Tower decision finalized; men will move out

by Brian Beesley
Staff Writer

Any hopes entertained by students involved in the now-reality Theophilus Tower move were stifled Monday morning when the University of Idaho administration announced the Tower would indeed become an all-female residence facility next fall.

In a UI News Bureau press release, Bruce Pitman, dean of Student Advisory Services made the announcement, restating the reasons for the move by saying recurring security and vandalism problems in the Tower prompted the shift of the top four, male-inhabited, floors to other locations.

The decision punctuates months of debating, protesting and contemplating by both parties, and although the decision appears final, student reactions indicate that the dispute is not over (see sidebar).

Tentative plans are for Willis Sweet, floors eight and nine of the Tower, to move to McConnell Hall. The Chrisman floors, 10 and 11 are to move to the third and fourth floors of the Gooding Wing of the Wallace Complex.

McCoy Hall, one women's dormitory currently in the Gooding Wing that has been opposed to being moved, will be moved to the 11th floor of the Tower. Olesen Hall, another women's hall mentioned as possibly being moved, will remain in the Gooding Wing, but because there will not be enough returning residents to house the current floors, second and third, will inhabit only the second floor, Pitman said.

The Tower's 10th floor will be a quiet floor for junior, senior and graduate women students, while the eighth and ninth floors will have a new name next fall.

"After a great deal of consideration and study, we feel it's the appropriate action," said Pitman. "By making Theophilus Tower an all-women's hall, it will provide better security for the residents and decrease the amount of vandalism. It will simply provide a better living environment for the students who live there."

Student opposition to the move had been sporadic and fairly unorganized until last week, when some late efforts by the ASUI Senate and the male Tower residents themselves, were made.

Last Wednesday the senate passed a resolution recommending the administration's final decision not include the relocation of any women's living group.

At that time, a petition

Senator blasts decision

by Dan Eakin

An irate Jeff Kunz, ASUI Senator, used words like inexcusable, unforgivable, unscrupulous and uncaring to describe the Administration's decision yesterday to remove men from Theophilus Tower and move McCoy Hall from Wallace Complex to the Tower.

"The biggest problem I see is that there is no outlet for judicial appeal," Kunz said.

"If this was done by design it was a disservice to students to handle it in the manner they did. It's irresponsible to student input," he said.

Last week the Senate passed a resolution unanimously opposed to moving the men's and women's halls. Kunz called the Administration's decision a cop-out designed to make them emerge looking decisive.

He said the administration decision flew directly in the face of the Senate decision not to support the moves.

Shadow people: artistic message for Ground Zero

If a nuclear bomb were to be dropped on Friendship Square in downtown Moscow, people sitting on the benches, students walking through on their way to campus, and children in the play area would be transformed in an instant to thin carbon dust on the sidewalks.

The impact of the damage a nuclear bomb could cause is what art and architecture students from the University of Idaho tried to convey through a project on display in Friendship Square Saturday as part of Ground Zero Week.

A group of about 10

students spent the week cutting out silhouette figures from black paper. These figures, along with some chalk drawings placed on the sidewalks, gave people a concrete idea of the effects of a nuclear bomb blast.

The idea for the project was decided on by a group of students who were concerned with the possibility of nuclear war and involved in Ground Zero Week.

"This means a lot to us because we have interests in creative energy, not destructive energy," said Cara Meckel, the group's coordinator.

Input from three faculty members of the university had been used to guide the group in picking a project and completing it in time for Saturday.

Meckel said she also saw the project as a way to let the community and the college know students do care about what is going on in the world, through an artistic response to the threat of nuclear war.

Political

Council will discuss aid revisions Thursday

Proposed revisions of regulations covering student financial aid and a proposed adjunct faculty classification will be among the topics discussed at Thursday's university faculty meeting.

The university faculty meets once a semester to approve or reject action taken by the Faculty Council during the semester.

The regulations covering financial aid redefines the grade point average a student must have after completing a certain number of credits.

Students who have prior approval from their deans for less than full-time loads will be given a lower priority for aid than full-time students.

Another change states students who have accumulated 12 credits more than the minimum number required for a baccalaureate degree in his or her particular program is not eligible for grant aid. The student may be eligible for college work study and loans, but on a lower priority level.

The proposed adjunct faculty would provide a classification for those who do not normally have teaching as a primary or major responsibility, but may, at the invitation of academic departments, teach classes, advise students, participate in research projects and serve on graduate supervisory committees.

Qualifications for this classification require the member to possess academic degrees or knowledge and experience comparable to what is expected of members of the university.

Adjunct faculty members will receive benefits including access to the library and other UI facilities and faculty-staff educational privileges, but they are not eligible for sabbatical leave.

The faculty will also consider criteria for ranks of faculty members in the student counseling center and changes in the structure of the faculty affairs committee.

The criteria for ranks would give those faculty members in the student counseling center the type of ranks as allowed for those in the library.

The proposed change in structure for the Faculty Affairs Committee would limit the number of department administrators on the committee to two, and neither may be chairman.

The university faculty meeting will be held at 3:30 p.m. in the Agricultural Science Auditorium.

Senate to meet for budget talks, swear in new senator

Swearing in Senator Dave Borror and discussion on the 1982-83 budget will highlight Wednesday's ASUI Senate meeting.

Borror will be sworn into the senate seat vacated by Bob Lang on March 24.

Also under old business, the senate could consider a bill providing for no senator to hold the office in any living group of president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, social events chairman, or resident advisor. The bill would also prohibit senators from holding any other elected or appointed position listed in the ASUI Constitution or Rules and Regulations.

Other bills would allow changing the number of appointments made at the beginning of the semester for the activities funding board, transferring money from the general reserve account to the general administration budget, confirming the appointment of Deb Gilbertson as ASUI Photo Manager, and providing for changes in the promotions department.

The changes would cut the number of assistants under the promotions manager.

ASUI Election Candidates

The ASUI general election will be held tomorrow. We have compiled statements from most of the candidates. These are printed exactly as we received them.

There is also a referendum on the ballot which must pass by two-thirds majority.

If passed, it would require all UI students to purchase a student health insurance policy.

The voting booths will be located in the SUB, Physical Science Building, Administration Building, Education Building, Agriculture Building, Janssen Engineering Building, Forestry Building, Library, Wallace Complex, Theophilus Tower and the Satellite SUB.

Candidate photos were taken by Penny Jerome.

Hello, my name is John Derr or as some people call me, "SLUGGO," and I am seeking re-election to the ASUI Senate. In the past year I feel I have lived up to my responsibilities and duties very well and would like to keep working for the students of the UI for another year.

While in the senate I have served as vice-chairman and chairman of the Government Operations and Appointments Committee (GOA). In my term I have been involved in over 70 interviews in which I played an active part. My responsibilities were scheduling, researching the appointments, running them and giving a committee debate when it came up on the floor. I have also been active in writing and passing many bills. I would like to keep working on such projects as revamping the appointment process, and stricter rules for senators to visit their living groups, which I believe is the most important duty of an ASUI Senator.

Experienced, honest, and willing to work hard, these are the qualities I feel I can give UI students. I ask for your support on Wednesday.

Arne Elisha

My fellow students;

My name is Arne Elisha and I hope you'll vote for me for ASUI Senator. Why? Because I understand and respect the commitment involved with this position and am not only willing but anxious to undertake it. My work with the Nightline organization has taught me true commitment to a worthy cause as well as another important thing: the need to listen.

Nightline is an organization that listens to individuals' concerns. Arne Elisha is an individual who listens as well.

MIKE SMITH has lived on all three sides of campus and understands the problems of Independent, Greek and Off-campus students. He has served on the ASUI Senate, on Academics Board, and as a living group officer.

MIKE SMITH opposes relocating any living group without the consent of the students involved; opposes in-state tuition; opposes mandatory health insurance.

MIKE SMITH supports students uniting in a common cause rather than seeing Independent vs Greek, On-campus vs Off-campus. We need to stand together in any dispute with the Administration, conscientiously working toward that end.

We the undersigned support Mike Smith for ASUI Senate:

Dave Esser

Communication is a vital link. My name is Dave Esser and I believe that by effective communication with you, the administration, and legislators, we can make the ASUI more responsive.

The ASUI is a vast network of over 850 people. It is diverse; ranging from tutoring and communications, to lobbying at the state level. Coordinating them into a cohesive organization is the job of the senate. This is why I'm running for ASUI Senator.

It is through communication that we can create an effective and responsive ASUI. There is more to the ASUI than politics, only about 10 percent of the ASUI is political, the majority is business. The ASUI has a budget in excess of $500,000 annually. It is important for you to know this and how it is used.

As a member of the Communications Board I've developed the knowledge and talent for getting things done. Being open and receptive to students' interests is the beginning. Communication is a vital link.

For our times

Editor,
Where is our Duke Vincentio? Has he left us; only to return at some unknown date? Are we living in "bad faith" in waiting for him when we aren't even sure if he has left?

Shakespeare's play Measure for Measure, now playing at the Hartung

Theatre, answers these questions of mine, and it seems to me that what

Shakespeare is telling us in this play is that it isn't true that the truth, personified in Measure for Measure in the character of Duke Vincentio, has left us and that, yes, we are living in "bad faith" if we are waiting for the truth to return, because it lives among us.

This play faired unfavorably at the hands of the 19th century's Victorian critics, understandably so, but the question today is: "Will we treat it again with disrespect because it mirrors the truth so frankly?" There is so much to this yet-to-be-fully-understood play, but its truth is plain to those who seek it.

A playing of Measure for Measure could come at no better time than today, for at a time when seemingly just and good morality is struggling to be born, this play lets us remember what it truly means to be human and moral. Its morality goes beyond the seeming, "Cucullus non facit monachum," to find the truth, to be forgiving, just and good. I thank all of you who had a part in bringing this play about.

Ricardo Luigi Piva

In whose interest?

Editor,
I must say that after looking at Friday's Idaho Argonaut, I am once again disappointed in the Art and Entertainment section.

Measure for Measure, a UI Theatre Department mainstage production, opened on Friday, playing to large audiences each performance. What coverage did it get in the paper? One microscopic picture and about three inches of print at the bottom of the page!

Filling the top 85 percent of the page? The musical philosophies of some guy who gave a free concert Saturday night.

Granted, I'm sure the concert was wonderful and worth the coverage, but I know from firsthand experience that when the theatre department at this university presents a show, it is more than worth it.

In fact, students here should feel fortunate to be able to enjoy such fine quality of theatre, because due to complete dedication on the part of performers and technicians, it is one of the best programs in this part of the country.

Fortunately, some shows earlier in the year received slightly better coverage, but none so extensive as they were three years ago, when the Idaho Argonaut included two full pages of pictures and review.

Whatever happened to appreciation of the theatre arts? At best only about 15 percent of the students at this university ever bother to attend the theatre productions, and probably one main reason for this is the poor coverage in the Idaho Argonaut.

If this paper is put out in the best interests of the university as a whole, as many claim it is, then the people running it should keep in mind that the theatre is as much a part of it as football or basketball.

Kim Lenz

Responsive

Editor,
Arne Elisha is a candidate for ASUI Senate who has proven his concern for students. As a Nightline volunteer, he has spent many hours helping other people cope with college—and has developed an understanding of their problems that would definitely benefit the ASUI Senate.

Arne is a listener, who would act in the interest of students. Because he is a responsive person, he would be a responsive senator. I urge you to support him in the ASUI elections.

Teresa Tesnohldek

Take time

Editor,
With tomorrow's election ready to kick-off, students should take this final opportunity to evaluate the candidates' statements in today's Idaho Argonaut. One individual in particular should be given special attention. Although a first-timer in the senate race, Dave Esser has shown an ability to work the long hours demanding of a senator. This past year Dave has been active in ASUI government and has gained some valuable experience.

I have known Dave for two years and have seen him dive wholeheartedly into the projects in which he has been involved.

So tomorrow at the polls, take some time to support ASUI—vote Dave Esser.

Martin Trail

Ability

Editor,
I am writing for two reasons. First of all, I want to urge everyone to vote in Wednesday's election, and second, I urge everyone to vote for Mark Williamson.

Mark Williamson is a strong advocate of student rights. Mark is determined, intelligent, responsible, and enthusiastic in all of his endeavors. We need a person like this, with these traits, in the ASUI Senate.

Mark Williamson has amply demonstrated his ability to serve the students of the University of Idaho. If you support him tomorrow, he will support you.

Mark your X next to MARK WILLIAMSON.

Cindy M. Sundvik

A hard struggle

Editor,
In-state tuition was defeated in the 1982 legislature. That we all know.

Looking back, it was a hard struggle. Last November some ASUI senators and the student government at Boise State, as well, were advocating weakening our constitutional protection of no in-state tuition by "redefining" the term.

Mike Smith and Jeff Kunz, ASUI senators, introduced ASUI Senate Resolution no. 1 to declare the official ASUI position—against in-state tuition and against any "redefinition."

Prior to that time, the ASUI stand had been pro-"redefinition."

Mike Smith and Jeff Kunz brought in state Sen. Norma Dobler and former Rep. Steve Scanlin to testify before the ASUI Senate on the "redefinition" strategy. The Idaho Argonaut carried the story. That testimony turned the ASUI Senate completely around and the Smith-Kunz resolution passed.

The ASUI then carried this new stand to the Associated Students of Idaho (BSU, ISU, LCSC, & UI) and won the day for the UI strong line position.

Oddly enough, just before the legislature adjourned in March the Boise State lobbyist was peddling the idea in the BSU newspaper that in-state tuition is inevitable, like death, and BSU should support and hurry it along in 1983.

Some of our friends in the legislature felt betrayed—and well they should.

We need to keep our guard up.

We need Mike Smith back in the ASUI Senate. He'll stand his ground.

Smith is a "name you can remember."

It's easy

Editor,

I support Kamala Shadduck for the position of ASUI senator. Earlier this semester, you were able to sigh with relief because in-state tuition was defeated. Had it not been for the work of Kamala and the members of the Political Concerns Committee, many of you would be sighing at the dim prospects of your returning to the University of Idaho for next fall semester.

I watched Kamala work very hard, fighting for the students' cause; she is the kind of person that I want to see representing our interests. Kamala thinks, before and while acting. Unique, wouldn't you say? She is well-informed and understands how students' interests must interact with the UI political system to produce results.

Kamala is of strong personality and will stand up for the students when confronted. Her ability to listen, relate to her knowledge of the circumstances, and act is surpassed only by her ability to communicate. I am constantly in awe of the number of things she can manage and achieve at the same time.

Tomorrow, vote. We are seeing, too often, the problems arising when students don't show concern for their interests. We are too easily trampled when we don't say anything.

It's easy. You show your ID, they give you a ballot to fill out and put in a box. So vote. And when you do, vote KAMALA SHADDUCK for ASUI senator.

James M. Moy

Unfounded

Editor,

Recently, a letter in this column stated that the now defunct Cross Campus Alliance was really a front for ambitious College Republicans. That assertion is absolutely unfounded. Several Campus Democrats, including myself, helped lay foundation stones for the idea that grew into the CCA, another idea slightly ahead of the times.

Now the ASUI Senate race is grinding to a conclusion. Promises and assurances are floating in the wind like yesterday's litter. Only two of the candidates have shown that they know how to roll up their sleeves and go to work for students. Only two wear scars from last winter's tuition battle. Only Kamala Shadduck and Doug Jones volunteered countless hours working for the Political Concerns Committee. Shadduck coordinated the circulation of dozens of petitions that gathered thousands of names, while Jones chaired the PCC. Now that the battle is over, and the sun is out, many good people want your vote. But when the going was tough last winter, Shadduck and Jones were already working hard for a good cause.

Since grueling work is probably the common denominator for getting things done, Richard Thomas should also be recognized as a person with potential in the senate. Thomas, too, has shown capacity to understand student problems and work at solving them.

These three—Shadduck, Jones, and Thomas—show talent and stamina.

J. Casey Meredith

Competence

Editor,

With the ASUI elections once again upon us, it is time to determine which juvenile politicians get the honor of wasting our money on such things as unprofitable rock concerts and other projects created to justify the ASUI's existence.

With the dissolution of the CCA, (that monolithic defender of student's interests that enabled one of the kids to say "We're not running for our own little glories"), it is necessary to revert to voting for single candidates, running I guess, "for their own little glories."

What we need are competent and truthful people. But since probably none are running, we have to settle for otherwise.

If I were voting, I'd support Dougie S. Jones and Markie Williamson. These are two men who are learning to distinguish between the termination point of their digestive tracts and their elbows, and know which to kiss. Unfortunately they sometimes polish their shoes with dung and use Shinola in the garden. But they are probably no worse than the others.

Bill Malan

Coming back

Editor,

On April 25, a full page announcement appeared in the sixteen largest newspapers in the world, setting the stage for Christ's reappearance. He is coming back in answer to our call for help, as World Teacher for all humanity.

How will you recognize him? Look for a modern man concerned with modern problems—political, economic, and social. He is not a religious leader, but an educator in the broadest sense of the word—pointing the way out of our present crisis. We will recognize Him by His extraordinary spiritual potency, the universality of His viewpoint, and His love for all humanity. He comes not to judge, but to aid and inspire.

Who is the Christ? Throughout history, humanity's evolution has been guided by a group of enlightened men, the Masters of Wisdom. They have remained largely in the remote desert and mountain places of earth, working mainly through their disciples who live openly in the world. At the center of this "Spiritual Hierarchy" stands the World Teacher, Lord Maitreya, known by Christians as the Christ. And as Christians await the Second Coming, so the Jews await the Messiah, the Buddhists the fifth Buddha, the Moslems the Imam Mahdi, and the Hindus await Krishna. These are all names for one individual. His presence in the world guarantees there will be no third World War.

When will we see him? He has not as yet declared His true status, and His location is known to only a very few disciples. One of these has announced that soon the Christ will acknowledge His identity and within the next two months will speak to humanity through a worldwide television and radio broadcast. His message will be heard inwardly, telepathically, by all people in their own language. From that time, with His help, we will build a new world.

Wholehearted

Editor,

I wholeheartedly thank all those many volunteers who helped organize Ground Zero Week in Moscow and Pullman. The effort was successful in that it raised the issue of nuclear war to public view. Thanks go to those who served on the panels throughout the week and to those who served at the various distribution centers on Saturday. A special thanks go to the art students who provided us with the "shadow people." Also, the concept of a nuclear freeze was poignantly brought home to those shivering souls who handed out information at Friendship Square and outside the Community Center.

Douglas S. Jones

Hi! My name is Douglas S. Jones. Allow me to tell you a little about myself and what I hope to bring to the ASUI Senate if I were elected. I am a sophomore with a double major of Economics and Political Science. For the past year I have been chairman of the Political Concerns Committee (PCC). My committee was responsible for communications between the students and the Idaho Legislators in Boise this year on the in-state tuition fight.

During this time I had the opportunity of developing a working relationship with the Idaho Legislators, State Board of Education/Board of Regents, Associated Students of Idaho, and some twenty senators, three vice presidents, and two presidents of the ASUI.

If there is one thing I would have to emphasize that I would like to bring to the senate, it is to extend the record of successfully and effectively presenting the student opinions and concerns to the powers that be. It is of the utmost importance that the student opinions be heard and acted upon. Wednesday is your chance, VOTE.

"Experienced efficiency for students."

Kurt Meppen

I am running for the ASUI senate for a variety of purposes. As a student at Idaho for several years I have become convinced of the need for good, responsible people directing our student organization and overseeing our fees.

Having represented the ASUI in the legislature this winter, I also became convinced of the need for active student participation in the government of our state and administration of our university.

As the lobbyist in Boise I worked daily with the legislators, the administration, and the Office of the State Board of Education to defeat the most recent attempt to saddle us with in-state tuition.

I see a need for vigor and determination in our dealings with these groups, and I can provide the necessary experience. The specter of increasing fees and tuition hasn't gone away just because the legislature has gone home for the year.

We need to remain vigilant in defending student concerns, as well as remaining open to good, creative solutions.

I will represent you well and appreciate your vote.

Teresa Madison

Hi, I'm Teresa Madison, a candidate for re-election in the ASUI Senatorial Elections on Wednesday. For the past two years I've been active in the ASUI. I've served as Gem of the Mountains editor, and have been a member of the ASUI Communication Board.

As an ASUI Senator this past year I've been vice chairman of the Government Operations and Appointments Committee. This past semester I have served as the senate delegate to the Associated Students of Idaho and at the present time am vice chairman of ASI.

I feel good communication in the ASUI is a vital necessity. The building of these communication lines takes time and the cooperation of all parties involved. This is something I would like to continue working on.

I feel I have represented the students this past year and would like to continue with your support on Wednesday.

Pat Mitchell

My name is Pat Mitchell, and I would like to explain why I've decided to run for the ASUI Senate.

I worked for Greg Cook, and later Scott Green, as their Senate intern. I not only observed, but experienced the working of the ASUI.

I believe that neither should student fees be greatly increased, nor in-state tuition be imposed on students. The state of Idaho needs to support their educational institutions. Idaho is currently 41st out of 50 in state funding for their higher education.

I do recognize the problem of professors being underpaid and I would lobby for an increase in the state sales tax by one cent. This would generate $45 million—$29 million more than needed to bring our four institutions up to their prescribed budgets.

I would like to see student government continue its work with the administration for lighting improvements on campus.

I would also like to use my promotions background to help revitalize our promotions department. This would help keep students updated on what the ASUI is doing.

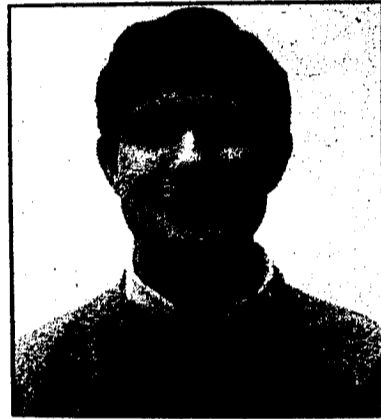

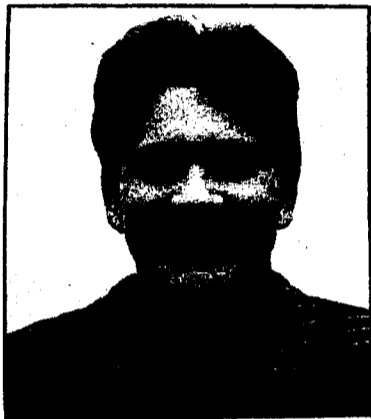

Your vote would be greatly appreciated.

Kamala Shadduck

Hello, my name is Kamala Shadduck and I'm running for the ASUI Senate. You probably won't decide who to vote for in this senate election by looking at the candidates' stands on the issues.

Everybody wants more lights on campus and nobody wants in-state tuition. You'll probably end up voting for the people you feel have the best experience for the job.

Being a finance major, I have the background to understand the business end of the senate, and as Teresa Madison's senate aide I've learned how the political side of the senate works as well.

I've also chaired the Petitions Committee in the PCC's battle against in-state tuition. Along with forty other volunteers, we worked hundreds of hours and defeated in-state tuition.

So when you vote tomorrow please remember that I am willing to listen to your concerns and then work for you by acting upon those needs.

Karin Sobotta and Leslie Potts, left and right respectively, won the first doubles championship last Saturday in the Pre-MWAC Tournament hosted by the Vandals. Eight teams competed with Montana State emerging the winner over second-place Idaho. The Vandals and Bobcats squared off in four finals, each taking two titles.

Smith wins at UW meet, Koduah crippled

The Idaho men's track team received good news and bad news at last weekend's non-scoring Husky Invitational track meet in Seattle.

First, the good news. UI's newly discovered sprinter, Dave Smith, won his second double victory in a row in the 100 meter and 200 meter dashes. Smith won the 100 meters in 11.02 and the 200 meters in 22.09. Both races were run into the wind. He also took two firsts in Pullman against Washington State and Oregon State two weekends ago.

Also, Andy Harvey had his best day as a Vandal when he ran a sizzling 14:03.29 for the 5,000 meter run. That mark is

ID cards now required for use of Gym and PEB

Beginning Wednesday, students, staff and faculty of the University of Idaho will be required to show ID prior to admittance to Memorial Gym and the PEB for open recreation.

The new policy is designed to protect the ones who pay for the upkeep of the facilities and keep out high school students and others from the community who pose a legal threat to the university.

The change was prompted by an injury in the weight room to a man not affiliated with the university.

"It opened our eyes a little bit to the possibility of the university being involved in a law suit," said Sue Crea, assistant director of recreation and intramurals. "They (non-UI affiliated persons) don't contribute anything financially so why should they get the benefits?"

Crea anticipated the biggest problem with the changeover will be high school students "mouthing off."

"The most important thing is that we are not penalizing students; we're just trying to monitor the situation and offer a better service to the people entitled," she said.

Starting Wednesday, only the front entrance of the PEB and the south doors to Memorial Gym will be unlocked. In addition, another supervisor will be placed in the weight room who will check ID card as people enter the facility.

Those using the facilities are encouraged to not open doors for people knocking and seeking admittance. "Basically, if students cooperate they'll be the winners. The areas will be less crowded and wear and tear on the equipment—especially in the weight room—will be cut down," Crea said.

Non-varsity use of Memorial Gym is expected to increase next fall with the opening of the East End Addition to the ASUI-Kibbie Dome, another factor in the decision to change the system.

Ruggers 2nd in eight-team field

The Blue Mountain Rugby team beat four teams last weekend in Pullman, but fell to host WSU and finished second in the All-College Tournament with a 4-1 record.

Leading the scoring for Blue Mountain was Lance Levy and Deeder Peterson.

only two seconds off the NCAA qualifying standard. In addition, he set a school record in the event formerly held by Rick Brooks of 14:17.0 set in 1976. His time is 25 seconds faster than any other present Big Sky runner.

Now, the bad news. The Vandals received a serious setback when sophomore Sam Koduah suffered a hamstring pull in the 200 meter dash. Prior to that race, he won the 400 meter dash in 47.42. He will be out for the remainder of the season. The injury was fatefully ironic for Koduah who only last week received transcripts from his native country Ghana, which declared him eligible to compete on the Vandal track team.

Idaho's 1600 meter relay team, consisting of Vic Wallace, John Trott, Smith, and LeRoy Robinson placed first with a time of 3:14.91.

The men's team will be in Missoula, Mont. next weekend to face host Montana, Montana State, and powerhouse Southern Methodist.

The women's team also competed at the Washington Invitational and came away with some notable performances.

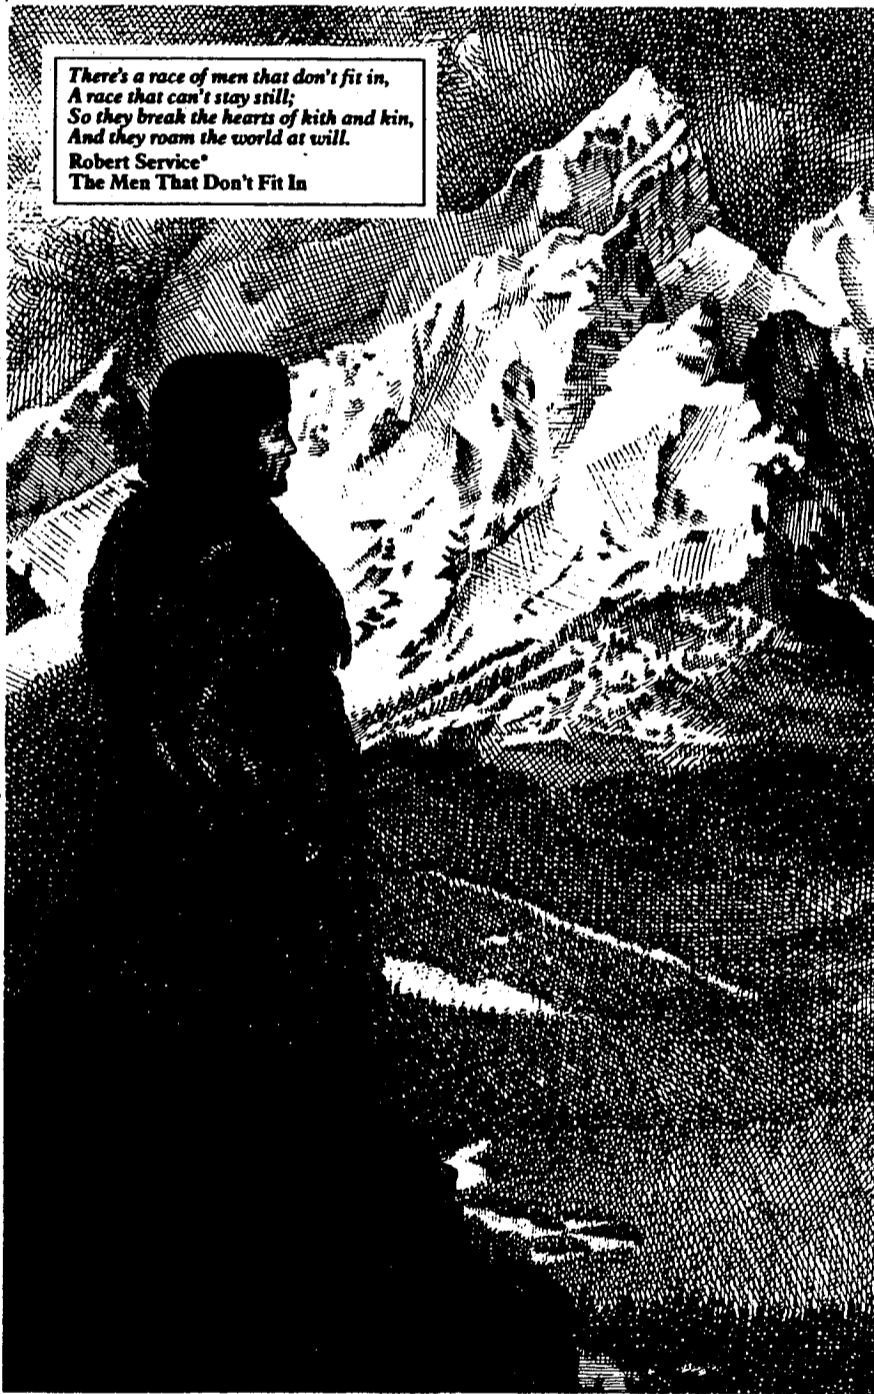

In the 5,000 meter run, in what Idaho coach Roger Norris described as the "outstanding performance," Sherrie Crang placed third with a 16:29.0 timing. That time easily qualified her for the national championships in May. Her time was only two seconds behind the school record held by Patsy Sharples.

Speaking of Sharples, she placed second in the 10,000 meter run at the prestigious Mount San Antonio College Relays April 25th in Walnut Creek, Calif. with a time of 33.59.

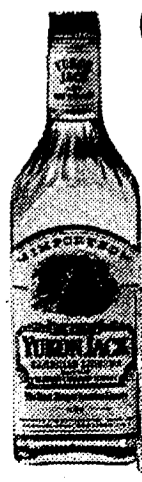

Other Vandal women who became national qualifiers at Seattle were: Jenny Ord and Caroline Crabtree in the 5,000 meters, and the two-mile relay team of Helen Waterhouse, Allison Falkenberg, LeeAnn Roloff and Kim Ward with a winning time of 9:06.36. Falkenberg also finished fourth in the 400 meter dash with a time of 58.02.

Colleen Williams won her speciality, the 400 meter hurdles with a new meet record of 60.02.

Mike Smith

EXPERIENCE: Year on the ASUI Senate, last fall was chairman of the Senate Rules and Regulations Committee. SMITH has served as living group officer, on Academics Board, and on Faculty Council during the summer.

Smith lives off campus. He has lived on all three sides of campus and knows the problems of off-campus, dorm and Greek students.

ISSUES: Opposes moving any living group without the consent of the students involved. Supports Olesen, McCoy, Willis Sweet and Chrisman halls.

Opposes mandatory Student Health Insurance.

Opposes in-state tuition in any form.

Favors keeping Learning Skills Center.

Mike Smith believes there should be a "unity of purpose" in the ASUI uniting in common cause rather than dividing Independent vs. Greek, off-campus vs. on-campus. We need to stand together. Smith believes all students should defend any part of the student body when it is being unjustly treated.

Richard Thomas

My main priority is to help ensure that future UI graduates have a top-notch marketable education. Increased revenues for teacher salaries are essential in this effort. However, the recent in-state tuition bill was DEFINITELY NOT in the students' best interest. Enough said.

Consistent with that goal is the need for a decent lifestyle—conducive to learning and growing—at this

Mark Williamson

Students have a right to play a significant role in formulating and implementing student related policies. An important role of the senate is to act as the official voice of the student body. It has the potential to be an articulate body; able to enunciate our wishes to the administration, clearly, strongly, and rationally. To be effective in this respect the senate must work until the administration acts on our wishes in a satisfactory manner.

It is necessary to cooperate with the administration in order to achieve student goals but, the senate must not allow the administration to take unfair advantage of this cooperative spirit and impose policies on us while only giving lip service to our input: the administration is here to serve us, not vice-versa.

I could work well for the students as a senator by standing up for our student rights when they are overlooked, ignored or circumvented by the administration.

university. Extra-curricular aspects of our lives are currently being formulated without sufficient student input. This has been the case for far too long!

The time is ripe for increased self-determination in student affairs. The summer street closures, East-end Addition and Tower evictions are symbolic of a considerable breakdown in administration/student relations. Right or wrong, student views were virtually ignored. The administration would benefit by rearranging their priorities with respect to social as well as financial matters.

I pledge hard work, just representation, and vigorous action in senate affairs.

Coordination of services key in RAC shift

The University of Idaho residence hall staff will have a new boss next fall.

According to Bruce Pitman, director of Student Advisory Services and boss-to-be, Resident Advisors and Advisor Coordinators for UI dormitories will work under SAS beginning with the 1982-83 fall semester. Currently, the residence hall staff operates under the Housing Office.

The current staff alignment will remain pretty much the same, he said, except that it will function as a part of SAS.

"Essentially, what is going to take place is a full-time person will be hired to manage the resident advisor program, who will be reporting to me," Pitman said.

"It's (the change) designed to streamline the supervision process of our in-residence staff," he said. More specifically, it would "streamline our reaction time in handling destructive behavior, and emphasize the development of our hall government activities more than we have in the past."

Pitman said the staff would continue to be paid through the Housing Office, but the reporting structure would be shifted.

In addition to the full-time Resident Advisor Coordinator (RAC), three Head Residents would be assigned to "specific geographic areas" of the dormitories, and would report to the RAC. The Resident Advisors in the encompassing areas would then work with the Head Residents.

Pitman said the shift was a "major change," made at the request of Bob Parton, Director of Housing, and Terry Armstrong, Executive Assistant to the President.

As a result, SAS will be "much more active in handling problems related to disruptive behavior, and in terms of handling them through our judicial process," he said.

The resident advisors, he added, are a significant source of informational contact for SAS, and under Housing, it was a "little tougher to effectively coordinate our services through them."

Pitman also said that SAS "had a commitment to helping establish hall government and activities."

"I certainly hope that it's going to integrate the RAs, residents and staff people a little more into the overall student services and activities that are happening all over campus," he said.

Mandatory insurance referendum on ballot

by Carol Woolum
Staff Writer

University of Idaho students will be voting whether they want mandatory student health insurance Wednesday. This referendum will be on the ASUI election ballot.

The referendum is being voted on so the students' views will be voiced, according to ASUI President Andy Artis.

"We want to know what the students want, and we felt this referendum is the best way to go about it," Artis said.

Carol Grupp, member of the committee reviewing the policy, said this process is done every three years.

"Every three years our insurance contract ends, so we have to contact companies and get prices for a new contract," Grupp said. "This is the second year, so we have to start looking for new proposals beginning next fall."

Grupp explained how the policy works now at this university.

"We only have mandatory insurance for accidents—such as falling on the Ad lawn or being injured in intramurals," said Grupp. "If you don't want insurance for illness, you don't have to purchase it."

Students at other Idaho schools are required to buy insurance. They may petition to get the money back if they already are on a policy, Grupp said.

"Every time we have asked the students for their input, the answer has always been no," said Grupp.

Next fall the committee will get together with a student committee and solicit their views, she said.

"After we receive this information, the committee makes its recommendation," Grupp said.

Tower elections postponed

Because all the men are being moved out of Theophilus Tower, the election of new Tower Board officers will be postponed until next fall. The election is ordinarily held the last Tuesday in April.

Tower Board secretary Jane Freund said the board members reached this decision because they felt "it would be kind of pointless to hold the elections between the three women's halls currently in the Tower because it wouldn't provide fair representation to the women's halls that are moving in."

The current Tower Board officers will stay in office until the fall election.

containing over 400 signatures of students "opposed to an all-female Theophilus Tower," was being circulated. Mark Williamson, Willis Sweet resident and initiator of the petition, said he planned to use it for "bargaining" purposes, although it was never presented to the administration.

In explaining the student defiance, Pitman said that initial proposals to move the residence halls came from

student leaders and discussion groups.

"These groups handed us eight or nine proposals and we narrowed them down to one which would dislocate the fewest number of people," Pitman said. The final decision on the location of the halls was made by Pitman, Housing Director Bob Parton and Terry Armstrong, executive assistant to President Gibb.

Kunz

in the moves, Kunz said, turned to the student government to get something done when efforts to communicate with the administration went stale.

He said the student government tried to communicate their desires through the Senate resolution and that it failed.

"When there are no means left to appeal it, then we have to turn and fight," he said.

"If we can get enough student input behind this, I think our chances of getting them to back down from this are pretty good.

"We need to turn popular opinion against the administration making decisions like this," he said.

"You can get students motivated behind a cause like this when they realize they've

been screwed over," he said.

Kunz said the senators have been trying to work with the administration, but, he said, "How can you work together when the administration adopts an unbending attitude like that?" he said.

"I have some strategy, but don't want to unfold my hand at this point. The fight's only just begun," Kunz said.

Student experience grows in forest

by Andy Taylor
Contributing Writer

Students in the College of Forestry, Range and Wildlife Management are managing 160 acres of the University of Idaho experimental forest to get a taste of the "real world" of their profession, according to the chairman of the college's forest committee, Chuck Harpham.

In 1980, Harold Osborne, director of the experimental forest, assigned the 160 acres to the Associated Foresters, a student organization within the college. A forest committee was formed within the AF, and since then has been creating a management plan for the acreage.

"The project has great potential. It's a chance to apply what we learn in class to real conditions we'll face in the field. Usually when you get out of school you only have textbook situations to draw from. You don't get experience of what it's really like out there working," Harpham said.

The 10-member committee manages the acreage, located north of Troy near the Tamarack ski area, for timber, wildlife and recreational uses, he said.

Last year, students set up temporary inventory sites. This year, the committee has started putting in permanent inventory sites so it can get an idea of the growth and volume of the timber in the area. Next semester, the students plan to continue inventorying and surveying the site, hold a horse logging workshop on the site, and thin some trees out and use them for firewood.

Eventually, a road plan will be drawn up for the area, timber will be harvested, and the recreational values of the area will be developed, said Harpham.

The AF invited other clubs within the college to join the cooperative management of the area, but so far only the Wildlife Society has offered assistance.

"We need more people to participate (in managing the area). Our work won't be effective until more students get interested," Harpham said.

Students do not receive credit or pay for their work on the area. Harpham said he hopes the college will offer the management of the area as a course or a directed study so students would have greater incentive to work on the site.
