Dear Sir,--

I have your telegram of the 28th inst. saying that there is no need for Loring for the Last Chance underground survey. I had not intended to call upon Loring in that connection, but to rely upon Burch & Curran for the examination, and Jim Porter for the survey. Porter's assistants in the survey will not be the same as before, but otherwise the party will be just the same, and there will be no additional witnesses introduced. And it is to avoid the introduction of any ^{new} witnesses that the order provides that the work shall be done by the same parties as did it before. I expect the survey to begin on Monday.

Yours truly,

Frederick Burbidge
