

27th April, 1965

From: Professor J. Desmond Clark

To: Staff and Graduate Students, Department of Anthropology

Dr. Brian M. Fagan, Director of a three-year special project to enquire into Bantu origins, under the sponsorship of the British Institute of History and Archaeology in East Africa, will be on campus from the 3rd to the 8th May and available to interview suitably qualified students with interests in African prehistory who may wish to work with him on his program. Anyone wishing for an interview with Mr. Fagan should contact Professor Clark at 2232 Piedmont Avenue.

Dr. Fagan is a Ph.D. from the University of Cambridge and was until recently Keeper of Prehistory at the National Museum of Zambia at Livingstone. He will give the following illustrated lecture at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, 4th May, in Room 127, Dwinelle Hall:

"Recent archaeological discoveries in southern Africa"

The subject matter of this lecture will cover, amongst other topics, the important Later Stone Age habitation and burial site at Lochinvar and early Iron Age culture in Zambia as well as the Zimbabwe/Mapungubwe complexes.
