Dear Mr. Crabtree,

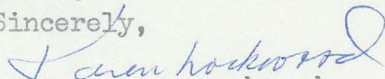

We very much appreciate your informative letter. Your suggestion to contact the Denver Museum for prepared casts of stone implements I believe is a good one for us at this time of our development.

We certainly want to keep the offer and possibility of your visit to our campus in the forefront of consideration although I'm afraid this January would be too soon. Currently, the Department of Anthropology here consists of one professor, another on the way, the possibility of a chairman sometime next year and no major in the field. For these reasons it would be wise to put off your coming until more people could take advantage of studying with you. Budgetary limitation this year also excludes the possibility of our acquiring your fine collection of Paleolithic tools.

I read a fine review of your participation in France of the "flake-off" with m'sieur F. Bourde.

Thank you again for the information, etc.
Hope to meet you sometime.

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) Karen Lockwood
