Dear Donald:

Dr. James Sublette
Graduate Dean, Professor,
Anthropology and Biology

After Irwin Rovner called, I went to my office and started to see how much of the Lindenmyer material was currently in my hands. An Alaskan Archaeologist or at least a visitor to the University of Alaska, requested and was sent a half to three-fourths of the total collection of flakes. The remaining one-fourth I am sending to you by first class mail, return receipt requested at once. I hope that they arrive in time for you to be able to use them in your class.

I expect the remaining flakes to be back in my office by September 1, or shortly after that, as that is when they were promised to be returned. They will be available anytime during the fall if you desire to see them or come down here and work with them. I believe that Dr. Alberto Issequilla has made a specific selection of unusual items but these items along with the majority of flakes are currently out of my hands. As I said, they will all be back in the department in September and I would be very glad if you would come down and work with them at that time.

I hope that Irwin Rovner has done well with you. He certainly indicated that he enjoyed the techniques that you taught him. He has proven in previous years of working with me that he can be enthusiastic, dedicated, and talented. He certainly looked forward for almost two years to coming to work under you and I am glad that he has had the opportunity.

I would appreciate it if you sent the material back by the same way it was sent to you unless you have someone coming directly to this area in the near future when they could bring them directly to the department in their car.
