Dear Larry:

Having just completed a most thirty day session with the lithic technology field school. I can now think about plans to visit the Hudson-Meng site.

Marie Wormington just called and says she plans to be at the site on the 28th of July. So rather than conflict with either your or her plans, Evelyn and I will plan to arrive on July 26th. We will drive our camper and, therefore, will have our own sleeping accommodations. I am delighted and honored to have this opportunity to visit with you and be able to see this important site. Too, we look forward to the added bonus of the opportunity to see and visit with Marie and, we hope, Vance Haynes.

We had an exception group of students at the field school this year and I was amazed at the speed of their learning. I am truly proud of this crew and expect great things from them.

Unless we hear from you to the contrary, we will plan on the above schedule. If this is not convenient with you, we can make it sooner.

Looking forward to our visit, I remain,

Yours very truly,

Don E. Crabtree
