year as any team I've ever coached. We have received great support from our boosters and the university the past three years and that has made a significant difference in the program.

"We had some disappointments this year. There was at least one game we felt we should have won, but I guess every coaching staff in the country feels that way after the season is over. We have a lot of talented players returning next year and with a good recruiting year, I expect us to have another good season," Davitch said.

The Vandals lose only 10 seniors — punter an reserve tight end Chris Brockman, reserve wide receiver John Palumbo, offensive linemen Dave Monico, John Girnt and Pat Hills, defensive end Larry Barker, defensive lineman Monty Elder, reserve linebacker Dave Parry and defensive backs Carlton McBride and Ray McCanna.

As a team, the Vandals set a new single season scoring record of 266, breaking the old record of 262 set by the 1973 squad. Pete O'Brien equalled the single-season point after touchdown mark of 32 to tie Steve Tanner's 1973 record. Had Idaho scored one more time last week, O'Brien would have had a chance to break the record.

Defensively, Idaho set a single-game record for the fewest net yards allowed by limiting Montana to a minus 32. The old mark was 0 yards against Oregon in 1908.

Individually, Jack Klein, who returns next year as a senior, moved into the No. 3 spot on the career receiving list with 1,143 yards. It's a certainty next season that Klein will overtake No. 2 Kirk Allen who has 1,169 yards.

Running back Terry Idler, who suffered a serious knee injury in the Nevada-Reno game moved into the No. 12 spot on the career rushing list with 1,190 yards, including 678 yards this season.

Brockman finished his career as Idaho's No. 2 career punter with an average of 41.3 per kick. He replaced Ralph Lowe who has a 41.2 average. Steve Hunter is the Vandals' all-time leading punter with a 42.5 yard average.

McCanna, who intercepted two passes this season, moved into a tie for fifth place on the career list with a total of nine.

First-year quarterback Ken Hobart enjoyed a fine year running the football. Hobart was the team's leading rusher with 829 yards and seven touchdowns. Idaho averaged 260 yards a game on the ground to lead the Big Sky. Russell Davis, who suffered a leg injury and played hurt half the year finished as the Vandals' third leading rusher with 523 yards. All of the Vandal running backs and quarterbacks will be back next season.

Hobart hit on 40 percent of his passes this year, completing 59 passes out of 145 attempts for 1,083 yards. Hobart's 59 completions included 11 touchdowns.

Tight end Tom Coombs finished second behind Klein in receiving. Coombs had 19 catches for 355 yards and five touchdowns.

Idaho finished third in total offense in the Big Sky after leading the conference for most of the season. At one point, Idaho was ranked second in the nation in total offense. The Vandals finished the season averaging 362 yards a game.

Scoring, again the Vandals led the conference most of the season and led the nation for two weeks. Idaho finished third in the conference, averaging more than 24 points a game.

Defensively, Barker finished as the Vandals' second leading tackler with 103. Barker ranked fourth in the conference for tackles by defensive linemen. Steve Nelson was close behind with 90.

Linebacker Sam Merriman was the Vandals' leading tackler for the second year in a row. Merriman, a sophomore, finished with 111 tackles.

Defensive back Greg Jennings finished second in the conference in tackles by defensive backs with 97. Miller was third with 96.

Hoopsters start season Thursday

A 25-6 record and Regional IX Championship will be a hard act to follow for the Idaho women's basketball team, but first-year-coach Pat Dobratz is not backing down from the challenge. "I am excited about the upcoming season and looking forward to working with the talented group of athletes."

The 1980-81 women's basketball team combines the national level experience of seven returning letter-winners and seven top recruits. Leading the way are three All-Regional Players: Willette White (second team All-American, leader in assists and steals); Denise Brose (leader in scoring and rebounding. Honorable Mention for All-American); and Karin Sobotta (second in assists, steals and scoring). Lending support on the boards will be Cathy Feely. U of I's only player entering her fourth year on the roster. Also gaining valuable playing experience last year were Liz Abel and Renee Brown.

Seven outstanding recruits will join the Vandal squad. They include Cathy Chalik, all-city center from Tacoma; Dana Fish, an all-stater from Auburn; Darlene Davis, an all-stater from Lake Oswego, Ore.; Cathy Owens, all-city from Spokane, Wash.; Jody Grace, an all-regional transfer from Green River Community College; Karen Omodt, a transfer from the University of Washington.

Dobratz is counting on good team speed, tough defense, a strong inside game and aggressiveness to carry her club through a rigorous schedule including eight games against Division I schools. "We realize everyone is out to beat us, so we must develop to our fullest potential and defend our crown."

Three machines owned by the Idaho Beverage Company of Lewiston were vandalized on campus Nov. 20-28 in apparently unrelated incidents.

A vending machine was turned upside down in the TV lounge of Upham Hall between noon Nov. 20 and noon Nov. 21. About $20 worth of damage was done to the machine, and about $10 worth of merchandise was stolen.

Police officer fails to appear, forfeits bail

Officer Terry Hogan of the Campus Police forfeited $15 bail Wednesday in connection with a traffic citation.

A Latah County Sheriff's deputy cited Hogan for parking in the middle of a roadway after Hogan's patrol car was hit by another vehicle the first week in November.

Hogan was dispatched to Blake Street and University Avenue about 1:30 a.m., Nov. 7. He parked his car, with its lights off, about 10 feet from the right hand curb, facing the wrong direction on the "one-way" section of Blake. Hogan saw another vehicle turn on to Blake, and switched on his lights, but not soon enough to avoid a collision.

Coach Monson pleads innocent

Don Monson, University of Idaho basketball coach, pleaded innocent Nov. 20 to a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. Monson was arrested on the DUI charge Nov. 12.

A pre-trial hearing on the case is scheduled for 4:45 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 16 in Idaho Second District Court in Moscow.

police blotter

...Andrew Fitch, Willis Sweet Hall, reported a NAPA aircleaner and the bottom part of a Mopar air horn were stolen from his car between noon Nov. 8 and 12:30 p.m. Nov. 25 while it was parked in a lot on the east side of Theophilus Tower. The stolen items were worth about $20.

...Carl Blake, Chrisman Hall, reported his red Schwinn bicycle was stolen from the bicycle storage room in the basement of Theophilus Tower between 12:30 p.m. Nov. 23 and 1 p.m. Nov. 25. The bicycle, worth about $70, had a chain and padlock, but it wasn't chained to anything at the time it was stolen.

...U of I student Art Buell, 316 S. Roosevelt St., reported about $125 worth of items were stolen from his locker in Memorial Gym between 4:30 p.m., Nov. 21 and noon, Nov. 24. The items included a warm-up suit, a pair of jogging shoes, handball gloves, handballs, a knit cap, and a U of I lock and towel.

...The Moscow Volunteer Fire Department extinguished a smoldering fire in a utility room trash can in the basement of Gault Hall about 10 a.m. Sunday. According to a police report, the fire had smoldered for about a day before the smoke filtered into the basement hallway. A fire in another trash can apparently burned out on its own. No damage was done to the building.

...Residents of the Pi Beta Phi sorority saw two or more male prowlers on the main floor of the sorority house a little before 5 a.m. Wednesday. On arrival, campus police discovered that someone had ransacked the house. Two fire extinguishers also had been taken, and then returned empty.

...Fred Page, Gray Loess Hall, reported someone smashed the sunroof of his car between 9:30 p.m., Nov. 20 and 3:45 p.m., Nov. 21 as it was parked in lot 9 near the U of I greenhouse. About $275 worth of damage was done to the sunroof. About $125 worth of damage was done to the wiring of the car's stereo system by an apparent attempt to steal the system.

...Joan Hogan, 2814 Sunset Dr., Lewiston, reported that her brown imitation-leather purse was lost or stolen in the Kibbie Dome the evening of Nov. 15. The purse contained between $30 and $40 in cash, Texaco, Crescent, Penney's, Mastercard and Bon Marche credit cards, and an Idaho driver's license.

...Someone took a Realistic model TRC-421 40-channel citizens band radio from a U of I pickup between 5 p.m. Wednesday and 9:30 a.m. Monday. The truck was parked in lot 9 behind the U of I greenhouse at the time the radio was taken. There was no sign of forced entry into the truck.

...Someone broke into the apartment of two absent U of I students during the Thanksgiving break. The door of Bob Harrington and Robert Dyson's apartment at 333 Lauder St. was forced open between 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday. The police have not yet determined whether anything was stolen.

...U of I student, Christopher Nicholas of 124 East A St., was making a left-hand turn from A Street onto Main Sunday evening when the front wheel came off his car. The wheel hub and brakes were damaged in the incident. The brakes were valued at approximately $80. The reason for the wheel coming off is unknown. Nicholas was not injured.

SUB hours

The students are complaining that high school students use the SUB on weekend evenings when most U of I students do not, and they maintain that's not the purpose of the SUB.

SUB Board Chairman Dick Reilly said until now there hasn't been a formal complaint about the hours the SUB is open, and "it was assumed no one had any gripes."

He said the SUB would be open until midnight during finals week, and added that members of SUB

Board would stay later if enough people were studying.

Al Deskiewicz, SUB manager of food operations said the SUB operates on the business hours it does because the department isn't subsidized and must make a certain amount each year. He also said there's no way to protect the equipment after the cafeteria closes.

"Our problem in a nutshell comes down to the design of the facility," Deskiewicz said, "there's no way to secure our equipment."

He said a lot of people in the SUB aren't students and it's too risky to chance vandalism.

"There are adequate areas to study in that don't close early," Deskiewicz said.

Deskiewicz suggested a volunteer group of students guard the cafeteria equipment so that the blue and red buckets might stay open longer.

SUB Board will meet at 4:30 p.m. today. The room will be listed on the SUB information desk board.
