GREETINGS

TO THE
STUDENTS OF IDAHO

You are in the midst of an adventure, a little grim to some, gay to others. Some of you are barely beginning it—others of you are nearing its end. All of you must have some notion of its purpose. Is it proving to be worth its cost to you? Are you learning how more to enjoy the things of lasting value? Are you learning better how to appreciate ennobling friendships? Is your storehouse becoming better stocked with things which make for power? I hope the answers are yes. When reading the Gem of the Mountains twenty years hence you will know.

Not unlike other yearbooks, THE GEM of 1930 has, as its avowed purpose, the accurate portrayal of a school year. As you scan its pages you may be conscious of an unfolding picture such as might be seen on screen or stage; a revue, a follies, a vaudeville program. Complex in makeup, the program has a certain plot, the action appearing humorous or containing an element of sorrow. You will laugh or you will cry, if you are human, and yet when the performance has come to a close, how soon you forget it amid the actualities of real life. The sorrows of the tragedienne were superficial and the funny man who made you laugh was unreal, unnatural. But wasn't there benefit in it? Wasn't it really worth while?

THE UNIVERSITY JUNIOR COLLEGE

Progress is the keynote of education in America. The University of Idaho prides itself in the fact that it has been able to keep step with the leaders. In 1929 another definite move forward was taken by the establishment of a University Junior College, the first in any state university. Its program embraces the work done heretofore in the first two years of the College of Letters and Science, the School of Business Administration, and the School of Education. Into this college go all freshmen and sophomores intending to take up these lines of work, as well as those who are undecided as to their future vocations.

The University Junior College proposes to do two things: to give a strong foundation in general education for those who do not intend to take more than two years of college work, and to furnish to all candidates for the non-technical degrees a broad and liberal foundation for any curriculum which they may wish to follow in the senior colleges. For both student and state the plan is practical and economical.

The success with which the plan has met in its first year is due in large part to the efforts of the chairman of the Administrative Council of the college. Dean J. G. Eldridge, serving his twenty-ninth year at Idaho, is progressive, far-sighted and invaluable.

The Board of Regents is the governing body of the University of Idaho. Its members are appointed by the Governor of the state and they serve for five years. Their terms are so arranged that one expires each year. While the president of the University is in local control of the University, the position of the board is particularly vital in determining the policy which the school is to follow.

Dean Dyer

It is to these officials of the University of Idaho that the actual work of direct administration is entrusted. They have the duty of putting into effect the decisions and instructions of the Board of Education and the Board of Regents. To them Idaho owes great thanks for work efficiently done.

Irving Willard Jones

THE VICE-PRESIDENT

Hello, Idaho!"

In your own characteristic phrase you have greeted me—on campus walk, in crowded corridor, in social hall, wherever we have met. The greeting has in its cheery ring a note of cordiality, of friendship, even of comradeship. Best of all is its sincerity. It has given me a real glow of satisfaction, and made me feel I was among those who had trust and confidence in those who are chosen to help them along the road of self-education.

How can one but be thrilled by such a response to one's presence! It is a call to equal friendship and sincerity, a challenge to give one's best to the business at hand.

So I have said in my heart, and openly, too, what I am glad to say here. "You are the best boys and girls I have ever worked for. I will be one of you. So long as I continue to be your guest I will strive to keep your faith. And when in time I may go my wandering way your hearty greeting will still ring in my ears, to linger as a cherished memory."

"Hello, Idaho!"

—IRVING W. JONES.

Permeal J. French

THE DEAN OF WOMEN

Proper educational values with definiteness of aim and purpose have been responsible for the conservative growth and development of the University of Idaho. Its ranking is with those institutions that have attained to high honor.

To many people of the state who have not realized its development, it is a source of never-ending surprise, for already it stands a magnificent monument to the citizens who gave it and to those who have fostered it.

The love that it has engendered in students' hearts will always live and bring them back again and again to glimpse youth, renew friendships and avow allegiance.

The progress of the University is certain, but there must be neither artificiality nor lack of honest, steady purpose. It must build men and women of courage, character, and ability, for their measure alone will be the measure of her progress.

—PERMEAL J. FRENCH.

THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY

The Dean of the University Faculty is one of the important administrative officers under the president. But whereas each of the other deans is responsible for his own school or college, the duties of the dean of the faculty concern the University as a whole. He supplements the functions of the college deans; his duties are advisory; he facilitates relationships of the several schools and colleges with the president and with the general faculty. These functions are most definitely apparent in the dean's capacity as vice-chairman of the Academic Council, which is the central administrative body of the University. In the president's absence the dean presides. To the dean are assigned many general duties growing out of these meetings; he reports the proceedings to the general faculty. Dean Eldridge is head of the Department of Modern Languages and chairman of the Advisory Council of the University Junior Council as well as Dean of the University Faculty. Since he is the dean longest in service of the institution, in that sense his deanship is honorary.

Dean Martin Fuller Angell

THE SENIOR COLLEGE OF LETTERS AND SCIENCE

The College of Letters and Science, this year for the first time, is a senior college. In it juniors and seniors specialize in the arts and sciences. The plan of major and minor subjects is supplanted by a scheme of curricula, each of which centers in one major subject and its closely correlated matter. Time for the student will be saved, the material covered will be more valuable and the result much more practical.

This year a number of sophomores in the University are studying in the Senior College because their requirements are thus more easily met. In the academic year 1931-1932, however, the plan becomes fully operative.

The dean of the Senior College of Letters and Science can well be classed as "a man who." Martin Fuller Angell, Ph.D., has served the University for fifteen years with enthusiasm, quality and distinction.

Dean Edward John Iddings

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The College of Agriculture is not only adequately equipped with laboratory and class-room facilities, but has a well-trained and highly efficient faculty. In every field of agriculture, the Idaho institution is a recognized leader. The University has 612 acres of land at Moscow with which to work, and in four other places in the state are large experimental tracts which total 700 acres. The College of Agriculture is one of the divisions of the University separate from the junior college system, for it gives a four-year course which culminates in the degree of B.S.(Agr.). During their first two years all students take the same course and then they may major in almost any of the numerous branches of agriculture. The result is a trained leader for research, for extension, and for many other forms of public activity.

The University is particularly fortunate in having Edward John Iddings, M.S., to administer the work of the College of Agriculture. He directs the extension and experimental work with a high effectiveness, and advises both students and faculty members of the College with a fine insight and understanding.

Dean William Edward Masterson

THE COLLEGE OF LAW

A great many active lawyers of the state have been "most agreeably surprised" upon investigation of the Law School of the University of Idaho. With an almost entirely new faculty this year, the aim of the school to give a knowledge of the fundamental legal principles and to develop the power of independent legal reasoning and analysis has been realized to a greater degree than ever before. A thorough professional training is what the school gives and it does it in a way that meets with the highest requirements of the American Bar Association and the Association of American Schools. Up to the present time this rating has been given to only a limited number of law schools in America. The minimum curricula covers a period of three school years and gives preparation for the practice of law in any American state. Size and facilities weigh strongly in the school's favor.

Dean William Edward Masterson, M.A., LL.B., S.J.D., LL.D., brings to the Idaho Law School a training and experience far above the ordinary. He became dean this year after serving one year as associate professor of law in the University.

Dean Ivan Charles Crawford

THE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

To be adept in any of the various fields of engineering, it is necessary to have a thorough training in highly specialized and advanced courses. The University of Idaho ranks high among schools which give this scientific training. In well equipped laboratories and shops, students most competently instructed are given training in Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Chemical, or Agricultural Engineering. In the work of the school almost every department of the University is utilized to give practical and experimental work to the students. The plan of courses is so arranged that the first two years are occupied with general preparation in engineering and the sciences and the last two with professional work.

Dean Ivan C. Crawford, C.E., who is serving his seventh year as the head of the school, has been identified with every move of progress of the University. To Idaho he is a distinct asset.

Dean Francis Garner Miller

THE SCHOOL OF FORESTRY

By taking advantage of all of the natural opportunities offered, and by keeping abreast of the times in every phase of its work, the Idaho Forestry School has developed to a position where today it is considered one of the best in the United States. Within close proximity to the University are all of the phases of the lumber industry, and these, with the University's own laboratories, arboretum, and experimental tracts, are utilized in presenting an invaluable and practical course in forestry. The school is doing much to produce men who will be able to cope with the problems of conservation and reforestation—vital questions of the day. The course is divided into three four-year curricula, and many graduate subjects are taught to students from almost every section of America.

The dean of the school, Francis Garner Miller, M.F., is in a large part responsible for the high standing which the school enjoys. Idaho can well afford to honor him.

Dean Arthur William Fahrenwald

THE SCHOOL OF MINES

The Idaho School of Mines is situated at the heart of the most diversely productive mineral region of the world. In nearly every part of Idaho there are valuable mineral deposits of some kind. It is only appropriate, then, that the University of Idaho should maintain a ranking school of mining with courses in Geology, Mining, and Metallurgy. Because of the suitable location, the courses are intensely practical and have gone far to produce men trained to develop the great mineral wealth of the state. Detailed studies of mining and methods are made possible by field trips and summer work each year. Graduate and student courses have ever been efficient and progressive.

Dean Arthur William Fahrenwald, E.M., Met.E., of the School of Mines is a new member of the University staff this year. He comes well versed in what may be termed "the mining game," and has proved himself capable and highly qualified.

Dean James Franklin Messenger

THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The work of the School of Education consists in training high school teachers, principals, superintendents, and supervisors. The School is also at the disposal of teachers in service who wish to improve themselves, school trustees looking for teachers, and teachers looking for positions. The supply of teachers is increasing and it is possible to raise the standards. Throughout the country the tendency is to increase the number of education courses required for a certificate. It has been said for many years that teaching should become a real profession, and now that goal is being approached. Last summer there were forty-five graduates on the campus who were candidates for the master's degree in Education. The University of Idaho has been very successful in placing its graduates in the public schools, and also in the higher institutions of the Northwest. Idaho graduates are found on the faculties of nearly every normal school and college in the four states of the Inland Empire.

Dean Ralph Hunter Farmer

THE SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Five majors—Finance, Accounting, Commerce, Extractive Industries, and Secretarial Sciences—are offered by the School of Business Administration, a senior college of the University. During the student's first two years, general courses are taken in the junior college, and then one of the above majors is chosen for specialized study in the junior and senior years. The work given in the School is of very high character. Although the University is not in a large business district, it is in a belt where three great industries—mining, lumbering, farming—flourish. This gives ample opportunity for practical business contacts, and, coupled with the high grade of instruction given, makes the Idaho

Business School rate high.

Dean Ralph Hunter Farmer, A.B., has been connected with the University since 1927. He became dean of the school in 1929, and it is but mild praise to say that his promotion was highly justified. He is a progressive business man and a good educator.

Dean Martin Fuller Angell

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

The Graduate School of the University of Idaho is organized to cover the graduate work leading to a master's degree in thirty different departments of the University. This plan makes it possible to present the two years advanced work in widely varying fields of university study and with ample opportunities for well directed specialization. The work is open to graduates of any school of recognized standing.

While the purpose of the school is to provide the student with the method of independent study and discipline of original research, the student is given opportunity to work with scholars intimately on advanced work and at the same time to assume initiative and responsibility.

For the purpose of encouraging this study the University offers a number of fellowships and scholarships with valuable financial aid.

Dean Angell is also dean of this School and his interest in the work of graduate students is such as to command high standards and effective results. He resumed this work after an absence of two years during which he acted as Executive Dean at the Southern Branch.

Senator William Edgar Borah

THE LEVINSON ENDOWMENT

In April, 1929, Salmon O. Levinson donated a $55,000 gift to the University of Idaho for the establishment of the William Edgar Borah Outlawry of War Foundation in recognition of the work done by Idaho's senior senator in advocating this move to make war a crime in international law.

Salmon O. Levinson has been called "the non-stop peace advocate" and a man "who has tipped the world by the oscillations of his own weight," because it was in his brain that the startling plan of outlawing war originated. The donor is one of the most prominent corporation lawyers in the United States. After the World War he became interested in the legal aspect of war and then originated his plan, which he took to Washington and has brought to the attention of the whole world.

Mr. Levinson's stoutest ally has been Senator William Edgar Borah, who has long advocated anti-war plans and lectured in the cause of peace. In the Senate of the United States, as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, he has worked hard to further moves for peace, and it was through his influence that Mr. Levinson's idea was brought to final realization in the Pact of Paris or the Kellogg Peace Pact.

To Senator Borah Mr. Levinson wished to give expression of his gratitude, and consequently he has made this gift to the University in the senator's state. This fund is to be used in a way yet to be determined by the Board of Regents, for the furtherance of world peace education. Idaho is grateful for the opportunity to deal with international relations in a way that will contribute to world security.

A. S. U. I.

George E. Horton

THE GRADUATE MANAGER

Mrs. Alma Brown

No one person at the University of Idaho has a more direct and widespread contact with its students than the Graduate Manager, George E. Horton. The nature of the position itself makes this both possible and necessary as the Graduate Manager's office has direct control of every phase of activity of the A. S. U. I., including athletics, publications, dramatics, debate, stock judging competitions and other interests too numerous to relate. "Cap," as the man who must personally attend to all matters pertaining to these functions, has a distinctiveness of ability and personality that would make him a difficult man to replace. Idaho's progress as a student group is in large measure due to his careful supervision.

Working alongside "Cap" and evincing no less interest than he towards all A.S.U.I. work is Mrs. Alma Brown, secretary to the Graduate Manager. Mrs. Brown, with her three years' experience in this position, is known alike by both men and women students for her efficient handling of all details which come under her supervision. The share that Mrs. Brown has contributed to the progress of the A.S.U.I. is not to be underestimated.

Aldon Tall

THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

Perhaps the highest honor that can come to a student at the University of Idaho is that of being elected president of the student body. Election to this office is a mark not only of the esteem and respect of the students, but also of character and ability to a high degree.

Five years ago Aldon Tall quietly began working toward the many honors which he now holds. Last spring his election to the office of President of the Associated Students of the University of Idaho marked the culmination of a long list of activities on the campus. He had been a member of the Executive Board for two years, Vice-President of Blue Key and a member of Silver Lance, the Pre-Med Club, the University Orchestra and the University Pep Band.

This year, the president of the A.S.U.I., who is also chairman of the Executive Board, has been in a position of greater responsibility than ever before. The present administration came to Idaho with the policy of student self-government. In line with this policy, the duties of the student body officers have greatly increased. Through this period Mr. Tall has guided the organization conservatively and well.

Dorothy Rouse

The Board

George Huber

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD

The Executive Board is the agency through which the will of the Associated Students is expressed and executed. Constituted as it is, all legislative and executive power is vested in this group. It exercises control over all the various collegiate and intercollegiate activities sponsored by the A.S.U.I.

Members of the Board are chosen for a period of one year by the student body at the annual May election. The Executive Board consists of the three officers of the A.S.U.I., the President and Vice-President, who are chosen from the incoming senior class, and the Secretary, who is chosen from the incoming senior or junior class; also eight members are elected as follows: two men and two women from the incoming senior class, two men and one woman from the incoming junior class, and a man from the incoming sophomore class. In addition there is a faculty adviser and a resident alumnus, appointed by the President of the University from recommendations by the Executive Board, who are ex-officio members. The Editor of The Argonaut and the President of the Associated Women Students are also ex-officio members.

This year the Board has been very efficient and has capably handled the matters brought before it. By the very nature of its organization a large share of its duties are more or less a matter of routine and the Board members are frequently given too little credit.

In Session

The Departments of Athletics, Debate, Dramatics, and Publications are all financed by means of funds paid in by the student body. The apportionment and disbursement of these funds on a proportional basis is one of the chief functions of the Board. This is carried out on the budget plan, and once each semester these budgets must be arranged so as to achieve a balance at the end of the year.

Under the leadership of the present chairman the Board has endeavored to perfect student cooperation in all phases of college life. Student government at the University of Idaho has been extremely competent and the University administration and Executive Board cooperate at all times to achieve and insure student initiative and responsibility.

At the present time the following people are serving on the Executive Board: Aldon Tall, Chairman; George Huber, Vice-Chairman; Dorothy Rouse, Secretary; Robert Brown, Edward Peterson, Laura Clark, Lucile Glindeman, Senior Representatives; Charles Graybill, Peyton Sommercamp, Grace Parsons, Junior Representatives; Elwyn Peterson, Sophomore Representative; Dean Ivan C. Crawford, George E. Horton, Cedric d'Easum, Zelta Newcomb, ex-officio members.

THE GROUP PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL

The entire administration of President Kelly at the University of Idaho has been particularly marked by an effort to arrive at close cooperation between the student body and the faculty of the University. Not only has this attempt been carried to matters of student government, but also into the field of administrative work. Not only has the change of attitude been brought about, but several more tangible things have resulted.

One of these very noticeable results has been the Council of Group Presidents, which has been formed this year to meet with the representatives of the administration in order to discuss affairs which may well be best decided after a thorough understanding of student opinion has been gained. The Council is composed of the presidents of all the groups on the campus, including halls, sororities and fraternities. President Kelly, himself, has been meeting with them regularly as the administration representative. The organization of this group is effected by the existence of a chairman and a secretary. Edward Poulton has been the chairman during the semester just passed and Marguerite Thometz has been the secretary.

Already this decidedly new feature of cooperation has given promising results. Of necessity, the work of the Council must be of a restricted nature and it must deal largely with current affairs. However, this year the Council has given valuable aid in determining the number and length of vacations for next year. The matter of student representation on the Academic Council was discussed and its value was determined by the Council. The very important matters of exempting Seniors from final examinations if their mid-semester grades are sufficiently high was also taken care of. The Council has proved efficient and highly valuable.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Four successful years have marked the course of the class of 1930, its members having been outstanding in all branches of campus activities. Shortly after the six hundred and ninety students had enrolled in 1926, they met and elected the following officers: Elmo Thomas, president; McKenzie Yager, vice-president; Evelyn Sheils, secretary; and Joseph Molloy, treasurer. The second semester officers were: Dean Newhouse, president; Conroy Gillespie, vice-president; Artylee Hollada, secretary; and Irene Auger, treasurer. The trials and tribulations of freshman life almost over, the class celebrated at the Freshman Glee, the annual freshman dance. The class song, "Hello, Idaho," written by Lucile Haddock and Vernon Taylor, won first place at the stunt fest.

Sophomore officers for the first semester were: Edward Coon, president; Glynn Griffith, vice-president; Marylou Craven, secretary; and Dorothy Fredrickson, treasurer. Winning the Hulme fight from the freshmen gave an encouraging start to the sophomore year. The second semester officers were: George Huber, president; Paul Gowen, vice-president; Ruth Newhouse, secretary, and Betty Grammer, treasurer. The principal social function of the class for this year was the Sophomore Frolic, held late in the spring.

The junior year, recognized as one of great activity for any class, was especially active for the class of 1930. The first semester officers were: Edward Peterson, president; Jessie Little, secretary; and Marjorie Ford, treasurer. A series of junior mixers throughout the year served to stimulate class spirit as never before. Second semester officers were: John Soden, president; Vera Chandler, vice-president; Dorothy Shears, secretary; and John Harrison, treasurer. Junior Week was a big event in the history of the class. Under the general chairmanship of Robert Brown, it opened one Tuesday night with a serenade, presented by talented members of the class. Wednesday the juniors entertained the University with a snappy assembly. That evening the juniors paraded, and later attended the junior party. The Prom Friday night and the Cabaret Saturday night ended the week. Committee chairmen were: Serenade, Clayton Loosli; Assembly, Frank Winzeler; Parade, Jess Egurrola; Party, Betty Grammer; Prom, Edward Peterson; and Cabaret, Harry Daubert. On Campus Day outstanding juniors were pledged to the senior honoraries—Mortar Board and Silver Lance. Aldon Tall was elected A.S.U.I. President for the following year.

With the dropping out of many students and the unification of the class throughout four years, some three hundred members of the class returned this year as seniors to complete their college course, two hundred and seventy-four of them receiving their degrees on June 9, 1930. Officers for the first semester were: Allen Janssen, president; Lawrence Peck, vice-president; Edith Bradshaw, secretary; and Grace Nixon, treasurer. Second semester officers were: Darwin Burgher, president; Dorothy Neal, vice-president; Beatrice Stalker, secretary; and Patrick Walker, treasurer. The Senior Ball, with Clair Gale as chairman, and the Senior Picnic under the chairmanship of George Huber, were the outstanding social events of the class. Class committee chairmen were: Stunt, Maitland Hubbard; Assembly, Jess Egurrola; Song, Ruth Newhouse; Gift, Marjorie Bloom; Announcements, Allen Janssen; and Cap and Gown, Robert St. Clair.

On Campus Day Ruth Newhouse was crowned May Queen. The class also points with pride to George Huber, Rhodes Scholar, and Darwin Burgher, Frank McMillin, and Harold Stowell, prominent athletes.

SENIOR BALL

The Senior Ball, held at the Elks' Temple December 7, was not only the social event of the month, but also the first outstanding formal affair of the school year. The hall was attractively decorated in a black and white color scheme, with an abundance of cut flowers and potted plants placed about the sides and ends to brighten the conventional background. Shades were constructed over the lamps on the side walls to give an effect of light being projected toward both the ceiling and floor. This gave the hall the appearance of being larger and more impressive. The orchestra, which was borrowed from Pullman for the occasion, was sheltered by a simple black and white awning. During intermission exhibitions of tap dancing and a number of popular songs were presented for the approval of the guests by talent from the orchestra. Patrons and patronesses were Miss Permeal J. French, President and Mrs. Frederick J. Kelly, and Honorable and Mrs. H. C. Baldrige.

Despite the formality of the occasion, everyone present was amply entertained and enjoyed himself thoroughly. Practically every senior to whom invitations were sent attended the ball, and with the necessary limit of attendance the dance was more than ever a strictly senior class function. Clair Gale acted as general chairman in charge of the ball. Other sub-committees who worked with Gale were: Orchestra and Floor, Oscar Brown and Marylou Craven; Entertainment, Dorothy Fredrickson and Maitland Hubbard; Invitations and Announcements, Jessie Little and Edward Coon; Decorations, Phil DuSault and Lucile Glindeman; Finances, John Glase and Dan McGrath.

George Huber, Chairman

SENIOR PICNIC

The Class of 1930 spent by far the fullest day of their lives on May 21, the day of the annual Senior Picnic. All Seniors had been promised a day of novel entertainment and an opportunity to get away from the steady grind of daily classes, and they were far from being disappointed. Arising at an early hour, they left their respective houses and dormitories and met at the Blue Bucket, where they breakfasted in a body at five o'clock. Immediately after the breakfast the class boarded a special train which had been chartered for their use and promptly left Moscow for Hayden Lake, just out of Coeur d'Alene. Reaching the lake about nine o'clock, the seniors spent the remainder of the morning boating, playing golf, and enjoying the beautiful lake scenery and surroundings. Luncheon was served to the entire class in the Bozanta Tavern at noon and the morning pastimes were again taken up during the afternoon. Boarding the train again the class returned to Spokane and dined at the Davenport Hotel in the Queen Anne room, which had been reserved for their private use. A show and an informal dance lasting until midnight completed the program, and a tired and somewhat disheveled group of seniors left Spokane shortly afterward on the homeward journey back to Moscow. Everyone agreed that it had been a perfect day and one well spent, but somehow home and beds looked unusually beckoning. George Huber, who acted as chairman of the picnic committee, need not have worried as to the success of this one last fling of the class of 1930. Other members of the committee who ably assisted Huber were Jessie Little, George McDonald, and Frank Winzeler.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

The present junior class was ushered into Idaho University life as some six hundred eager and ambitious freshmen in the fall of 1927. It embodies all the joys and ideals of a college training, enriched by the humble submissiveness of freshman days, by the struggle for some recognition as sophomores, and by showing themselves, as juniors, to be real leaders and able to fill the places left vacant by even the most revered and retiring seniors.

The first class function as freshmen was the election of officers, at which time Charles Graybill was chosen for president; Lawrence Thielke, vice-president; and Grace Parsons, secretary. Then followed the posting of the edicts by the sophomores and the class fight, and finally the Hulme fight. The freshmen came out good losers and buried all enmity in the Bury the Hatchet dance held that year in the old gymnasium. The Frosh Bonfire of 1927, under the supervision of William Renfrew, was, according to custom, of record-breaking size and brilliance. Second semester officers of the freshman class were: Bud Rutledge, president; Jack Brooke, vice-president; and Thelma Blayden, secretary. The Freshman Glee, scheduled in the spring, was very successful, with Romer Teller as chairman of the committee in charge. The Song and Stunt Fest was a windup of the freshman class events. The stunt presented was "Free Shines in 'A' Flat," a minstrel show composed of novel songs and jigs, well executed by the make-believe darkies. The feature song, "Memories of Idaho," was composed by Joe Pearson.

Frosh Fire, 1927

As sophomores, free from the oppression of the green cap and threatening paddle, the class enjoyed a successful and happy year. The first semester activities were piloted by Eldon F. Hatfield, president; Gerald Grimm, vice-president; Anne Louise Day, secretary; and Catherine York, treasurer. The preliminary fight with the freshmen was eliminated through the hasty posting of edicts by a few members of the class. The Hulme fight, however, was won by the sophomores, and their authority thereafter was unquestioned. In office for the second semester were: Edward Jarboe, president; Jack McQuade, vice-president; Vera Bryant, secretary; and Anne Martinson, treasurer. On January 23, 1929, the first sophomore class mixer was held, designated as the sophomore "Roundup," with about one hundred and seventy-five in attendance. The precedent established thereby has been followed by the succeeding class. In charge of the sophomore song for the Stunt Fest was Harry Walden. The stunt presented, "Campustry 1313," arranged by Ralph Hagan and Vera Forbes, was very amusing and well received. The Sophomore Frolic was an enjoyable affair under the able guidance of Warren Gochenour and his committees.

With such a background, the class as juniors, began the year with a surplus of pep. Class officers for the first semester were: Ray Kelley, president; Harry Walden, vice-president; Prudence Raby, secretary; and Mildred Axtell, treasurer. Harry Robb was in charge of junior mixers, which were held on the average of once a month. In anticipation of Junior Week, with its girth of junior events, the class elected the following second semester officers: Charles Graybill, president; Lutie Mae Mitchell, vice-president; Thelma Melgard, secretary; and Vining Thompson, treasurer. Johnnie Soden was appointed general chairman of Junior Week, the dates of which were April 21 to 26, inclusive, and the class set before itself the task of planning a schedule of events that would far surpass in brilliance and gaiety anything of this nature that had ever been given previously by a junior class in the University.

JUNIOR WEEK

"Down with drudgery" was the prevailing spirit of Junior Week, April 21 to 26, inclusive, during which the peak of college social life was reached in a rush of class stunts, parties, and dances.

Sale of junior caps began Monday, April 21. On Tuesday night the Junior Serenade, featuring lively, popular college and class songs and orchestration by a ten-piece junior class orchestra was well received by the groups of the campus. The assembly on Wednesday marked the official opening of the activities of the week. A varied program of vaudeville numbers, including clever tap dancing, a very weird and mystifying magic act, a Taps and Terpsichore take-off, and other acts, as well as class song and orchestra numbers, received overwhelming applause from the capacity audience. On Thursday the Junior Parade, a motley and clever procession of take-offs, costumed characters, vehicles, etc., terminated at the Blue Bucket Inn, where the Junior party proved a riot of fun. On Friday evening, the Junior Prom, the long-anticipated dance of dances, was all that could be desired in the exclusive and ultra-formal. As a climax to the week of events, the Junior Cabaret, on Saturday evening, left nothing undone for the rounding out of the cycle of perfect enjoyment and gaiety.

Committees in charge for the week were: Johnnie Soden, general chairman; Prom, Dale Gross, chairman; Cabaret, W. Cadigan, chairman, L. M. Mitchell, K. O'Leary, K. Dick, W. Reiniger, J. Amonson, H. Coffin, P. Raby, and J. Dodd; Assembly, R. Hagan, chairman, H. Carpenter, H. Robb, R. Ormsby, P. Paterka, and H. Daubert; Finance, V. Thompson, chairman, W. Blair, E. Springer, and J. Mitchell; Publicity, R. Wallis, chairman, E. Warm, C. Barrett, and E. Myers; Parade, P. Sommercamp, chairman, G. Shern, and C. Raidy; Party, Grace Parsons; Entertainment, S. Kimball; Music, H. Simonds; Refreshments, K. West, chairman, and R. Miller; Serenade and Orchestra, H. Packer; and Mixers, H. Ostrander.

Dale Goss, Chairman

JUNIOR PROM

The Junior Promenade, one of the most outstanding formal dances on the University social calendar, was held at the Elks' Temple the evening of Friday, April 25. About one hundred and fifty couples were present.

Decorations were carried out in the motif of a spring garden over which a large moon, seen rising through trees in one corner, created a most romantic effect. Large lamps in the form of square white pillars, placed effectively at the sides of the ballroom, and colored spotlights, playing upon the dancers, added a soft and shimmering beauty of blended color to the atmosphere of spring. Lattice work formed the garden walls on which flowers and cherry blossoms were strewn. A rustic fountain of stones covered with moss and flowers and throwing water high into the air furnished a beautiful centerpiece around which couples danced and loitered at will.

Programs were in keeping with the spring motif used, having a drawing depicting a man and woman in a garden worked out in five colors on parchment. Music was furnished by Rosie Layne's ten-piece orchestra.

Patrons and patronesses of the affair were: Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Kelly, Dr. and Mrs. I. W. Jones, Dean and Mrs. I. C. Crawford, Hon. and Mrs. H. C. Baldrige, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Easton, Mr. and Mrs. Ashur B. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. H. Graveley, Mr. and Mrs. Clency St. Clair, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Boccock, Dr. and Mrs. John R. Dyer, Miss Permeal French, Miss Helen Kersey, and Miss Ethel Redfield.

Members of the committee in charge of the Prom were: General chairman, Dale Goss; Decorations, Harry Daubert, chairman, Ralph Hansen, Merle Frizzelle, and Charles Herndon; Hall and Music, Frank Warner, chairman, and Harry Walden; Programs, Vera Bryant; Entertainment, Oscar Brown; Refreshments, William Hawkins, chairman, and Violet Bohman; and Patrons, Dorothy Rouse.

busiest class in school—junior mixers—junior week—junior parade—junior prom—every word begins with junior—my course is getting tougher too—great to be an upperclassman—never imagined those sophs would be so hard to handle—when are you going to lewiston again, bill—seniors have altogether too much time with nothing to do but graduate—on the other hand we have to put on our junior week—committee reports—cords and whipcords—both get dirty—too much wrangle—authority—activities galore—at last the tong is proud of me—this has been the best year yet

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Four hundred and sixty-eight of last year's freshman class—having survived the experiences of the first year—returned to the campus as sophomores in September. The first activity of the class was their uniting against the freshmen in the annual Hulme fight held during the first week of school. The sophomores won the fight, and the freshmen were required to wear the traditional green dinks until Christmas vacation. The first class meeting of the year was called soon after registration for the business of organizing the class and electing officers to serve the first semester of school. Officers elected were: Philip Corneil, president; Ralph Olmstead, vice-president; Ruth Clark, secretary; and Katherine Mikkelson, treasurer. At the beginning of the second semester elections were again held and the following officers were selected: Lionel Campbell, president; William Ennis, vice-president; Austa White, secretary; and LaVernon Thomas, treasurer.

Walt Gillespie, Stunt

The first class social function occurred with the annual Bury the Hatchet dance sponsored the night of the Hulme fight to end hostilities between the underclassmen. During the course of the year the sophomores carried out the precedent set for them the previous year and enjoyed a mixer held at the Blue Bucket, in spite of an attempt by upperclassmen to interfere. It was revealed that certain upperclassmen held the opinion that such a function as a class mixer should be enjoyed only by their own classes, when a party of juniors and seniors stormed the sophomore mixer. A near riot ensued and only after a hard fight were the upperclassmen led to believe that such a function might after all be permissible for sophomores to sponsor. At any rate, it is fairly safe to assume that the underclasses will be permitted to give mixers in the future with a minimum amount of resistance on the part of upperclassmen.

The sophomores' participation in the annual Stunt Fest resulted in a snappy song and an amusing take-off on two University professors and their methods of conducting classes. Walt Gillespie acted as chairman of the Stunt Fest for the class and Sidney Walden wrote the class song.

The social activities of the class culminated in the Sophomore Frolic, a gay, informal dance given late in the spring. Committees for this event and others sponsored by the class during the year were: Frolic, Peter Pence, general chairman; Decorations, Flora Corkery, John Middleton, Warren McDaniel; Music, Ruth Crowe, Harry Angney, John Jenny; Programs, Florence Rohrer, Melvin Stewart, John Pohlman; Entertainment, Helen Benson, Robert Nixon, Eugene Reid; Mixer, Kenneth Jensen, chairman, John McDonald, Helen Geddes, Jay Kendrick, Jay Hulbert, and Esther Johnston; Stunt Fest, Walt Gillespie, chairman, Eleanor Berglund, Bess Louise Hogg, Roland Sturman, Marvin Holm, Beatrice Gibbs, George Gray, and Frank Honsowetz; Song, Sidney Walden, chairman, Lois Thompson, Robert Grant, Jack Nunemaker, Elton Reeves, and Marguerite McMahan.

Apart from the activities of the class itself, members have contributed much in the way of participation in general campus activity. Particularly have the sophomores furnished material for varsity teams, as football, basketball and track. Howard Berg, sophomore varsity letterman, was elected captain of the football team for next year. In addition the class of 1932 has been active in school debating, music, theatricals, and on campus publications. Containing as many outstanding men and women as it does this year, the class should return next year to give an excellent account of themselves as juniors in the University of Idaho.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Ideal fall weather and sunshine prevailed for the advent of the freshman class, who, over five hundred strong, rolled into the mysteries, traditions and customs of the Idaho campus with all the happiness, zeal and enthusiasm possessed by the reverent and mighty seniors.

An election marked by spirited nomination speeches and close balloting brought the freshman class together for the first time. George Wilson was chosen president; Morris O'Donnell, vice-president; Grace Eldridge, secretary; and Wilson Hall, treasurer.

Friendly rivalry between men of the two underclasses reached a climax on Saturday, September 21, when the edicts were posted. The Hulme fight ensued and a lost battle caused the defeated frosh to don the distinctive green head piece. The Hulme fight was soon forgotten in the whirl of a freshman mixer, which had the distinction of being the first mixer to be held in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Harold Snow, Stunt

The frosh bonfire on the eve of Homecoming was, as the chairman had predicted, "a great fire" and was acclaimed, as is customary, the biggest and best conflagration in the history of the institution.

Freshman athletics came in for their share of attention, even though the freshman football eleven went down to defeat oftener than they rose to victory. Statistically they outplayed their opponents in all phases of the game, but their weakness lay in the lack of scoring power. The opening of the basketball season turned the tables. The frosh quintet were the victors in eleven out of a total of fifteen games played, and gave Coach Jacoby just cause to be well pleased with the work of his proteges. Members of these teams should constitute a valuable source of Varsity material next year.

Westerberg

Bailey

FRESHMAN CLASS

Party politics were firmly established by the second semester, and the balloting resulted in the election of Harry Dewey, president; Carl Westerberg, vice-president; Bonita Bailey, secretary; and Eleanor Jacobs, treasurer.

Participation in the annual Stunt Fest displayed freshman talent and ability through the untiring efforts of Morris O'Donnell, chairman of the Song committee and composer of the freshman song, and Harold Snow, chairman of the Stunt committee. The freshman entry, a fight song, "Go, Vandals, Go," sung by a male chorus accompanied by a fourteen-piece orchestra, made a decided hit. The stunt, "A Dream of College," was a clever dramatization depicting a boy's ideas of college life, his disappointments and surprises.

The Freshman Glee, held at the Blue Bucket Inn during the latter part of May, brought to a close the activities of the freshman class. The last function of the class for the year, the dance was well attended. Howard Altnow acted as general chairman in charge and was largely responsible for the success of the affair.

Although a class of somewhat smaller proportions than previous classes, the freshman class should be well satisfied with its record of achievements this year. Not only have its members participated in athletic activity successfully; they have evidenced interest in every form of campus activity at the University and have endeavored at all times to uphold and perpetuate Idaho traditions. Significant is the following: "As freshmen we have tried to be most humble and obedient, realizing that the freshman year is one of training. We are looking forward to the on-coming year with high expectations and hopes that we may be of ever-increasing service to our University and a class of which she may justly be proud in the years to come."

AND HERE WE HAVE IDAHO . . .

ATHLETICS

COACH LEO B. CALLAND

. . . of Southern California gridiron and coaching fame, who began his career as head football coach at Idaho last fall. He is already recognized and respected as a tutor by far western coaching staffs.

Rich A. Fox

THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM

The athletic program at Idaho has been undergoing a series of radical changes in the course of the last few years. Coach Rich A. Fox, who was in charge of this work previous to Coach Calland's advent to the campus, has been instrumental in outlining the new program and has been given far too little credit in the past for his efforts to perfect it. He has done much to pave the way for Calland and has been a distinct asset to him this year.

To Coach Leo B. Calland, serving his first year as physical director, goes the credit for Idaho's new physical education program. After the successful year just passed, minor improvements will undoubtedly be made, with the result that Idaho will have one of the best physical education courses in the West. Under this program intramural sports have come rapidly to the fore and the same may be said of intercollegiate athletics, for no better means of uncovering hidden talent is recognized than by the competition this schedule offers.

Perhaps the foremost addition to the program has been the required one-half credit in sports for underclassmen. Track sports were given in the fall to all freshmen starting the course and average records maintained of some of them. During the winter and spring months basketball and indoor baseball were played with the result that each man was given a knowledge of different sports and a varied recreation throughout the entire year. The sophomores were given the same credit, but were allowed to choose the sport they wished to engage in for the semester.

For juniors and seniors with a major in physical education the University now offers a complete school of numerous gymnasium and lecture courses. The men who benefit from this training will bring to high schools throughout the state a thorough knowledge of athletics and will be a distinct credit to the University.

IDAHO COACHING STAFF

The general shakeup in the athletic department last year resulted in an excellent group of coaches caring for every major sport represented at Idaho. Leo Calland was brought from Trojan territory with an enviable reputation, and much is expected of Vandal gridmen under his able tutelage. Otto Anderson, head track and assistant football coach, came north with Calland and will undoubtedly do his share toward developing athletic material here in the future. Rich Fox served his third year as head basketball coach, and as every Vandal follower knows, is unexcelled by any court mentor on the coast. In addition, Fox has been coaching the Idaho diamond teams in the spring with no small degree of success over the period of years he has been at the University. Ralph Hutchinson, familiarly known as "Hutch," holds the position of head trainer for all varsity athletic teams. "Hutch" was transferred from the Southern Branch and has completed his second year conditioning Vandal athletes.

Freshman athletics are coached by two former Gem State lettermen, Darwin Burgher and Glenn Jacoby. These men round out the coaching staff, and have been instrumental in developing varsity material.

Noel Franklin and James O'Brien, student instructors in varsity wrestling and varsity boxing have developed first class squads during the past year which have been capable of representing Idaho in competition with other schools in the northwest.

"I" MEN

The "I" is given to all men enrolled in the University who have completed the requirements specified in the student body constitution regarding intercollegiate competition in the four major sports, football, basketball, baseball and track, and cross country.

IDAHO YELL LEADERS

The yell king, Ralph Ormsby, and his dukes, Bus Grimm and Bus Bradshaw, ably filled the shoes of last year's famous pair of leaders, and proved the most interesting set among the schools of the Northwest. The two Busses won hearty applause by their spectacular tumbling and clowning during each home game. Favorable comment was given them by Portland newspapers for their work at the Oregon game. Great credit is due these three men for their ability in keeping Vandal pep running high whenever they were in charge.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Coaches

The 1929 football season at Idaho, while rather disappointing in games won and lost due to the change in the system of play and the lack of sufficient reserves, will always be remembered by Vandal followers as one packed full of thrills and traditional Gem State fight. However, an exceptional coaching staff and the excellent showing of a number of sophomores will undoubtedly prove to be bright lights leading the way out of the present dark situation, and Idahoans may well look forward with confidence to successful seasons in the near future.

Idaho defeats Montana

Vandal interference functioning perfectly against Montana State

IDAHO - 39
MONTANA STATE 6

Three minutes after the opening whistle of the Montana State game Idaho was out in front with a six-point lead, due to the excellent ball carrying of Pederson. He duplicated the feat four minutes later and Idaho led 13-0. Coach Calland used five quarterbacks during the game, and all worked big gains time after time to score 39 points. The Bobcats' lone score came in the second half on a brilliant passing attack, which ended when DeFrate went over the line on the receiving end of a double lateral and forward heave.

The light Whitman squad came to Idaho full of confidence and left the same night nursing numerous bruises and an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the powerful Vandals. Pederson, Owens and Barrett each placed the ball in scoring turf from the quarter position, with Pete scoring four times to cop chief honors. The Missionaries showed very little power and were dangerous at no time during the afternoon. The greatest thrill of the game came when Applegate, flashy Whitman back, raced 64 yards to a touchdown.

Idaho upsets the dope in her first conference game with Montana

Idaho opened the conference season against Montana and garnered 19 points while the Grizzlies went scoreless. The Missoula boys brought a powerful team to Moscow, fresh from a tie with Washington's Huskies and received the shock of their lives when the Vandal offensive netted a touchdown ten minutes after the game started. The play seesawed back and forth until the last quarter, when Owens scored through the line and later Big Bill Kershishnik intercepted a pass and ran 35 yards to complete the day's total.

Oregon's huge Green machine, led by Johnnie Kitzmiller, showed a powerful passing attack that proved too strong for the Vandals and sent the Idaho warriors home with the short end of a 34-7 score. Calland's men continued their custom of brilliant starts and scored first, only to remain well checked from then until a final desperate drive just before the game ended. The Webfeet were ineffective except by the aerial route and continually lost yardage on plays through the line, garnering a total of only four first downs to Idaho's nine.

Idaho journeyed to Corvallis for the third conference game and proved powerless to stop the flashy running and passing attack of Oregon State's veteran team. The Vandals held the Orangemen scoreless during the first quarter, and only succumbed after Kershnik and Price were injured and carried off the field. Oregon outplayed Idaho in every department of the game, but the hard dirt field made it difficult for the fast Vandal backs to secure a foothold, weakening materially the Idaho offensive play.

Idaho held a mighty Washington State grid machine to a tie the first half, only to crumple before the impressive array of Cougar reserves in the second frame. Wilkie and Pederson chalked up five first downs in succession at the start, and near the end of the second quarter punched the ball from midfield to the end zone to tie the score at 7-7. Corkery was outstanding in the line until an injury to his knee forced him to retire. Barrett's passing was effective, and in spite of the rush of Washington State touchdowns, proved the Vandals chief threat during the last quarter.

The annual Homecoming game played with Gonzaga on McLean field had no sooner begun when Hult fell on the ball behind the Gonzaga goal line and chalked up six points for Idaho. The situation became tense and later desperate when the Bulldogs scored twice before the first half was over. Idaho rushed the ball deep into Gonzaga territory four times in the third period and finally knotted the score, only to see a tie game change to defeat by the brilliant passing of Ralls just before the final gun. Idaho ended its season by administering a sound drubbing to the Southern Branch at their first homecoming celebration in Pocatello. Early in the game Ballard, shifty Branch back, grabbed one of Pederson's passes and ran 98 yards to score for the Tigers. After this startling play, the Vandals settled down and proceeded to do a little tallying themselves. Not until Calland began substituting late in the game did the Southern Branch show any power. Art Spaugy at center intercepted a heave and repeated Ballard's feat by racing 60 yards to score.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Coach Glenn "Red" Jacoby was greeted by a large turnout of former high school stars in his call for Freshman football early in October. In spite of a rather poor season, Jacoby is optimistic over his men and claims they have learned Calland's system well and look like real Vandals in the making.

The first game was with Ellensburg Normal on October 19. The yearling crew played a brilliant and powerful game at times, but two trick plays caught them napping and they fell before the Normal men 12 to 6. George Wilson slipped around the end for 45 yards in the third quarter for Idaho's only counter.

The Cougar yearlings proved they had one of the toughest Freshman teams in the Northwest when they swamped the Vandal Babes 25 to 0 on McLean Field. Idaho's interference was not functioning, while Washington State used a series of criss-crosses and reverses to score three touchdowns and converted a blocked punt for the final score.

The Gonzaga Freshmen held the Irish luck usually carried by their Varsity brothers and converted breaks into scores to win 19 to 0. Two fumbled punts on Idaho's goal line and a march by the aerial route gave the Spokane men their winning margin. The Vandals counted nine first downs to the Bull Pups eight, but lacked the punch to carry the ball over.

The Babes upset all the dope and came to life by administering a 6 to 0 drubbing to the powerful Cheney Normal eleven. After the score the ball was kept near mid-field, and though outplaying Cheney, Jacoby's men were unable to increase the count.

The men who received their Freshman numerals are: Max Eiden, Martin Norby, Arthur Roose, Norman Sather, Russell Gladhart, James Finch, Paul Taylor, Melvin Sackett, Jere Smith, Wanek Stein, Nels Fowles, Franklin Shissler, William Schutte, George Wilson, Lee Tyrell, Irwin Stanley, Wallace Henry, Fred Bauscher, Bernard Reiger, Daniel Aukett, Henry Lacey, Roy Bunn, Ralph Langston, Harold Jacoby.

Coach "Rich" Fox faced a hard task at the start of the 1929 basketball season, having but three returning lettermen around whom to build his team. However the sophomores on the squad arose to the occasion, and by the time the regular season was under way the Vandals had a good quintet. McMillin and Stowell, who need no introduction to Idaho fans, played bang up ball in their final season. Stowell duplicated "Mac's" feat of last year and brought the conference high scoring honors again to Moscow. Prospects look bright for next year with Carlson, Hale, Howard, Hurley, Thompson and Shurtliff returning.

The Vandals opened the long cage season just before Christmas by dividing a hard-fought series with Whitman in Walla Walla. The first game went to the Missionaries 53 to 32, while Idaho came back strong to eke out a narrow 31 to 28 win. Fox substituted frequently in an effort to find a smooth combination. It was evident that the weakest part of the Vandal make-up was inexperience.

The squad then settled down for a series of non-conference games in which three games were lost and two won. Gonzaga and Ellensburg annexed victories by scores of 37 to 34 and 34 to 26. Mount St. Charles and Whitman were beaten in close games, and the Vandals seemed to be headed right until they stacked against the powerful Montana quintet and came out second, scoring but 24 points while the Grizzlies rolled up 29.

Oregon State's lanky five opposed Idaho in the first conference game and played ragged ball, handing the Foxmen a 41 to 23 win. The next night the Orangemen staged a vicious attack and smothered the Vandals under a 40 to 27 score. Wes Shurtliff and Ed Hurley, both playing their first conference game, were outstanding, Wes being high point man and Ed repeatedly taking the tipoff from Whitlock, O.S.C.'s veteran center, in the first mixup.

The locals then journeyed to Eugene for two more games. The Webfeet rang a pair of free throws and a field goal in the last forty-three seconds of play to grab a lucky victory from the fighting Vandals. In the second game Idaho, led by Stowell, reversed the tables and took the contest 41 to 34. The Gem Staters started fast and were well on the way to victory before Oregon had chalked any points.

The team returned home to face Washington State and ran up a ten-point lead in the first half, only to have Holsten run wild and give the Cougars a win 36 to 29. The next fray with Friel's men ended in a narrow 23 to 22 win for the Idahoans, Thompson providing the margin of victory with a sensational shot in the closing seconds of play. Hale and Collins also played good ball while they were in.

The Vandals, playing without the services of Stowell, lost a non-conference game to Montana 29 to 17. The score board was empty for the first five minutes and then the Grizzlies started their fast passing game and rolled up the score. Gonzaga, the next opponent, took the measure of the Foxmen 40 to 25 in an uninteresting game at Spokane. The Bulldogs piled up a great lead in the first half, which proved too much for the Vandals to overcome.

Washington's Huskies, led by Stork McClary and Hank Swanson, copped two close games from the locals by scores of 35 to 26 and 45 to 36. Idaho lost its chance to grab the lead over the Seattle men by dropping both contests. Stowell was high point man for the Vandals in each game.

Oregon State arrived at Moscow on their eastern swing of the circuit and split the double-game series. The first contest went to the invaders by a 37 to 28 score, while Idaho garnered 41 tallies to the Orangemen's 30 in game number two. Both teams were off the first night, but Ballard rang up enough counters to win for the Oregon men. Shurtliff was playing exceptional ball in the second game until a knee injury forced him to retire. The University of Oregon brought their powerful squad of veterans to Moscow with an outside chance of topping the Huskies and proceeded to do their part by administering a double defeat to the Vandals, who were hopelessly out of the pennant race. The games were both close, with the first ending 33 to 30. Stowell and McMillin showed real basketball, and were easily the outstanding stars for the home men, while Eberhart, Oregon's lanky center, and Keenan, speedy forward, stood out for the Webfeet. The Oregonian's ability to convert free throws gave them the second battle, 40 to 35. Idaho started a rally in the last quarter, but clever stalling on the part of the Oregon men prevented it from becoming dangerous. Howard and Christians stood out on the defense for the Vandals. Eberhart was again high point man with 12 tallies.

Washington played a brilliant set of games to swamp Idaho by scores of 43 to 15 and 35 to 19, cinching the title for themselves. The Huskies used many reserves in the first walkaway, while only McMillin and Stowell were able to score from the field. The Seattle men uncorked a powerful offensive game, and with Swanson as high point man coasted to an easy victory in the second contest.

The final series of the season was with Washington State. The Cougars had been improving steadily all winter and were at the peak of their year's form in this final Vandal series. The first game at Pullman was fairly close until the closing minutes, when Friel's men began to bear down and won 36 to 23. Stowell was again high point man and assured himself of first scoring honors in the conference race. In the second game Fox used all the men he had, but could not stop the Cougars from ringing basket after basket to win 47 to 24. The Vandals were handicapped greatly by the loss of Frank McMillin in both contests. The two losses to the Pullman basketceers gave Idaho permanent cellar rating and assured W.S.C. of second place.

The Vandals won three and lost six non-conference games, and won four and dropped twelve conference battles during the season.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Freshman Coach "Red" Jacoby was greeted by one of the largest turnouts in the history of Frosh basketball at Idaho when he issued his initial call early in December. After a few scrimmages with the Varsity, the team went to Lewiston and handed the high school a 38 to 11 drubbing. The men functioned in midseason form and kept the Lewiston cagers from scoring in the second half. A few days later the Normal team from the same city was beaten in a rough game by a 34 to 29 score. "Skinny" Nelson, Frosh forward, was the shining light of the fray.

A trip to Spokane then netted the Frosh two wins, one from the Gonzaga freshmen 21 to 15, and the other from Spokane University 37 to 16. In both games the Vandal Babes showed careless ball until in serious danger and then spurred to sew up the battle.

The Cougar Babes exhibited a real brand of basketball to win twice from the previously undefeated yearlings. The first game was rough and ended with a 32 to 19 score. The second affair was slow in the first half, but speeded up in the second and resulted in a 19 to 16 decision.

After the temporary setback by the Pullman frosh, the young Vandals continued their winning streak by drubbing the Gonzaga Babes again 20 to 8 in a speedy passing game, and winning from Lewiston Normal 37 to 33. Tyrell and Lacey led the Idaho attack which gained headway throughout the last half.

Once again the Washington State freshmen took the measure of the yearlings in a two-game series by scores of 38 to 20 and 29 to 25. Both games were fast, with the Vandals showing a margin in the first half and losing out in the second.

The men who received their freshman numerals were: Wicks, Alden, Nelson, Tarbox, Showrell, Finch, Parks, Justus, Aukett, Lacey, Jacoby, and Taylor.

VARSIITY BASEBALL

When Coach Rich Fox, himself a very adept Vandal performer of the national pastime, made his initial call for varsity candidates early in March, he was greeted by six lettermen, including Lawrence and Grabner, veteran chuckers. The main problem lay in developing a catcher, third baseman and an outfielder from the array of inexperienced material on hand. Rainy weather delayed outdoor work until nearly mid-April, and at the start of the long twenty-game schedule prospects looked anything but bright. The Lewiston Normal and Whitman games did much to develop the team for the heavy contests later. Judy, Lindsay and Smith rounded out a pitching staff that gave other conference nines many an uncomfortable afternoon before the spring was over. Walt Price moved in from the pastures to care for the catching assignment, and Burton, Johnson, Kyselka, Duffy and Halliday plugged up the other holes like veterans. McMillin, Cheyne and Greeling worked better than ever and often steadied the team in tight places.

Although the Vandals finished the conference race in the cellar position, many good ball players were developed for future use. Bill Essick, Yankee scout, said, "Cheyne and McMillin can be classed with the best in college baseball."

Vandals in action

VARSIITY BASEBALL

The Vandals, after a short but very intensive indoor and outdoor training period in which several good ballplayers were discovered to bolster the lettermen on hand, opened the 1929 season with Lewiston Normal. Coach Fox used practically his entire squad to win 11 to 5. They again took the field on April 6, against the Normal men, and behind the effective pitching of Lindsay and Smith swatted out a 17 to 0 win. Eleven hits off four Lewiston hurlers, together with five errors by the teachers, were responsible for the margin of victory. The next day Fox chose Grabner and Duffy as his opening battery, but rain stopped the game in the second inning. Both clubs had played tight ball and the score was knotted with no runs crossing the plate.

The next week the team entertained the crack Whitman squad for two days and took the opener by the narrow margin of 6 to 4. The game was tight throughout,

In the second contest the tables were turned, and although Lefty Grabner pitched stellar ball, allowing only five hits, the Walla Walla boys won 4 to 3. Idaho led until the last frame, when bunched hits scored enough runs to split the series.

The Vandals surprised everyone by taking both games of the first series with Washington State. Judy received excellent support in the opener at Moscow, and Grabner and Lawrence kept the Cougar sluggers subdued at Pullman the next day. The scores were 10 to 9 and 11 to 8.

The fast-sagging Vandals redeemed themselves somewhat by dividing the series with Oregon State May 6-7. The Orangemen took the opener 8 to 5 behind Nightingale's great hurling. Lefty Grabner kept hits well scattered the second day and won his game 8 to 6. Cheyne, McMillin and Lawrence did some heavy clouting while in Oregon, but time after time their hits were turned into double plays. Rain in Seattle made a double-header necessary the second day, which did not agree with the Idahoans, who dropped both contests. The Vandals met Oregon State's invasion of eastern conference circles and set them down a peg by sneaking out a close 7 to 6 win. Idaho was outhit, but numerous "boots" by Orange infielders spelled ruin for them. Howard Maple and his mates settled down and played classy ball to win 11 to 2 the next day.

Whitman's Missionaries opposed the Vandals for a two-game series the next week and dropped both contests by three-run margins. The first affair was played in a high wind, which made fielding hard and scoring frequent. Idaho garnered ten runs off Soper, while the visitors only grabbed seven counters off the deliveries of Grabner and Lawrence. TRACK

Ralph F. Hutchinson

VARSIITY TRACK

Idaho completed the 1929 track season with the Pacific Coast Conference meet in Eugene, having participated in six meets during the spring. Numerous excuses might be offered for the poor year, but the most plausible explanation is too much high class competition. Washington State had its Foster, Lainhart and Mooberry; Washington its Jessup, Kiser, and Anderson; while others boasted men equally as good in their events. The ineligibility of Stowell and Griffith put a heavy crimp in the Vandal power, and while good men were left, the supply was limited.

Coach Ralph Hutchinson was unable to give his men much work, due to the late spring, and the cinder artists were not clocked against time until the Whitman meet in April. The Vandals took firsts in six events when Wiks won the mile and half-mile runs, Klingler the 440-yard dash, Collins the shot-put, O'Brien the high jump, and the relay team, composed of Norman, Jensen, Hodson and Klingler, easily won their event.

The Montana meet was run off in a cold drizzle which slowed the runners' time considerably. Collins and Kershnik were high point men for Idaho with 8 points each. Norman, O'Brien, and Heath scored first places in their events to keep the Vandals in the running until the last.

The squad was overwhelmed by the brilliant displays of the other teams in both the Washington Relays and the Pacific Coast Conference meet. Jim O'Brien grabbed a first in the high jump to save the Vandals from a shut-out at Eugene. Johnnie Norman was better than ever and a consistent point winner, while Charles Heath, a sophomore distance runner, pressed the best there was in the Conference and should do much for the Vandals in the future. Pierson, Robertson, Tatum and Mason were other mainstays on "Hutch's" squad.

VARSITY WRESTLING

The Varsity wrestling squad under the guidance of Noel Franklin, student instructor, enjoyed a very successful season, emerging victorious in two of the three matches held. On February 15 the grapplers entertained the Cougar matmen in the Memorial Gym and upset the dope by winning 15 to 8. Shaw and Graycott dropped the first two matches after hard battles, but Franklin, Swayne and Norby all tossed their men to win for the Vandals. W.S.C. evened the count one week later when they took three falls and one decision to win 18 to 3. Franklin whipped Donohue for Idaho's only points. In the Minor Sports Carnival at Pullman the Moscow team won the majority of matches in the finals and rolled up 41 points to win over the University of Washington and Washington State. Franklin capped the meet by pinning Webster of Washington to the mat and annexing the western intercollegiate 145-pound championship. Other men who grappled on the Vandal team were Greiser, Kyselka and Lopez.

1929 Varsity

A new sport for Idaho

OTHER MINOR SPORTS

Idaho's swimming team engaged in two meets during the past season, losing the first to the W.S.C. tankmen at the Minor Sports Carnival 38 to 25. Grimm took the Vandals' only first when he led the pack in the 100-yard backstroke. Smith, Richter, Ostrander and Holman were point winners for Idaho. Idaho again lost to the Staters in the second meet by the narrow margin of five points, which W.S.C. annexed in the relay, the last event. The final score was 32 to 27.

Idaho's tennis team lost to Whitman's crack squad at Walla Walla on May 18. The Vandals were unable to win a match and were completely outclassed by the conquerors of Washington State. The netmen were again badly defeated by the Pullman squad on May 11. The Vandal tennis men were William Callaway, captain; Otto Krueger, Amidee Walden, Ray Wetherbee and Dick Taylor.

Fencing was introduced as a sport at Idaho this year, and the Vandal team held a short match with the Cougars between halves of a basketball game. Wurster and Janda of Idaho and Hughes and Hague of W.S.C. scored 8 points for their schools to tie the match.

INTRAMURAL

Intramural Athletic Managers

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

With a view to making this a better Intramural year than ever, "Athletics for All" became the slogan of the athletic department and group houses when Coach Leo P. Calland issued a call early last October for group managers. His program for the year included the usual sports with suggestions for competition in horseshoes, golf and handball. It is believed that competition in these sports will aid materially in developing athletic material and at the same time provide enjoyment and exercise for the ordinary student.

The question of points was raised and it was agreed that the winners of each league competition would receive 75 points and the University champions would garner another 25, making a total of 100. As has always been the case no varsity or freshman lettermen can compete for his group in the sport in question. Another addition to the program which has already increased interest is the series of contests between the champions of Idaho and Washington State in a number of events for inter-school titles. The first event on the program was the cross-country race on November 2, over a two-mile course. Senior Hall walked off with first honors by virtue of Chilsom, Throckmorton and Doerrie placing fourth, sixth and eighth to score 15 points. L.D.S. Institute captured second when Hall broke the tape to garner 10 counters. Following this event were basketball, swimming, indoor baseball, tennis and horseshoes.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

Displaying a varsity caliber of teamwork, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, winner of "A" league, twice defeated the Kappa Sigs, champions of the "B" division, to win the intramural basketball title. The S.A.E. quintet distinguished themselves by completing the season without a single defeat in nine games, having won the league title with seven victories and taking the intramural title from the Kappa Sigma Club with two decisive windings, in the championship series. Beta Chi and Phi Delta Theta tied for third place by winning five games out of six, placing second in their respective leagues.

Many stellar players were unearthed as a result of the intramural race, several of them of potential varsity caliber. The players named on The Argonaut's all-star intramural teams are: Barrett, S.A.E., and Nelson, Phi Delta Theta, forwards; O'Brien, Kappa Sigma, center; Peterson, S.A.E., and Sommercamp, Kappa Sigma, guards. The second team included Wicks, Sigma Nu, and Jones, Kappa Sigma, forwards; Finch, S.A.E., center; Wright, Lambda Chi, and Yanik, Phi Gamma Delta, guards. Taggart, S.A.E.; Alden, Lambda Chi; Thompson, Lindley Hall; Howard, Phi Gamma Delta, were given honorable mention.

The leading scorers for the tournament were Barrett, Taggart, O'Brien, Van Haverbeke, Nelson, Christians and Aukett.

The "feature" game of the tournament was a court battle between Sigma Alpha Epsilon and the faculty five. Both teams were evenly matched, and up to the last few minutes were running even up. The S.A.E. quintet, however, spurted at the end to win their hardest game 22-14. Peterson and Taggart were individual stars for the winners.

Points won on the series standing are applied to total points in all intramural activities.

Beta Theta Pi

INTRAMURAL SWIMMING

One of the most hotly contested events on the intramural athletic program was the annual swimming meet held during the first part of February. Individual eliminations were so arranged that the winners in all eight of the events scheduled for the meet were eligible for the finals, irrespective of their team's standing. Two preliminaries were held previous to the championship meet, and the interest that was shown in this sport was evidenced by the crowded galleries that viewed each meet.

Romping off with a total of 36 points, a margin of 18 over their nearest opponents, Beta Theta Pi won the championship title in the final meet. Lambda Chi Alpha came second with 18 points and Phi Gamma Delta third with 10 counters. Every race was closely contested and the winners hard to pick. The 200-yard relay between the Betas and Fijis was easily the thriller of the entire meet, both teams crossing the line in two minutes and two seconds to end in a tie. A surprise was handed spectators as Smith, Lambda Chi, churned in to win the 50-yard dash from Grimm, Beta, and Peterson, S.A.E.

Ostrander, A.T.O., took the 50-yard breast stroke in handy fashion, finishing half the length of the pool ahead of Sweeney and Grimm, Beta dolphins. Collier broke his former record of 48 feet in the plunge for distance when he floated 51 feet before the waves stopped him. Smith, Lambda Chi, chalked two additional first places in the 100-yard dash and the fancy diving events to make him high man for the conference. The 200-yard dash honors went to Richter, Beta, who had extreme difficulty in defeating Lawson, Fiji. Lawson took second honors and Coffey, Kappa Sigma, third. Grimm, Beta, showed some real speed in the 50-yard back stroke event, outdistancing Smith, Lambda Chi, who placed second.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

INTRAMURAL INDOOR BASEBALL

Indoor baseball, the third event on the intramural program, was played during March and April. With the possible exception of basketball, more interest was shown in this sport than in any other branch of inter-group athletics for the past several years. Over one hundred men formed thirteen fast teams representing every men's group and hall on the campus. Rich Fox, varsity ball mentor, placed considerable value on the tournament, as a number of the competitors showed promise of developing into likely varsity material.

Sigma Nu's slugging team garnered an extra-inning contest from Kappa Sigma and annexed the top honors in "B" league. This victory followed a long hard schedule in which no team was outstanding. However, in the "A" league, the S.A.E. squad had little trouble defeating Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Chi, and Beta Chi to take chief honors in this division. The S.A.E. wins were due chiefly to the stellar pitching of Otto Lichti and a strong array of batters.

Considerable interest was shown on the campus when the two league winners met to settle the annual dispute in the "Little World Series." Sigma Nu started strong in every game and by bunching hits piled up a lead which they usually held until late in the game. With the possible exception of the first title game the "A" league champions came back strong each time to take advantage of errors and win the game by a safe margin. The winner of the championship series received the usual extra points to be applied to their total in the intramural cup competition.

Although every group on the campus had their individual stars which they were willing to boost to the limit, attention must be called to the work of some men who were particularly outstanding and proved their team's mainstays in every game in which they took part. They are: Winzeler, Beta Chi; Krummes, T.K.E.; Hoffman, Delta Chi; Yanik, Fiji; Raidy, Sigma Nu; and Lichti, S.A.E.

Phi Gamma Delta

INTRAMURAL BASEBALL

The closing months of last spring found the men's groups on the campus locked in a tight struggle for chief honors in the national pasttime. This activity capped the climax of a first-class intramural program and nearly as much interest was displayed in following the fortunes of the different teams as was shown toward the Varsity nine. The schedule was run off by the single elimination method, and one team after another dropped by the wayside until only Beta Chi and Beta Theta Pi were left in the "A" league, and Phi Gamma Delta and S.A.E. were left in the "B" league.

Beta Chi took an easy win from their rivals and won the right to meet the Fiji ball tossers, who had in the meantime walloped S.A.E., 9 to 4. The championship game was an exhibition of good baseball in which the scoring lead changed hands several times, with the result that neither team was certain of victory until the last man was out. Frahm, Fiji hurler, tossed a beautiful game to help his team to a 10 to 8 victory over the "A" league stars. Albertson, Beta Chi moundsman, also hurled a good game, but several errors by his teammates allowed the Fiji batters to push across the winning tallies in the last frame.

Besides the teams already mentioned, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu and Lindley Hall had strong clubs, which gave the leaders no small amount of worry throughout the entire series of contests. Frahm and Albertson were recognized as the leading hurlers, while Glase, Beta Chi; Brimhall and Carey, Beta Theta Pi, boosted the batting averages of the two circuits. The Phi Gams received seventy-five points for league leadership, while the Beta Chis carried off twenty-five points for topping their division.

ACTIVITIES

REPRESENTATIVE IDAHOANS

THE GEM OF 1930, following in the footsteps of its predecessor, again presents a Representative Idahoan section. The section this year, including four men and two women, is somewhat smaller than that of last year and the impartial committee of seniors who made the selection experienced extreme difficulty. It seemed advisable to supplement this section elsewhere with a campus leader section, including in its pages those students who, by accomplishment, have attained a position outstanding among undergraduates. From this latter section, an honorable mention section as it were, six graduating seniors were selected to appear on the following pages as true representative Idahoans. Two seniors, Edward Poulton and Darwin Burgher, whose records would certainly entitle them to this honor, appeared in the section last year, and it is the wish of the committee that their names be automatically included in the list. As students representing the highest ideals in men and women of Idaho we have chosen for 1930:

Dorothy Mary Fredrickson

BECAUSE—no woman in the senior class has evidenced like qualities of leadership and personality and at the same time devoted the influence arising from them so wholeheartedly and unselfishly for the good of her class and University.

George Losie Huber

BECAUSE—as a student on the campus he has been connected with almost every activity in which his class has engaged and at the same time found ample time to interest himself in affairs of student concern and campus activities of every nature.

Frank Lee Winzeler

BECAUSE—his record as an undergraduate has been marked with a series of accomplishments few have been able to equal while participating in as many activities and pursuing as many interests as he has throughout his college life.

Cecil Hagen

BECAUSE—he is one of the few men on the campus who has realized that the welfare of his University should come first and governed his conduct accordingly, always willing to do everything within his means and expecting nothing in return.

Zelda Grace Newcomb

BECAUSE—her character and ability are such that she has been able to distinguish herself not only in the solution of all problems of interest to the woman student at Idaho, but also by her participation in numerous campus activities.

Aldon Tall

BECAUSE—his efforts in connection with student government at Idaho have at all times been meritorious and worthy of mention, largely through an earnest desire on his part to aid in the upbuilding and growth of a greater Idaho.

WOMEN'S GROUP SCHOLARSHIP

THE MARY McCLINTOCK UPHAM SCHOLARSHIP CUP

The tradition of offering a silver loving cup to the group of women on the University of Idaho campus attaining for a year the highest comparative scholarship average was begun by Mrs. Elizabeth Kidder Lindley in 1922. The regulations governing the presentation of the cup stated that any group of women, the majority of whose members lived in the same house, attaining the highest scholarship average for a year should have temporary possession of the cup until such time when one group should win it three years consecutively, when they shall receive the cup permanently.

The Pi Beta Phi sorority won the permanent possession of this cup in 1925, so Mrs. Mary McClintock Upham offered a similar cup to carry on the tradition. The cup was won for two successive years by Alpha Phi, then Pi Sigma Rho, but when almost in sight of their goal for permanent possession of the cup, it was won by Kappa Alpha Theta with the splendid group average of 5.024. Kappa Alpha Theta had the honor of having three members of its group members of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholarship fraternity.

The cup was won last year by Delta Delta Delta sorority, having attained a group average of 4.902. Kappa Alpha Theta ranked a close second with an average of 4.788. Other close ranking groups were: Delta Gamma, 4.712; Alpha Phi, 4.708; and Pi Beta Phi, 4.644. Each year the winning group has its name inscribed on the cup, so at present there are four names on the cup, with Alpha Phi still leading, having won the cup in 1926 and 1927.

Sigma Chi Fraternity

MEN'S GROUP SCHOLARSHIP

THE BURTON L. FRENCH SCHOLARSHIP CUP

The Burton L. French Scholarship Cup is an award to the group of men on the University of Idaho campus, having a general home for the accommodation of not less than sixty per cent of its members, which has attained for a year the highest competitive scholarship average. Groups of men students eligible for competition for the cup are all such definite groups as fraternities, cooperative societies, and other organizations of a similar nature. The cup becomes the permanent possession of the group which has succeeded in winning it for three successive years.

The cup was won the first time by the fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta and they became permanent possessors of the trophy, having won it for three successive years. Another cup was immediately offered by Mr. French on exactly the same basis as the first one. The fraternity of Tau Kappa Epsilon won this second cup in 1928 for the third successive time and became its permanent possessor. Each of these two cups was won permanently within ten years of the time it was placed in competition.

Mr. French graciously offered a third cup, which last year was won for the first time by the fraternity of Sigma Chi, having attained a group scholastic average for the entire year of 4.448. The competition was marked by the decidedly close averages of the leaders, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Beta Chi (local) securing second and third places with averages of 4.339 and 4.324 respectively. Other fraternities and organizations ranking close to the winning group were Lambda Chi Alpha with an average of 4.300, and Senior Hall, 4.208.

SIGMA TAU MEDAL

Carl von Ende

The Sigma Tau Scholarship Medal is given each year by the Idaho Chapter of Sigma Tau to the sophomore who, in his freshman year, has made the highest grades in the College of Engineering or in the School of Mines. Sigma Tau is a national honorary engineering fraternity which has as its ideal high scholarship and outstanding ability in its field. The fraternity has done much to further this ideal among its members, and takes this method of spurring on to greater effort the freshman who is just beginning his technical education.

Carl von Ende, sophomore in the College of Engineering was last year awarded the medal, having maintained a scholarship average of 5.342. Harold Wayland, also of the College of Engineering, with an average of 5.853, was the winner of the award for the previous year.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI KEY

Kenneth Dick

The Alpha Kappa Psi award is a golden key given by Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity to the man in the School of Business Administration who attains the highest scholarship average during his sophomore year. Alpha Kappa Psi is a national honorary business fraternity maintaining ideals of scholarship and of business ability and integrity. The key has been awarded annually by the fraternity since its installation in 1923.

The key was won last year by Kenneth Dick, who, during his sophomore year maintained an almost perfect average, 5.939. Mr. Dick is majoring in accounting and has taken an active part in the activities undertaken by the School of Business Administration. Allen Stowasser, who had an average of 5.580 during his sophomore year, was the winner of this award the previous year.

XI SIGMA PI TABLET

Each year Epsilon Chapter of Xi Sigma Pi engraves on a bronze tablet in the Administration building the names of the four forestry students of highest scholarship average in the four classes. Xi Sigma Pi is a national honorary forestry fraternity whose aim is to secure a high standard of scholarship in forest education.

Last year the men whose names were engraved on the tablet were: senior, George Garin with an average of 5.282; junior, William T. Krummes, 5.545; sophomore, Russell LeBarron, 5.222; freshman, Ralph Ahlskog, 4.811. Mr. Garin has been an honor student throughout his college career and has had the honor of having his name appear on the tablet four years. Mr. Garin graduated this year with a final average of 5.450 covering his four years of college work at the University of Idaho.

George Garin

PHI CHI THETA

Phi Chi Theta national key award is awarded annually on the basis of scholarship, activities and leadership to the woman student in the School of Business Administration who has most successfully fulfilled these requirements at the completion of her junior year.

Phi Chi Theta is a women's national honorary business fraternity organized for promoting the cause of higher business education and training for all women who have chosen a business career. Pi chapter was installed at the University of Idaho in 1926.

The key award was won last year by Edna Swanson, who, during her junior year, maintained the high average of 5.310. Miss Swanson, who has maintained a remarkable scholastic average as an undergraduate is graduating this year with a major in Business Finance.

George L. Huber

RHODES SCHOLAR

The Rhodes Scholarship, through the bequest of the late Cecil Rhodes, consists of a scholarship for three years at Oxford University, with a yearly allowance of approximately $1,950. Candidates are selected in two out of every three years by a selection board, which this year was composed of McKeen F. Morrow, Boise, and George Curtis, Wendell, both former Idaho Rhodes scholars; Professors Dinnsmore and Harrison, University of Washington; and Dr. Boone, President of the College of Idaho. Selection of the Rhodes scholar was announced after examinations held in the State House in Boise, and conducted in the form of a personal interview.

Selection of the Rhodes scholar is based upon: literary and scholastic attainments; an interest in sports, such as cricket and football; qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, unselfishness and fellowship, and moral force and character.

The Rhodes scholar appointed this year was George Losie Huber. Mr. Huber was graduated in 1930 with high honors. Leadership in many branches of extra-curricular activity has marked Mr. Huber's college career. During his senior year, he served as vice-president of the A.S.U.I. and president of Delta Sigma Rho, forensic fraternity. He was an active member of Blue Key, upperclassmen's national honorary; Silver Lance, senior men's honorary; Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity; the English Club and Sigma Chi, social fraternity. Mr. Huber was also interested in forensic affairs and in his junior year was a member of the Idaho team which made a barnstorming debate tour of the Middle West. During his senior year Mr. Huber acted as assistant to Professor J. W. Garland, debate coach, with the freshman and women's squads.

THE IDAHO ARGONAUT

Cedric d'Easum
Editor

THE IDAHO ARGONAUT is an official publication of the Associated Students of the University of Idaho. In its thirty-first year this publication has grown from a relatively small record of student activities to the present seven-column paper, published every Tuesday and Friday of the college year. As a member of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press Association it ranks equally with publications of other universities of larger size.

Under the direction of Cedric d'Easum, editor, and Jack Parker, business manager, THE ARGONAUT has progressed materially. In addition to all campus news of importance and interest, the publication has included many features of note this year.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

Student publications constitute one of the most important subdivisions of the Associated Students of the University of Idaho. Three of these publications, The Gem of the Mountains, The Idaho Argonaut, and The Idaho Blue Bucket, come directly under the jurisdiction of the Executive Board as the executive head of the Associated Students. The editors of each of these official publications are chosen at the annual A.S.U.I. election and serve one year as associate editors before assuming their duties as heads of the publications. The business managers, however, are chosen by the Executive Board from candidates who present petitions for the positions. They likewise are required to serve one year as associates in charge. Although every position is open to any student, great care is taken to select only those who have already done outstanding work on the staff or have shown exceptional ability. The staffs for those publications which are not controlled by the A.S.U.I. are chosen in each case by the members of the school or department represented. As in the general student publications, selection is based on the competitive system and great care is taken to choose staff members who have already shown their ability and are in every way deserving of the position.

A.S.U.I. publications during the year have developed materially with the growth of the University and from all indications much greater progress is to be expected next year. Wayne Blair, associate editor of The Gem of the Mountains during the year just passed, will edit the 1931 edition. Edward Whittington, acting as managing editor of The Argonaut this year, becomes editor next year. Gerald Grimm automatically becomes editor of The Idaho Blue Bucket after serving in the capacity of associate editor this year.

DRAMA

DRAMATIC ACTIVITY

The past year proved to be one of great advancement for the dramatic department. The increasing interest in this activity was shown by the unusually large number of students who enrolled in the play production classes. The decision that all plays would be produced under the auspices of the A.S.U.I. was another proof that interest in dramatics was becoming more pronounced.

Students studying dramatics are divided into two groups, those taking elementary and those taking advanced play production. Members of the elementary class gain their initial experience by appearing in the one-act plays, while those in the advanced classes are primarily occupied with the production of three-act plays.

"The Gossipy Sex," which was presented November 21 and 22, opened the dramatic season. It was followed by two groups of one-act plays given in mid-year.

The second three-act play of the year, "Skidding," was produced April 3 and 4, while a group of one-act plays, presented May 2 and 3, concluded the year's dramatic activities.

From "Skidding"

John H. Cushman, director and head of the department, showed very remarkable insight in his choice of plays, as all of them were enthusiastically received by the University audiences. There is little doubt that the success of the department is due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Cushman and to the splendid cooperation given him by his assistants, Mrs. Pauline Brown Matthews and Miss Helen Kersey, the assistant dean of women. Harry Robb acted as student manager.

HAY FEVER

The complications which arise when all the members of a former actress's family invite guests to their home for the same week-end are humorously portrayed in Noel Coward's three-act comedy, "Hay Fever." The setting is laid in Judith Bliss's country home, where she has moved after her retirement from the stage, with the intention of devoting the rest of her life to her husband and her children.

Judith invites a young, dumb athlete, whom she believes is madly infatuated with her. Her daughter's guest is a diplomat, while her son's friend is a sophisticated vamp with whom he imagines himself in love. Judith's novelist husband, on the other hand, has asked a little flapper because he wants to study her type. Entertaining soon proves to be boresome to the eccentric Blissés. The guests, meanwhile, become so aggravated over the way they are left to shift for themselves, that the romances, which seemed to be budding, are nipped at once. Happiness is finally restored to all concerned with the breaking up of the house party.

Dorothy Pierce took the part of Judith Bliss, while Amne Johnson and Dan McGrath played the parts of her daughter, Sorrel, and her son, Simon. Her absent-minded husband was portrayed by Burdette Belknap. Clara, the maid, was taken by Lillian Woodworth. Robert St. Clair was cast as Tyrell, the athlete, Estelle Pickrell as the flapper, Jackie, and Clayne Robinson as the diplomat, Greathma.

The production staff was composed of Arthur Ensign, Frank Egbers, Lillian Woodworth and Glenn Patchen.

THE GOSSIPY SEX

"The Gossipy Sex," by Lawrence Grattin, is a lively comedy based on the situations caused by Danny Grundy's enthusiastic peddling of shaving cream stock and scandal. Danny's activities take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bowen during an impromptu house party. He succeeds in straining the friendship between the nosey Hilda Norris and Alice Bowen to a breaking point and also manages to prick the rosy bubble of happiness which has enveloped the newly-wedded Baxters.

Chief of Police Mason becomes irate over Danny's remarks about his wife and attempts to shoot him. Danny continues his gossiping until his own fiancée, Anna, becomes so aggravated that she breaks their engagement. After his stock rises skyward, however, his sins are forgiven and Danny is left sitting on top of the world.

Three of the Cast

Danny Grundy was portrayed by Maitland Hubbard. Mrs. Bowen was taken by Dorothy Pierce, while Harold Packer was cast as Bowen. Lillian Woodworth, in the role of Mrs. Norris, led Robert St. Clair, her hen-pecked husband, around by the nose. Anna Sterling was played by Bertha Moore and Lois Kennedy. Gerald Kenyon, the poet, was taken by Merle Frizzelle. Grace Parsons and Mary Murphy depicted Flossie Baxter, and her husband was Dan McGrath. Chief Mason was portrayed by Leland Cannon, with Anne Johnson as his wife. Others in the cast were Charles Herndon as Mr. Foster, the agent; Harry Robb as Briggs, the butler, and Frances Gallet as Mary, the maid.

SKIDDING

"It's no fun having a job without a man, and it's no fun having a man and not a job!" exclaims Marion Hardy, the heroine of Aurania Rouverol's delightful three-act comedy, "Skidding." "Well," declares her mother in answer to Marion's problem, "when you've got a man you've got a job!"

After spending several years in the east studying political science Marion returns home to find that the Hardy family is "skidding." Her father, for the first time in twenty years, fails to receive the nomination for judge of the district court. The return of her two married sisters, who have left their husbands, causes Mrs. Hardy to desert her family. Marion then decides she wants a political career rather than a husband. To make matters worse, Andy, her brother, loses his girl.

Domestic tranquility descends on the Hardy household with the return of Mrs. Hardy. The sisters go back to their own homes, the judge is nominated for the supreme court, and Marion decides to take chances on a husband as well as on a career.

Amne Johnson played the part of Marion and Maitland Hubbard acted as Andy. Mrs. Hardy was portrayed by Dorothy Pierce, while Robert St. Clair was the judge. Zelda Newcomb played Aunt Milly and Harry Robb depicted Grandpa Hardy. Marion's sisters, Myra and Estelle, were characterized by Mary Murphy and Grace Parsons. Merle Frizzelle, Mary Murphy, Glenn Patchen, and Harry Robb made up the production staff.

ONE ACT PLAYS

"Playgoers," "Wedding Clothes," "Women Folk" and "Out of the Night" made up the initial group of one-act plays. The first included C. Brinck, V. Steward, M. Murphy, B. Brown, S. Cunningham, L. Weidman, R. Shaw, L. Moore, and B. Hogg. The plot was based upon the drastic results attending a bride who gave her servants a theater party. "Wedding Clothes" was a tragedy of an old farmer who, persuaded to sell a prize calf to buy clothes for his daughter's wedding, learned she was not to be married at home. R. Sturman, L. Campbell, E. Jacobs, L. Grosjean, and K. Hart made up the cast. Proof that woman is not always the weaker sex was found in "Out of the Night," when an old maid captured a burglar. The cast included B. Low, E. Phillips, F. Gallet, H. McCannon, W. Cummings, H. Altnow, R. Williams, S. Stewart, D. Higbie, W. Janssen, W. Ennis, and S. Mingo. "Women Folk" was a comedy of the love affair and family of a young man. Those who took part were W. Cummings, R. Garver, Z. Newcomb, M. Homes, F. Larson, C. Harris, and G. Parsons. "Postal Orders" with F. Larson, S. Cunningham, M. Homes, R. Garver, G. Eldridge, L. Kennedy, M. Murphy, H. McCannon, and H. Altnow, led the second group of plays. The most difficult play presented was "The Valiant." The cast was made up of B. Moore, L. Grosjean, L. Cannon, L. Campbell and W. Monnett.

ONE ACT PLAYS

In "The Upper Forty" a college graduate and his fiancee manage affairs so they can live near each other. W. Janssen, R. Sturman, V. Steward, E. Phillips, R. Grant, C. Harris, C. Brinck, L. Weidman, B. Hogg, and D. Higbie were the cast. "His First Dress Suit" was a comedy based upon a young man's efforts to wear his first dress suit at his sister's wedding. Those included in the cast were W. Ennis, J. Torrey, L. Moore, K. Hart, E. Jacobs, R. Deiss, C. Herndon, and B. Low. One of the plays in the last group was "Do as Mother Says," a farce about a mother's efforts to have her daughter married. Those who took part were R. Garver, E. Phillips, L. Moore, L. Kennedy, W. Janssen, C. Harris, R. Brown, and S. Cunningham. The cast of "Ho! Ho! and a Bottle of Rum" was composed of R. Shaw, S. Stewart, R. Williams, R. Deiss, S. Mingo, D. Higbie, L. Weidman, R. Sturman, W. Ennis, W. Monnett, and C. Brinck. "The Rehearsal," with T. Melgard, B. Hogg, E. Jacobs, G. Eldridge, B. Low, K. Hart, M. Homes, L. Grosjean, E. Johnston, V. Steward, F. Larson, and H. McCannon, was a play within a play. "Prince Gabby" was cast with B. Moore, R. Grant, L. Campbell, and L. Cannon, and portrayed the fickleness of the ultra-modern wife.

All three groups of one act plays were given in the auditorium and were participated in by members of both the advanced and elementary classes.

1929 SONG AND STUNT FEST

The Senior stunt, "Beauty and the Boost," written by Paul Boyd and Estelle Pickrell, was awarded first place in the annual Song and Stunt Fest, which was presented May 22 and 23, 1929. Louise Lamielle as Beauty, and Ethel Lafferty as her girl friend Lena, gave such comical and witty impersonations of marionettes that they were acclaimed the undisputed stars of the show.

The Junior song, written by Dorothy Fredrickson and William Shamberger, won first prize in the musical contest. It was sung by a group of junior men. An award of fifteen dollars was given to the class contributing the cleverest stunt, and an equal amount was given to the class presenting the best song.

Cleverness and an abundance of pep in the presentation of the song, "Vandals on to Conquer," by Harry Walden, gained honorable mention for the Sophomores. Ethel Lafferty and Clair Gale were the composers of the Senior song, which was presented in an interesting manner by fourteen senior men.

A lively take-off of the activities which occurred in the various departments of the University was given by the Juniors in their stunt, "Idaho's Three-Ring Circus." Looking back into the past the Sophomores presented a melodramatic conception of "Campustry 1313," in which Joe College, after a seemingly vain struggle with the villain, finally won the fair Kat Kampus.

As no song was submitted by the Freshmen, their only contribution was a stunt, "Stop the Press," the plot of which was woven around events in a newspaper office.

Burdette Belknap was selected chairman of the entire Stunt Fest. Those who were chosen to judge the stunts were Dr. G. Harrison Orians, Jasper V. Garland, both of the English department, and Glenn W. Sutton of the Business School. Theoretical value and musical content were the main points considered by Theodore Kratt, Marion Treleaven and Carl Claus, members of the music faculty, in the selection of the prize-winning song.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The Music Department of the University of Idaho has enjoyed a very active and successful year under the capable direction of its new head, Professor Carleton S. Cummings, assisted by Miss Maude Garnett and Professor Carl Claus. Prior to his coming here Professor Cummings, tenor, was singing and teaching music in New York City, Boston, and Chicago. He has been attempting to develop the state slogan, "Idaho positions for Idaho trained musicians," and has been very successful in working up Idaho songs and in helping to develop a music curriculum to fit students for positions as high school instructors of music. Besides these administrative duties, he has coached the mixed quartet and the Men's Glee Club, and has been much in demand as a concert singer in Coeur d'Alene, St. Maries, Moscow, Orofino, Lewiston, and Spokane, Washington. On these trips he has been accompanied by Professor Claus, Miss Garnett, Miss Lucile Ramstedt, and other members of the music faculty.

Professor Carl Claus is director of the University Orchestra, and a member of the string quartet. He gave a violin recital in October, has appeared as a concert violinist in Moscow and other Idaho towns, and has accompanied Prof. Cummings on trips throughout the state.

Miss Maude Garnett, head of public school music and director of the Treble Clef Club, has been active in paving the way for music teachers in rural schools, and she is serving in executive capacities as president of the State Federation of Music Clubs, president of the State Music Teachers' Association, and as music chairman for the Inland Empire Educational Association.

Miss Miriam Little, cello, and Miss Alvina Palmquist, contralto, are two instructors and talented musicians that have been added to the music faculty this year.

The University Orchestra

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

During the past year the University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Carl Claus, has made a remarkable record for artistic achievement in all of its performances. The number of members, forty-two, remains the same as last year, and all are carefully chosen by Professor Claus on a merit basis. The enrollment is in no way limited, because Professor Claus hopes to find sufficient material within the next few years to include sixty members. However, only those are admitted who can approach the high degree of technical skill which the present membership possesses.

The orchestra appeared before general assembly in the University Auditorium and gave a concert January 8, composed entirely of standard classical selections. Some of the numbers that were most skilfully rendered and won the most commendation included the Ballet Egyptien suite by Luigini, Wagner's Prelude to Lohengrin, and the Marche Slave by Tschaiakowsky. The orchestral accompaniment for Handel's oratorio, The Messiah, given during music week by the choral society, was also played by this orchestra.

Its membership includes: first violins, York Kildea, Ruth Newhouse, Norman Stedtfeld, Jean Edmiston, Dorothy Messenger, Vivian Edmiston, Harold Kirklin, and Helen Parrott; second violins, Nina Newman, Agnes McKeirnan, Caroline Schmidt, Louise McCormick, Betty Merriam, Ruth Parker, Virginia Vanderhoff, and Margaret Barton; violas, Esther Mitchell, Geneva Snook, Lucie Womack, and Caryl Thompson; bass, Lucile Glindeman and Margaret Jones; flutes, Catherine Reardon and Cynthia Daly; oboes, Lois Thompson; clarinets, John Dretke, James Potter, and Dolores Holmes; horns, Charles McConnell and John Mitchell; trumpets, Harry Walden and Floyd Suter; trombones, Ray Kelley, Peter Pence, and Richard Hargrove; sousaphone, Marvin Olson; and piano, Marguerite McMahan.

Men's Glee Club

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club, directed by Professor Carleton S. Cummings, is recognized as a vocal organization of exceptionally high quality, and has been popular as program entertainers. The club has appeared before general assemblies in the University Auditorium, and has sung before civic organizations in Moscow such as the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce. The enrollment, thirty-two in number, remains the same as in previous years, but the care with which Professor Cummings has picked the members insures a personnel of extraordinary ability, and well worthy of the praise it has received for its achievements. Members are chosen on a competitive basis, and last fall at the time of the try-outs there were sixty-five people who competed for the five vacancies.

Sub-organizations of the club are the two quartets, both directed by Professor Cummings and very active on the campus. One is composed of John Soden, first tenor; Clarence Sample, second tenor; William Shamberger, baritone; and Paul Rice, bass. The other includes Kenneth Hensley, first tenor; Ronald Smith, second tenor; John Jenny, baritone; and John Mitchell, bass. The quartets have been very much in demand, and have appeared before the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, the Chamber of Commerce, the Izaak Walton League, various Moscow churches, and as feature entertainers at house dances on the campus and at general assemblies.

The personnel of the Glee Club consists of: first tenor, Millard Loughrey, John Soden, Kenneth Hensley, Harold Packer, Clifford Mullikin, Burnis Brigham, Reed Murdock, and Frank Warner; second tenor, Elton Reeves, Ray Kelley, Ronald Smith, Clarence Sample, Elvon Hampton, Charles Croft, and Kenneth Grabner; baritone, Harold Kirklin, William Shamberger, Harry Daubert, Irwin Tomlinson, John Jenny, Preston Ellsworth, Russell Potter, and Martin Rosell; bass, Paul Rice, Paul Parks, John Mitchell, Jack Nunemaker, Robert Vincent, Harry Walden, Clifford Hargrove, and Lionel Campbell.

Women's Treble Clef

TREBLE CLEF CLUB

Several excellent programs have been given by the Treble Clef Club, under the direction of Miss Maude Garnett. The members, limited to forty in number, are chosen on a competitive basis, and the result is a strong personnel of interested and talented women. The club sang at the Christmas assembly, and, on April 8, was presented in a straight classical concert, namely, Gounod's Gallea, a motet for women's voices. Miss Alvina Palmquist, contralto on the University faculty, assisted in the program. The entire entertainment was well received, and showed a careful training of charming voices.

Officers of the club are: Elizabeth Gilmore, president; Agnes Ramstedt, manager; and Laura Clark, secretary.

A very active sub-organization of the Treble Clef Club has been the girl's sextette, composed of Elizabeth Gilmore and Ruth Johnson, sopranos; Valetta l'Herisson and Lois Thompson, mezzos; Marion Lewis and Elinor Jacobs, altos. They appeared as waites at the Christmas assembly and later in these costumes carolled at homes and hospitals in Moscow. The sextette also has entertained various clubs in Moscow, appeared at the girls' assembly, and given several special numbers in the Treble Clef Club concert.

Members are: soprano, Verona Wolff, Lucile Burgess, Inez Sherwood, Lutie Mae Mitchell, Thelma Melgard, Helen Stetler, Louise Morley, Ruth Johnston, Elizabeth Gilmore, Caroline Schmidt, Florence Rohrer, Beryl Davis, and Janet Gooding; second soprano, Valetta l'Herisson, Lois Thompson, Joan Harris, Gladys Gleason, Jean Edmiston, Lois Hall, Mary Baird, Pauline Paterka, Audrey Anderson, Ellen Chandler, Laura Clark, Agnes McKeirnan, Beth Wood, and Betty Lambdin; alto, Marion Lewis, Vivian Edmiston, Lucile Viste, Caryl Thompson, Elinor Jacobs, Virginia Knee, Ruth Ramstedt, Edna Richards, Linn Cowgill, Geneva Snook, and Agnes Ramstedt.

The 1930 Pep Band

IDAHO PEP BAND

Under the very capable direction of Harry Walden, student leader, and Dale Goss, manager, the University of Idaho Pep Band enjoyed an unusually active and successful year, with a great many splendid performances and public appearances to its credit. Always a popular organization on the campus, the Band has more than ever deserved the enthusiastic commendation it has received this year. Long ago the Pep Band became a tradition at Idaho and each succeeding year of its existence has served to strengthen it as an institution. How deeply rooted this institution has become and how endeared in the memories of Idaho students it is, is evidenced by the recognition and interest shown in it by the old grads and people throughout the state. On the coast, as well, it has established a unique name and reputation, largely through trips it has undertaken with varsity athletic teams in the course of the last few years, such as the California trip in 1928.

Harry Walden
Leader

The Pep Band played at all the football and basketball games held on the Idaho campus this year, and at the Idaho-Washington State football game at Pullman. In addition the Band made an extended tour throughout southern Idaho in the fall, appearing before various high school audiences and civic organizations, and on several occasions playing for dances. Their itinerary included Boise, Nampa, Caldwell, Gooding, Twin Falls, Jerome, Buhl, Burley, Rupert, American Falls, Blackfoot, Idaho Falls, Rigby, and Rexburg. As a fitting climax to the trip the Band played at the Homecoming game between the University of Idaho and the Southern Branch of the University at Pocatello on Thanksgiving Day. Every appearance was received with enthusiasm by a capacity audience and the benefit the University derived through representation by one of its best known organizations is not to be under-estimated.

The 1930 Pep Band Concert

IDAHO PEP BAND

Entertainment, perhaps a bit novel to the members themselves, was offered by the Pep Band when it was engaged by the Ten Thousand Club of Spokane to broadcast over KHQ. It also appeared at the Elks' Temple and at the Davenport Hotel in the same city, and entertained at the Lewiston-Clarkston Cherry Blossom Festival, held in Lewiston May 16 and 17.

The personnel of the band included twenty-one members, selected from students displaying outstanding ability. Ten were new members, chosen from a total of twenty-five candidates. Members were: trumpets, Charles McConnell, Floyd Suter, Frank Warner, Harry Walden, George Jullion; trombones, Ray Kelley, Peter Pence, Aldon Tall, Forrest Irwin; clarinets, James Hawkins, Robert Nixon, Johnnie Soden; altos, Dale Goss, Harry Angney, Edwin DeKay; baritone, William Ames; sousaphone, Marvin Olson; bass drum, Allen Stowasser; snare drum, Parris Kail.

Perhaps the outstanding achievement of the year was the annual concert presented by the Pep Band on May 8 in the University auditorium. The program, consisting of six groups, included overtures, marches, and popular music. As a feature of the program a special fourteen-piece orchestra was presented in an elaborate setting of vari-colored lighting effects. Those who took part in the concert and not regular members of the Band were: trombone, Oliver Frye; clarinets, Don Wolfe, Leo Neher, Donald Equals; alto, James Mitchell. Members of the orchestra were: trumpets, Charles McConnell, Frank Warner, George Jullion; trombone, Ray Kelley; clarinets, Don Wolfe, Leo Neher; sousaphone, Marvin Olson; baritone, William Ames; snare drum, Parris Kail; saxophone, Norman McGinty; violins, York Kildea, Norman Stedtfeld, Harold Kirklin; piano, Sidney Walden; vocal tenor, Harold Packer.

QUARTETS

Two outstanding music organizations on the campus are the mixed and the string quartets. The mixed quartet includes Louise Morley, soprano; Agnes Ramstedt, alto; Harold Packer, tenor; Erwin Tomlinson, bass; and Marguerite McMahan, accompanist

The string quartet consists of Professor Carl Claus, first violin; York Kildea, second violin; Miriam Little, cello; and Louva May Jensen, viola.

DEBATE LEADERS

Forensic work has had a steady advance and development during J. V. Garland's two years as debate coach at Idaho. Largely through his efforts, an Idaho debate team successfully toured the Middle West last year. It was his influence which enabled Idaho to be the host of the speakers from each member of the Pacific Forensic League in 1929. This year he promoted an international debate with Oxford, England, an annual debate sponsored by the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, and a debate by radio. He has been energetic in encouraging a better public speaking department, and in the strengthening of Idaho's debate organizations. It has been his purpose not so much to win debates as to develop forceful, logical speakers, and to allow Idaho to participate in high class competition. His individual efforts have been in a measure rewarded this year through his election as vice-president of the Pacific Forensic League.

The management of Freshman debate was this year undertaken by George Huber, a veteran member of Idaho's debate squads. He was an active participant in debate work last year, being a member of the team which toured the Middle West. Under his direction the freshmen have had a very successful year. Although the squad has been small, excellent material has been developed, and the freshmen teams have all given a good account of themselves. Although this is Huber's first attempt at debate coaching, the freshmen have displayed evidences of careful training in every appearance.

To Thelma Melgard, debate manager for this year, should go a great deal of praise. She competently filled a responsible position; she assisted Coach Garland in his efforts to promote interest in debating; and she was an admirable hostess for the visiting teams. Not only did she act as debate manager, but she also found time to participate in debate herself as a member of the women's team which went to Seattle to debate the University of Washington. It is fortunate that she is only a junior this year, for competency in such a position as she filled is difficult to find.

WOMEN'S DEBATE

Today women's forensics do not differ materially from men's. Both are bound by the same rules of procedure, judged by the same standards of excellence, and both employ the same type of questions. If there is a difference then, it lies only in the amount of emphasis placed upon women's debating. In the past this was a serious problem. It was hard to arouse any interest in women's forensics. This feeling gradually lessened as developments were made, until this year two of the outstanding achievements in forensics at Idaho were made by the women.

Lois Porterfield and Gladys Gleason debated Spokane University upon the preponderance of women teachers in our school system. This debate was sponsored by the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, and was so thoroughly successful that it is to become an annual affair.

The Idaho and W.S.C. women have had two debates which were broadcast by radio. This is a feature which all of the leading schools in debate work are beginning to employ. In this swiftly moving age of machinery, it is necessary that academic work be speeded up also. In radio debate, forensic work has taken its first step in this direction. Instead of asking the audience to come to the debate, the debate is now taken to the audience.

This year the Idaho women have discussed two questions: RESOLVED, "That the preponderance of women teachers in our school systems is detrimental," and "That the divergence of the women from the home to business is detrimental to society." Debates have been with Oregon, Washington and Washington State College. The women participating in these debates were: Thelma Melgard, Lois Porterfield, Gladys Gleason, Elsie McMillin, and Helen McCannon. The fact that the squad was small called for intensive work, and allowed all of the members to participate in debates. Real work was done and there was ample opportunity for the speakers to develop under Coach Garland's tutelage. Interest in women's forensics is increasing, and it is hoped that the squad of next year will be a larger one.

INTRAMURAL DEBATE

Maintaining the position of interest it assumed last year, intramural debate has enjoyed another successful season. A large measure of the success of this activity lay in the questions chosen for debate. That they prompted interesting and animated discussion is proven by the fact that only one of the arranged debates was forfeited. But good questions alone do not make a successful debate. The capable management of Walter Slaughter and Julia Hunter had a great deal to do with the final worth of this activity.

In the men's division the subject was: "RESOLVED, That we should pity our grandchildren," while the women's group argued the question: "RESOLVED, That the modern young man is unmanly." Although it is known that no polished oratory was present in the contests, and that the speeches were sometimes prepared only a few hours before the contest, yet in most instances the cases were presented in a very entertaining manner. Much of the discussion was very informal and served to heighten the spirit of the contest.

For the women, Alpha Chi Omega was defeated in the semi-finals by Delta Delta Delta, who opposed Delta Gamma for the championship. Their question for the finals was changed to: "RESOLVED, That social fraternities and sororities should be barred from American universities and colleges." In this debate Delta Gamma, negative, represented by Kathryn Collins and Elizabeth Taylor, won from the Tri Delt team, Virginia Peck and Geneva Handy.

In the semi-finals in the men's division were Lambda Chi Alpha vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, won by the former, and Tau Kappa Epsilon vs. Lindley Hall, in which the latter emerged victorious. "RESOLVED, That the federal government should develop and control the hydro-electrical resources of the country" was the subject debated in the finals. Earl Stansell and Weldon Schimke for Lindley Hall defeated Robert Hogg and Harold Nelson from Lambda Chi Alpha in the last debate, giving them the championship. The decision in this debate was rendered by J. V. Garland, debate coach, Dr. Church, and Professor Hopkins.

FRESHMAN DEBATE

The prime purpose of freshman debate, just as is the purpose of any freshman squad, is to develop material for varsity competition. In debating, just as in athletics, the strength of a varsity man lies in the sound foundation he has received as a freshman. It has often been said that the best way to increase the effectiveness and value of forensics as a whole is to increase the efficiency and forensic technique of the freshman squad.

Idaho is very fortunate in this respect, for several of the freshmen have shown exceptional promise this year. Should they return to the University next year, they will undoubtedly make strong bids for prominent places on the Varsity squad, many of which will be left open by graduating members. Material for the freshman squad is limited only because of the lack of real interest shown by the students for it. In itself, freshman debate is as instructive as any form of varsity debating and is, in addition, the logical step to varsity competition and honor in following years.

Under the supervision of George Huber, three year varsity debater and freshman debate coach this year, the freshmen prepared debates on two questions: "RESOLVED, That all nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament except such forces as are needed for police protection"; and "That intercollegiate athletics, as they are conducted, are detrimental." The freshmen debated both sides of these questions, participating in competition against the Oregon State Normal School, the Washington State freshmen, and the freshmen of Whitman College. During this series of five debates the frosh won one and lost one to the Washington State team. The debates with Oregon State Normal and Whitman were non-decision. The members of the squad who took part in one or more of these debates were: Joseph Filseth, William Weatherall, Ralphine Ronald, Carl Westerberg, Howard Wiseman, Lulu Shank and Wallace Baker.

MILITARY

Colonel E. R. Chrisman

RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

The University has been very fortunate in having Colonel E. R. Chrisman as an advisory head of the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Colonel Chrisman has had both practical experience in actual warfare in many of the possessions of the United States and experience in handling college men. This is the Colonel's eighteenth year at the University of Idaho.

The work of Colonel Chrisman in organizing and developing the R.O.T.C. to its high degree of efficiency and importance in the present curricula is deserving of praise and as a result this department has attained an equal footing with the other departments of the University. It has a definite course of theoretical and practical instruction, including discipline and training in the art of warfare as well as leadership, both of which should prove of inestimable value in future life. It is quite apparent that such a course would fulfill many of the objectives of the University.

The number of men enrolling in Advanced Military increases every year, proving its growing popularity and importance. The advanced course men attend at least one six weeks' summer camp at Camp Lewis, Washington, where they are trained in marksmanship, scouting and patrolling, and in practical problems of tactics. The camp program consists in the practice and demonstration of all of the implements of modern warfare as well as instruction by officers of the regular army.

During the past year the Reserve Officers Training Corps adopted a new insignia and within the next few years the Idaho unit hopes to secure a distinct type of uniform for its cadets.

Lieutenant Sheehy

RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

Major Francis R. Fuller, Infantry D.O.L., has been doing most of the active executive work of the Military department, besides instructing the advanced course men. This is the Major's fourth year at the University.

Captain Benjamin M. Crenshaw, Infantry D.O.L., has taken an active part in developing the R.O.T.C. to its present high status. His main work is the instruction of the sophomore cadets and interesting them in the advanced courses.

Lieutenant John W. Sheehy, Infantry D.O.L., is in charge of all freshmen enrolled in military. Although Lieutenant Sheehy has only been connected with the University one year, he has earned the respect and admiration of all the cadets.

Frank Barnum, Staff Sergeant, handles all the official reports of the military department and assists instructors and aids in coaching the rifle teams.

Lonnie Woods, Staff Sergeant, is kept busy issuing and receiving equipment and keeping it in first-class condition. He also directs the work of the make-up squads. Sergeant Woods has been connected with the military department a number of years.

Close formation drills and army exercises were conducted in the Memorial Gym.

Lt. Colonel Price supervised the work of the Cadet officers and led the Idaho corps through many real and practice reviews during the spring term. Warrant Officer Bernard Nielsen, retired Army Band Leader, while at the University has developed the military band into one of the best bands in the West. As a result the Idaho band is accredited first place in the Ninth Corps Area, of which Idaho is a part. Officer Nielson has been with the University for thirteen years as band instructor and until recently he was a member of the faculty as an instructor of wind instruments.

The Cadet band holds an important place in the musical activities of the campus besides its regular function at cadet drill. A concert of both classical and militant music is given annually, and in addition the band plays at the graduation ceremonies each year.

INTERNATIONAL DEBATE

Twelve hundred people jammed into the assembly hall for the opening debate of the year. Two hundred more were turned away from the doors of the international debate between the University of Oxford, England, and the University of Idaho. The clash of the Vandal team with the men from "across the pond" was one of the outstanding debates of the year. The question for discussion was: "RESOLVED, That this is the best of all possible worlds." Purely an academic question, it had for its purpose an attempt to develop forensic work in an international sense, and to increase the feeling of fellowship between English and American schools.

Since this debate Idaho students are much less prone to believe the old story that an Englishman can't see a joke. Rumor that the Oxfordites were "wisecrackers" had preceded them to this campus. This report was verified during the debate; the Englishmen's easy flow of humor delighted the audience.

Paris Martin, Warren Montgomery, and John Ewing ably presented the affirmative side of the question for the University of Idaho. Joseph McKenna, from Dublin, Ireland; William Diplock, a London "cockney"; and Richard Acland from York, England, all students at Oxford, upheld the negative. Splendid arguments were developed on both sides. The Englishmen were members of the Oxford Union, the oldest debating society in the world, and they were veteran debaters in every sense of the word. In spite of their skill, they had a great deal of difficulty in refuting the arguments presented by the affirmative.

This debate not only marked the development of a new era in forensic work at Idaho, but it stimulated interest in debate through popular appeal to the entire student body. Hailed by many as the most successful debate of the year, it was an achievement in itself. The Englishmen were delighted with the reception given them, and expressed a wish to return. Debates of this kind are of real value to forensics. Every two years an Oxford team tours the United States. It is hoped that in the future they will always find it possible to stop at the University of Idaho.

VARSIITY DEBATE

There are two radically different views as to the purpose of debate. There are still a few schools who insist that the only value of debate lies in the decision contest. These schools naturally place all of their emphasis on small, highly trained squads and upon three or four effective speakers.

The leading schools in forensic work today, however, are trying to achieve a sensible balance between the evils of the decision contest and the weaknesses of the non-decision debate. Idaho is a member of this latter group. An activity sponsored by the student body, and for which University credit is given, should be an activity in which every member of the squad may participate. The prime purpose in debate, it has been said, is to develop forceful, logical speakers, hence the leading sponsors of forensics believe that the main value in the work lies in the training and experience which it gives to the individual speakers. To be able to think clearly, present arguments forcefully and logically, and to be at ease before an audience is far more important to the student than the winning of debates. This sort of training should be attainable to all who desire it, and therefore it is believed that there is no need for specialization, and the development of a small, highly trained squad.

But there are other reasons why the decision contest does not mean as much as it formerly did. One of the recent practical developments in debate has had to do with form. Some debates are now carried on through a series of cross-examinations, just as a court trial. Split team debates, open forums, and discussion meetings with the audience after the debate is over, are all factors which are rendering the decision contest of little value. All good debates today are upon questions of real interest to the public. The greatest value is achieved when the audience becomes interested enough to want to discuss the question informally after the debate is over.

Value in debate, then, is reciprocal. The greatest success is reached when both the speaker and the audience are animated sufficiently to make possible intelligent discussion of the question at hand. The speaker benefits by experience in speaking; the audience through a vision of the truth brought about by a clash of opinion.

VARSIITY DEBATE

During the weeks of March 19 to April 4 three representative members of Idaho's forensic squad toured the western states and participated in the Seventh Annual Pacific Forensic League Conference held at Tucson, Arizona. It was the purpose of J. V. Garland, Idaho's debate coach, and Charles Herndon and Paris Martin, student debaters, not only to represent Idaho at the League conference, but also to engage in a number of debates en route. How well they succeeded is shown by the fact that five debates were scheduled on the trip to the conference. All these debates were confined to a discussion of the advisability of all nations adopting a plan of complete disarmament, but the Idaho men were prepared to discuss either side of this question.

The schools met upon this trip all rank high in forensic circles. The University of Montana, Bozeman State College, University of Denver, Colorado College, and the University of Southern California were among the institutions debated.

Idaho may well be proud of the showing her representatives made at the forensic conference, since J. V. Garland was elected vice-president of the League. Martin entered in extemporaneous and Herndon in the oratorical contests, both making creditable showings. With the good beginning made last year as a stepping stone, Idaho representatives took active part this year in all the functions of the Forensic League, and it is this sort of participation which will strengthen debate at Idaho.

Representing Idaho at the University of Oregon, and at Oregon State College, were Orville Baird and Charles Herndon. They debated the problem of world peace and disarmament. Though adept and versatile, they were defeated by the University of Oregon in a decision debate rendered by a single critic judge.

The question of the British criticism of American education Idaho debated both pro and con with W.S.C. and with Whitman College. An affirmative team composed of Baird and Platt met Saint Olaf College upon the disarmament question, and the debate with the University of Oxford employed the academic question: "RESOLVED, That this is the best of all possible worlds."

Cadet Rifle Team

RIFLE TEAM

Captain Crenshaw directed the Vandal rifle team through a very successful season, winning most of the matches with various universities and colleges throughout the United States. Due to Captain Crenshaw's efforts the work of the rifle team was recognized as a minor sport. Consequently each year the ten men with the highest average scores for the entire season are granted a sweater with the rifle team insignia on it. The men who received the award this year were: E. Hutteball, B. Bunker, J. Anderson, V. Estes, R. White, C. Whittaker, T. Reardon, and A. Moss. Four other members, P. Manning, J. Croy, P. Croy, and T. Helmer, ranked in the first ten, but had previously received awards.

MILITARY BALL

The annual Military Ball, held at the Elks' temple, February 21, was one of the most successful social events of the year, due to the efforts of Chris Harman, general chairman, and his sub-committees. These committees were as follows:

PROGRAMS	FINANCE	DECORATIONS
Virgil Estes, Chairman Charles LeMoyne Reynold Nelson	Chet Whittaker, Chairman Charles Herndon	Ray Plumlee, Chairman Jack Dodd Ray Kelley

The officers' ladies were astounded and thrilled as they entered through an arch of silvery sabers and saw the huge ballroom bedecked with militant finery and ornaments. Crossed swords, hanging at intervals along the wall, polished machine guns, shining one-pounders, and somber shells arranged in a menacing manner completed the decorations. The small leather programs with a slim saber running diagonally across the front were the delight of every co-ed present.

One of the novel features of the affair was the pledging of sixteen men to Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity. The pledging took place under the rigid formality of an officers' ceremony. The neophytes selected were: Walter Price, Nathaniel Congdon, Edward Douglas, Charles Herndon, Eugene Hutteball, John Croy, Charles Walker, Kenneth Dick, Jack McQuade, Bernard Lemp, Reynold Nelson, Vining Thompson, Jack Dodd, George Swindaman, Harold Stowell, and Ray Kelley.

JUDGING TEAMS

Judging teams of the University are four in number: the Animal Husbandry Judging Team judges sheep, hogs, beef cattle and horses; the Grain Judging Team judges grains, small seeds and forage crops; the Dairy Cattle Judging Team judges the various breeds of dairy cattle; the Dairy Products Judging Team judges butter, milk, cheese and ice cream. These teams are selected each year from the students receiving the highest grades in the judging classes during the practice judging period. The teams then go to Portland, Oregon, to compete at the Pacific International Livestock Show with similar teams from Montana State College, Washington State College, University of California, Oregon State College, and University of British Columbia.

The Idaho Judging Teams thus far have made an enviable record at the Pacific International Livestock Show, being among the highest each year. The University of Idaho College of Agriculture is very fortunate in having such competent men as coaches for these teams, who by hard work and consistent efforts have made such records possible.

JUDGING TEAMS

The Animal Husbandry Judging Team, although placing fifth this year in the contest, has the record of having placed not lower than third in the previous ten years of competition at the Pacific International Livestock Show.

The Dairy Cattle Judging Team placed third this year at the Portland contest, losing second place by one and a half points. Edward Waggoner of the Idaho team carried off individual honors, being high point man of the contest and high man in judging Holsteins. A great deal of credit is due Professor Anderson upon his excellent coaching of the team during his first year.

The Dairy Products Judging Team placed fourth this year at the Pacific International. Honors in all events were taken by the University of California. Of the eighteen participants in the contest one Idaho man placed fifth and one placed eighth.

The Grain Judging team placed third in the contest this year. The Idaho Grain Judging Teams have established a very fine record at the contests held in Portland by placing near the top almost every year and setting a record in 1927 with the highest score ever made for grain judging at the Pacific International Livestock Show.

Clement Ault deserves mention for being second high man in the contest.

IDAHO WOMEN

IDAHO WOMEN

The question has often arisen in the mind of the editor, as it undoubtedly has with other students on the campus, why a section, similar in name to this, had not previously appeared in an Idaho yearbook. Idaho men are referred to as a distinct entity and pages have appeared describing their athletic activity; if as an organized unit they do not appear it is because their activities do not warrant organization. On the other hand Idaho women are thoroughly organized and their system of athletic competition and activity has attained a high degree of perfection. No particular recognition has been given them and no space has been devoted to their activities as women.

With this in mind, and recalling that the University of Idaho is a coeducational school, it seems altogether fitting that a section should be allotted to Idaho women alone. Accordingly this section has been included in the pages of THE GEM of 1930, arranged and written in its entirety by women. Incomplete in scope as it may appear, it is at least an attempt to carry out the purposes for which it was intended. Whether these purposes were justified will be evidenced by the interest shown in its perpetuation and consequent expansion.

The annual no-men dance was a great success, even though the fair co-eds could not evade entirely the pursuit of those daring men who came in through the second story windows, the basement, and the main entrance of the Women's Gymnasium, on the night of October 26. The men still further pestered them by tampering with the lighting system when the dance was in progress, but the girls were undaunted; they danced by candlelight until the lights were repaired.

Eleonor McLeod and Maude Galloway took the prizes for the best-looking costumes, while the garbs of Grace Eldridge and Jessie Hutchinson were deemed the cleverest. The judges were Mrs. F. J. Kelly, Mrs. J. H. Einhouse, and Miss Elizabeth Johnson. Johnnie Soden's orchestra, dressed in "little kid" outfits—sun-bonnets, socks and calico—provided the music.

During intermission stunts were presented by Alpha Phi, Alpha Chi Omega, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Forney Hall, Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Gamma, Delta Delta Delta, Hays Hall, Gamma Phi Beta, and Pi Beta Phi.

The Co-ed Prom is an annual event prompted by the Associated Women Students and this year was under the supervision of Violet Bohman as General Chairman.

The Maypole Dance

THE MAY FETE

Dances to typify the struggle of the seasons before the coming of the gentle May ushered in Ruth Story as May Queen at the twentieth annual May Fete on May 21, 1929.

*"Great force of the mighty winds of the North,
Struggling with Winter's hoary mane,
Usher in crystalline flakes of snow
To buffet about till the North Winds wane.
For the rays of the Sun, brilliant and warm,
Cause the furies to weaken and die—
And earth is calmed as serene and cool,
The West Winds lazily frolic by.
But world without change would monotony be
And soon the placid West Winds cover
As the cyclonic whirlwinds from the East
Bring on the rain of an April Shower,
Then soft, fleecy clouds are lightly tossed
By zephyrs of the South so gay;
And lovely flowers join the throng
To greet the beautiful Queen of May."*

Following the precedent of the year before, the Queen, Ruth Story, and her attendants, Marylou Craven, Maid of Honor, and Margaret Benham, Page, were a part of the pageant itself, being heralded in as the Return of Spring.

The Processional of Senior Women, dressed in bright spring dresses which livened the scene, was followed by the selection of new pledges to Mortar Board and Silver Lance.

Under the direction of Miss L. Janette Wirt and Mrs. Florence Richardson Goff, the pageant, Maypole dances, and dainty costumes were made possible. Miss Wirt was assisted in direction by Arthur Ensign and Dan McGrath.

A scene from the Dance Festival

TAPS AND TERPSICHORE

Five main movements in colorful and varied interpretations were featured in the annual Dance Festival of W.A.A., presented in the University Auditorium early in the spring.

An appropriate opening, "The Gold and Silver Waltz," was carried out in those colors and was dedicated to Idaho. Interpretive dances taking a girl from the cradle to death were included in "A Short Cycle of Life." Miss Alvina Palmquist sang Schubert's "Death and the Maiden," making that dance more vivid.

One of the loveliest dances of the festival, "Despair, Supplication and Hope," was in the way of an experimentation with different stage levels as introduced by the Russian Art Theater. Moods of Gaiety was the fourth movement and included "Sea Gulls," which was so popular last year. A violin solo by Ruth Newhouse typified the light mood of the dance.

"Come to the Fair" was the theme movement of the festival, based on Easthope Martin's song of that name, sung by Louise Morley. The scene included jesters, country dancers, beggars, jockeys, clowns—in fact everything from "The Old Gray Mare," which was a hit of the evening, to the girl waiting for "Johnny So Long at the Fair."

Major parts were taken by Joan Harris, Jessie Hutchinson, Lilly Louis, Helen Mains, Velma Myers, Alice Nash, Beth Wood, Bess Louise Hogg, Beryl Davis, Susan Malcolm, Mildred Richardson, Zelma Waller, Ilah Harris, Bertha Moore, Verona Wolff, Florence Rudger, Vivian and Jean Edmiston, Lois and Caryl Thompson, Helen Benson, Kathryn Collins, and Edna Gord.

Miss Lillian Wirt arranged and directed the performance. Lois Porterfield, general chairman, aided by Dorothy Janssen, Maxine Thornhill, Velma Myers, Geneva Handy, Helen Mains, LaVernon Thomas, Lillian Woodworth, Shirley Cunningham and Kathryn West, managed the production.

1930 Women's "I" Club

WOMEN'S "I" CLUB

The Women's "I" Club was organized on the Idaho campus March 12, 1928, with twelve members. Since then the organization has been active and has gone far to carry out the ideals of sportsmanship which the twelve founders sponsored. One of the projects that the girls further is that of interesting girls yet in high schools throughout the state in general sports and in the Women's Athletic Association, so they will be prepared to take part in these activities when they enter the University.

For membership in this organization it is necessary for a girl to earn eight hundred points, which entitles her to the "I" sweater award. An "I" blanket is an exceptional award and is given to a girl who has the distinction of winning sixteen hundred points. Last year two girls were awarded "I" blankets and this year Lillian Woodworth and Alta Tupper, both seniors, received this honor.

The "I" Club, assisted by members of the Women's Athletic Association, sold refreshments at the football games early in the season. With the pooled profits a club room was furnished in the women's gymnasium. This club room will serve not only as a meeting room for the two organizations, but as a store room for records and properties.

Members of the club are: Lillian Woodworth, president; Florence Skinner, treasurer; Marylou Craven, secretary; Dorothy Neal, Jessie Little, Dorothy Kienholz, Florence Skinner, Alta Tupper, Charlotte Lefever, and Shirley Cunningham. In addition to these members there are six girls who received sweaters the second semester and who are in order for membership. They are Lois Porterfield, Florence Rudger, Mildred Axtell, Hazel Stellmon, Prudence Raby, and Helene Hilfiker.

Volleyball season had a bigger send-off this year than it ever had before when almost one hundred girls started regular practice under the coaching of Miss Verna McDonald and Shirley Cunningham, manager. Volleyball is one of the first major sports beginning in the fall, and when there is such enthusiastic response, it always indicates an exceptional year for the other sports.

It is always difficult to choose teams, especially in the freshman and sophomore classes, due to the large turnouts. First teams were chosen for each class and additional second teams for the freshmen and sophomores. One girl in each class was chosen captain and assisted in the selection of the other members of the team.

The games this year were unusually close, a tie resulting at the end of the tournament between the sophomore and junior teams. The decision was given to the sophomores because their average score was slightly higher than that of the juniors. The sophomore team also showed better team work than any other group in the tournament. The second teams had an exciting tournament of their own, and displayed excellent class spirit.

Volleyball tournaments in the future will show much improvement if the present plans in regard to a longer practice period after the selection of teams are followed. Better team work will be the result of a period of team practice before a tournament.

Members of the winning sophomore team are: Maxine Thornhill, captain; Bess Louise Hogg, Lois Porterfield, Grace Warren, Dolores Holmes, and Joan Harris; substitutes, Helen Mouat and Pearl Walters. Members and substitutes of this team received one hundred and twenty-five points toward a W.A.A. award.

Freshman Championship Team

BASKETBALL

For the first time in five years the freshman basketball team defeated all comers and took the 1930 championship in the W.A.A. tournament. One hundred and thirty-five girls turned out for basketball, out of which number sixty-five received W.A.A. points for steady attendance. Basketball, which is a major sport, entitled the members of the freshman team to twenty-five points in addition to the one hundred given to all members of first teams.

This year an innovation was introduced in the red and yellow jerseys worn by members of competing groups in order to distinguish their respective teams. There were three frosh teams, two sophomore teams, one junior team, and one senior team. The second teams vied with the first teams in the excitement aroused.

Members of the winning freshman team are: Rhoda Swayne, captain; Mary Louise Hull, Louise Mulliner, Evelyn Shoemaker, Ethel Tobey, Mildred Richardson; Betty Merriam and Mildred Patterson, substitutes. The members of the freshman team could feel justly proud, because they defeated the Class of '30, which has been the championship team for the past three years.

Miss Verna McDonald, with the assistance of Velma Myers, basketball manager, coached and refereed the teams.

Idaho entered the World Free Throw Contest again this year. The six girls in the senior division who received fifty points for highest scores were: Marjorie Throckmorton, Bernice Schwerfield, Helen Mouat, Lillian Woodworth, Alma Johnson, and Mildred Axtell. The highest five in the intermediate division received twenty-five points. These girls were Evelyn Shoemaker, Lois Thompson, Aurrel Laxton, Eva Skinner, and Lois Porterfield.

Junior Championship Team

BASEBALL

Baseball is fast becoming one of the most popular sports, judging from the large number who turned out for this sport last spring. The junior team, after a difficult season, emerged victorious to win the 1929 championship. Despite the loss of their stellar pitcher, La Reta Beeson, just before the tournament, the juniors were undismayed. They immediately selected another pitcher and played their schedule through.

The seniors were the first to fall before the onslaught and the sophomore team was next to be numbered among the vanquished. The hardest conflict of the tournament was enacted when the freshman and junior teams met. Both were strong nines and had been undefeated up to that time. The game was fast and exciting. At the end of the regular innings the score was tied, and it was necessary to play two additional innings before the juniors finally pushed ahead to win the tournament and the title.

Each year the baseball tournament is played on the University campus, and because it is one of the few major sports which takes place outdoors, it is one of the most popular and has an unusually large turnout.

While some of the other class teams showed individual performances that were unusually good, it was through the well knit team-work of the juniors that they showed their superiority.

The 1929 championship team was composed of Helene Hilfiker, captain; Florence Skinner, Lillian Woodworth, Beatrice Stalker, Jessie Little, Dorothy Kienholz, Velma Myers, Marjorie Throckmorton, Dorothy Sage, Margaret Fowler; Sarah Allison and Helen Heimsoth, substitutes.

1930 Women's Rifle Team

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM

The Girls' Rifle Team completed a most successful season by winning the majority of its matches. For this excellent record they are indebted to the coaching of Major F. L. Fuller and Lieutenant J. W. Sheehy. Major Fuller, who is leaving Idaho this year, has done so much in his several years of coaching the Girls' Rifle Team that his departure is regretted by all.

The girls especially distinguished themselves this season by vanquishing the men's team in the annual match between them. The boys gallantly paid the penalty by treating the girls to a dinner at the Blue Bucket.

The high team scores for the year were those of Alta Tupper, Lillian Woodworth, Dorothy Perkins, Zoa Shaw, Helene Hilfiker, Lucile Glindeman, Kathryn West, Marjorie Weber, Esther Rae, and Isabel Lange. Each of these girls received one hundred points toward W.A.A. Helene Hilfiker was general manager of the team and Isabel Lange manager of the freshman team.

"Serving I Live"

Blue Key is an honorary fraternity formed on the basis of service to the University and to students, and is composed of only those upperclassmen who especially excel in leadership, campus activities, scholarship and personality. It was founded at the University of Florida in 1924 and the Idaho Chapter was installed in May, 1925. The Student Handbook, published at the beginning of the year, was a distinct improvement over former issues. All arrangements for Homecoming were again undertaken by Blue Key with decided success. Plans whereby new students were induced to enroll in the University and also plans whereby the advertisement of the University could be extended were formulated and executed.

Theta Sigma, local honorary journalism fraternity for women, was organized on the Idaho campus in 1927, with the purpose of creating interest in journalism as a profession among the women at Idaho. Qualifications for Theta Sigma are a major or minor in journalism, and at least three semesters' work on the Idaho Argonaut.

Every year Theta Sigma sponsors a banquet, having for the speaker of the day some successful woman journalist who speaks on her experiences in the field. Theta Sigma offers a silver loving cup each year to the girls of an Idaho high school who edit, by themselves, the best paper. This contest stimulates interest in high school journalism for women throughout the state. The school winning the cup for the third consecutive time will take permanent possession of it.

The English Club, one of the first organizations on the campus, owes its success to Dr. G. M. Miller, who has been head of the English Department since 1917. The meetings of the group play an important part in creating interest in all branches of English work.

The English Club has been outstanding for its initiative measures. In 1923 it founded The Blue Bucket Magazine, which is now sponsored by the A.S.U.I. The English Club Book Shelf furnishes the students with current reading material. The club was fortunate enough this year in securing Sarah Truax Albert, dramatic reader, and Mr. Harold Whitehouse, Spokane architect, as guests at meetings. Mrs. Albert read a play and Mr. Whitehouse spoke on famous European cathedrals. The English Club sponsored theatrical productions before the creation of the dramatics department. The Club cooperates with Winged Helmet in editing a year book, From Under the Helmet, in which literary contributions of the Idaho students are published.

This organization includes all instructors, majors and minors in the department, as well as students who have distinguished themselves in composition, in journalism, in dramatics, and in debate.

The Wesley Foundation is the organization through which Methodist Episcopal students of the University do their work in the church. Religious and social life is provided in various recreations such as dramatics, music, Bible study and devotion.

Every Friday evening the students have an "At Home" in the church recreation room. Sunday is devoted to Bible study at 10:00 o'clock, fellowship hour at 5:00 o'clock, devotional service at 6:00 o'clock, and the regular worship services.

Four hundred students of the University are in some way affiliated with the church. Activities are financed by the students with the help of the Board of Education of the denomination.

Bench and Bar Association was organized in 1912. All students regularly enrolled in the College of Law are members. The purposes and function of the Bench and Bar Association are to cultivate fellowship among law students; to preserve the traditions of the Law School; to promote scholarship among its members; to encourage a professional attitude toward the study of law; and to develop among its members those ethical standards which will make them most useful as practitioners of law.

The Bench and Bar Association was largely instrumental in securing the adoption of the "Honor System" in the Law School. The Law School was the first school of the University of Idaho to adopt the Honor System and the only school that has thus far successfully maintained it. Upon the Bench and Bar Association, in general, and upon each member thereof, in particular, rests the duty and obligation of maintaining and enforcing this fundamental tradition of the Law School. During the year 1929-1930 Bench and Bar Association has been very instrumental in fostering interest in the College of Law and in promoting the welfare of those registered in the law curriculum.

The "I" Club is an organization which includes all men of the University who have been officially awarded a letter for participation in intercollegiate athletics, according to the provisions of the Associated Student Body constitution. It was formed as a common meeting ground for all athletes, to aid in keeping Idaho's athletics clean, to build up the University's athletic activity, and to enforce student traditions.

Each year the "I" Club gives a formal dance for its own members and upper-classmen. It has always been one of the principal social events of the school year.

The Westminster Club is an organization in the First Presbyterian Church of Moscow which includes in its membership all of the college young people who are members of either of the college Bible classes, the Christian Endeavor, or the Westminster Guild for college women. Representatives from each of these activities form the Westminster Council.

The purpose of the Westminster Club is to promote study classes, discussion groups, and social activities for the benefit of all Presbyterian and Congregational students on the campus and others who might be interested. The club seeks to train young people for service in the church and to minister to their spiritual welfare.

*fraternities—sororities—the psi psi psis sure got an awful bunch this year—with that new house they couldn't be particular—had to fill their table—too many men eating out—scholarship—a bet that the brown house beats the pillared one—and they did by a thousandth or so—activities—politics—we should have had student body president this year—we didn't get a thing last year
—rush week—how i love it—pledges—not nearly as tough on them this year
—why i remember four years ago when i was a frosh—upperclassmen meeting in the library—fraternity going to the dogs—the mu mu mus are by far the cattier bunch—sorority smoking parlors
—the strongest house on the campus—
cold sleeping porches—fraternity coffee vs nest coffee—pipe down out there—rough week—initiation—we have another greek in the fold—too bad*

THE SURPLUS CLUB

It may be inappropriate so late in the book to include a club whose activities and membership should have appeared with the other clubs. But in some unexplained manner they were overlooked at the time and we have been endeavoring since to locate a page for them. A club with as vast a membership as the Surplus Club seems to have at Idaho certainly deserves recognition somewhere. Space as well as a difference of opinion as to who are really members of the club prohibits the printing of members' names on this page.

There are some who claim that the club is a subrosa chapter of a national. Although the prexy and vice-prexy are unknown, we believe the above pictured gentlemen, Patrick Henry Walker and Henry Clay Daubert, hold, and have held for some time, the offices of treasurer and secretary. Members say they were selected for their personality their extreme good looks, their sincerity of purpose, and their desire at all times to place the interests of the school above their own. The question remains—who are the Grand Poobah and Vice-Grand Surplusser?

THE MISSIONARY

No, this isn't Washington crossing the Delaware or Chris Columbus coming across to rediscover America—it is our own little Georgie crossing the big pond on his way to Oxford's storied halls. Out to conquer new worlds, what are the wild waves whispering to George and what are the thoughts coursing through his ever active mind as the ship draws nearer and nearer British soil? What changes will he instigate and will they understand over there that these changes are only for the consequent welfare of the schools of England?

First, will there in all likelihood be a revision of student politics and the Zeta party given a few lessons in real student organization? And will the English, so long in the dark, issue a second Magna Charta and fall right in step with the proposed changes? Will George refuse honor after honor, even A.S.U.Ox. offices? Will he have learned everything in his first year and participated in every activity? It is already rumored that he has been offered the chairmanship of the senior picnic on the bank of the Thames. No matter, here's to success, George.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

WE WISH to express our sincere gratitude to all who cooperated with the editor and manager of THE GEM OF 1930 in the production of a larger yearbook at Idaho, and particularly:

To the members of the editorial and managerial staffs, who so willingly contributed the time and effort necessary for the publication of the book;

To Ralph W. York of Syms-York Company, Boise, printers of the volume, whose invaluable services can never be fully appreciated by Idaho students;

To Walter M. Irvine of the Western Engraving & Colortype Company, Seattle, whose ideas and suggestions reflected a deep interest in the publication;

To Charles Dimond, whose beautiful photographic work appears in the opening section, in appreciation of his efforts at all times to secure the necessary photographs;

To Mr. Miller, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Dufresne, Mr. Radley, Mr. Ege-land, Mr. Church, and other members of Syms-York Company who so readily cooperated with Mr. York when called upon to expend additional time and effort upon the publication of THE GEM OF 1930;

To Sterner's Studio and the Miklos Studio for their willing cooperation in securing student photographs for the book;

To the advertisers in THE GEM OF 1930, whose cooperation is sincerely appreciated by the students of the University of Idaho.

ALLEN S. JANSSEN, Editor.

FRANK D. SMUIN, Manager.

Save!

That is our advice to all young people. It's not what you earn that counts so much—it's what you save.

As soon as you begin to earn start to save. Begin small and keep adding. Systematic saving is the sure road to success—and that is what we are all after.

Awaiting the Class of '30

Seen through the time-veiling perspective of college life it seems impossible that four years have passed since the class of '30 matriculated. But in the turbulent world outside enough progress has developed to fill a century.

Notable have been the changes in home-building. From stark utility, plumbing and heating fixtures have been transformed into objects of beauty. New designs, new refinements, and iridescent colors have been evolved.

When the time comes for them to plan their homes, members of the class of '30 are cordially invited to the Crane Exhibit Rooms, where these new fixtures and fittings for bathrooms, kitchens, and laundries are displayed.

Commencement—

A NEW life is opening before you. Whether you enter the field of business, whether you enter the home or whether you pursue your studies, a new life is commencing for you. And we hope you'll enter it with the same courage, with the same fine spirit that has brought you victorious to the great day of days—Commencement Day!

May we offer our congratulations?
And may we hope to serve you in the future as we have in the past?

WE Believe We Are Right In Thinking That

. . . the best a store can do is to be honest with the public. By avoiding the absurd use of comparative prices. . . by admitting we haven't a monopoly on quality merchandise . . . by concentrating our efforts on two important thoughts . . . Service and Value . . . we have won the confidence of countless families and are gaining the good will of new shoppers every day.

To serve your wants intelligently, efficiently and sympathetically . . . to bring you the quality you want at prices that are right . . . to be sincere . . . is the watchword of every J. C. Penney Store.
