Dear Don.

We're slow about thanking you for a great evening and pleasant and delicious dinner. It was really fun to find out how much we had in common and to learn about your many interests. The evening wasn't really long enough but maybe our paths will cross another time.

I suspect Ra may have arrived at your place by now. She said she hoped to spend some time with you. She should have some pleasant news to share with you. We had such a good time with her at Moscow. One of the most fascinating things to us was to see how the total organization of The Anthro Department had changed since we were there two years ago. She has really left her mark in the way she has gotten organization out of chaos and has pushed for more space to work. I do hope she finds money for the Boulder Creek project soon, but I feel it will come.

All-in-all we had a great trip. We played hide & seek with snow and sleet and managed to keep out almost all the time. We saw some exciting and beautiful country and had great times with many people. The hardest thing was fighting a strong head wind almost all the way. Sid was really tired but last night said he was ready to start out again! I'm not quite ready yet.

We are having a most unusual spring. No snow and much warmer than usual. Big old Lake Superior is a foot lower than usual and some of our man-made lakes are pitiful - One can walk out for several blocks amid the tree stumps and boulders. Some time it must rain!

I have tried to call Harriet Blitzer but so far have had no luck. She is not listed in the University directory or in our new telephone directory. I called a friend who is head of the department and verified that she is still here and he is going to give her our telephone number. Perhaps you know Stan Aschenbrenner who was in Greece with Harriet and who is also here. I thought we'd try to meet both of them for a cup of coffee sometime -

Again, thank you for a great evening -

Sincerely,
Clara & Sid K.
