Dear Don,

I am sorry to be so long in answering your letter of Nov. 19, but I was away on the mainland until Dec. 8, and then of course we had the Xmas rush.

I wrote to Dave Sanger, and he replied saying that they want a lithics person to teach a 1-semester "mini course". The other person they want, for the Quaternary Institute, must be an Arctic specialist. So much for that, but I do appreciate your putting me in touch (I'd like to meet Sanger someday -- he has done interesting work). While on the mainland I was interviewed for the Headship of the Dept. of Anthro at the University of Conn. I suspect they want me, but I'm not sure I want them! Their department is full of internal feuding and general unpleasantness. Too bad, really, because that's a nice area to live in, and UConn. is not a bad institution. I also went to the AAA Meetings -- what a madhouse that was. Incidentally, I met Brian Hayden there, and he was just about what I expected. He's a very bright fellow and could do some valuable work, but he's also an academic "headhunter". He's teaching now at Virginia Commonwealth Univ., and Errett Callahan wrote to me not long ago concluding much the same thing. As you may know, I met Jo Kamminga in Adelaide last summer, and he made a very good impression. I expect we'll be seeing some good stuff from him -- he's quite a different sort of person from Hayden.

Just read a very interesting MA. Thesis by Henry G. Wylie (Univ. of Utah) on lithic analysis of Hogup Cave material. His address is: U.S. Forest Service Archaeological Laboratory, 324 25th St., Ogden, Utah 84401, in case you want to get in touch with him about it.

Betsy and I both hope you are well and having a Happy Yule. I'll let you know if we plan to make any moves.

Cheers,

Dick
