Dear Don:

Last summer, while slaving away on a Greek seacoast Neolithic site, the possibilities of enticing you to Indiana for a couple of days were discussed with Tom Jacobsen, the archaeologist in the Classics Department. Since that time the Indiana State Museum in Indianapolis has indicated their interest in having you for a program. I guess the question is, would you consider such a foray out this direction? If so, would you have any preference as to time? While we have no visible budget at the moment, I feel certain that we can get you here, pay your board bill and send you back to Idaho with something in addition. If it is any inducement, we could even plan a sidetrip to Harrison County.

Jim Bellis was down this weekend--he teaches at Notre Dame--and sends his regards.

Give my best to your wife,

Sincerely,

James H. Kellar
Director

P.S.

I note you are going to be in Illinois and we will try to touch base there.
