Dear Al,

I don't know why it didn't fuzz through, but it would definitely be an advantage here if Mr. Crabtree could join us by 4:30 p.m. on October 8 to give a talk to my prehistoric archeology class. This may be putting a little too much pressure on his time and ~~appt~~ patience, but I would certainly appreciate it and am sure that the students, who may not be able to attend his talk on the following evening, should be exposed to this sort of thing.

In case you have made some other arrangements for him at this time, don't let this lack of foresight on my part interfere. But if Mr. Crabtree doesn't mind, and if it doesn't affect your plans, could you drop me a note and let me know whether it is possible that he might be able to speak to my class.

Thanks, and all best wishes to you all.

Sincerely,

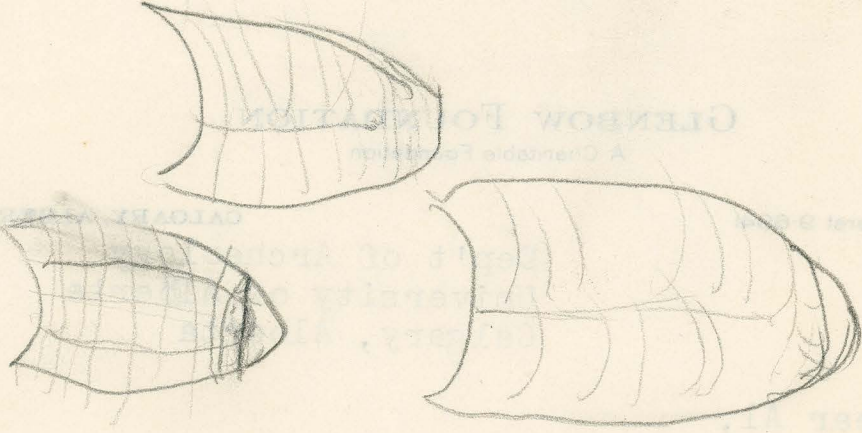

R.G. Forbis

Dear Sir,
I don't know why it didn't pass through, but it would definitely be an advantage for the Craterable Fortification class. This may be putting a little too much pressure on him, but I would certainly be glad to and we sure that the students who say not to attend the talk on the following evening, should be expected to this sort of thing.

In case you have made some other arrangements for him at this time, don't let this lack of interest on my part interfere, but I am sure you wouldn't mind, and if it doesn't affect your plans, could you drop me a note and let me know whether it is possible that he might be able to speak to my class.

Thank you, and all best wishes to you.

Sincerely,
