

DEPARTMENT OF ANTHROPOLOGY

BERKELEY, CALIFORNIA 94720

30th August, 1979.

Dear Mr. Crabtree,

Due to a huge pile of chores that must be done before I leave for Kenya, I regret that Kathy & I will not be coming to Idaho this summer. Hope we can get together some other time!

Enclosed is some of the illustrations from Smith's Over the Primæval Savage, based on his work at Caddington. The Victorian illustrations of Archaic tool-makers are very entertaining.

Checked with the Palaeo Dept about the possible tools you

Ca. 11. 1. 79

mentioned. Seems that all of your artifacts were given to Desmond Clark several years ago - he didn't have any recollection of the pieces you spoke to me about.

When I come back next year, I can take some more time to ask around.

My analysis of debitage from "pebble tools" at Kooki for shows some tendencies for certain flake forms to be associated with specific cobble-core forms;
however, there's a lot of overlap (even with early lifelines.) Further work may help discriminate
better.

Will keep in touch from Kenya.

Yours very truly,

Nicholas Toth
(NICHOLAS TOTH)