

Good Jobs Await Those Who Finish Shipwright Course

The McCall CCC camp this week received the "go-ahead" sign for its national defense class in shipwright training. Tools especially designed for this work are now on their way to the camp from Pocatello.

Another innovation in the course is that it is not strictly limited to CCC enrollees. Out of school youths in nearby communities are eligible for the class work, officials said.

There is urgent need in both government and private shipyards for this type of worker and CCC officials said that there was little doubt but that all who finished the course would quickly find private employment.
