Accounting dept. offers new degree

Andrew White

he accounting department has introduced a new master's of accountancy program which went into effective last fall, and has made changes to the existing undergraduate program.

The former accounting program required 136 credits to graduate and enabled students to sit for the Certified Public Accountancy exam. Under the new degree, only 128 credits will be required to graduate; however, a master's of accountancy will need to be acquired for those students wishing to sit for the CPA exam.

In the year 2000 the state of Idaho will require all students wishing to sit for the CPA exam to have completed 150 credits. Thirty-eight other states have adopted the same requirement.

"The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants recommended this because the profession is complicated enough, not just in accounting but also in statistical fields, communication, etc.," Marcia Niles, associate accounting department chairperson said. "You just can't get everything in four years"

Niles said the 128 degree program is, "a good solid degree."

"Students view the new program as very difficult. For people who are working their way through school it's particularly difficult," said Niles

Twenty-four credits of accounting and 24 credits of business are required to sit for the CPA exam for those students who haven't acquired a formal business degree. As a practical matter students who have not been through the accountancy program rarely pass the CPA exam.

"It's been great, it really has. I felt like I've received a great education, the staff has been very supportive and anytime I had a question they were there to help," said senior David Wilson. Wilson will

Exchange students seek Moscow homes

I f you want to experience the culture of a foreign country without actually leaving home, the American Scandinavian Student Exchange International Student Exchange Program may have the solution for you.

ASSE is seeking local host families for boys and girls from Scandinavia, France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Mexico, the former Soviet Union, Brazil, Japan, Australia and New Zealand, 15 to 18-years-old, coming to this area for the upcoming high school year.

The students are sponsored by ASSE, a nonprofit, public benefit organization founded by the Swedish Ministry of Education.

ASSE also cooperates with the Canadian Provincial Ministries of Education and is approved by the Australian an New Zealand Departments of Education. ASSE is the only organization with these credentials.

"My parents hosted an ASSE exchange student from France when I was in high school," said Julie S. Berryhill, senior at UI. "I learned a lot about countries I had never really thought about and became interested enough to visit a few."

The exchange students arrive from their home country shortly before school begins and return at the end of the school year. Each ASSE student is fully insured, brings his or her own spending

he U.S. Postal Service is bringing new technology to the Palouse.

Beginning in February, a Carrier Sequence Barcode Sorter will sort Moscow and Pullman mail at the Pullman post office.

The CSBCS scans the barcode on mail and sorts it into a delivery sequence (the exact order the letter carrier delivers the mail on his route or the clerk puts the mail into post office boxes) into post office boxes).

"Human eyes will never see it until it is delivered, and that is our goal," said Billie Carter, address management systems specialist in

In order for the CSBCS to work, the mail must be addressed in standard format to receive a barcode. Addresses should be typewritten in all capital letters, without punctuation (except for the hyphen in the ZIP + 4 code).

Be sure to include any RM (room), FLR (floor), STE (suite), or APT (apartment) numbers. The ZIP Code may stand alone on the bottom line if there is not enough room on the City and State line.

For correspondence to foreign countries, the country name should always stand alone on the bottom line. Generally, only five lines of address can be sorted by automated sorting equipment.

Posters displayed at the Wallace Complex mailroom show incorrect format for student addresses. "And they're huge. They're laminated like signs," Carter said.

The correct format for students receiving their mail there is:

MSC XXXX

YOUR FULL LEGAL NAME 1028 W 6TH STREET MOSCOW ID 83843-4155

The MSC is a mail stop code, which should be followed by the student's box number. The incorrect information has been posted in the Wallace mailroom for some time, and may delay student's mail.

"If they're expecting mail from home, and it's not properly formatted, it is delayed on its journey clear across the nation," Carter said.

WWP cuts gas and electric rates

Zachary Smith

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has approved rate reductions for both gas and electric customers of Washington Water Power Co.

The "tracker" adjustment, approved last December will lower the natural gas rates of WWP 's Idaho residential customers 16.33 percent. The annual tracker passes to customers the changes in the cost of natural gas WWP buys from its suppliers.

"As the cost of gas decreases for WWP, we can pass on the benefit of lower rates to our customers," said Dana Anderson, public relations representative for WWP. The rate change went into effect Dec. 22, 1995.

Also approved was a 2.5 percent reduction in electric rates. This reduction stems from the expiration of a one-year power cost adjustment (PCA) that began Jan. 1, 1995. A 2.5 percent reduction means an annual savings of about $23 for an average all-electric household and about $8 for a residential customer who does not use electricity for space or water heating. The electric rate reduction became effective Jan. 1, 1996.

The expired PCA is the fourth of five PCA's authorized for WWP since May 1990. The remaining surcharge of 2.43 percent will expire Aug. 31, 1996. The purpose of the PCA surcharge is to recover or rebate abnormal power supply expenses or savings experienced by the company.

Lewis-Clark prepares to tighten Budget

LEWISTON—Lewis-Clark State College officials are preparing to trim more than $300,000 from the college budget to meet Gov. Phil Batt's mandated 2 percent holdback.

College President James Hottois will present LCSC's budget proposal for fiscal year 1997 to the state's Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee next week.

College officials made temporary cuts when Batt ordered the hold-back last fall to make up for lagging state revenue. Temporary savings came from cutting 34 class sections.

The governor then asked the school for a permanent reduction plan.

Rather than hit academic programs, the bulk of the long-term savings will come from administration, according to the proposal.

LCSC will eliminate one dean's position by combining four into three. The loss of an administrator means a projected savings of $84,643, according to the proposal.

Combined with changes in the academic vice president's office, restructuring will mean a total reduction in administration of $90,143, or 15.9 percent.

The academic budget will be trimmed by $65,652, or 1.2 percent.

Savings will come from cutting support for the Confluence Press, eliminating the Pacific Rim Studies major and realigning the Individualized Study Center with the Integrated Learning Network.

The Pacific Rim Studies major will be changed to an emphasis under history and political science.

The major will be phased out so students already in the program may complete it. The total savings is projected at $36,000.

Another reduction that directly affects students is a $25,000 cut in student services personnel.

Men charged with southeastern Idaho couple's slaying

POCATELLO, Idaho—Bannock County prosecutors will seek the death penalty for two men charged with murdering 72-year-old Dalma and William "Duke" Fuhriman.

The couple was found shot to death on Jan. 6 in their southern Bannock County home about three miles outside Downey.

Bannock County Deputy Prosecutor Deb Lantermo said James Harvey Hairston, 19, is charged with two counts of firstdegree murder and Richard James Klipfel, 28, with two counts of being a principal to first-degree murder. If convicted, both face life in prison or the death penalty.

The charges, filed Tuesday, also include one count of robbery against Hairston and one count of being a principal to robbery against Klipfel.

The complaint alleges that $30 in cash, a telephone calling card and a credit card were taken from Fuhriman or his home.

Lantermo said Hairston and Klipfel will be held in Clarkston, Wash., without bond on the Idaho murder charges. If they waive extradition to Idaho, they could be returned to Pocatello next week. If they fight extradition, the process could take several weeks.

Hairston and Klipfel are being held in Clarkston on Colorado warrants charging them with attempted murder and armed robbery. Those charges stem from the Jan. 4 shooting of a convenience store clerk in Grand Junction, Colo.

The woman survived being shot in the head with a .25-caliber hand-gun—the same caliber of gun police recovered from Klipfel's car last weekend. A .25-caliber gun also was used to kill the Fuhrimans. Each died from a gunshot wound to the head.

Lantermo said Klipfel has cooperated with Idaho investigators, but Hairston, who is accused of actually shooting the Fuhrimans, has not.

The prosecutor said there were no signs of forced entry to the couple's farmhouse. It appeared that the victims were shot in different rooms, and that the husband was shot first. Lantermo said he was seated at the dining room table and Mrs. Fuhriman was sitting at the kitchen counter.

Motel clerk arrested for attempted murder

COEUR D'ALENE—A motel clerk who tried to break up a fight has been charged with attempted murder.

Brian S. Golden, 26, is charged with shooting a man who was trying to run away from him on Dec. 15 at the Silver Lake Motel, where Golden worked.

Matt Harmon testified Tuesday that he had been shot four times. He used crutches to enter the courtroom.

Harmon said he went to the motel with a group of friends to look for another man. A fight broke out and Golden approached the crowd with a can of pepper spray, Harmon said.

Harmon testified that when Golden began to spray, he slugged the clerk and tackled him.

Harmon said he heard two gunshots when he and Golden were on the ground. Harmon said he tried to run away, but was hit with bullets from Golden's .45-caliber handgun.

He was hit in the foot, elbow, thigh and abdomen.

Golden's attorney, Glen Walker, didn't offer any testimony. But he said the state couldn't prove the malice necessary to support a charge of attempted murder.

But prosecutor Traci Post wondered what other intent Golden had when he fired at the fleeing Harmon.

Golden surrendered to law officers and is free on bond. He is to enter a plea on Jan. 30. He has been suspended from his motel job.

Police: man tries to strangle ex-girlfriend, then revive her

ATHOL, Mass.—A man choked his ex-girlfriend in a fit of jealousy, then thought better of it and applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to revive her, police said.

The unidentified 16-year-old girl suffered bruises on her throat but no serious injuries.

Police on Wednesday searched for the boyfriend, 22-year-old Jose A. Perez.

He was wanted on charges of attempted murder and domestic assault.

Perez allegedly went to the girl's apartment early on Jan. 7 and entered her bedroom. She awoke to find his hands at her throat, then passed out, police.

When she regained consciousness, Perez was doing mouth-tomouth resuscitation, police said. It was not clear whether he revived her or she came to on her own.

Perez told the girl "he was sorry, that he loved her, promised that he would never see her again," and left, Lt. Timothy Anderson said.

Two days earlier, police said, Perez flew into a rage when he saw another man leaving the girl's apartment.

Perez allegedly threatened the man with a 4-foot pipe and smashed his windshield.

Perez was charged with assault and destruction of property and was released without bail.

Students demostrate in support of porn-making teacher

YARMOUTH, Mass.—A group of high school students rallied this morning in support of a teacher suspended after authorities discovered he had been making pornographic movies.

About 25 students left their classes at about 9 a.m. and walked next door to the administration building, carrying signs of support for teacher Robert Walenski, Dennis-Yarmouth Regional school secretary Gretta Matthew said.

Superintendent Michael McCaffrey, who met with Walenski on Tuesday and said he would announce today whether the teacher will keep his job, was not in the building at the time, Matthew said.

The students peacefully returned to school at the request of another administrator, Matthew said.

State law allows superintendents to fire teachers for conduct unbecoming a teacher, McCaffrey said.

Walenski, who has a good record in his 25 years with the district, was pulled from the classroom last Friday after a resident spotted one of the movies in a store and alerted school officials.

Walenski has produced and appeared in more than 100 of the low-budget films, titled Bob's Videos, and filmed on the West Coast.

Senior Dacia Rudow said 22 students have signed a four-page letter to Walenski, detailing their support and urging his return.

Court commutes prison term to 45 days for Greek Cypriot

NICOSIA, Cyprus — A Turkish Cypriot military court on Friday commuted the prison term of a Greek Cypriot, who illegally entered the northern Turkish Cypriot part of the island, to 45 days from nine months.

The court made the decision after taking into consideration the psychological problems of loannis Apostolides, who has been in prison since he entered into the northern section by car in November.

Apostolides will be freed on Jan.19, if he pays a fine of $22,000 for causing damage at a military post with his car.

Cyprus was divided into northern Turkish and southern Greek sectors after Turkish troops invaded the island following a short-lived Athens-backed coup in 1974. Turkish Cypriots have their self-declared state, which is only recognized by Turkey.

Musician's plane hit by police gunfire in Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica—The seaplane of pop-music star Jimmy Buffett was mistakenly shot at by police after landing in the sea off Negril, on the west coast of this Caribbean country, police said Wednesday.

Buffett apparently wasn't aboard at the time, and no one was hurt in the incident Tuesday, police Commissioner Col. Trevor MacMillan said in a telephone interview.

Acting on an anonymous telephone tip, police mistakenly believed that the seaplane was involved in drug trafficking and opened fire, MacMillan said. A pilot was on board the aircraft, which was struck twice by bullets, but all passengers had left the plane before the shooting began, he said.

"Aircraft come in here regularly on ganja missions," MacMillan said. "Thank God no one was hurt. It was an incident we regret most sincerely. We spoke to the various people involved and extended our apologies."

The shooting was being investigated, MacMillan said.

Buffett was flying back to Florida on Wednesday and couldn't immediately be reached for comment. He apparently had visited Jamaica at the invitation of Chris Blackwell, founder of Island Records, who was at the scene at the time of the shooting, MacMillan said.

No one answered the telephone at Buffett's management company in Beverly Hills, Calif., early Wednesday.

Buffett is known for his laidback tunes of life in the tropics, including the hit, "Margaritaville." He also authored a best-selling adventure book about smuggling in the Caribbean, Where Is Joe Merchant?

Idaho State Board of Education

New recruiting policy intended to curb athlete violence

Christopher Clancy

A new policy passed by the Idaho State Board of Education, intended to curb violence by university athletes, could pose special problems for prospective athletes seeking recruitment, and has raised questions of discrimination.

The policy, passed by the Board Nov. 17, requires all athletes to provide past criminal records that could potentially disqualify them

The purpose, said Dr. Tom Dillon of the ISBOE, is to provide a deterrent to potential offenders.

"All it does is set standards that we should know the criminal records of people (participating in university athletics programs),"said Dillon. "It sends a message of what is acceptable behavior."

Dillon, who initially presented the measure to the Board, said the deterrent would be backed-up by strong enforcement which would cause offenders to lose scholarships and be expelled from the university.

The new measure bars recruitment of athletes who have been convicted of a felony in the past and disqualifies those athletes who commit a felony during their participation in tially difficult situation for some minority athletes from high crime areas.

While it could mean severe penalties for those convicted, there are provisions that give Idaho universities a degree of latitude when dealing with people who had made mistakes in the past, but who were still considered fit for the program, said Dillon.

"If the felony was committed before (attending) the university it must be reported, but can be forgiven by the university...the final decision is up to the university," said

Jack VanValkenburgh, executive director of the Boise office of the American Civil Liberties Union said, "It's a dangerous policy that doesn't get at the real problem and might impact minorities... I would hope that educators are aware that they can't solve the problem that way. It doesn't help the student athlete population who may have criminal records...and raises questions of what's wise policy," said VanValkenburgh.

While the policy is considered constitutional by ISBOE, and university attorneys, there has yet to be a case that would set a prece-

'The Board felt there was no prejudice many of the problems in the past were caused by basketball and football players who are often minorities.

"There are a disproportionate number of black players participating in those sports, but it's a big jump to say that someone is being targeted (because of race)," said

The Board's concern stems mostly from incidents at Idaho State University and pressure the Board received because of those incidents after they were brought to the attention of the ISBOE by articles published in the Idaho Statesman, said Dillon.

One such incident occurred in July 1995. when three ISU Basketball players were charged with statutory rape after allegedly having sex with 14-year-old girls.

At UI, athletes' problems with the law have also made headlines, including the assault of a female UI undergrad by a football player during May of 1993, and a riot that broke-out at a Moscow bar in January 1993, involving UI and WSU football play-

Director of athletics at UI, Peter Liske, said the policy should have little or no effect on UI's ability to recruit, and will only serve as another way of screening prospective ath-

"We try to focus on helping these kids to stay out of trouble, and our athletes are getting better every year, while we've remained very competitive," said Liske.
Liske added, "We look at each case and try to be as fair as possible...The policy shouldn't necessarily preclude athletes who meet other requirements. My biggest concern is the types of felonies that are committed... some are more serious than others. The definition of a felony isn't clear-cut and changes from state to state. If the policy is hard and fast, that's what scares me. We have asked for a definition of felonies and nobody wants to do that. It's a gray area."

Dillon, however, said he believes there's no degree of seriousness when dealing with felonies.

"When someone is convicted of a felony that's very serious...there's no such thing as a good felony," said Dillon.

While no new instances of violent or criminal behavior have been reported since the policy was passed, it is still too early to tell whether or not the policy will actually deter criminal behavior among student athletes.

Dole: Just like visiting old friends when he visits Idaho

Associated Press

BOISE-Sen. Bob Dole says it's just like going back to visit old friends when he comes to Idaho.

Dole, the frontrunner for the Republican presidential nomination, made a three-hour campaign stop in Idaho on Monday. He got an enthusiastic reception everywhere.

There was more than applause and crowds of well-wishers. Press Secretary Nelson Warfield said the campaign expected to gross $150,000 at a $1,000 luncheon for Dole and a private reception.

They dined on Mexican chicken, salad and minced lemon cake.

Around the fund-raisers, Dole spoke to the Idaho Legislature and met with Gov. Phil Batt, who is in his camp. He left about 10 minutes behind schedule for campaigning in Salt Lake City and a Monday night trip to North Dakota.

Although Idaho has little influence in the presidential campaign and the late May primary comes after the GOP nomination probably will decided, Dole said it is important for him to make a good showing in "good, solid conservative" states such as Idaho.

"The primary comes a little late, but I'd like people to know that I have a lot of support in states like Idaho," Dole said, as he was leaving the Statehouse. "It helps me in other parts of the country."

Dole said he liked returning to Idaho, where he has many political

"I think my first visit was with Len Jordan many years ago," he said. Jordan was an Idaho U.S. senator and governor. "This is Dole

He also mentioned his years in the Senate with retired GOP Sen. James McClure, who sat in the audience for his speech to the Legislature.

There are some of us believe the government has gotten too heavyhanded," Dole told lawmakers.

He said he served a term in the Kansas Legislature, but didn't get to say anything because it was a tradition then that freshmen were seen but not heard.

Dole got the biggest reaction from Idaho lawmakers when he said: "I believe and this Congress believes that those who live and work on the banks of the Snake River are far better able to decide how to use and preserve natural resources than those who live and work on the banks of the Potomac River."

"People in Idaho know better than people anywhere what it is like to put up with an absentee landlord," Dole said, referring to the fact twothirds of the land in Idaho is federally owned.

He referred only briefly to the budget battle that has stalled approval of funding for the federal government.

Dole said most voters feel they elect people to get things done. He said he and other Republican leaders will sit down the president and start negotiating again, hoping to achieve an honestly balanced bud-

"But if it not credible, the American people do not want us to do it," he said.

About the only thing that went wrong with the Dole visit was the weather. A Secret Service agent said the candidate planned to walk the three blocks from the Statehouse to a convention center, but had to ride when it started rain-

New weight loss program for students

Jennifer Eng

Students can lose weight this semester thanks to a new Student Health Services program. The program is headed by University of Idaho's Registered Dietitian Mary Schwantes and costs students $120 to participate for the semester.

"I think the best thing about it is it's a lifestyle change. It's a very sensible program," Schwantes said.

The program called LEARN, Lifestyle Exercise Attitude Relationships and Nutrition, was offered last semester to faculty members and had a 100 percent success rate. Now Schwantes is offering the program to students interested in losing between 20 and 30 pounds.

Before beginning this program Schwantes meets at no charge with the student to ensure the client is ready for the program.

The $120 for the program covers the cost of materials and fees, and comes out to be $6 a session. In contrast, weight watchers charges clients $11 a week for their services.

The program was developed by Dr. Kelly D. Brownell from Yale University.

Schwantes said, "I like the LEARN program because it's a humorous approach to losing weight." The approach is calorie counting and clients progress through education.

Aside from this program Schwantes sees a variety of people with health concerns ranging from weight control to healthy lifestyle choices regarding nutrition and wellness.

"I'm seeing more and more heavier students. There are a lot of problems with America's eating" said Schwantes.

Schwantes said she has observed the portions people consider to be servings getting larger. America's children and young adults are eating less fruits and vegetables and high caloric and

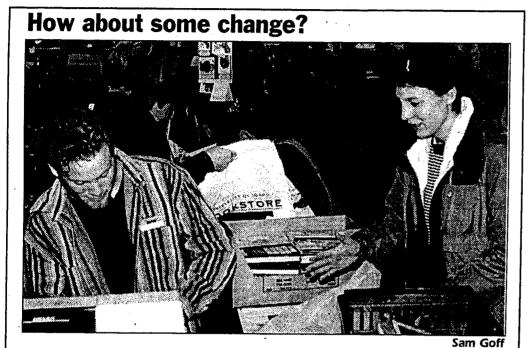

By adding vegetables and fruits to meals instead of only counting on an entire can of Spaghetti-O's for a meal, Schwantes said people would notice a difference in their weight.

On top of changing their diet, Schwantes said people should put a strong emphasis on exercise. Women should exercise about five times a week for 30 minutes a session, men on the other hand can get away with only three work out sessions a week. Schwantes also said people should focus on frequency of exercising and not how long the session lasts.

"It's not an epidemic. We just need to get off our duffs and move," said Schwantes about recent reports that obesity in America is an epi-Schwantes recommends walking for weight loss and healthy lifestyle activities. Schwantes participates in a walking group from 12:30 p.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday. The walking group is free and open to everybody, interested people should meet outside the front door of the Student Health Center.

To become involved with the LEARN weight loss program call Mary Schwantes at the Student Health Center.

Police ask forensic experts to help identify owner of lost testicles

TWIN FALLS, Idaho-Police will mail a pair of severed testicles to state forensic experts this week in hopes of drawing detectives closer to the owner's identity.

"I am hoping we are going to learn what happened, but right now I don't think we can say," said Lt. Ron Axtman of the Twin Falls Police Department,

The apparently human testicles were discovered by a park visitor Saturday along the bank of Rock Creek near a pair of blood-soaked boxer shorts.

Investigators do not know whether the mutilation was selfinflicted or an attack, Axtman said.

Theoretically, a victim could bleed to death from having his testicles severed, though "it would take a while," said Burley urologist Dr. Donald Weese. Infection would set in within several days, and the person would need medical treatment immediately, Weese

The testicles were apparently slashed off with a knife. Police are looking for the cutting instrument, purportedly a razor blade, Axtman

No witnesses have come forward, nor has any man been hospitalized without testicles.

The testicles were catalogued as 'found property," sealed as evidence and stored in a refrigerator at the police department. State forensic experts will test them for blood type, and possibly DNA, Axtman

The testicles cannot be reattached surgically because the tissues have deteriorated, Weese said.

If the victim cut himself, such self-mutilation is extremely rare, said Dr. Richard Worst, a Twin Falls psychiatrist. Someone with severe schizophrenia or psychotic depression might rationalize the act as punishment or cure for sexual deviancy, for example, he said.

Separate farm bill may evolve from federal budget impasse

WASHINGTON—Congress will start work on a separate farm bill next week if no deal emerges to balance the federal budget, the chairman of the House Agriculture Committee says.

'We're getting down to crunch time," Rep. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., said. Early this month, Roberts introduced just-in-case farm legislation that outlines the same new farm program included in balanced-budget legislation vetoed by President Clinton. Key senators are considering several options as well.

The budget fight caused 1995 to come and go without a measure to determine crop subsidy and acreage levels for major crops. The approach of a new growing season is forcing action.

Congress returns to work next week after Clinton's State of the Union speech Tuesday. The following Friday, a short-term spending bill that has kept the government in business expires.

The Senate Agriculture

Committee, chaired by Republican Sen. Dick Lugar of Indiana, is weighing several possibilities, including tacking farm legislation onto the next shortterm spending bill, if a new one is needed.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., says there needs to be a farm bill by the end of February.

"Kansas farmers have already planted their winter wheat without knowing any program details," Dole said in a recent floor speech.

The Republican presidential candidate told North Dakota farmers Tuesday he would support extending current programs, but only as a last choice. They would have to be stretched out two years to keep farm policy from being mired in electioneer-

Dole said he supported the Roberts measure despite serious misgivings and would like to see it as separate legislation or in the budget package.

The measure reduces up to $6 billion in farm program spending over seven years. Farmers would get "market transition payments" based on past subsidies. The fixed payments would decline each year, Government control of most farming decisions would end.

Because payments would be made regardless of crop prices, Dole said there would be "hundreds and hundreds of stories" about big farmers getting big payments. Still he supports its freemarket approach.

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman, meanwhile, has held out the threat of using old farm law and his broad discretion under other laws to make program decisions. The 1949 Agricultural Adjustment Act is the permanent farm law that remained when the 1990 farm bill

The first announcement will be before Feb. 15, concerning the rice program. Glickman will announce corn and wheat programs in mid-March.

Only one paid student has new institute concerned

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho-A scarcity of students with their tuition paid has the fledgling Idaho Institute of Arts and Technology wondering if it will open its doors

The Idaho Falls school's administrator, Ted Carpenter, said he knew of no plan to cancel classes for 41 students. But only one was paid on Monday.

Institute board of trustees chairman Tom Setter said scheduling problems and nebulous enrollment figures were forcing them to postpone classes until they have their goals straightened out.

Overall funding is not the problem, Setter said. It is more a matter of how many actual students are enrolled for the second semester, and for what course offerings.

"As far as I'm concerned, we've got one," he said of students. "Only one has paid

That would not suit the college's goal of becoming a fully accredited four-year college, Setter said.

Five students in one class with one instructor would be more like it. What the board needs to determine is matching students with Carpenter said he expects more pupils to pay once the Institute figures out what courses are going to be carried this semester.

He said he has students slated to take courses in geology, chemistry, chem lab, western civilization, ethics, voice and instrumental

Setter said he is not overly concerned about what he considers the Institute's birthing

"If you read the history of any school, this type of thing is very common," he said.

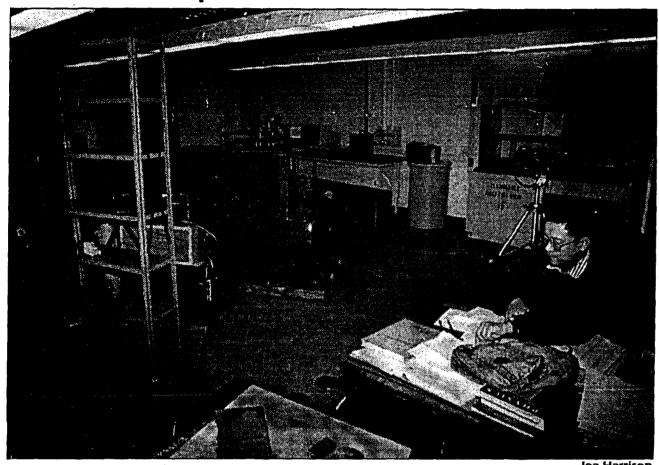

The college has begun to aim its recruitment efforts at high school students who want college credits they can later transfer.

"One thing that has been a revelation to me is the number of high school students who take only two classes," Setter said. "A lot of these students could get a year of college out of the way.

But he acknowledged the Institute is going to have to graduate students if it is going to grow into an accredited college.

"There are questions about what direction we're going to go," he said. "We have to talk about what we want to do versus what we are able to do. We've got about a week to figure

Lawmaker wants to tighten process

BOISE—Legislation introduced in the Idaho House on Tuesday would make it harder for local officials to circumvent voters when seeking approval for big pro-

Rep. Mark Stubbs, R-Twin Falls, introduced a personal bill that would tighten the "judicial confirma-

City and county officials have been able to use the procedure to get a judge to approve a project as "ordi-, nary and necessary" expense, thus eliminating the need to seek voter approval.

Officials have used the process to build new jails

Stubbs, a lawyer, said the law allowing judicial confirmation is loosely written, so it can be interpreted any way local officials want.

It says judges do not have to give "strict interpretation" to laws. "That's a license to the courts to have a liberal, open construction of the laws," he said. "Almost anything could be taken for judicial confirmation and be found necessary," he said. Stubbs said he didn't want to eliminate the "judicial confirmation" process.

"I want to make a clean statement of legal authority to make the expenditure," he said. His legislation would require two hearings instead of one while the matter is under consideration. It also would add a provision that anyone submitting a request in writing be notified each time "judicial confirmation" is to be used.

The measure also would allow reasonable attorney fees if an opponent can show there was no authority for the spending or improper procedures were used.

Most Idaho rejects Chenoweth's antics

It was Monday night and I heard Argonaut Sports Editor Dan Eckles call my name. He asked me to come over to the fax machine, because someone had sent us something he thought would be of interest to me.

He was right. Some kind soul down in Boise faxed the Argonaut an article about Idaho Representative Helen Chenoweth, which appeared on the front page of Monday's New York Times. The headline read: "Idaho Freshman Embodies G.O.P.'s Hope and Fear in '96." Timothy Egan with the New York Times wrote the piece.

The article listed most of the of the high profile "wrong doings" of Chenoweth—from the wild comment she made about white men being an endangered species to the vote she recently cast against reopening the Federal Government. The article expands on how House Speaker Newt Gingrich was supposed to stump for Chenoweth's re-election, but he snubbed her at the last minute. He was upset over her vote against reopening the government. "Aides to Mr. Gingrich said the public snub was the Speaker's attempt to gain more control over his rebellious freshman class," the article said.

I don't agree with anything Chenoweth says. I think she's radical. Some things she says frightens me, and I think it puts the state of Idaho in a negative light. For example, her claims about Federal Fish and Wildlife agents using helicopters to do god knows what in Idaho. According to the article, the helicopters are "viewed as stealth agents of a global martial force." The representative admits that she has never seen these alleged helicopters, but she said there's some proof that they do exist—even though no one has yet to seeit.

Then she asserts "that Federal environmental regulations are the first step in one-world government, citing such things as the United Nations designating Yellowstone National Park a world heritage sight." That's like the mayor of Moscow declaring my birthday a national holiday. In other words, it's not that big of a deal. Who cares?!

The thing is, Chenoweth puts this state in a worse light than it already was. The article outlines the First Congressional District, which she represents, on the map of Idaho and notes the district includes a high-tech community and a neo-Nazi compound. The New York Times has a circulation of about 1,145,890 and is distributed across the U.S. Get my point, over a million people have seen this and think Idaho is full racists and anti-government freaks.

I think Bill Mauk, chairman of the Idaho Democratic Party, said it best. "Idaho is preceived as a haven for kooks, crazies, anti-Semites and militia members. It's an image that most Idahoans reject. To the degree that Helen Chenoweth is perceived as contributing to that image it will come back to haunt her."

Vandal sighted in Boston museum

e need to change the University of Idaho mascot. Joe Vandal is outdated and archaic; a stereotypical white Nordic male that glamorizes ideals of an America past.

The winds of political correctness blow in an unrelenting tempest of change in this new era. And UI is moving at break neck speed into the 21st century, we must adjust to this brave new world

UI gains by the move into the Big West. The conference change will allow us to compete in TELE-VISED bowl games. Fame, fortune and big money are ours for the taking. UI needs to look good for the national audience.

Hopefully the move will also puff new life into already increasing alumni donations. A change in mascots would also make us seem more cosmopolitan and dare I say, Enlightened?

Let me explain. I went to Boston, Mass., over break. One of the things I chose to do while in that fine city was visit the Museum of Fine Arts. Because I am a savvy investment planner and a cheap bastard, I flashed my tattered old Vandal card and asked for the student discount. The Vandal card I have is the white one issued before all of the hoopla about phone company calling cards and corporate logos, but that is another column. With a simple flick of the wrist I opened my wallet to the card and thus proved I was indeed a student and worthy of the discount.

The cashier/gatekeeper, we'll call her Cerberus because she forgot her name tag, was a woman of rapier wit and utter candor. Before allowing me entrance she examined me and then my Vandal card and said with a solemn voice, "I'm not sure we want your kind here."

I had tied one on the night before and therefore was in full possession of my mental faculties. I stood stunned, looking stupid and dismayed wondering what Cerberus was talking about. And in a moment of brilliance I stated with authority, "Huh?"

Cerberus looked at me, smiled the knowing smile of someone in a weak position of authority and said, "This is the museum of Fine Arts, we have priceless works here; do you think we want Vandals roaming the halls?" I realize that I should expect such treatment for living in northern Idaho, home of such notables as Mark Fuhrman and Bo Gritz, but I am never prepared to defend our piece of God's country.

Cerberus surveyed me again. All I wanted was to be left alone with my solitude and a few good paintings when this underpaid hell-hound treated me as if I was assaulting the gates of the nether world.

Eventually I bluffed my way into the museum, saw some cool stuff and eventually found myself at the gift shop. I had a couple of overpriced trinkets to bear as gifts to people of great importance and was ready to pay. The cashier, we'll call her Einstein for reasons to soon become apparent, asked me if I was a student as I placed my new found booty on the counter in front of her. I responded yes and again flashed my trusty Vandal card, figuring I was gonna get the student discount.

Imagine my surprise when, after examining my Vandal card, Einstein got a dismayed and confused look on her face and said, "Idaho, that's too far away." What the hell distance has to do with student discounts is a mystery to me, but I suspect it had something to do with the Vandal on my card.

Here's to Bob, the greatest man I've ever known ob was a great man. He came to work every week day for the Marriott cafeteria. He worked early mornings through mid-afternoon. He worked when it was cold, he worked in the heat, he worked holidays and even on his anniversary. Bob's devotion to his job wasn't what made him great though, it was his attitude toward those he served.

Everyday Bob stood just inside the entrance to Marriott and swiped student meal cards. That was his job and he did it great! But Bob went beyond his job description.

You see, Bob became a friend to all who passed through the doors to eat. I remember when I met Bob. I was a lonely freshman, missing my mom who had left for Spokane hours before. Mom left me alone at a strange school. I quit unique my room for a few minutes to brave unknown school food, lest I should starve to death.

I walked in the door of Marriott and this elderly man greeted me with a huge smile. He took my

Johanna Smith

Vandal Card to swipe off my punch, read my name and asked how I was doing. I told Bob my story, he put his arm around my shoulder and gave me a hug to cheer me up. He said it would get better, and it did.

My story is similiar to many new students living in the residence halls. Bob became the dining service grandpa. He always seemed to have a smile, joke or hug. And his laughter rang loud and true.

His attention wasn't just focused on new students though. Since that first encounter, I have eaten many meals at Marriott (imagine that) and I have seen Bob countless times. Never once did he forget who I was even after a whole summer break.

Bob made it a point to memorize the names of all who came through his door and he knew things about every one of our lives.

Bob always had time to chat and it was easy to tell him anything. He'd also give a lot of advice or comments, especially about some of my columns, which showed he took an indiviual interest in people. We became Bob's family away from home and in a sense, he became ours too.

He knew how to give of himself. Bob was a friend to the friendless, an ear for those who needed to talk, and the stern grandpa when someone got a little too mischevious. He was a role model to me.

Everyone needs to feel special at times and Bob knew just the recipe for giving out love. Some days it would be a gold star sticker to put on your card. Bob said this was how he knew who his special people were. Other days Bob would let students punch their own card through and tell them they had done a most excellent job.

I remember days when Bob would tell me that his wife was getting jealous of me (yeah, right). He'd get that silly little grin and I'd say something along the line of "Oh, Bob!" But he loved his wife, and liked to talk about her and his family.

We'd come back from holidays and Bob would talk about the road-trip he'd taken to see his daughter and how it was good to get out. One special time caught my attention, it was on his anniversary and it showed me how deeply he loved his wife.

Of course Bob had to work and he was at his station, faithful as ever. But that day Bob had set up his shrine to his wife. Their picture was centerd on his station and he had a huge sign saying this was his anniversary. He was beaming and it was obvious that he was still madly in love with her.

Unfourtunately, Bob won't be at Marriot to celebrate his next anniversary. He won't be at home either. Bob passed away Monday morning after suffering a stroke, shocking all of us that knew and loved him.

The man gave all he had to make us happy, to show he cared and to make us smile (if only for him). Bob took the time to let us know we mattered and that we were special.

I know Bob is dearly missed by his family and by those of us whose lives were touched by him. A poem I once read talked about how the only thing mattered was being important in the life of a child. Well, he was definitely important to me and made a difference in my life.

Bob read my first column and told me he thought it was very interesting. I told him one day I would write about him and we grinned at each other as I moved into the dining room. I can't go back on my word to a man who brightened up my days by just spending a few moments with me.

So here's to Bob, the greatest man I've ever known.

Jackman runs roughshod over Cal-Poly

Idaho's Sean Dirden looks to drive on Cal-Poly's Colin Bryant during action Tuesday night. Dirden scored 11 points in Idaho's 94-78 nonleague home win.

Junior forward pours in 31 points to help Vandals snap four-game losing streak

Dan Eckles Sports Editor

ig Sky basketball coaches had better take a long look at video tape of the Idaho Vandals' Jason Jackman. Finding a way to stop the Hurricane, Utah native won't be an easy task if his recent play is any indication of what's to come.

The 6-foot 9-inch forward put on a show, starring in the Vandals 94-

78 trouncing of the Cal-Poly San Luis Obispo Mustangs Tuesday night in the Kibbie Dome. Jackman finished the contest with 31 points on 10-11 shooting from the field and an 11-13 performance from the free throw line. The junior-college transfer poured in 19 points after the intermission, including nine in a decisive 20-0 run midway through the second half.

"They really didn't have anybody inside that could guard me," Jackman said. "Their biggest guy was 6-7. That always helps."

Cal-Poly coach Jeff Schneider admitted Jackman's domination in the paint was a huge advantage for the UI squad.

"Jackman's a great player. A lot of guys his size you can push out to 12 feet, but with Jackman you can't do that. He's as good a Big Sky player as I've seen," Schneider

Colin Bryant knocked down a three-pointer for the Mustangs with 11:55 remaining in half two. The trey pushed the Mustangs within striking distance, trailing 68-57, but from there the well went dry for the California school. The Vandal defense stiffened as Cal-Poly went scoreless for nearly seven minutes while Idaho stretched its lead to 88-

The two clubs traded buckets in the early minutes of the game, before Idaho's Eddie Turner threw down a layup, putting the Vandals ahead 7-6 four minutes into the game. The lead was Idaho's first and the Mustangs never held the upper hand again. Turner was the catalyst for Idaho in the first half. The junior guard nailed a pair of free throws at the 2:51 mark of the first half to give the Vandals their largest lead of the half at 46-28. Turner, who made his second straight start after comig off the bench in Idaho's first 11 games, finished the game with 16 points, all in the first half.

The win snapped a four-game losing streak for the Vandal-5. Idaho has not lost five games in a row since the final six games of the 1984-85 season. The Vandals also stayed undefeated at home this sea-• SEE MEN PAGE 12

Former UCLA quarterback transfers to Idaho

he Idaho Vandals, looking for a new football life in the Big West next year, made their first major move in becoming a Division I-A school last week and gave a new lease to the career of a young PAC-10 quarterback.

Last Wednesday, UCLA football coach Bob Toledo announced that Ryan Fien, a former starting quarterback for the Bruins, had transferred to the University of Idaho. Fien, who has one year of NCAA eligibility remaining, will begin his career as a Vandal in spring practices this somester as he looks to earn the starting job on Vandal coach Chris Tormey's team.

The move has the Vandal coaching staff excited not only about its new quarterback, but also the recruiting possibilities bringing in Fien have created. Tormey has been off-campus this week, but Vandal running backs and tight ends coach

Todd Hoiness said potential players in California now know about ldaho and have an interest in the program.

"Recruits say, oh yeah, Ryan Fien. Players who didn't know about Idaho before now are taking an interest in our program,' Hoiness said.

Hoiness credits the new awareness of recruits to the numerous articles that have circulated in California about Fien's move and Ryan's positive attitude toward Idaho and the football program.

Fien's move to Idaho came after three years of varsity action for the Bruins. The first two seasons Ryan played backup to Woune Cook and this year shared starting duties with true freshman Cade McNown, who replaced Ryan halfway through the '95 season. As a Bruin, Fein completed 64 of 129 passes in his career for 689 yards, two touchdowns and three interceptions. However, his most impressive day may have been an upset of #11-ranked Miami in the Bruin season opener last year. Coming back from a concussion suffered early in the game, Fein went 10 of 17 for 74 yards in UCLA's 31-8 victory.

That concussion and another the following week, along with a separated shoulder against Brigham Young University, turned out to be a huge benefit for the Vandals. Freshman McNown stepped into replace Fein and finished the season as the starter for the Bruins, putting Fien on the road to Idaho.

Steve Rourke, assistant director for UCLA's Sports Information Department said the concussions and shoulder injury were unfortunate and that Fein never really got a fair chance to become the stating quarterback for the Bruins.

Fien's name should be familiar to football fans in the Palouse, as Ryan played in three games against the Cougars, including his first ever appearance for UCLA in 1992 against Washington State. Fein's return to the Palouse should benefit a Vandal team looking for a proven leader. Idaho quarterback Brian Brennan, who many look to take over for the departing Eric Hisaw, underwent surgery on his throwing shoulder this past season. The Ryan will help us next year, now we have depth at quarterback and Ryan's been in battles before.

> -Todd Hoiness UI Assistant Football Coach

Vandal coaches see Fien's arrival as an opportunity for Brennan to heal slowly and properly.

As for who will start next year, that decision will come next fall, but the Vandal coaches like the future outlook.

"Ryan will help us next year, we now have depth at quarterback and Ryan's been in battles before. He's got a good attitude and he's a good guy to be around. He has a strong arm and a good head," hoiness said. "We're going to let him take the ball from the center and let him fling it all day."

As for Brennan, Hoiness said if he recovers from the surgery, he will get his chance to play also.

The only downside for the vanuare comes from losing Brennan for a year. Ineligible to be red-shirted, Brian may miss the 1996 season due to his shoulder surgery, leaving him only one season to compete when he returns.

nfortunately, in the topsyturvy world of college athletics, winning is everyhing. Coaches who produce more 's than W's end up losing their ob faster than the AFC can lose nother Super Bowl.

The game of college athletics urns well rounded coaches into nasty, greedy zombies who push their players so their job won't be

Is this soon to happen here in good old Moscow, Idaho?

UI coach Joe Cravens came to the spud state in 1993 after the successful Larry Eustachy decided to bolt for a head coaching job at Utah State. The Vandals took two thirdplace finishes and one Big Sky Championship in Eustachy's three years as the Idaho head honcho.

Cravens took over in 1993 after spending 17 years in the assistant coaching ranks. At the University of Utah, he was an assistant under successful Ute coach Rick Majerus. Cravens also served as the primary recruiter for Majerus, where he shined after getting stars Jimmy Soto and Phil Dixon.

In Craven's first year with the Vandals he looked to be fitting in perfectly, leading Idaho to an 18-10 record. Cravens was also the first rookie head coach in Big Sky Conference history to win at both Montana and Montana State.

Before Craven's first inaugural season, he didn't make any promises. So with an 18-10 record his first year, things looked to be going well for the Vandals.

Oh, how things soon change in Vandal land.

Last season Idaho ended the year with a 12-15 record, showing little promise, but a lot of room for improvement. One positive that came out of last season was Craven's ability to recruit JC players, primarily Harry Harrison, who led the Big Sky in rebounds last

The pre-season polls this year picked the Vandals to finish fourth in the conference, behind Montana State, Montana and Weber State.

So why is their pressure put on Cravens to produce this year?

Easy. Vandal fans, alumni and people in the community want badly to return to the Big Sky Championship and many UI supporters have expressed their concern with Cravens as the coach. But according to the Idaho athletic department, Cravens is very secure in his situation.

"I haven't even thought about that (referring to the pressure put on Cravens to produce a championship)," Idaho Athletic Director Pete Liske said on Thursday from his office phone. "We do expect success. But we wanted to get more high school kids from the area, and it might take some time to develop their ability."

To credit Cravens, he has brought in some local Idaho talent, including Jared Mercer of Kamiah and Kris Baumann of New Plymouth. Although Mercer quit, Cravens has helped develop Baumann into a very productive player.

But college athletics has a one word vocabulary - WIN, and it certainly doesn't look as though Idaho's looked that word up in the dictionary lately, sporting a 6-7 overall record and 0-2 in the conference. It's great to get local high school kids, but it's most certainly better to have a winning record. Getting beat by Cal-Poly SLO and Southern Utah only makes things more difficult for Cravens. Here in Moscow U.S.A. fan support is at an all time low, averaging just 2,117 for Vandal home games. Low attendance has everything to do with the caliber of team that is playing.

Cravens is a coach who isn't afraid to say what he thinks and that is a quality more people should carry. The outgoing coach pushes his players to give their best effort on the court and in the classroom, but for some spectators it isn't good

Hopefully Cravens can figure out a way to get the Vandals going in the right direction. In his case, nice guys shouldn't finish last.

Vandals face Southern Utah tonight without Rice, Hawks

Mark Vanderwall

With every game comes a new challange for the Idaho women's hoop squad, whether it be changing defensive pressure, or the loss of a leading scorer and rebounder, obstacles have been always been on the horizon.

Mindy Rice, who played against Eastern Washington last night, will miss this evening's contest after receiving a cortazone shot to help her ailing foot

Along with Rice, the services of one of the hottest playing Vandals, Natalie Hawks, is doubtful for tonight as well. Hawks missed the Eastern Washington game with a strained knee, and will most likely not see action tonight against Southern Utah. With the services of these two starters lost, also goes a combined average of 23 points and 13 rebounds a game.

"With Natalie and Mindy both out, it leaves us a little short at post," said Idaho coach Julie

The Thunderbirds, on the other hand, are coming off a 10-day break and come in very healthy as has been the case for the entire season. The Thunderbirds have not had a player miss any games due to sickness or injury thus far this season.

Southern Utah comes into the game with a 6-11 record and is led in scoring by Cherri Frandsen at 14.8 points per game, while Myndee Larsen is close behind at 14.6. Larsen, a 6-5 junior center, is coming off the finest game of her career, as the Thunderbirds upset 20thranked Oklahoma State on Jan. 2. Larsen tallied 33 points and seven blocked shots during the contest. Krista Wardle, Tami Newton and Lindsey Mortensen round out the starting line-up for the Thunderbirds.

Michelle Greenwood will fill the void left by Rice and Jennifer Stone will likely get the nod for Hawks to garner the first start in her young career for the Vandals. If everything goes well, Rice and Hawks should both return for Idaho's league clash with Weber State on Jan.

"They are a really good team, that is well coached. I hope that the ten days off works to our advantage, and we are able to take advantage of some early turnovers," Holt said.

Vandal sophomore Kelli Johnson looks to continue her hot hand after a career-high 25 point effort against Boise State last weekend. Johnson's backcourt partner Ari Skorpik, who is second on the team in scoring at 14.2 points per game, will be counted on to step up as well with the losses of Rice and Hawks.

Melissa McDaniel, who has played steadily all year for the Vandals, rounds out the starting

"Everybody wants to hug you when you lose. I've been hugged so many times in the last two weeks I thought maybe people thought my name was Susie," Idaho coach Joe Cravens said. "I was getting damn tired of getting hugged. I didn't get hugged tonight."

The Vandals converted on 33 of 61 (54 percent) shots Tuesday, after outhustling the Mustangs time and again down the floor. Idaho's defense fueled a transition game which led to easy buckets. Back-to-back charging calls on Cal-Poly midway through half two had Cravens more animated than a Warner Brothers cartoon.

"When you lose four in a row everybody wonders what's going on," Cravens said. "I will take responsibiliy for the way we play.

Shooting was the key to the win. Cal-Poly shot only 39 percent from the field and was also

Die Hard Browns fans make noise in Atlanta

Associated Press

ATLANTA—Waving dog bones and chanting "no team, no peace," hundreds of Browns fans descended on an NFL meeting Tuesday to demand that their beloved franchise remain in Cleveland.

The league, however, said the owners would not have enough time to properly consider the move to Baltimore, and commissioner Paul Tagliabue was not expected to make a formal recommendation.

"I think it's highly unlikely that we'll have a vote on the Browns at this meeting," NFL spokesman Joe Browne said.

Robert Tisch, co-owner of the New York Giants, reserved judgment on whether he would support Art Modell's plan to move his team from Cleveland to Baltimore.

"I can see both sides," Tisch said.
"We have to look at Cleveland, which has been a fantastic football town over the last 50 years. We also have to think about Mr. Modell's position of being competitive in a highly competitive field, which I think is going to become more competitive over the next couple of years."

More than 160 Browns fans took a 16-hour bus trip from Cleveland to Atlanta to show their support for keeping the team where it has been since 1946.

Dozens more flew in from cities as far away as San Francisco to support the cause.

Cleveland Mayor Michael White led a caravan to the airport hotel, where Modell was planning to make his case to a league committee Tuesday evening. They brought petitions calling for the Browns to stay in Cleveland and returned later for a candlelight vigil _actually, they used tiny flashlights _ while jets roared away in the background.

Next to Modell, the most unpopular person at the hotel was an advertising company worker hired by a Baltimore radio station to display a sign outside the hotel: "The Browns and Baltimore. A Great Team"

"That's hideous and vile," an irate Cleveland fan said.

The entire group of owners will meet Wednesday to hear from Modell and those in Cleveland opposed to the move, which is being challenged in court and under league rules needs approval from 23 of the 30 owners.

"We've come to tell them that in this age of sky boxes and club seats and free parking and free concessions and multimillion-dollar deals for free agents and domes and new stadiums ... your best asset is the fans," White said at a lunchtime rally for Browns fans.

While the owners are not expected to vote on the Browns move, they may take an informal poll to see where they stand for the formal vote at a later meeting.

NCAA investigates Weber State basketball

Associated Press

OGDEN, Utah—The NCAA is conducting a preliminary inquiry of possible violations by the Weber State University men's basketball program.

Weber State officials announced Wednesday that the National Collegiate Athletic Association has been asking questions about the men's program.

"We are cooperating and providing any information they require," WSU president Paul Thompson said.

Thompson said the university was first contacted by the NCAA in October, but he believes the organization was gathering information before that.

No one at the Big Sky Conference member school would say Wednesday what the NCAA is looking into. The NCAA has told the university not to comment.

Last August, Sports Illustrated published a story about a small college in Florida where many athletes were earning substantial credits quickly through correspondence courses. At Southeastern College of the Assemblies of God in Lakeland, Fla., testing procedures were based on trust and the number of credits a student could earn in a summer was almost limitless.

Weber State has had at least two players who took correspondence classes from Southeastern.

Last August, Weber State coach Ron Abegglen said one of the players barely passed his course and the other failed. The player who failed never participated in a WSU practice or game.

Thompson said the NCAA is looking at, or will look at, every program that used Southeastern correspondence courses.

"When they complete this and if they find reason to bring allegations, and we don't know if they will do that, we'll have an opportunity to respond and agree or disagree with them," Thompson said.

That process could last well into the summer.

Top Girls" to compete regionally

Shannon Paterson

The theater department is buzzing with excitementand they're not just acting

The postmodern production of Top Girls has been chosen to compete at a regional film festival in Laramie, Wyo., on Feb. 17.

The competition is a year-round program sponsored by the Kennedy Center/American College Theater Festival.

"It's the most prestigious competitive theater festival in the United States," said Kate Beasley of the theater arts department.

Three judges selected the show last December from a variety of college productions in Colorado, Washington, Montana, Wyoming and Oregon.

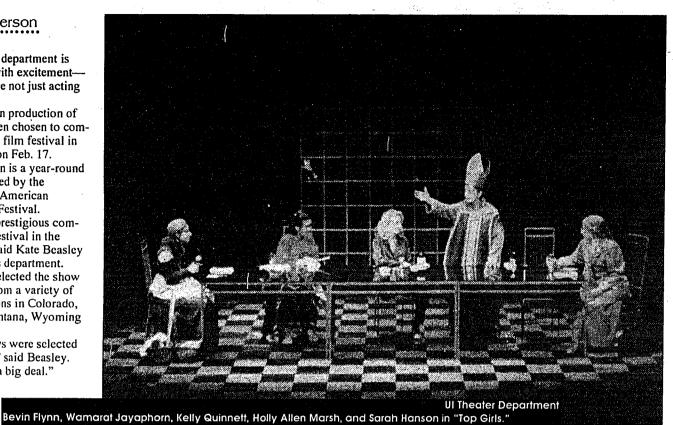

"Only four plays were selected from our region," said Beasley. 'That in itself is a big deal."

Four to six of the productions will be chosen by three judges in Laramie to perform at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. KC/ACTF will pick up the bill for those produc-

"Idaho has never sent a production to nationals, but we feel we have a solid chance this year," said Charles Ney, acting department chair.

However, in order to get to Laramie, the production needs $4800. KC/ACTF has donated $200 and two benefit performances will be held to raise additional funds.

The first will be at the Lewiston Civic Center on Feb. 9 and the second at Hartung Theater the following evening.

The play's main character is Marlene, who celebrates her promotion by throwing a dinner party whose guests include women from history or legend. Her guests comment on maternity and ambition, causing Marlene to question suc-

Kelly Quinnett, who plays Marlene, also won a Best Female Actor award at last year's national competition. That award led to a television contract and several soap opera appearances before she came to UI to pursue a graduate

Besides being such an honor, awards often lead to visibility,' said Beasley.

Other characters will be played by Sarah Hanson, Wamarat Javaphorn, Bevin Flinn, Holly Allen Marsh, Gabrielle Korten and Anne Jensen. Violinist Cate Olson will also perform in the play.

"It's a tough competition, but we're ecstatic about getting this far," said Beasley.

MLK Week concludes with several activities

Valaree Johnson

Nearly 30 years after the assassination of Reverend Martin Luther King Jr., his perseverance and eloquence are rewarded as Martin Luther King, Jr. Week wraps up this weekend.

The University of Idaho Office of Multicultural Affairs encourages everyone to celebrate the dream of King not only this week but throughout our lives realizing everyone must be involved in those efforts.

"Our main effort is to get everybody involved and help somebody out," says Victoria Salinas, programming assistant at the office of Multicultural Affairs. "Helping somebody is what it's all about regardless of who it is-it may even be yourself."

Linda Morris, director of Multicultural Affairs, agrees that those efforts are important but the program was also created to educate students of the man King was. "Most students have heard of Martin Luther King, Jr., but not everyone is aware of what he sáys Morris.

It was in August of 1 963 when around 250,000 people gathered between the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memolial to hear King's plea to work with faith for the demands of freedom and the security of

As King said in his "I have a dream" speech that day, now is the time to make the real promises of democracy. Celebrating diversity and human rights starts by acknowledging the events student organizations have planned for this week.

Students unable to participate in the candlelight march from Friendship Square to the Ul Administration Building Auditorium on Wednesday or the public forum discussing ways in which communities can fight prejudice can still show support for human rights by attending "RAP 101" tonight at 7 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

"RAP 101" is performed by Eric Davis, a student from Scattle University. Davis will present Dr. King's message that inspires the Amelican conscience through rap music. Davis, who received his undergraduate degree from UCLA in Afro American Studies, was invited by his friend, UI Resident Director Jason Moore, to enliven the spirit of King through interactive participation combined with music and videos to relay his energetic message of equality.

The Latah Human Rights Task Force hosts its annual breakfast tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the Moscow Community Center.

KUOI showcases bands before break

Erik Marone

It wasn't a packed house, but for the 120 or so students and locals who turned out for KUOI's KiwiFest '95, it was a fun five hours of music from three of Moscow's most popular local

"It was a fun thing," said KUOI Production Director David Camden-Britton. "Everybody who showed up had a great time, and hopefully we can do this again."

Soulcraft opened the show, playing tunes from their forthcoming debut CD, which should be available later this spring. One concertgoer commented, "I love these guys, they have attitude, but it's a good atti-

After Soulcraft's extended set, The River Project kept the crowd dancing with their signature funky, folky rock. After a brief break, The Bedheads closed the show with favorites from their CD Therapy as well as some new tunes they have just polished. They were unable to bring their new horn section because of the timing of the event.

It appeared timing also dealt a blow to the number in attendance. Event organizers had hoped to draw students away from the books for a few hours on the weekend before finals, but it the lure of pulling a higher grade kept them studying.

"It was a great start to what we hope becomes a KUOI tradition." said KUOI Station Manager Vicki Trier. "A hundred and twenty people is a pretty good-sized crowd, but in the ballroom it doesn't look that big at all. To improve it, we'll change the venue and plan it for a less busy weekend in the future."

The KUOI staff has more events in the works for the spring semester, as well as new T-shirts and coffee mugs. The new DJ air schedule starts next week and KUOI's program guide, In Cue, will be out in a couple

ASUI Productions Preview

ASUI Productions will unleash a variety of concerts, films and performances for the spring semester, featuring several well-known names and multi-cultural events.

In celebration of Black History Month, Danny Glover will read the poetry of Langston Hughes at Beasley Coliseum in Pullman. The performance will begin on Feb.28 at 7:30 p.m.

Joe Clark, the high school principle who inspired the movie "Lean on Me", will speak as a part of Black History Month. His lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom.

According to Jenny Moore of ASUI Productions, the Coffeehouse series will feature more multicultural and family oriented shows. "Our Coffeehouse series is real solid this semester. We have a lot of things that are of interest to a lot of people," she said.

The spring film series will kick off with a showing of Manufacturing Consent: Noam Chomsky and the Media on Jan. 24. Other movies throughout January and February include The Wonderful Horrible Life of Leni Riefenstahl on Jan. 31, Hollywood Shuffle on Feb. 3, Daughters of the Dust on Feb. 13 and Do the Right Thing, showing on Feb. 17. All films will begin at 7:15 p.m. in the Borah Theater.

Weekend Entertainment

With nearly a full week of classes behind you this semester, it seems only fitting a little celebration should take place. This weekend's music scene in Moscow should amply provide a respite from the hum-drum monotony that is schoolwork.

The Capricorn will be making a change from its normal billing of Johnny Bravo all weekend long to make room for the band Crush, a popular item on the Palouse scene. Crush will perform both tonight and Saturday. The shows start at 9:30 p.m. and run until the last customer passes out. Cover is $2 at the 123 N. Main locale.

John's Alley will be offering the sounds of Clumsy Lovers tonight and The Bedheads on Saturday. The shows begin about 9:30 p.m. John's Alley, 114 E. 6th, requires all patrons be 21 to get in.

Rathaus Pizza Shoppe will be serving up Soulcraft and Flycatcher tonight and Hand on Soul and Uncle Wiggly on Saturday. Both two-for-the-priceof-one shows promise to showcase some of the area's best talent. The Rathaus, 215 N. Main, has a 21-orover age limit. All shows start at 9:00 p.m. and cost $2.

Finally, on a more socially important note, Eric Davis, a graduate of UCLA, will be giving a talk/rap concert at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom tonight. Davis, who has a bachelor's degree in Afro-American Studies, will be relaying Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s message of racial equality and harmony through rap music and videos.
