Dear Craig:

Thank you so much for your call and letter and for the promise of the unused film pertaining to the stoneworking demonstration at Marmes. I really appreciate this, for it will be invaluable for student teaching. The "First Americans" was a superb film and I was lucky enough to see it twice. My only criticism is that it is entirely too short. Congratulations to you and Downs.

N.S.F. has scheduled a flintknapping school in Kimberly for six graduate students from various universities for the month of July. I can use the film portions at this time and do hope I can teach the students enough to at least encourage them to include technology in their typology.

So glad you liked the rocks, for it was difficult to select those I felt you would find of interest - not knowing if your prime interest was minerals, crystals, or polished specimens. I don't have much time now for polishing, but if you have the facilities, I will be glad to send you some interesting agates and specimens to polish. If you are ever in Idaho, do stop by and make your own selections.

Had just finished an interesting session with Bordes and Tixier and Bird and Gould were here when you called working up an exhibit of stoneworking for a four month showing at the Museum. They have invited me to attend the opening in February and give a knapping demonstration and I am looking forward to another visit to New York and their fine institution.

Thanks again for everything and will be looking forward to your next production.

Sincerely yours,

Don E. Crabtree
