Dear Mr. De Staebler:

Thank you for your letter of August 4th regarding flintknapping.

I am currently employed by Idaho State University to produce a flintknapping handbook which will explain the manufacturing techniques of many types of artifacts. Many of the papers are as yet unpublished and do not know a definite publication date. However, you can subscribe to the Idaho State University Museum publication "Tebiwa" and will receive these articles as they are printed. The cost of subscription is $1.50 per year, which you may send directly to the Museum.

Am enclosing herewith two copies of this journal which may be of some help to you.

I do not know of any books that will help you, as there has been nothing written on the subject. The nearest thing to this is B.A.E. Bulletin # 60 by W.H. Holmes but this is out of print and you could only find it in a used book store.

Good luck on your flintknapping. This does take a lot of practice, so stick to it.

Sincerely,

Don E. Crabtree
