

Citizen photo by RODNEY D. BOAM

Home wrecker

The large white building on the corner of First West and Oneida, first built as the first Presbyterian Church in Preston, was gutted and leveled Friday. Built at the turn of the century, it was purchased by the Greaves family in 1914, reported the Daughters of the Utah Pioneers, in "The Trail Blazer."

The white house just south of the church on the same property was reported to be the rectory, where the minister lived.