Dear Johnny and Chako:

Just a note to express our gratitude for your generous hospitality during our stay in Las Vegas. Our visits with you, the delicious food, and the Music Hall show was, indeed, a highlight in a enjoyable vacation. Too, it was a delight to meet your very good friends, the Elakes.

Under separate cover, I am sending some of my publications. You are welcome to give any duplicates to Milton. I am sorry that the brochure on the flintknapping films does not give the rental fee but you can write about this.

Since our return, have been reviewing the latest issue of National Geographic and there is a very interesting article by Alexander Marshack on incising and engraving of stone by ancient man. I just talked to Dr. Swanson at the University and told him of our visit with you and of your collection and the photos of the Nevada material. He is most anxious to see the photos but is unaware of any carvings or incising on stones such as you have found. He has only found incised stones with crosshatching which could have been the result of the toolmaker sharpening his flaking tools.

Our trip home was great until we arrived at Ely. From there to Kimberly it was glare ice. But, fortunately, we made it without a skid. The weather here is still grim and would suggest that Milton and Caroline delay their trip to Idaho until April or May.

Thank you again for all your time and hospitality and will look forward to seeing you again either here in Idaho or Nevada.

With best wishes to you both,

Don
