Dear Mr. Miller:

Thank you for your kind letter of Jan. 26th and please pardon the delay in replying. I have been on an extended research trip to California and just returned and found a backlog of mail. While in California had the pleasure of working with Dr. Norman Tindale who has observed the aborigines in the act of stone tool making and was able to observe and analyze some of the films taken of this industry.

I am very familiar with the work of John Witthoft and while I do not always agree with him, I think he has done a remarkable and worthwhile job. I am currently working with Dr. Earl Swanson of the Idaho State University and am compiling a handbook on the fabrication of stone tools and the technological traits of various industries. Am enclosing a copy of "Tebiwa" which contains one of the articles on the Folsom which you may be interested in having.

Am extremely interested in the work of Fowler and would be most grateful to have copies of any of his work that you can obtain for me. Considering what I am doing for ISU, this would be extremely valuable to me and it may be that some of my writings can give reference to his papers. Would very much appreciate receiving anything you can send me.

Thank you again for your interest in the Science article and Dr. Davis and I plan to do a follow-up article on this and go a little further into the technology of the tools etc.

Yours very truly,

Don E. Crabtree
