"HARD TIMES" COSTUMES WILL FEATURE DANCE WEDNESDAY

For what may be the last time until next winter, the Good Fellowship club will meet at the Odd Fellows' hall next Wednesday, April 6, for a real hard-times party. Everyone who comes is asked to dress in the vogue of 1933 or 1938—or whenever the worst part of the depression was. Anyway club members are asked to wear their oldest, most decrepit clothes. George Nock, Sr., genial owner of the Novelty shop says that he will give prizes to each of the two best, or maybe the two worst dressed couples. The affair will start off with no-host supper at 7:30 o'clock. The success of the last no-host party speaks well for the coming one. And what's more there is going to be additional music for the dancing.
