Federal Administration Reports Public Works Program

With the examination of public works projects proceeding expeditiously under the new $4,000,000,000 work-relief program, J. V. Otter Acting State Director of Idaho, announced today that PWA now has under construction more than 4,500 Federal and non-Federal projects costing nearly $1,800,000,000.

Director Otter received from Washington a report of the PWA Division of Economics which has just completed a national survey which showed the status of the public works program as of July 1.

The report showed that 13,238 projects costing $685,421,693 have been completed and are in use, 4,514 projects costing $1,787,187,135 are under construction and 1,426 projects costing $321,026,225 have received allotments and are in various stages of progress preliminary to actual construction.

Expenditures for materials amount to $1,000,000,000, for wages $485,000,000 and other expenditures $65,000,000, for a grand total of $1,550,000,000.

How PWA has filled the gap until the new program gets fully underway was revealed in the announcement by Mr. Otter that PWA has under construction 1,555 non-Federal projects throughout the country, the estimated cost of which is $729,802,183. These projects are of the type generally for which PWA State Directors are now receiving applications for loans and grants of 55 per cent of the cost of the project. Federal projects are those generally carried out directly by the Government on Government property for Federal purposes.
