Dear Dr. Misera:

So glad that you received the publications from the Idaho State University, I had given away most that I had at home. Fortunately I had to make a trip to the University to see if they still had copies, I will thank Mrs. Hartin for sending them.

I am looking forward to attempting a replication of the micro-cores, they are truly amazing and show great skill in their making. I would be more than pleased to have any additional sample cores if you can spare them. It may be some time before I will be able to work on them as I will be having surgery very soon for an arterial bypass which will involve incision of the abdomen and that will limit the pressure work for awhile. By the way my surgeon used obsidian blades three different times on me, once for the initial incision of chest surgery, bi-lateral femoral surgery and abdominal surgery replacing the aorta with woven dacron tubing. I think these experiments are going too far, however the surgeon has been most impressed. It makes life most interesting that we are able to share our mutual friends, Gould, Bordes and Tixier.

Thank you for everything.

With kindest regards,

Don Crabtree
