

THE ARGONAUT

THE VANDAL VOICE SINCE 1898

uiargonaut.com

Friday, February 22, 2013

Finals Fest only '99 cents'

Macklemore and Ryan Lewis to perform at Vandal Entertainment Finals Fest, free to students with canned food donation

Britt Kiser
Argonaut

It's time for University of Idaho students to "pop some tags" at the thrift shop because a premier Seattle rap duo is heading to Moscow for Finals Fest.

Macklemore and Ryan Lewis most recently broke ground with an independent release of their full-length album "The Heist." Without a traditional record label, the album took iTunes' No. 1 spot and debuted at No. 2 on the Billboard charts. The duo's "Thrift Shop" single is currently the second most popular song, according to Billboard.

Taylor Williams, ASUI Vandal Entertainment board chair, said every UI student is guaranteed a ticket, which will be available April 1-5 in the ASUI office.

To obtain a ticket, students must bring their Vandal cards, and this year, one non-perishable food item. All of the food collected will go to the UI Food Pantry, which will seek to provide low-income students with food security.

There will also be about 40 back-stage passes available, which Williams said is rare for Finals Fest. Students can "like" Vandal Entertainment's Facebook page to get details during the remainder of the semester on how to win passes. Williams said there might be Facebook contests, and students may be able to enter into raffles by attending certain events.

Macklemore

Williams said a lot of planning went into this year's Finals Fest, which is a collaboration between her and Director of Student Involvement Colleen Quinn,

More info

Doors open at 7 p.m. May 3 at the Kibbie Dome. The show starts at 8 p.m. Tickets must be picked up between April 1-5 in the ASUI office or after April 5 at the SUB information desk. Students must present a Vandal card and a non-perishable food item in exchange for the ticket.

Assistant Director of Student Involvement Katie Dahlinger, Director of Administrative

SEE FEST, PAGE 4

JAZZ SESSION JAMMIN' WITH YAMIN

Amy Asanuma | Argonaut

Eli Yamin, jazz and blues pianist, composer, singer, producer and music educator, leads a workshop titled "Jazz Culture and Swing Rhythm" with participation from the audience Thursday in the Kiva Theater. Yamin is the co-founder and artistic director of The Jazz Drama Program and is also the head of instruction at Jazz at Lincoln Center's Middle School Jazz Academy.

Follow our footsteps: Tweet @uiargonaut #hampjazz

@ElisaEiguren

Follow @uiargonaut for live coverage of Jazz Fest from #uiargonaut reporters #hampjazz

@CRchloerambo

Current collection @UofILibrary is now considered "one of the world's significant jazz archives." <http://google.com/search?q=byMwf> #hampjazz #events

@KUOIMadison

Make sure to check out @uiargonaut's #Storify from #hampjazz throughout the weekend. <http://storify.com/uiargonaut/ready-to-push-play>

@LindseyTreffry

KRUMP dance workshop @uiargonaut #hampjazz

@KatySword

Starbucks is filling up as more students come on campus for LHJF. #HampJazz @uiargonaut

On-campus incentives

UI housing creates loyalty incentive program for current on-campus residents

Michelle Gregg
Argonaut

College is a student's opportunity to live the free life, have everything taken care of, make connections with others and be involved, which Kelsi Nagle, University of Idaho housing recruitment coordinator, said are all important elements of succeeding at UI and having the college experience.

To help students better understand the benefits of living on campus and keep current on-campus residents from moving off-campus, UI housing created a loyalty incentive program for on-campus residents, which includes a $1,000 discount for room renewals made in Wallace, a free $250 Flex plan for renewals in the LLCs and a

SEE INCENTIVES, PAGE 4

Ricky Scuderi | Argonaut

Freshmen Brett Blackstock, left, James May and Keynan Hartz play Call of Duty in their new Ballard dorm room in the Wallace Complex Tuesday. Students are beginning to renew rooms for the upcoming school year.

IN THIS ISSUE

An Idaho track and field alum sets his eyes on 2014 Winter Olympics in bobsledding.

SPORTS, 5

Participate in the fruits of your dollars — read Our View.

OPINION, 9