Wardner, Idaho, April 8, 1901.

Opr reports that in an interview with Jerry Hanley who has recently arrived in Wardner from Butte Mentana, Hanley said that there was going to be a strike in Butte and that a great many men are leaving there daily for the Coeur D' Alenes.

That the Coeur D' Alenes and the dammed Managers have shown to the world that capital can do any thing.

That the working man has got the worst of it all the way through and that Joe McDonald and Burbridge should be got out of the country and if there ever is trouble in Butte there will be a lot of men come over into the Coeur D' Alenes and Mr. Burbridge had better be on his guard or he will get it.

That Joe McDonald took a tumble to himself and got out just in time.
