

Commencement Program

Degrees Conferred

University of Idaho

81st Commencement
William H. Kibbie-ASUI
Activity Center
Sunday, May 16, 1976

HERE WE HAVE IDAHO

- 1 *Alma Mater, the hope of a pioneer race;
You're fashioned of dreams and of toil,
Your walls and your towers by stout-hearted men
Were raised from the rock and the soil.*

Chorus:

*And here we have Idaho
Winning her way to fame
Silver and Gold in the sunlight blaze,
And romance lies in her name;
Singing, we're singing of you, ah, proudly too;
All our lives through we'll go singing,
singing of you, Alma Mater, our Idaho.*

- 2 *Now ours is the heritage, rich and so full,
The gain of their toil and their tears;
And ours is the fruit, and the harvest is ours,
Oh, Idaho, gift of the years.*

Chorus:

*And here we have Idaho
Winning her way to fame
Silver and Gold in the sunlight blaze,
And romance lies in her name;
Singing, we're singing of you, ah, proudly too;
All our lives through we'll go singing,
singing of you, Alma Mater, our Idaho.*

Citations of Merit Upon Retirement

Lambert C. Erickson, Professor Emeritus of Plant Sciences
A pioneer in weed science research and teaching, Dr. Lambert Erickson joined the University of Idaho faculty in 1945. At that time, he was the only full-time weed research scientist employed by a university in the Pacific Northwest and one of the first in the entire nation. His research endeavors have been extensive and he is the author of more than 70 scientific papers. A recognized leader in herbicide research, he was one of the first scientists in the U.S. to study the weed-killing properties of 2,4-D. He has played an important role in professional organizations — regionally, nationally and internationally. As a Fulbright Scholar to Norway, he was invited to evaluate weed science programs and facilities in Germany, Switzerland, Sweden, Finland, Greece, Holland and England. At the University of Idaho, Dr. Erickson has taught courses in weed science and crop protection. One of his landmark achievements was to organize an integrated, interdepartmental course of study in plant protection which gives equal emphasis to control of weeds, insects and plant disease. Before coming to Idaho, Dr. Erickson served at the University of Wyoming as state seed analyst and technical advisor on weed control to the state commissioner of agriculture.

Pansy S. Jensen, Extension Professor and Extension Home Economist Emerita

Professor Pansy Jensen has served in the extension program of the University of Idaho since July 1, 1959. Through her educational activities with homemakers and young people, as well as through her service in community organizations, she has enriched the lives of people in many ways. She has served in Valley County throughout her extension career. Earlier, she taught in the public school systems of Cascade and Donnelly-McCall. A graduate of Linfield College, McMinnville, Oregon, she continued her professional training at summer sessions of Idaho colleges and universities and at the short-term graduate school of the University of Arizona. Professor Jensen has been active in the Idaho Home Economists Association and the National Association of Extension Home Economists.

Hyrum G. Johnson, Extension Professor and Extension Agricultural Agent Emeritus

Professor Hyrum G. Johnson began his University of Idaho extension career in June 1955, following the completion of his graduate studies program at the Moscow campus. For his M.S. degree in agronomy, he prepared a thesis on the breeding of wheat for rust resistance. He grew up on a farm near Paul, Idaho, and received the B.S. degree in agronomy at Utah State Agricultural College. During World War II, he served in the U.S. Army Air Corps. His first assignment as a member of the University of Idaho extension staff was in Franklin County. From November 1958 until retirement in November 1975, he served as extension agricultural agent in Bear Lake County.

Don A Marshall, Professor of Agricultural Economics and Associate Dean Emeritus

Dr. Don A Marshall has been instrumental in developing and improving academic programs at the University of Idaho in his position as associate dean and director of resident instruction, for the College of Agriculture. He joined the University of Idaho faculty in 1950 as associate professor of agricultural economics and began his duties as an administrator in the College of Agriculture on January 1, 1953. For students in agriculture and in other fields, Dr. Marshall has provided friendship, encouragement and wise counseling. He has helped faculty members to work for improvements in curricula, in academic counseling programs and in all the varied phases of college instruction which contribute toward academic excellence. His liaison roles have been many, bringing him into contact with people throughout the state and nation who have interests and involvements in the programs of the College of Agriculture. Before coming to Idaho, Dr. Marshall served on the faculties of the University of Arkansas and Texas Technological College. His service with the U.S. Naval Reserve included assignments as professor of naval science and tactics at Brown University and Duke University. He received B.S. and M.S. degrees from Oklahoma State University and was awarded the Ph.D. degree by Cornell University. His affiliations with scholarly organizations include memberships in Alpha Zeta and Phi Kappa Phi.

Gretchen L. Potter, Professor Emerita of Home Economics

A member of the Home Economics faculty of the University of Idaho since 1966, Professor Gretchen Potter began her teaching career as a home economics teacher at Troy High School. Later she became home economics teacher at Moscow Junior High School and from 1954 until 1956 she taught home economics at Moscow High School. Professor Potter holds a B.S. degree from the University of Idaho and a master's degree from Washington State University. She has studied at Colorado State University at Fort Collins and at Central Washington State University at Ellensburg. Professor Potter was visiting professor of home economics at State University College of New York at Oneonta. She has received many awards and honors for her work in home economics and has made scholarly contributions to her department. She has served as guest speaker for community organizations and workshops. Professor Potter is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Omicron Nu and the American Home Economics Association. She has held several offices in the Idaho Home Economics Association. Professor Potter's plans for the future include a tour of duty with the Peace Corps.

Malcolm M. Renfrew, Professor of Chemistry and Department Head Emeritus

Dr. Malcolm Renfrew will retire after 17 years of teaching and administration at the University of Idaho, and 20 years of research for private industry. He will be remembered by many of his students as "Mr. Chemistry," and by everyone else as one of the research team that developed Teflon from test tube to commercial production. In 1946, Renfrew was the first to publicly announce Teflon at a professional meeting for E.I. du Pont de Nemours, Inc. His name is on several patents for the fluoropolymer which now is a household word. Renfrew came to the University as a student; he received the B.S. degree in 1932 and the M.S. degree in 1934, both from the University of Idaho. He obtained the Ph.D. in 1938 from the University of Minnesota. Advanced study was pursued later at Princeton University and Fisk University. He returned to his alma mater in 1959 as head of physical sciences and professor of chemistry, and was head of the chemistry department from 1968 to 1973. His contributions to the University and to his profession are massive: He has obtained 17 U.S. patents, plus a number of foreign patents; produced 32 publications since 1935 (the last of which is a book review now in press); and he was instrumental in the University receiving more than 40 thousand dollars in undergraduate and graduate research grants. Professor Renfrew is a member of 14 national or regional professional and scholarly organizations, one-half of which he has chaired at one time, and the rest for which he has been a counselor.

Clarence I. Seely, Professor Emeritus of Plant Sciences

Professor Clarence I. Seely was graduated with honors from Washington State University in 1933 and received the M.S. degree in 1935. He served as superintendent of Adams Branch Experiment Station at Lind, Washington, for one year before joining the U.S. Department of Agriculture as one of the original four "weed investigators" employed as a result of the historic Bindweed Investigation Appropriations Bill of 1936. Until 1947, when he was appointed to the University of Idaho faculty, he served as associate agronomist and director of the USDA Bindweed Research Station at Genesee, Idaho. Professor Seely is a charter member of the Weed Science Society of America and has served on the society's executive committee. He has provided leadership to many professional societies. His services to the Western Society of Weed Science, the Inland Empire Weed Conference and the Idaho Weed Control Association have been extensive; he has held the positions of vice president and president in each of these groups. In civic affairs, he has given outstanding service to the Moscow Lions Club and the Boy Scouts of America. As an educator and scientific researcher, his interests have been extended across a broad spectrum of problems in the field of plant protection and weed control. He is the author of more than 30 publications in the weed science field. Since 1955, his academic rank has been agronomist and professor of agronomy and weed science.

Jack R. Voorhees, Professor of Naval Science and Department Head Emeritus

Captain Jack Voorhees retired September 1, 1975, after 30 years' service with the United States Navy and six years as Professor of Naval Science and Commanding Officer of the University of Idaho Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC). Captain Voorhees came to Idaho in 1969 from the faculty of the National War College. He holds a B.A. degree in Economics (magna cum laude) from the University of Washington, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He is also a graduate of the General Line and Naval Science Curriculum at the Naval Postgraduate School, and the Command and Staff Course of the Naval War College. His M.A. degree from George Washington University is in International Affairs. A strong proponent of the citizen-soldier concept upon which the national ROTC system is based, Professor Voorhees has stoutly defended the existence of officer education programs in civilian institutions of higher learning. As chairman of the Naval Officer Education Program, Professor Voorhees encouraged academic excellence and campus life involvement by his staff and students. His personal example, as president and vice president of the local Phi Beta Kappa chapter and vice chairman of the Faculty at Large, contributed to that effort. Captain Voorhees' leadership was vital to recruiting efforts that increased ROTC participation. He fielded strong rifle, pistol, and exhibition drill teams to represent the University in local, regional and national competition. Upon Captain Voorhees' retirement, the Secretary of the Navy awarded him the Navy Commendation Medal.

Arnold S. Westerlund, Professor Emeritus of Art

Arnold Westerlund, an art educator and experimenter in printmaking will retire to his home studio after 27 years at the University of Idaho. An exhibitor in large and small galleries throughout the West and in selected exhibitions across the nation, Westerlund was accepted recently in an invitational exhibit at the Pratt Institute Galleries, New York, the First National Collograph Exhibition. Other major exhibitions have included an invitational at the University of Illinois where 25 of his collographs were retained by the Department of Visual Extension for a two year exhibit throughout the Eastern states and the Rocky Mountain Federation of States print show (circulated to seven states over a two year time). His recent exhibits include a new form of printmaking he developed, a type of collograph better described as printing from found objects. Westerlund is an accomplished violinist, having been member of the University of Idaho Orchestra for 34 years, beginning when he was a junior at Coeur d'Alene High School. He received the B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Idaho in 1938 and 1939 and has studied at Oregon and Washington universities and Columbia University. He taught at Gooding, Clarkston, and Southern Idaho College of Education, Albion, before joining the University faculty. He is a member of numerous professional and scholarly organizations.

Mary V. Zaehring, Research Professor of Home Economics Research and Department Head Emerita

Dr. Mary V. Zaehring, Research Professor in the University of Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station, will retire July 1, 1976, after 23 years of service to the University. Dr. Zaehring was head of the Department of Home Economics Research from 1953 until 1972 when that department was consolidated with other areas. The unit is now in the Department of Bacteriology and Biochemistry. Although Dr. Zaehring has investigated quality of a number of food products she has received national and international recognition for her research on potatoes. She is considered an authority on sloughing, which is the crumbling or breaking away of potato tissue during cooking. In 1967, she spent her sabbatical year by invitation at the Institute for Storage and Processing of Agricultural Products in Wageningen, the Netherlands, where she modified a quick method of measuring the amount of potato sloughing developed earlier at the University of Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station. Dr. Zaehring, an honor graduate of Temple University, received her M.S. and Ph.D. from Cornell University. She has been on the faculty of the Department of Home Economics Research at Montana State University. Dr. Zaehring is author or coauthor of more than fifty scientific and professional publications. She is a member of numerous professional organizations and is listed in American Men and Women of Science, Leaders in American Science, Who's Who in the West, and Who's Who in American Women. She was recently given special recognition by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for her outstanding contributions in agricultural research. She has also been given a certificate of recognition by the State of Idaho Commission on Women's Programs.

Significance of Academic Costume

DOCTORS wear the round, bell sleeve; the gown is faced down the front and barred on the sleeves with black velvet or velvet of color indicating the degree; the doctor's hood is large. The doctor may, if he so chooses, wear the gold tassel on his cap.

MASTERS wear the long, closed sleeve, with a slit near the upper part for the arm; the master's hood is of more moderate size.

BACHELORS wear the long pointed sleeve; the hood is small.

UNDERGRADUATES wear the round or pointed sleeve, and wear no hood.

Hoods are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree, or with which the wearer is connected, and are trimmed with velvet of the color distinctive of the degree — for example, arts and letters, white; fine arts, brown; philosophy, blue; science, gold-yellow; music, pink; agriculture, maize; engineering, orange; forestry, russet; pedagogy, light blue; commerce and accounting, drab.

HONOR CORDS draped over the shoulders designate the students who are graduating with honors: cum laude with silver cords and summa cum laude with gold cords. These are recognition cords and are worn on this one occasion only — they are not part of the academic costume.

Honor Cords are provided by the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi.
