Dear Mr. Crabtree:

My research assistant, Peter Bleed, is very interested in attending your flint-working (I should say obsidian-working, after watching Mr. Kovner in action last night) school this coming summer, and has asked me to supply a letter in support of his application, which I am very happy to do.

Peter is a Ph.D. candidate here, well along, and one of the better students I have had. He is highly dedicated and motivated, very capable, and does a good and thorough job of everything he undertakes. He is also a very pleasant person, and well-liked. I am sure you will enjoy having him in your group, and that he would profit greatly from the experience.

I was sorry that you were unable to attend the recent Calico conference. The weight of your opinion would have made the outcome a lot more clear-cut.

Sincerely,

Chester S. Coard
Professor of Anthropology
