POSTE : Dear Don, dear Evelyn

I just got a telegraph from Earl. Of all the terrible, stinking luck! Well, I hope it will be not as bad as it seems at first. You never can tell with such things. And medical science had done ~~me~~ some wonderful progress these last years.

Anyway, Don, we are with you. I have phoned to Tixier, who unhappily was in Dordogne. I will phone again tomorrow. Hold fast, you old Crabtree! We will still chip flint together, with Evelyn looking at us! I know you don't have much mind for such things just now, but did you receive the stones I sent you some time ago?

Well, one cannot say much of use in such cases. All I can say again is that you have your friends with both of you, even if we are some thousand of miles away. There is no distance for friendship!

I shall leave for Carsac on July 2nd. After that, my address is Bordes, 24 Carsac-Aillac.

Hoping for better news, with all my heart,

F. Bordes

P.S. The address of the hospital in the telegram seems incomplete, so I send copy of this letter to Earl to forward to you.
