Dear Don,

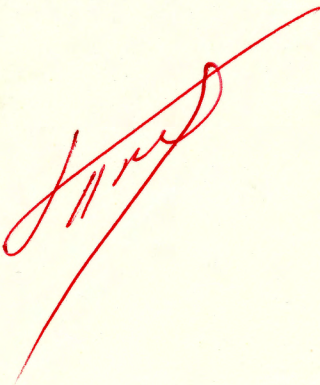

Just some words to tell you that I have "cooked" flint at the lab:
24 hours at 200° centigrades, and 12 at 100. Works all right. It is then better than obsidian, I think.

Here enclosed a collaboration of Laurent and myself about the way the Solutran did their big laurel leaves by pressure!

Our best to Mrs Crabtree.

Sincerely yours,

F. Bordes
