Dear Mr. Crabtree:

During the past few summers you have run a field school emphasizing lithics. I worked with Bob Whallon this fall on the Mesolithic flint industry in Holland, and I became very interested in lithics. I was wondering if you will be having another field school this summer, and if so, what the criteria are for participation.

I am currently working on my master's degree at the University of Arizona with hopes of continuing in the doctoral program. I have had three seasons of field experience, one of them at Grasshopper, the graduate field school for the University of Arizona.

Please send me any information you have about your field school. I thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Patricia A. Gilman
