The UI Administration Building is one of the more prominent landmarks on campus. It is home to UI President Robert Hoover's office as well as the College of Letters and Science, the Foreign Languages Department, the College of Business and Economics, the Department of Political Science, the History Department, Computer Services, the Registrar's Office and various other campus service providers.

EVENTS: THINGS ARE HAPPENING ON CAMPUS

WHAT ARE YOU GONNA DO?

By Amber Meserth

Summer Reporter for the UI Argonaut

Although academics are the main focus at the University of Idaho, there are always fun events and activities available for students to partake in when they need a break from their studies. Some of these events are aimed right at the new freshmen.

Student Activities Fair

If after a few weeks into the school year you haven't found the activities that you're looking for you can attend the Student Activities Fair. This fair offers the perfect opportunity for you to find out about some of the over 160 organizations on campus. The fair will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sept. 2, and will be located at the Library Plaza, so you'll be sure not to miss it. Many clubs and organizations set up tables to promote themselves and recruit new members. "It's a hands on activity," said Christina Day, director of Student Activities and Leadership. Unless you skip class that day, you'll notice the fair on campus, but give yourself sometime between classes to check out all the organizations this institution has to offer.

Blockbuster Film Series

Almost every Friday night ASUI productions will be hosting a Blockbuster film series in the Borah Theater. These movies aren't going to have subtitles or be in black white, they are the hottest movies of the summer! You can watch movies like: The X-files, Armageddon, Six Days and Seven Nights, and lots of other big hits. This isn't like renting the movies where it the video is modified to fit your television. This is 35 millimeter film exactly like what you would see in a regular movie theater. So if you can't get to the cinemas this summer or just find yourself with nothing to do on a Friday evening, go check it out! Students with Vandal Cards get in for two dollars! The film series will start August 28th and movies will start at 7 p.m.

Comedy Event

If classes are bringing you down be sure to attend the comedy event in the Student Union Building on Sept. 15th. Planning is still in progress for this event, but it is sure to be a barrel of laughs as they recreate the comedy club atmosphere!

Concerts

The Concert board is busy arranging a major concert for the fall semester. Last year the Mighty Mighty Bosstones performed in the Kibbie Dome to a crazed bunch of college students. Be listening for news on who this year's big performer will be!

There are also many small concerts happening weekly through the school of music. There are student recitals as well as professionals. Be sure to stop by the music building to pick up a calendar of upcoming concerts.

The Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival

Every year The University of Idaho host The Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival. This festival has been called the greatest in the world, this could be because of the close to 100 entries to compete, and over 15,000 students who attend from all over the United States and Canada. Every year the spectacular performances grow and performers are always putting on clinics for students. This event usually takes place early in the spring semester, and it is such a big event that everybody in Moscow will know when it happens. But only by attending the festival will you know why the world thinks it is so great!

Coffee House Programs

Coffee house programs are a lot of fun for all who get involved.

Card up, Vandal freshmen

Before you can assume your position on the quad soaking up rays, you'll need a Vandal Card. You can get your Vandal card at one of the offices in Wallace Complex or the Student Union.

By Amber Meserth

Summer Reporter for the UI Argonaut

Sometime during your first few days here when you are being drug through campus tours, receiving e-mail accounts and a room assignment you will need to see the Vandal Card Office. There you will receive a small piece of plastic with a picture of you that will make your driver's license photo look beautiful. However ugly you think your photo is, DON'T LOSE THAT CARD! Okay, so its not that serious, but your Vandal Card may have just become one of the most important items in your wallet.

First off, the card contains your Vandal Card number. You will need to know this number to register for classes, check grades, take tests, to join an intramural team and participate in various other activities. You will mostly likely have this number memorized within a few weeks.

The Vandal Card goes way beyond those numbers though. This card is your free ticket to all athletic events like football and volleyball games. It gives you access to the Kibbie Dome and Memorial Gym for exercise and weightlifting. With that little piece of plastic you can watch movies at Borah Theater for a very inexpensive price. The card allows free counseling services, cheap health care, and free bus rides to Pullman. The Vandal card shows that you are a student of the UI and therefore entitles you to all the benefits that UI students receive.

If you live in the residence halls the card becomes vital for survival. It is your meal card, meaning it must be with you every time you want to eat at Bob's Place (cafeteria). The Card also has a magnetic strip on the back that is coded to the locks on the building you live in. Some are locked all the time which means every time you want inside you must use your card. Others are locked at night so if you are out late you better have your card or sleep on cement.

The nifty little card also offers more options. You can use it as a phone card by following the directions on the back. You can also open a Vandal Account, which works as a debit card and can be used at the bookstore, food court, on campus vending machines, and laundry facilities.

If you do happen to lose this card, don't fret. Immediately call the Vandal Card office to void your card, to insure no one will be spending your money or meals. The phone number is 885-7522.

Talkin' all that Jazz!

Jazz Festival annually

February of 1999, the University of Idaho will play host to the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival. The four day event will be the 32nd year of the Jazz Festival. The Jazz Festival last year brought in over 15,000 students and 650 entries to compete and learn.

Dr. Lynn Skinner, professor and director of the Lionel Hampton School of Music said, "Many of the world's greatest jazz artists have been invited."

It is really unbelievable what takes place here. You really have to witness it [the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival], to believe it."

But don't just take somebody from the UI's word for it. Leonard Feather, syndicated columnist for the L.A. Times wrote, "The Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival is the number one jazz festival in the world."

Phillip Elwood of the San Francisco Examiner must not have believed Feather's conclusion at first —until he actually witnessed the event. After that Elwood wrote, "Feather was right — it is the greatest."

The jazz festival began in 1968, when only 15 schools, the UI jazz band and Buddy Brisbois held the event. Lionel Hampton, who did not graduate from UI, came as an invited guest in 1984.

Skinner said, "Lionel was really excited about what was going on here and decided to pledge a lot of support to the event." After Hampton pledged support the event began to take off. The tickets for the Jazz Festival in 1986 sold out in 3 hours. The Administration at UI felt something needed to be done and were able to sell more tickets, which sold out in four hours.

Skinner said, "The Jazz Festival used to be held in Memorial Gym, but after 1986 we got the point it wasn't practical anymore. The sound wasn't bad in there because of acoustical tiling, but we had to move everything to the Kibbie Dome. In 1987 we brought in sound engineers, closed the dome down, and let the engineers figure out a way to make it work. Really, the Kibbie Dome has good sound quality in it as well."

It must, since Skinner said, "I've got a stack of CDs of artists wanting to come to the Jazz Festival now. It's about two feet high, and that's just from the last couple of weeks."

Skinner said, "Since there had never been a [jazz] festival named after a musician, we decided to try it." The event really stuck in his head. "On Saturday at 2:00 pm, February 28, 1987, we officially named the UI school of music the 'Lionel Hampton School of Music.'" In addition, the festival became known as the "Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival".

Student competitions are run in 13 different locations simultaneously. The judges come from all over the United States just like the students. Some of the students even come from Canada.

In addition, jazz greats perform clinic sessions and actually have a chance to sit down with students and share their expertise on a personal basis. This goes hand-in-hand with Skinner's promise that, "The festival exists to help educate young people."

The Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival appears in jazz journals from the United Kingdom to France, and was even advertised for free by Toyota in the July 14 issue of People magazine.

Year after year the accolades continue to pour in. Vocalist Jon Hendricks said, "It is difficult in a few words to say what Lionel has done. We who are alive now and are able to see him could compare ourselves to people who were alive and saw Beethoven or Brahms or Bach in their day."

Chip DeFina of the New York Post wrote, "New York is the jazz capital of the world. And yet the jazz festival that does the best job of addressing the needs of the next generation of musicians and fans is not to be found in the greater New York area but in the remote and unlikely setting of Moscow, Idaho."

For more information about this year's event call (208) 885-6765.

Attention Freshmen:

If you learn nothing else while at the University of Idaho. Remember this:

Who do we Hate?

Boise State!

By Amber Meserth
Summer Reporter for the UI Argonaut

The days before the opening of Fall semester are going to be a very busy time for freshmen. You will most likely either go through Greek Rush or residence hall orientation during the week before school. This will be exciting, but the weekend is going to be a blast! It is guaranteed to be jam packed with fun activities to welcome you to the University of Idaho.

Starting the Saturday before classes begin is the fifth annual Palousafest. This event is the annual "welcome back" for all University of Idaho students, but it's also a great way for new students to become familiar with some of the Universities organizations and the perfect time to have a little fun before classes begin. Every year Palousafest hosts live bands, food, vendors, and lots of organizations ready to give you information and free hand outs. This year's festival is supposed to be even bigger and better than past years!

At 4 p.m. local bands will kick off the music and get the action happening. Between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. people can entertain themselves with free amusement games including sumo wrestling and jousting. There will also be children's games such as hoop shooting and Ellie the Elephant.

From 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. you may get the opportunity to hook up with your dream person in the UI Singled Out game. This is a take off of MTV's Singled Out and should be a lot of crazy fun for participants and spectators. At 7 p.m. the band Stranger Neighbor will start playing some tunes and at 8:30 p.m. the Clumsy Lovers (formerly known as The Six Million Dollar Band) will take over. These free concerts should not be missed.

Food will be in abundance by local vendors as well as free snacks provided by the university. So come hungry and looking for a lot of fun!

Stranger Neighbor in the Hood

By Zach Boyle
Reporter for the UI Argonaut

Doug Cameron, lead vocalist and guitarist for Stranger Neighbor is walking around John's Alley with an insouciant smile on his face. "It feels good to be back home," said Cameron, whose band left for bigger and better things in picturesque Boulder, Colorado, two months ago.

Like the dichotomy that defines this former cover band turned original ensemble, the dark and sordid atmosphere of John's Alley is a deep contrast to this bright and blazing hot July afternoon. Inside, the members of Stranger Neighbor: Doug Cameron, Casey Miller, Ryan Gibler, John Fricke, and Darren Smith are preparing for their first show in Moscow since they left two months ago.

"People have been really supportive so far," said Cameron, when asked about audience reaction away from their home turf. John Fricke added, "This makes us appreciate getting to a gig where we have a lot of friends." Friends and fans is definitely one thing that Stranger Neighbor has in Moscow. They built up a loyal following slugging away every weekend for two years as the house band at the Capricorn. Instead of resting on their laurels and mindlessly pounding out cover tunes, they began writing songs and recorded their debut CD "Memories of This" earlier this year.

When asked how Stranger Neighbor fits into the current musical climate, one infiltrated with one-hit wonder all-pop bands and second rate Puff Daddy imitators, Doug Cameron calmly responded, "We're kind of warm." Fricke also stated, "We're writing real happy music, grunge is over. That whole piss in your Mom's mouth mentality is a bit tired." Cameron gleefully retorted, "It's the Hanson thing!"

"Memories of This" is a highly impressive first effort, especially considering the band has only been writing together for a little over a year. Produced by Steve Dawson of Vancouver's Spirit Merchants, "Memories" shines with a brilliant and deep production that is rarely found in independent releases. "We've learned each other's styles," said Gibler. "This band...it's just been hugely tight, maybe I'm just thinking about the rhythm section."

Trying to pigeonhole Stranger Neighbor's unique sound is a daunting task. Of course one can hear the Dave Matthews influence, but like any great artist, Stranger Neighbor internalizes their influences and turns it into something uniquely their own. "It's been described as folk-funk, improv-jazz jam," replied Cameron when asked to describe their sound. One unique aspect of the band's sound was stumbled upon somewhat fortuitously. Fricke explained, "I had a mute that plugged into a delay pedal, and listened to it over some headphones and thought it sounded really cool." Two years later John Fricke's trumpet playing and unique use of effects such as delay, chorus, and reverb is an integral part of the band's sound. Night has fallen on a peaceful and quiet summer evening in Moscow, but John's Alley is jumping. Assorted beer signs adorning the wood paneled walls are vibrating and shaking, as is the crowd. A mix of hippies, greeks, and townies are bouncing up and down joyously to the phat grooves being laid down by Stranger Neighbor. "We like the energy of our music to spread like mayonnaise," said Ryan Gibler, the usually taciturn bass player. "I'm happy to get a chance to see these guys live," said Scott Cargill, guitarist for the new house band at the Capricorn, Hat Trick. "They're one of the best bands around." That statement pretty much encapsulates the opinion of most of the people that came out to hear this great band. Although you can't see them every weekend at the Cap, Fricke promises, "We'll try to get back here as much as possible, we love playing in Moscow." Stranger Neighbor will be returning to Moscow to play Palousafest Aug. ( ), and will be back at John's Alley Aug. 24. If you can't wait until then to hear them, their CD is available at Paradise Ridge, and Sam Goody.

IS WHERE YOU MAKE IT

Amber Meserth
Summer Reporter for the UI Argonaut

The University of Idaho has a large variety of on campus living options for you to choose from. There is also the option of living off campus, but there are plenty of great and sensible reasons to make the UI your home. Here is a list of just a few:

- *Grade point averages: Statistics have proven that students living on campus have higher grade point averages.
- *Retention: Studies have shown that students living on campus are more likely to graduate in four years and apply for admission to graduate school.
- *Involvement: Both our residence halls and greek system are very involved in numerous activities on campus. Almost every living group has intramural athletic teams you can join, community service projects, leadership positions to hold, activities and traditions.
- *Convenience: When you live on campus you don't have to bother with driving to classes and finding parking space. Everything from study areas and computer labs to food joints and recreation areas are located within walking distance.

*Friendships and Fun: Because the University offers such a great variety of living groups, it is easy to find people with the same interests and ideals as your own.

Wallace Complex may be the biggest home you've ever lived in.

Here is another great reason to live on campus your freshman year: For the first time ever both the greek system and the residence halls are teaming up with the Tutoring Academic Assistance Center to add something special to their programs just for Freshmen! The Greek Freshmen Transition class will be offered to new freshmen involved in the greek residence. This one credit class offered in the fall semester will be designed to specifically help greek students balance the responsibilities of greek life and academics. It will also help freshmen get connected with the University's resources.

The residence halls are working on a similar project, but taking it a step further with First Year Experience. First Year Experience will actually be a theme hall populated entirely with beginning freshmen girls. This hall will be located in the Theophilis Tower and will be alcohol and smoke free. "This hall is a community designed to assist new students in making a smooth transition to college," said Anna Keifer, the residence halls promotions specialist. Students living on the hall will be involved in a First Year Transition Seminar and will be working with carefully chosen faculty members to better their first year college experience.

New Student Activities

Amber Meserth
Summer Reporter for the UI Argonaut

Many people have been planning and working to make your night before classes very memorable! Those involved in Sunday night's activities include Student Advisory Services, Student Alumni Relations Board, many student leaders, lots of faculty members, and even UI President Hoover himself.

New orientation night activities begin at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building. EmPowerX! will be giving the Vandal Welcome speech. This interactive presentation will challenge you to think about why you are at school and motivate you to get as much out of this experience as you can. Mary Lou Freano with student advisory services is very enthusiastic, maybe even a little secretive about this exercise but she did say "it should be a really exciting and interactive session."

From the Vandal Welcome you will immediately start on the Vandal Walk. Beginning at the Student Union Building the walk will lead all the way to the President's house for a bar-b-que dinner. Along the walk you'll be told all about the numerous traditions on the campus and will also receive a little more background information about some of the landmark buildings. The walk will be lead by members of the Student Alumni Relations Board and will represent the transition from being a high school student to a Vandal. While walking everyone will receive a gift bag including a UI t-shirt donated by the school's credit card company USA Bank. Towards the end of the walk you will be met by the school band and Vandal cheerleaders, who will parade with you the rest of the way.

Once at the president's house, you will be served by the faculty and staff, which is probably the only time that will ever happen to you. After dinner there will be time to learn fight songs and maybe win a few free prizes. Co-chairs Allison Lee and Rebecca Coyle have planned this event to be full of energy and festivities, all in hopes to make the new freshmen class feel like an important part of the University. "At the end of the night they [new students] will say 'yes I'm a vandal'" said co-chair person of the event, Allison Lee.

As an extra bonus all students who attend will be given a complimentary day planner. This planner includes a calendar that will already have all the important student dates marked such as registration, mid-terms, as well as any big campus events that take place during the school year. Also included is a listing of important on campus phone numbers and websites, athletic schedules, financial information, and resources. "Not only will this planner be encouragement for students to attend, but also a good resource all year" said Lee. If for some reason you can't attend new student traditions night these helpful planners are sold at the University Book Store.

UI Bookstore

Eager for your business

By Charlotte West
Reporter for the UI Argonaut

Wallets always seem a bit thinner after trips to the UI Bookstore, but maybe not as much as you would think.

Larry Martin, bookstore department manager, estimated that most students spend $300 to $350 on books every semester, but stressed the amount varies with majors and class schedules.

He said the amount paid upfront is not as high if students participate in the book buyback program. "It's an opportunity to recycle books at the end of the term," he said.

They buy back books which will be used again the next semester, said Martin.

He also said students can save money by purchasing used textbooks. Martin said the bookstore prices are 5 percent less than the publisher's recommended list price. He said used books are marked at 75 percent of the original price. If a new book had a $10 list price, it would be sold for $9.50. If the same book were sold used, it would cost $7.50. He said that if the book could be reused the next semester, the bookstore would buy it back for half of the original price, or $5. "Students could rent a used book for $2.50, a quarter of the original publishing price," he said.

He said students who paid $10 for a new book would actually be paying $4.50 if they sold it back. He said students receive the same return whether they bought the book new or used.

Martin said used books purchased with a UI Vandal Card are reduced another 5 percent. He said sometimes even if the books are not going to be reused on the UI campus or if the bookstore is overstocked, they may be defaulted to a national wholesaler and shipped to a warehouse. However, he said the wholesalers will not usually pay much more than 20 percent of the original price. He said sometimes students are better off to keep their old books if a newer edition has been released.

"When books stay here on campus, the buyback is more beneficial," Martin said.

At the end of spring semester, students collected $370,000 from the 23,000 books they sold back to the bookstore. Martin estimated fall semester buyback was equivalent. He said total bookstore sales during the calendar year from July 1997 to June 1998 was more than $3.3 million. He said that approximately 37 percent of all books sold were used. These had a total of $1.3 million in sales.

Martin said the bookstore is a university owned and operated department, but it is expected to pay its own way. He said profits from the bookstore go to pay salary and wages, utilities and building costs. He said they also add money to scholarship funds and pay for administrative services as well as putting some in a reserve to pay for future costs. Extra revenue is deposited into a general university fund.

If students purchase the wrong books for classes, the bookstore will accept extbook returns through the first two weeks of the semester or two weeks from the date of purchase, whichever is longer. Returns must be accompanied by the original receipt or invoice.

North Campus Center at Parking and Information Services.

Perhaps a wiser mode of transportation is the bicycle. There are plenty of bicycle lock ups all over campus so you can even ride it right to class. There are also inside lock ups for the winter. For safety purposes, and because there is an epidemic of bike thievery in the Moscow-Pullman area, all bicycles must be licensed through the Moscow Police Department. You may do this at the Campus Police Station or at the Moscow Station.

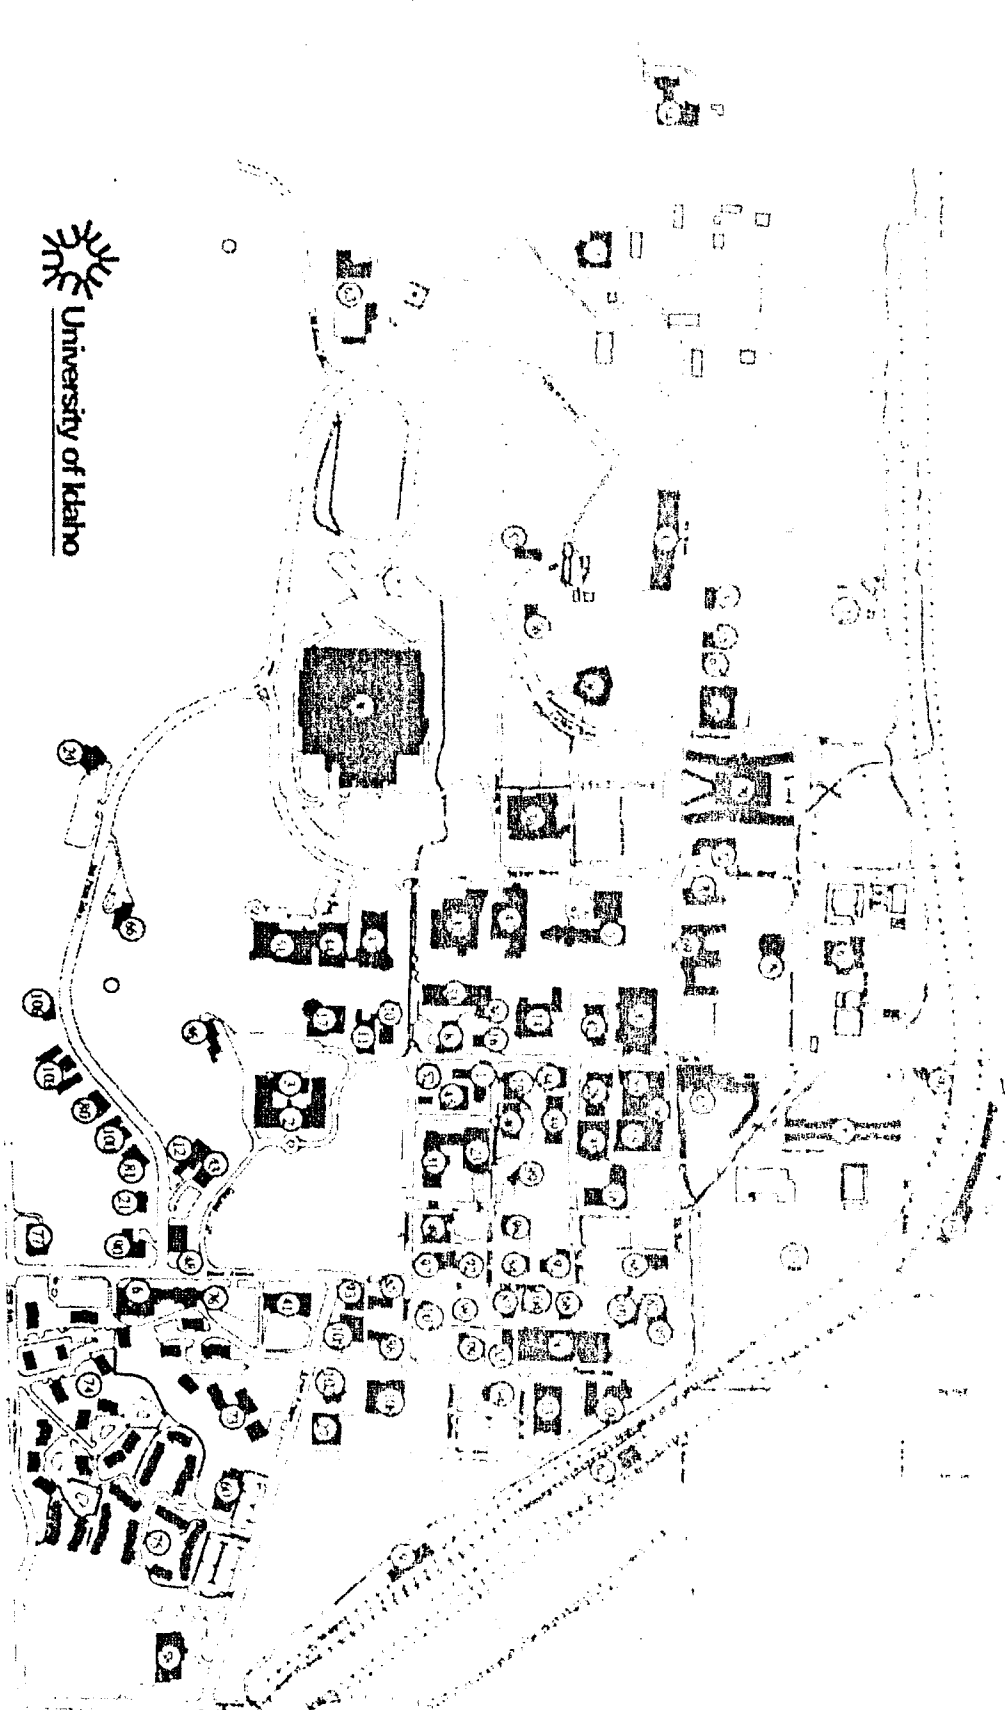

Many bicycle shops in the Moscow area will also register your bike at the time of purchase. The registration cost is $2 and does not have to be renewed. For nighttime riding a front headlight and rear reflector is required as well. Most bicycle shops sell these items. While you're there pick up a bicycle lock. Even though Moscow is a very safe community you can never be too careful.

If you are parked on campus without the proper permit you will get a parking ticket. There are very few street parking spaces that don't require permits.

So if you own a car the best thing to do is plan on buying a parking permit as soon as you get to Moscow. The permit is a colored sticker that you'll place inside the windshield of your car. All the parking lots on campus are color coded with signs at the entrance informing you which permits are accepted.

The residence halls are surrounded by silver parking lots, which are specifically for residence hall students. These permits are $25 and are only accepted in Silver parking lots.

Other students may purchase a Blue parking permit for $30 or a Red parking permit for $70. Permits are available in the

UI welcomes women's soccer into athletic program

were in the right place as far as education first." As for himself, assistant coach Meglenn said, "I came because he came."

As for funding, the team is on a three year plan. This year 50% of the scholarship funding will be available. Next year, the funds will increase to 75%, and in the year 2000 they will be at 100%. As the coaches are able to offer more and bigger scholarships they expect to see more athletes come play for the Vandals.

All three universities in Idaho are instigating women's soccer programs this year. Like the University of Idaho these teams will be relatively young and inexperienced. None the less, the Vandals schedule will be very rigorous. It is an eighteen game season with nine Big West Conference games. And almost all the games are going to be against more established teams. Still the Vandal coaching team is pretty confident. "We've done well recruiting," comment Meglenn, "we'll do alright."

Soccer becomes the University's eighth varsity sport for women and will undoubtedly continue our tradition of excellence. There will be eight home games this season, all played at Guy Wicks Field. Make sure you are there to support the new team. There should be lots of action to watch and it is a great way to show a little Vandal Pride!

Womens soccer has been the big rage sweeping the nation and now it has hit the University of Idaho! You can be the first to watch our brand new team in action this fall. The latest addition to U of I athletics will have a home debut on September 11th against North West Nazarene at 3:00 at Guy Wicks field.

This is truly a unique situation, as at least eighty percent of the team will be freshmen. At this time Head Coach Larry Foster and assistant coach John Meglenn have thirteen athletes signed and plan to have twenty-five on the fall roster. The rest of the team will be chosen from try outs that start August 15th. "We've had to recruit a whole team," said Meglenn, "everyone will have to get used to Larry's system."

Larry Foster coached women's soccer at Central Washington University in Elmsberg for four years. He brings with him the same assistant coach as well as two transfer players. Daniel Deford will be a sophomore and Sacha Martin will be a junior. Although, Foster was not available for an interview, Meglenn felt that the head coach had come to the U of I because he was encouraged by what he saw. "He felt the school's priorities

Football prepares for last year in Kibbie Dome

By Amber Meserth
Summer Reporter for the UI
Argonaut

The 1998 season will be your last chance to see a Vandal football game played in the Kibbie Dome. No, we're not going to stop having home games, but they will be held in an exciting new location.

Vandal Football has always been a strong tradition at the University of Idaho. Both students and the Moscow community arrive in huge numbers to support the team. Right now big changes are in progress. Recently the university left the Big Sky Conference to join Division I in The Big West Conference. The 1998 season will be Idaho's first official year of Division I football. Moving to a bigger division meant that the Kibbie Dome would no longer have the capacity to hold the crowds necessary to remain in Division I. Thus the decision was made to move Idaho's home football games about eight miles west to Washington State University's Martin Stadium.

The Vandals will still be practicing indoors at the Kibbie Dome.

Although the official move won't take place until 1999, we will already be playing one home game in Martin Stadium this fall. On September 19th the University of Idaho Vandals will face the Washington State University Cougars. Technically, it'll be our home game, but it is WSU's stadium. The WSU Cougars played in the Rose Bowl last year and are sporting a talented team. All of these factors should make for a very exciting game.

There will be four games played in the Kibbie Dome this fall. The first game will be against Eastern Washington on September 5th. The big Homecoming game will be played on October 3rd against Idaho State. On October 24th the Vandals will tackle Nevada, and the final home game will be on November 14th against New Mexico State University. All home games are free to full time U of I students. Make sure to come support your Vandals and get in on the action at the Kibbie Dome before its too late!

Volleyball season begins Sept. 22 against WSU

By Amber Meserth
Summer Reporter for the UI
Argonaut

1997 was the Vandal Volleyball teams sixth successive winning season, and Coach Carl Ferreira has every intention of doing it again! Last year was Ferreira first year at the University of Idaho, and even though he was working with a new group of girls they still managed to put together a winning team. They were co-champions of the Eastern Division and competed in the Big West Tournament.

From this winning team, there is a lot of strength in the returners. Two of Idaho's key players are seniors Jessica Moore and Beth Craig. Both of these girls have gotten used to the feeling of Vandal Victory. Moore plays in the middle blocker position and led the team in kills, blocks, and aces last year. Craig is another three year starter and is an outside hitter, who is known for her digs.

This year we will get to check out

Ferreira's recruiting abilities for the first time. There will be six new faces on the Vandal line up. These girls will combine with the seven returning players to challenge an almost intimidating schedule. Right off the bat, Idaho will be playing some of the nations toughest teams and every game will be quite intense.

Memorial Gym will be the place to go to watch the Vandal Action. The first home game will be September 22nd against the Washington State Cougars. Game time will be 7:00 pm. Vandal Volleyball games are a big event to a lot of UI students. Many of the sororities, fraternities, and other groups make banners and go in herds to support the team. Make sure you don't miss out on all the fun. There will be ten home games and all will start at 7:00!
