

14 Enrollees Fail to Fill CCC Quota

---

Marion J. Kloth, company commander of the McCall CCC camp, announced today that 14 new enrollees arrived here last week from the vicinity of Pocatello.

These men are being given an orientation course this week under the direction of the army and technical service. This consists of acquainting the men with camp administration and fire training and instruction in safety. Following this program the men will be turned over for work on the project.

... open in the

CCC camps of Idaho for men of 17 to 24 years of age. Opportunities for these men in the camps are better than ever due to the shortage of men in the camps. Classes are smaller giving more effective instruction to the men. Competition for key places is less giving more men an opportunity to be placed in the more desirable positions.

There are three National Defense Schools now in operation at Camp McCall, besides the regular classes that are being carried on here. National Defense Training in Radio, Auto-mechanics and Blacksmithing is now obtainable at this camp with places still open for many men. It is no longer necessary to enroll at the county selecting agent. Men desiring to enroll may do so at the nearest CCC camp.

Montie Cross, project superintendent, announced today that the technical service is establishing a spike camp on Crooked River in the vicinity of Council. This will be a small tional Defense Training in Radio, Auto-mechanics and Blacksmithing is now obtainable at this camp with places still open for many men. It is no longer necessary to enroll at the county selecting agent. Men desiring to enroll may do so at the nearest CCC camp.

Montie Cross, project superintendent, announced today that the technical service is establishing a spike camp on Crooked River in the vicinity of Council. This will be a small camp for the purpose of finishing the road project that was left by the CCC camp formerly located at Council.

Edgar E. Barkley, formerly Educational Adviser at Camp Pollack and on detached service at Camp McCall since the first of July, has left the service and will make his home in California in the future.

---