Dear Professor Crabtree:

I am enclosing a snapshot of the joints I so laboriously managed to shape of the chips you sent me. Now you can see that I meant it when I wrote they look like something from Rube Goldberg. You can forget all the rubbish I wrote you in my last letter. However the parcel was handled roughly and one of your pieces was broken and the chips were a mess of gravel therefore not fit to flake any good items. If you still wish to send me some chips please do!

But I want to say shipping sharp and your trouble of parking I hope its not an action of mine causing some long delay of replying my letter

Thank You a lot for all I can have done so far for me and I beg to remain

Sincerely

Frederic Fletcher
