

Mr. Joel Gunn
Dept. of Anthropology
University of Pittsburgh
Pittsburgh, Penn.
19104

29 NOV 72

Hi Don,

Enclosed is a copy of the paper which resulted from the Field school and yours and the other's work. Its more suggestive than definite, but its a start.

I realize you are not favorably disposed toward numerical analysis types of things I have found it to be a handy tool, however, when my head was just too small to figure out what was going on by itself.

I have had some time to think over last summer. Paul Kntz had told me about your approach so I was somewhat prepared. I must say, however, that I had no idea of the extent of your contribution to the understanding of lithics. I think more than anything, though, I was impressed by the way you go into the details and get the last plate of stone and theory right. And more than that I was impressed by your regard for your fellow man. I guess you have to open a few gates and chase a few head of cattle and then live in the city for a while to fully appreciate a man who befriends the traveller.

Take care of yourself and say Hello to Ev for me.

Best Regards,

Joe/