Dear Mr. Alsop:

In regard to ^{the} your milk chocolate colored flint from Poland, I have no memory of reading any articles or know of this particular material.

However, my friend, Dr. Hans Muller-Beck, has a personal interest in European material and since he is somewhat centrally located he may be able to provide you with information about the milk chocolate colored flint. His address is Lehrstuhl fur Urgeschichte, Universitat von Tubingen, Wilhelmstrasse 7, 74 Tubingen, Germany.

Another is Dr. Jacques Tixier, Institute de Paleontologie Humaine, 1, Rue Rene Panhard, Paris, France XIII. He is an eminent archaeologist. Another world-~~renowned~~^{renowned} archaeologist from Europe who may also provide you with additional information is Professor Francois Bordes, Laboratoire du Geologie, University de Bordeaux, 33405 Talence, France.

I'll be interested in learning the title of your publication. It sounds like it will be a most interesting book for the lay person as well as the professional.

Respectfully yours,
