Dear Don:

I was very pleased to hear the you will be able to take a look at the Avonlea points from the Gull Lake Site, Saskatchewan. Specimens EaOd-3/62 & 74 came from the surface above the site in the area where the bison drive occurred so there is no real provenience.

Four specimens are from the excavation project:

EaOd-1/ 1269	Layer 26	(dated A.D. 660 $\pm$ 60)
EaOd-1/ 1686	Layer 28	no date
EaOd-1/ 1772	Layer 31a	(dated A.D. 210 $\pm$ 60)
2	1928	Layer 31a ( " " " )

You can return the points to me in care of the above address.

Thanks for the information on the new books. I was in Paris last summer for the INQUA Congress and got in on the sessions sponsored by UNESCO on the Origin of modern Man. Prof. Bordes did a marvelous job of chairing the sessions and did not loose his cool once. The Africans were putting undue pressure on him and the Russians were not being too helpful.

Sincerely yours,
